Book of Idioms From A to Z
A

A 1 excellent; first-rate.

1 The full form of this expression is A1 at Lloyd’s. In Lloyd’s Register of Shipping, the phrase was used of ships in first-class condition as to the hull (A) and stores (1). The US equivalent is A No. 1; both have been in figurative use since the mid 19th century.

from A to B from your starting point to your destination; from one place to another.

1987 K. Rushforth Tree Planting & Management The purpose of street tree planting is to... make the roads and thoroughfares pleasant in their own right, not just as places used to travel from A to B.

from A to Z over the entire range; in every particular.

1998 Salmon, Trout & Sea-Trout In order to have seen Scotland’s game fishing in its entirety, from A to Z, visiting 30 stretches of river and 350 lochs a year, you would have to be travelling for a hundred years.

aback

take someone aback shock, surprise, or disconcert someone.

1 The phrase is frequently used in the passive form (be taken aback): this was adopted in the mid 19th century from earlier (mid 18th-century) nautical terminology, to describe the situation of a ship with its sails pressed back against the mast by a headwind, preventing forward movement.

1991 Kathleen Jones Learning Not To Be First They were taken aback by the shabbiness of the hotel and lack of cleanliness in the city generally.

ABC

as easy (or simple) as ABC extremely easy or straightforward.

1 From the 15th to the 17th century, a child’s first spelling and reading book was commonly called an ABC, and this led to the development of its metaphorical use, ‘the basic elements or rudiments of something’.

abdabs

give someone the screaming abdabs induce an attack of extreme anxiety or irritation in someone.

Abdabs (or habdabs) is mid 20th-century slang whose origin is unknown. The word is sometimes also used to mean an attack of delirium tremens.

abed

take someone abed to make someone go to bed.

about

know what you are about be aware of the implications of your actions or of a situation, and of how best to deal with them. informal 1993 Ski Survey He ran a 3-star guest house before this, so knows what he is about.

above

above yourself conceited; arrogant.

1999 Frank McCourt 'Tis Many a man made his way in America by the sweat of his brow and his strong back and it’s a good thing to learn your station in life and not be getting above yourself.

not be above — be capable of stooping to an unworthy act.

1991 Maureen Duffy Illuminations The copyist was not above turning author or forger and several MSS from this period must be viewed as highly suspect.

Abraham

in Abraham’s bosom in heaven, the place of rest for the souls of the blessed. dated

The phrase is taken from Luke 16:22: ‘And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham’s bosom’. In the Bible, Abraham was the Hebrew patriarch from whom all Jews traced their descent.

acceptable

the acceptable face of the tolerable or attractive manifestation or aspect of.
accident

an accident waiting to happen a potentially disastrous situation, usually caused by negligent or faulty procedures. a person certain to cause trouble.

accidents will happen however careful you try to be, it is inevitable that some unfortunate or unforeseen events will occur.

a chapter of accidents: see CHAPTER.

accord

of your own accord voluntarily or without outside intervention.

account

give a good (or bad) account of yourself make a favourable (or unfavourable) impression through your performance or actions.

settle (or square) accounts with someone pay money owed to someone. have revenge on someone.

accounting

there’s no accounting for tastes it’s impossible to explain why different people like different things, especially those things which the speaker considers unappealing. proverb ace

have an ace up your sleeve have an effective resource or piece of information kept hidden until it is necessary to use it; have a secret advantage.

1996 New York Review of Books He presents himself as the acceptable face of gambling... the man who, almost single-handedly, has turned a huckster's paradise into a gangster-free zone.

1997 Times Accidents are often said to be 'waiting to happen'. It does not take much imagination to see that the chaotic start to the Whitbread round-the-world race... could easily have ended in tragedy.

1998 Times The inclination to outlaw that of which it disapproves... is, if not the cloven hoof beneath the hem of Tony Blair's Government, certainly its Achilles heel.

1990 Which? These deals are designed to encourage impulse buying, so the acid test is whether you would have bought anyway.

1990 Which? These deals are designed to encourage impulse buying, so the acid test is whether you would have bought anyway.

Achilles

an Achilles heel a person’s only vulnerable spot; a serious or fatal weakness.

acid

the acid test a situation or event which finally proves whether something is good or bad, true or false, etc.

come the acid be unpleasant or offensive; speak in a caustic or sarcastic manner.

put the acid on someone try to extract a loan or favour from someone. Australian & New Zealand informal acquaintance

have a nodding acquaintance with someone or something: see NODDING.

scrape acquaintance with: see SCRAPE.

acre

God’s acre: see God.
across
across the board applying to all.

1999 Wall Street Journal The decline for the euro across the board was mainly attributed to the further erosion of global investors' confidence toward the euro-zone economy.

be across something fully understand the details or complexity of an issue or situation. Australian act

act your age behave in a manner appropriate to your age and not to someone much younger.

act the goat: see GOAT.

act of God an instance of uncontrollable natural forces in operation.

This phrase is often used in insurance contracts to refer to incidents such as lightning strikes or floods.

a class act: see CLASS.

clean up your act: see CLEAN.

do a disappearing act: see DISAPPEARING.

get your act together organize yourself in the manner required in order to achieve something. informal 2002 New York Times There are still many who think that all the dirty, homeless man on the corner talking to himself needs is just to get his act together.

a hard (or tough) act to follow an achievement or performance which sets a standard difficult for others to measure up to.

1996 Independent Her determination and championing of tourism will be a tough act to follow.

in on the act involved in a particular activity in order to gain profit or advantage. informal

1997 What Cellphone Conference calls are becoming big business for the fixed-line operators, and now there are signs that the mobile networks are getting in on the act.

read someone the riot act: see READ.

action
action stations an order or warning to prepare for action.

admirable
admirable Crichton a person who excels in all kinds of studies and pursuits, or who is noted for supreme competence.

1997 What Cellphone Conference calls are becoming big business for the fixed-line operators, and now there are signs that the mobile networks are getting in on the act.

read someone the riot act: see READ.

action
action stations an order or warning to prepare for action.
adrift

cast (or cut) someone adrift ① leave someone in a boat or other craft which has nothing to secure or guide it. ② abandon or isolate someone.

© 1998 Oldie The various dissenting movements... should be cut adrift and left to their own devices.

advance

any advance on —? any higher bid than —?

① This phrase is said by an auctioneer to elicit a higher bid, and so is used figuratively as a query about general progress in a particular matter.

advocate

play devil’s advocate: see DEVIL.

afraid

afraid of your own shadow: see SHADOW.

Africa

for Africa in abundance; in large numbers. South African informal ① 1980 C. Hope A Separate Development An entire museum of vintage stuff including… Bentleys for Africa.

after

be after doing something be on the point of doing something or have just done it. Irish ① 1988 Roddy Doyle The Commitments I’m after rememberin’. I forgot to bring mine back. It’s under me bed.

age

act your age: see ACT.

the awkward age: see AWKWARD.

come of age ① (of a person) reach adult status. ② (of a movement or activity) become fully established.

feel your age: see FEEL.

a golden age: see GOLDEN.

under age: see UNDER.

agenda

a hidden agenda: see HIDDEN.

agony

pile on the agony: see PILE.

prolong the agony: see PROLONG.

agree

agree to differ cease to argue about something because neither party will compromise or be persuaded.

agreement

a gentleman’s agreement: see GENTLEMAN.

ahead

ahead of the game ahead of your competitors or peers in the same sphere of activity.

① 1996 Daily Telegraph The smart money headed for Chinatown, where you can pick up all those Eastern looks the designers are promoting for next spring ahead of the game.

ahead of your (or its) time innovative and radical by the standards of the time.

streets ahead: see STREET.

aid

aid and abet help and encourage someone to do something wrong, especially to commit a crime.

① Abet comes from an Old French term meaning ‘to encourage a hound to bite’.

① 1986 Frank Peretti This Present Darkness She strained to think of… any friend who would still aid and abet a fugitive from the law, without questions.

in aid of in support of; for the purpose of raising money for. chiefly British ① 1999 Teesdale Mercury A wine and savoury evening in aid of cancer research will be held… on Friday.

what’s all this in aid of? what is the purpose of this? British informal air

airs and graces an affected manner of behaving, designed to attract or impress. British give yourself airs act pretentiously or snobbishly.

① 1948 Christopher Bush The Case of the Second Chance It was said she gave herself airs, and it was also hinted that she was no better—as they say—than she might be.

① Air in the sense of ‘an affected manner’ has been current since the mid 17th century; from the early 18th century the plural form has been more usual in this derogatory sense.

hot air: see HOT.

up in the air (of a plan or issue) still to be settled; unresolved.
1995 Scientific American Prospects for federal research and development are up in the air as Republicans looking for budget cuts take control on Capitol Hill.

on (or off) the air being (or not being) broadcast on radio or television.

take the air go out of doors.

walk on air feel elated.

1977 Bernard MacLaverty Secrets 'I’m sure you’re walking on air,' my mother said to Paul at his wedding.

have people rolling in the aisles 1 make an audience laugh uncontrollably. 2 be very amusing, informal 1940 P. G. Wodehouse Quick Service I made the speech of a lifetime. I had them tearing up the seats and rolling in the aisles.

aitch drop your aitches: see DROP.

Aladdin

an Aladdin’s cave a place full of valuable objects.

an Aladdin’s lamp a talisman that enables its owner to fulfil every desire.

alarm

alarms and excursions confused activity and uproar, humorous

alight

set the world alight: see SET.

alive

alive and kicking prevalent and very active.

alive and well still existing or active (often used to deny rumours or beliefs that something has disappeared or declined).

1990 Times Thatcherism may be dying on its feet in Britain, but it is alive and well in foreign parts.

all

all and sundry everyone.

1991 Sunday Times In the manner of an Oscar-winner, she thanks all and sundry for their help.

all comers anyone who chooses to take part in an activity, typically a competition.

1992 Al Gore Earth in the Balance He has traveled to conferences and symposia in every part of the world, argued his case, and patiently taken on all comers.

all-in 1 with everything included. 2 exhausted. British informal all my eye and Betty Martin: see EYE.

all of as much as (often used ironically of an amount considered very small by the speaker or writer).

1995 Bill Bryson Notes from a Small Island In 1992, a development company... tore down five listed buildings, in a conservation area, was taken to court and fined all of £675.

be all one to make no difference to someone.

all out using all your strength or resources.

all over the place in a state of confusion or disorganization, informal

all the rage: see RAGE.

all round 1 in all respects. 2 for or by each person.

all-singing, all-dancing with every possible attribute; able to perform any necessary function. British informal

alarm

alarms and excursions confused activity and uproar, humorous

alight

set the world alight: see SET.

alive

alive and kicking prevalent and very active.

1991 Mark Tully No Full Stops in India You deliberately choose unknown actors, although India is a country where the star system is very much alive and kicking.

alive and well still existing or active (often used to deny rumours or beliefs that something has disappeared or declined).

1997 Spectator The government... proposed equalising standards and making them comparable... there could be no clearer admission that standards are all over the place.

alight

set the world alight: see SET.

alarm

alarms and excursions confused activity and uproar, humorous

alight

set the world alight: see SET.

alive

alive and kicking prevalent and very active.

1991 Mark Tully No Full Stops in India You deliberately choose unknown actors, although India is a country where the star system is very much alive and kicking.

alive and well still existing or active (often used to deny rumours or beliefs that something has disappeared or declined).
1991 Computing Each of the major independents launched an all-singing all-dancing graphics-oriented version last year.

all systems go: see SYSTEM.

be all that be very attractive or good.

US informal

2002 Guardian I can’t believe how she throws herself at guys, she thinks she’s all that.

not all there not in full possession of your mental faculties, informal be all things to all men: see THING.

— and all used to emphasize something additional that is being referred to.

informal

1992 Kenichi Ohmae The Borderless World You can whip up nationalist passions and stage-manage protectionist rallies, bonfires and all.

be all go: see GO.

be all up with: see UP.

for all — in spite of —.

1989 Independent For all their cruel, corrupt and reckless vices, the Maharajahs were worshipped as gods by tens of thousands of their subjects.

all of a sudden: see SUDDEN.

on all fours: see FOUR.

all-clear

give (or get) the all-clear indicate (or get a sign) that a dangerous situation is now safe.

1 In wartime a signal or siren is often sounded to indicate that a bombing raid is over.

alley

a blind alley: see BLIND.

up your alley: see up your street at STREET.

ally

pass in your ally: see PASS.

along

along about round about a specified time or date. North American informal or dialect

1989 Motor Trend Along about this time, it had started raining, so they red-flagged the race for a change to rain tires.

alpha

alpha and omega 1 the beginning and the end. 2 the essence or most important features.

1 Alpha and omega are respectively the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. Christians use the phrase as a title for Jesus Christ, taking it from Revelation 1:8: ‘I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord’.

2 1994 BBC Holidays At Cambridge . . . you’ll find the alpha and omega of American academic life: historic Harvard and space-age MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology).

altar

sacrifice someone or something on the altar of make someone or something suffer in the interests of someone or something else.

1994 Post (Denver) The cherished goal of a color-blind society . . . has been sacrificed on the altar of political expediency.

altogether

in the altogether without any clothes on; naked. informal

1991 Today The mothers . . . have agreed to pose in the altogether.

American

as American as apple pie typically American in character.

1995 New York Times Magazine To reward people for something beyond merit is American as apple pie.

the American dream the ideal by which equality of opportunity is available to any American, allowing the highest aspirations and goals to be achieved.

amok

run amok behave uncontrollably and disruptively.

1 Amok, formerly also spelt amuck, comes from the Malay word amuk, meaning ‘in a homicidal frenzy’, in which sense it was first introduced into English in the early 16th century.

analysis

in the final analysis when everything has been considered (used to suggest that the following statement expresses the basic truth about a complex situation).
ancient
ancient as the hills: see HILL.
the ancient of Days a biblical title for God, taken from Daniel 7:9.

angel
the angel in the house a woman who is completely devoted to her husband and family.

appeal
appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober ask someone to reconsider, with the suggestion that an earlier opinion or decision represented only a passing mood.

ant
have ants in your pants be fidgety or restless. informal

any
not be having any of it be absolutely unwilling to cooperate. informal

anyone
anyone’s game an evenly balanced contest.
be anyone’s (of a person) be open to sexual advances from anyone. informal

anything
anything goes: see GOES.

apart
be poles apart: see POLE.
come apart at the seams: see SEAM.

ape
go ape go wild; become violently excited. informal

apology
an apology for a very poor example of.
1998 Imogen de la Bere The Last Deception of Palliser Wentwood It’s an apology for a bridge, built of left-over stones.

with apologies to used before the name of an author or artist to indicate that something is a parody or adaptation of their work.
2001 This Old House With apologies to Robert Frost, boundary expert Walter Robillard says, ‘Good fences on the proper line make good neighbours’.

appeal
appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober ask someone to reconsider, with the suggestion that an earlier opinion or decision represented only a passing mood.

ant
have ants in your pants be fidgety or restless. informal

any
not be having any of it be absolutely unwilling to cooperate. informal

anyone
anyone’s game an evenly balanced contest.
be anyone’s (of a person) be open to sexual advances from anyone. informal

anything
anything goes: see GOES.

apart
be poles apart: see POLE.
come apart at the seams: see SEAM.

ape
go ape go wild; become violently excited. informal

apology
an apology for a very poor example of.
1998 Imogen de la Bere The Last Deception of Palliser Wentwood It’s an apology for a bridge, built of left-over stones.

with apologies to used before the name of an author or artist to indicate that something is a parody or adaptation of their work.
2001 This Old House With apologies to Robert Frost, boundary expert Walter Robillard says, ‘Good fences on the proper line make good neighbours’.

answer
the answer’s a lemon: see LEMON.
a dusty answer: see DUSTY.

ante
up (or raise) the ante increase what is at stake or under discussion, especially in a conflict or dispute.

appeal
appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober ask someone to reconsider, with the suggestion that an earlier opinion or decision represented only a passing mood.

ant
have ants in your pants be fidgety or restless. informal

any
not be having any of it be absolutely unwilling to cooperate. informal

anyone
anyone’s game an evenly balanced contest.
be anyone’s (of a person) be open to sexual advances from anyone. informal

anything
anything goes: see GOES.

apart
be poles apart: see POLE.
come apart at the seams: see SEAM.

ape
go ape go wild; become violently excited. informal

apology
an apology for a very poor example of.
1998 Imogen de la Bere The Last Deception of Palliser Wentwood It’s an apology for a bridge, built of left-over stones.

with apologies to used before the name of an author or artist to indicate that something is a parody or adaptation of their work.
2001 This Old House With apologies to Robert Frost, boundary expert Walter Robillard says, ‘Good fences on the proper line make good neighbours’.

answer
the answer’s a lemon: see LEMON.
a dusty answer: see DUSTY.

ante
up (or raise) the ante increase what is at stake or under discussion, especially in a conflict or dispute.

1998 New Scientist This report ups the ante on the pace at which these cases need to be identified and treated.

ant
have ants in your pants be fidgety or restless. informal

any
not be having any of it be absolutely unwilling to cooperate. informal

anyone
anyone’s game an evenly balanced contest.
be anyone’s (of a person) be open to sexual advances from anyone. informal

anything
anything goes: see GOES.

apart
be poles apart: see POLE.
come apart at the seams: see SEAM.

ape
go ape go wild; become violently excited. informal

apology
an apology for a very poor example of.
1998 Imogen de la Bere The Last Deception of Palliser Wentwood It’s an apology for a bridge, built of left-over stones.

with apologies to used before the name of an author or artist to indicate that something is a parody or adaptation of their work.
2001 This Old House With apologies to Robert Frost, boundary expert Walter Robillard says, ‘Good fences on the proper line make good neighbours’.

answer
the answer’s a lemon: see LEMON.
a dusty answer: see DUSTY.

ante
up (or raise) the ante increase what is at stake or under discussion, especially in a conflict or dispute.

1998 New Scientist This report ups the ante on the pace at which these cases need to be identified and treated.
appeal to Caesar appeal to the highest possible authority.

1 The allusion is to the claim made by the apostle Paul to have his case heard in Rome, which was his right as a Roman citizen: 'I appeal unto Caesar' (Acts 25:11).

appearance

keep up appearances maintain an impression of wealth or well-being.
to (or by) all appearances as far as can be seen.
1991 Eric Lax Woody Allen To all appearances, theirs was a unique case of sibling amity.

apple

apple of discord a subject of dissension.

1 This expression refers to the Greek myth in which a golden apple inscribed 'for the fairest' was contended for by the goddesses Hera, Athene, and Aphrodite.

the apple of your eye a person or thing of whom you are extremely fond and proud.

1 In Old English, the phrase referred to the pupil of the eye, considered to be a globular solid body; it came to be used as a symbol of something cherished and watched over.

apples and oranges (of two people or things) irreconcilably or fundamentally different.
North American

a rotten (or bad) apple a bad person in a group, typically one whose behaviour is likely to have a corrupting influence on the rest. informal she's apples used to indicate that everything is in good order and there is nothing to worry about. Australian informal she's apples 1 Apples and spice or apples and rice is Australian rhyming slang for nice.

apple cart

upset the apple cart wreck an advantageous project or disturb the status quo.

1 The use of a cart piled high with apples as a metaphor for a satisfactory but possibly precarious state of affairs is recorded in various expressions from the late 18th century onwards.

1996 Business Age The real test will be instability in China... Another Tiananmen Square could really upset the apple cart.

apple pie as American as apple pie: see American.

apropos apropos of nothing having no relevance to any previous discussion or situation.

approval

seal (or stamp) of approval an indication or statement that something is accepted or regarded favourably.

1 This expression stems from the practice of putting a stamp (or formerly a seal) on official documents.

apron

tied to someone's apron strings too much under the influence and control of someone (especially used to suggest that a man is too much influenced by his mother).

area

a grey area: see GREY.
a no-go area: see NO-GO.

argue

argue the toss dispute a decision or choice already made. informal, chiefly British

1 The toss in this phrase is the tossing of a coin to decide an issue in a simple and unambiguous way according to the side of the coin visible when it lands.

ark

out of the ark extremely old-fashioned.

1 The ark referred to is the biblical Noah's ark (Genesis 6–7), in which Noah endeavoured to save his family and two of every kind of animal from the Flood.

arm

a call to arms a call to make ready for confrontation.

cost an arm and a leg be extremely expensive. informal give an arm and a leg for pay a high price for.

keep someone or something at arm's length avoid intimacy or close contact with someone or something.

the long arm of coincidence the far-reaching power of coincidence.
the long (or strong) arm of the law the police seen as a far-reaching or intimidating power.

as long as your arm very long, informal put the arm on attempt to force or coerce someone to do something. North American informal up in arms about protesting angrily about something.

1994 Asian Times A lack of checks and balances … or legal redress for workers have trade unions up in arms.

with open arms with great affection or enthusiasm.

would give your right arm for be willing to pay a high price for; greatly desire to have or do. informal armchair

an armchair critic a person who knows about a subject only by reading or hearing about it and criticizes without active experience or first-hand knowledge.

1 The phrase armchair critic is first recorded in 1896, but the concept was around at least a decade earlier: in 1886 Joseph Chamberlain sneered at opponents as ‘arm-chair politicians’. Another common variant is armchair traveller, meaning ‘someone who travels in their imagination only’.

armed

armed at all points prepared in every particular.

armed to the teeth carrying a lot of weapons. heavily equipped.

armpit

up to your armpits deeply involved in a particular unpleasant situation or enterprise. chiefly US army

you and whose army? used to express disbelief in someone’s ability to carry out a threat. informal around

have been around have a lot of varied experience of the world, especially a lot of sexual experience. informal arrow

an arrow in the quiver one of a number of resources or strategies that can be drawn on or followed.

arrow of time (or time’s arrow) the direction of travel from past to future in time considered as a physical dimension.

a straight arrow an honest or genuine person. North American arse vulgar slang

go arse over tit fall over in a sudden or dramatic way.

kiss my arse: see KISS.

kiss someone’s arse: see KISS.

lick someone’s arse: see LICK.

not know your arse from your elbow be totally ignorant or incompetent.

a pain in the arse: see PAIN.

art

art for art’s sake the idea that a work of art has no purpose beyond itself.

be art and part of be an accessory or participant in; be deeply involved in.

have something down to a fine art: see FINE ART.

state of the art: see STATE.

article

an article of faith a firmly held belief.

the finished article: see FINISHED.

the genuine article: see GENUINE.

as

as and when used to refer to an uncertain future event.

1996 She The single most important strategy you can adopt to boost your energy levels is to learn to deal with an issue as and when it rears its head.
as if! used to express the speaker’s belief that something is very doubtful or unlikely. informal as it were in a way (used to be less precise). 1991 Atlantic jazz audiences permit older musicians to go on suiting up, as it were, until they drop.

ascendant in the ascendant rising in power or influence.

ascendant

1 This expression has been in figurative use since the late 16th century. Literally, in technical astrological use, an ascendant is the sign of the zodiac that is just rising above the eastern horizon at a particular moment.

ash

dust and ashes: see DUST.

rake over the ashes: see RAKE.

rise from the ashes: see RISE.

turn to ashes in your mouth become bitterly disappointing or worthless.

2 1995 Guardian Those who marvelled at the phenomenal climbing feats of Pedro Delgado in the 1988 Tour found words such as ‘heroic’ and ‘Herculean’ turn to ashes in their mouths during the probenecid (a masking agent) scandal.

ask

ask for the moon: see MOON.

ask me another! used to say emphatically that you do not know the answer to a question. informal ask no odds: see ODDS.

a big ask a difficult demand to fulfil. informal don’t ask me! used to indicate that you do not know the answer to a question and that you are surprised or irritated to be questioned. informal

I ask you! an exclamation of shock or disapproval intended to elicit agreement from your listener. informal asking

be asking for trouble (or be asking for it) behave in a way that is likely to result in difficulty for yourself. informal for the asking used to indicate that someone can easily have something if they want it. 1991 Mark Tully No Full Stops in India Second helpings come automatically, and third helpings are there for the asking.

asleep

asleep at the wheel not attentive or alert; inactive. informal

1 The image here is of falling asleep while driving a car. A North American variant is asleep at the switch, which refers to the points lever or switch on a railway.

2003 Guardian Rowling has not been asleep at the wheel in the three years since the last Potter novel, and I am pleased to report that she has not confused sheer length with inspiration.

ass North American vulgar slang bust your ass try very hard to do something.

chew someone’s ass reprimand someone severely.

cover your ass take steps to protect yourself.

drag (or haul) ass hurry or move fast.

get your ass in gear hurry.

kick (some) ass (or kick someone’s ass): see KICK.

kiss ass: see KISS.

kiss someone’s ass: see KISS.

no skin off your ass: see SKIN.

not give a rat’s ass not care at all about something.

a pain in the ass: see PAIN.

a piece of ass: see PIECE.

put someone’s ass in a sling get someone in trouble.

whip (or bust) someone’s ass use physical force to beat someone in a fight.

at

at it engaged in some activity, typically a reprehensible one. 1993 G. F. Newman Law & Order Oh, don’t take me for a complete idiot, Jack. I know you’re at it.

at that in addition; furthermore (used for emphasis at the end of a statement). 1994 Sunday Times The sensitivity to social change may play its part, but in reality fashion is a business, and a hard-nosed one at that.
where it's at the most fashionable place, possession, or activity. informal atmosphere an atmosphere that you could cut with a knife a general feeling of great tension or malevolence.

1990 Ellen Feldman Looking for Love New York is where it’s at, stylewise.

attendance dance attendance on: see DANCE.

auld for auld lang syne for old times’ sake.

权威 have something on good authority have ascertained something from a reliable source.

away away with something used as an exhortation to overcome or be rid of something.

give away with you! used to express scepticism. Scottish far and away: see FAR.

out and away: see OUT.

awkward the awkward age adolescence.

the awkward squad a squad composed of recruits and soldiers who need further training.

i Shortly before his death Robert Burns is reported to have said, ‘Don’t let the awkward squad fire over me’. Nowadays, the expression is often used to refer to a group of people who are regarded as tiresome or difficult to deal with.

axep have an axe to grind have a private, sometimes malign, motive for doing or being involved in something.

i The expression originated in a story told by Benjamin Franklin and was used first in the USA, especially with reference to politics, but it is now in general use.

1997 Times I am a non-smoker, and have no personal axe to grind.

aye the ayes have it the affirmative votes are in the majority.

i Aye is an archaic or dialect word meaning ‘yes’, now used in standard speech only when voting. Compare with the noes have it (at NO).

2000 Guardian The arguments will continue. But we think the ‘ayes’ have it.
B

plan B an alternative strategy.

1999 8 Days And if that doesn’t work, well, there’s always Plan B.

babe

babes in the wood inexperienced people in a situation calling for experience.

i The babes in the wood are characters in an old ballad The Children in the Wood, which dates from the 16th century. The two children are abandoned in the wood by their wicked uncle who wishes to steal their inheritance. The children die of starvation and robins cover their bodies with leaves; the uncle and his accomplice are subsequently brought to justice.

baby

be someone’s baby (of a project) be instigated and developed by one particular person; be someone’s creation or special concern. informal

be left holding the baby: see HOLDING.

throw the baby out with the bathwater discard something valuable along with other things that are inessential or undesirable.

i This phrase is based on a German saying recorded from the early 16th century but not introduced into English until the mid 19th century, by Thomas Carlyle. He identified it as German and gave it in the form, ‘You must empty out the bathing-tub, but not the baby along with it.’

1998 New Scientist It is easy to throw out the baby with the bathwater when it comes to UFO books—there are some seriously bad titles out there.

back

at the back of your mind not consciously or specifically thought of or remembered but still part of your general awareness.

back in the day in the past; some time ago.

a back number 1 an issue of a periodical before the current one. 2 a person whose ideas or methods are out of date and who is no longer relevant or useful.

back o’Bourke the outback. Australian informal i Bourke is the name of a town in north-west New South Wales.

the back of beyond a very remote or inaccessible place.

1998 Sanjida O’Connell Angel Bird This is London, Niall, not some poky wee place in the back of beyond.

back to the drawing board used to indicate that an idea or scheme has been unsuccessful and a new one must be devised.

i An architectural or engineering project is at its earliest phase when it exists only as a plan on a drawing board.

1991 Discover Even as Humphries fine-tunes his system, however, he realizes that NASA could send him back to the drawing board.

back to square one back to the starting point, with no progress made.

i Square one may be a reference to a board game such as Snakes and Ladders, or may come from the notional division of a football pitch into eight numbered sections for the purpose of early radio commentaries.

back the wrong horse make a wrong or inappropriate choice.

be on (or get off) someone’s back nag (or stop nagging) someone. informal by the back door using indirect or dishonest means to achieve an objective.

get someone’s back up make someone annoyed or angry.

i This phrase developed as an allusion to the way a cat arches its back when it is angry or threatened.

get your own back: see GET.

know something like the back of your hand be entirely familiar with something.

not in my back yard: see NOT.

on your back in bed recovering from an injury or illness.
put your back into approach a task with vigour.

someone's back is turned someone's attention is elsewhere.
1989 Orson Scott Card Prentice Alvin That prentice of yours look strong enough to dig it hisself, if he doesn't lazy off and sleep when your back is turned.

take a back seat take or be given a less important position or role. Compare with in the driver's seat (at DRIVER).

with your back to (or up against) the wall in a desperate situation.

backbone put backbone into someone encourage someone to behave resolutely.

back-seat a back-seat driver a passenger in a vehicle who constantly gives the driver unwanted advice on how to drive. someone who lectures and criticizes the person actually in control of something.

backwards bend over backwards to do something make every effort, especially to be fair or helpful. informal know something backwards be entirely familiar with something.

1991 William Trevor Reading Turgenev People who lived in the town knew it backwards.

bacon save someone's bacon: see save someone's skin at SAVE.

bring home the bacon supply material provision or support. achieve success. informal bad bad blood: see BLOOD.

a bad quarter of an hour a short but very unpleasant period of time; an unnerving experience.

A bad quarter of an hour is a translation of the French phrase un mauvais quart d'heure, which has also been current in English since the mid 19th century.

a bad workman blames his tools: see WORKMAN.

be bad news: see NEWS.

my bad used to acknowledge responsibility for a mistake. North American informal turn up like a bad penny: see PENNY.

bag bag and baggage with all your belongings.
a bag of bones an emaciated person or animal. Compare with be skin and bone (at SKIN).

a bag (or bundle) of nerves a person who is extremely timid or tense. informal a bag (or whole bag) of tricks a set of ingenious plans, techniques, or resources. informal be left holding the bag: see be left holding the baby at HOLDING.

in the bag (of something desirable) as good as secured. drunk. US informal pack your bag: see PACK.

bait fish or cut bait: see FISH.

rise to the bait: see RISE.

baker a baker's dozen thirteen.

This expression arose from the former bakers' practice of adding an extra loaf to a dozen sold to a retailer, this representing the latter's profit.

balance turn the balance: see turn the scales at SCALE.

weigh something in the balance carefully ponder or assess the merits and demerits of something.

The image is of a pair of old-fashioned scales with two pans in which the positive and negative aspects of something can be set against each other. The expanded phrase weighed in the balance and found wanting meaning 'having failed to meet the test of a particular situation' is also found, and is an allusion to the biblical book of Daniel, where such a process formed part of the judgement made on King Belshazzar.

bald

as bald as a coot completely bald.

The coot (Fulica atra) has a broad white shield extending up from the base of its bill. The history of the word bald is somewhat obscure, but analogies with other northern European languages suggest a connection with the idea of 'having a white patch or streak'.

ball

a ball and chain a severe hindrance.

Originally, a ball and chain referred to a heavy metal ball attached by a chain to the leg of a prisoner or convict to prevent their escape.

the ball is in someone's court it is that particular person's turn to act next.

This expression is a metaphor from tennis or a similar ball game where different players use particular areas of a marked court.

a ball of fire a person who is full of energy and enthusiasm.

In the early 19th century this phrase was also used to mean 'a glass of brandy'.

behind the eight ball: see EIGHT.

have a ball enjoy yourself greatly; have fun. informal have the ball at your feet have your best opportunity of succeeding.

have a lot on the ball have a lot of ability. US keep the ball rolling maintain the momentum of an activity.

keep your eye on (or take your eye off) the ball keep (or fail to keep) your attention focused on the matter in hand.

on the ball alert to new ideas, methods, and trends. informal 1998 Romesh Gunesekera Sandglass It's big business now, you know. You have to be on the ball: go, go, go all the time.

play ball work willingly with others; cooperate. informal

The literal sense is of play ball is 'play a team ball game such as baseball or cricket'.

start the ball rolling set an activity in motion; make a start.

the whole ball of wax everything. North American informal a whole new ball game a completely new set of circumstances. informal

The phrase originated in North America, where a ball game is a baseball match.

1989 Looks Making the film was a whole new ball game... for Kylie.

ballistic

go ballistic fly into a rage. informal 1998 New Scientist The French nuclear industry, local authorities around La Hague and some government agencies went ballistic. Viel was fiercely condemned for his findings.

balloon

go down like a lead balloon: see LEAD.

when (or before) the balloon goes up when (or before) the action or trouble starts. informal

The balloon alluded to is probably one released to mark the start of an event.

1959 Punch The international rules of war are apt to be waived when the balloon goes up.

ballpark

in the ballpark in a particular area or range. informal

The phrase originated in the USA, where a ballpark is a baseball ground.

bamboo

the bamboo curtain an impenetrable political, economic, and cultural barrier between China and non-Communist countries.

Formed on the pattern of the iron curtain (see at IRON), this phrase dates back to the 1940s.

banana

banana republic a small tropical state, especially one in central America, whose economy is regarded as wholly dependent on its fruit-exporting trade.

derogatory

go bananas 1 become extremely angry or excited. 2 go mad. informal 1992 Jim Lehrer A Bus of My Own I predicted John Erlichman would probably go bananas when he testified the next day.

second banana the second most important person in an organization or activity. informal, chiefly North American top banana the most important person in an organization or activity. informal, chiefly North American

1 The two expressions above originated in US theatrical slang. The top banana was originally the comedian who topped the bill in a show, while the second banana was the supporting comedian.

banana skin slip on a banana skin: see slip.

band when the band begins to play when matters become serious.

bandwagon jump on the bandwagon join others in doing something or supporting a cause that is fashionable or likely to be successful.

1 Bandwagon was originally the US term for a large wagon able to carry a band of musicians in a procession.

bang bang for your (or the) buck value for money; performance for cost. US informal bang goes — used to express the sudden or complete destruction of something, especially a plan or ambition.

1995 Desktop Publishing Journal These additions to RunShare... will surely give you the most productive network, the most 'bang for your buck'.

1895 George Bernard Shaw Letter Somebody will give a surreptitious performance of it: and then bang goes my copyright.

bang on exactly right. British informal

bang people's heads together reprimand people severely, especially in the attempt to make them stop arguing.

g et a bang out of derive excitement or pleasure from. North American informal

1931 Damon Runyon Guys and Dolls He seems to be getting a great bang out of the doings.

go with a bang happen with obvious success.

bank break the bank 1 (in gambling) win more money than is held by the bank. 2 cost more than you can afford. informal

under the banner of claiming to support a particular cause or set of ideas. as part of a particular group or organization.

baptism a baptism of fire a difficult introduction to a new job or activity.

1 A baptism of fire was originally a soldier's initiation into battle.

1998 Times Opposition spokesmen do not normally face a baptism of fire, but the Bank of England's unexpected decision... provided the Shadow Chancellor with an opportunity to make an early mark.

bar bar none with no exceptions.

1866 M. E. Braddon Lady's Mile Your 'Aspasia' is the greatest picture that ever was painted—'bar none'.

bare the bare bones the basic facts about something, without any detail.

bargepole would not touch someone or something with a bargepole used to express an emphatic refusal to have anything to do with someone or something. informal

1 A bargepole is used to propel a barge and to fend off obstacles. The equivalent US expression substitutes a ten-foot pole.

bang for your (or the) buck value for money; performance for cost. US informal

1995 Desktop Publishing Journal These additions to RunShare... will surely give you the most productive network, the most 'bang for your buck'.

bang goes — used to express the sudden or complete destruction of something, especially a plan or ambition.

1895 George Bernard Shaw Letter Somebody will give a surreptitious performance of it: and then bang goes my copyright.

bang on exactly right. British informal

bang people's heads together reprimand people severely, especially in the attempt to make them stop arguing.

g et a bang out of derive excitement or pleasure from. North American informal

1931 Damon Runyon Guys and Dolls He seems to be getting a great bang out of the doings.

go with a bang happen with obvious success.

bank break the bank 1 (in gambling) win more money than is held by the bank. 2 cost more than you can afford. informal

under the banner of claiming to support a particular cause or set of ideas. as part of a particular group or organization.

baptism a baptism of fire a difficult introduction to a new job or activity.

1 A baptism of fire was originally a soldier's initiation into battle.

1998 Times Opposition spokesmen do not normally face a baptism of fire, but the Bank of England's unexpected decision... provided the Shadow Chancellor with an opportunity to make an early mark.

bar bar none with no exceptions.

1866 M. E. Braddon Lady's Mile Your 'Aspasia' is the greatest picture that ever was painted—'bar none'.

bare the bare bones the basic facts about something, without any detail.

bargepole would not touch someone or something with a bargepole used to express an emphatic refusal to have anything to do with someone or something. informal

1 A bargepole is used to propel a barge and to fend off obstacles. The equivalent US expression substitutes a ten-foot pole.

bang for your (or the) buck value for money; performance for cost. US informal

1995 Desktop Publishing Journal These additions to RunShare... will surely give you the most productive network, the most 'bang for your buck'.

bang goes — used to express the sudden or complete destruction of something, especially a plan or ambition.

1895 George Bernard Shaw Letter Somebody will give a surreptitious performance of it: and then bang goes my copyright.

bang on exactly right. British informal

bang people's heads together reprimand people severely, especially in the attempt to make them stop arguing.

g et a bang out of derive excitement or pleasure from. North American informal

1931 Damon Runyon Guys and Dolls He seems to be getting a great bang out of the doings.

go with a bang happen with obvious success.

bank break the bank 1 (in gambling) win more money than is held by the bank. 2 cost more than you can afford. informal

under the banner of claiming to support a particular cause or set of ideas. as part of a particular group or organization.

baptism a baptism of fire a difficult introduction to a new job or activity.

1 A baptism of fire was originally a soldier's initiation into battle.

1998 Times Opposition spokesmen do not normally face a baptism of fire, but the Bank of England's unexpected decision... provided the Shadow Chancellor with an opportunity to make an early mark.

bar bar none with no exceptions.

1866 M. E. Braddon Lady's Mile Your 'Aspasia' is the greatest picture that ever was painted—'bar none'.

bare the bare bones the basic facts about something, without any detail.

bargepole would not touch someone or something with a bargepole used to express an emphatic refusal to have anything to do with someone or something. informal

1 A bargepole is used to propel a barge and to fend off obstacles. The equivalent US expression substitutes a ten-foot pole.
1969 Arnold Bennett Forty Years On

For sovereign states to conclude agreements on the basis of a mutual fondness for dogs seems to me to be barking up the wrong tree.

someone’s bark is worse than their bite

someone is not as ferocious as they appear or sound.

A similar association between barking and biting occurs in the proverb a barking dog never bites, which can be traced back through 13th-century French (chascuns chiens qui abaie ne mort pas, dogs that bark don’t bite) to Latin (canem timidum vehementius latrare quam mordere, a timid dog barks more furiously than it bites).

---

1996 Mail on Sunday

Seeing so many old people gathered all in one place was hardly a barrel of laughs.

---

off base

mistaken. North American informal

1947 Time

Your Latin American department was off base in its comparison of the Portillo Hotel in Chile with our famous Sun Valley.

touch base

briefly make or renew contact with someone or something. informal

1984 Armistead Maupin

Babycakes In search of a routine, he touched base with his launderette, his post office, his nearest market.

Base in these three phrases refers to each of the four points in the angles of the ‘diamond’ in baseball, which a player has to reach in order to score a run.

---

barn

round Robin Hood’s barn: see Robin Hood.

barred

no holds barred: see Hold.

barrel

a barrel of laughs a source of fun or amusement. informal

1996 Mail on Sunday

Seeing so many old people gathered all in one place was hardly a barrel of laughs.

get someone over a barrel

get someone in a helpless position; have someone at your mercy. informal

This phrase perhaps refers to the condition of a person who has been rescued from drowning and is placed over a barrel to clear their lungs of water.

---

scrape the barrel:

see Scrape.

with both barrels with unrestrained force or emotion. informal

The barrels in question are the two barrels of a firearm.

---

barrelhead

on the barrelhead: see on the nail at NAIL.

barricade

man (or go to) the barricades strongly protest against a government or other institution or its policy.

base

get to first base achieve the first step towards your objective. informal, chiefly North American 1962 P. G. Wodehouse Service with a Smile

She gives you the feeling that you’ll never get to first base with her.

1997 James Ryan Dismantling Mr Doyle

She did not bat an eyelid when Eve spelled out the unorthodox details of the accommodation they required.
be 1993 Mother & Baby Many mums-to-be report that small frequent snacks are easier to keep down than three large meals a day.

be there for someone be available to support or comfort someone who is experiencing difficulties or adversities.

batten
batten down the hatches prepare for a difficulty or crisis.

Battery
recharge your batteries: see RECHARGE.

Battle
battle of the giants a contest between two pre-eminent parties.

Battle royal a fiercely contested fight or dispute.

Battle stations used as a command or signal to military personnel to take up their positions in preparation for battle. chiefly US

Half the battle an important step towards achieving something.

A losing battle: see LOSING.

A pitched battle: see PITCHED.

A running battle: see RUNNING.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bring someone or something to bay trap or corner a person or animal being hunted or chased.

Hold (or keep) someone or something at bay prevent someone or something from approaching or having an effect.

Baton
pass (or hand) on the baton hand over a particular duty or responsibility.

Bat
an early bath the sending off of a sports player during a game. British informal

Bath
the sending off of a sports player during a game. British informal Batted

with bated breath in great suspense; very anxiously or excitedly.

Bated
Baited, which is sometimes seen, is a misspelling, since bated in this sense is a shortened form of abated, the idea being that your breathing is lessened under the influence of extreme suspense.

Bated
bated with bated breath in great suspense; very anxiously or excitedly.

Bay
bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.

Bay
Bay for blood demand punishment or retribution.
the be-all and end-all a feature of an activity or a way of life that is of greater importance than any other. informal bead

draw (or get) a bead on take aim at with a gun. chiefly North American 1994 Ontario Out of Doors Few moose will pose majestically right at the water’s edge while you draw a bead on them.

beam
a beam in your eye a fault that is greater in yourself than in the person you are finding fault with.

1 This phrase comes from Matthew 7:3: ‘Why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother’s eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thy own eye?’ For a mote in someone’s eye, see mote.

broad in the beam: see broad.
off (or way off) beam on the wrong track; mistaken. informal

1 Originally, this phrase referred to the radio beam or signal used to guide aircraft.

1997 Anthony Barnett This Time I sample the press coverage to illustrate how large sections of the Fourth Estate were way off beam in their conviction that voters want the country steered back towards ‘Great Englishness’.

on your beam ends near the end of your resources; desperate.

1 The beam referred to here is one of the main horizontal transverse timbers of a wooden ship; compare with broad in the beam (at broad). The phrase originated as the nautical term on her beam ends, and was used of a ship that had heeled over on its side and was almost capsizing.

bean
full of beans lively; in high spirits. informal

1 This phrase was originally used by people who work with horses, and referred to the good condition of a horse fed on beans.

give someone beans scold or deal severely with a person. informal 1999 SL (Cape Town) I think that what your friends and family think shouldn’t amount to a hill of beans.

a hill (or row) of beans something of little importance or value. informal 1999 SL (Cape Town) I don’t want to beat about the bush. Mr Adams is threatening to leave us.

beard
beard the lion in his den (or lair) confront or challenge someone on their own ground.

1 This phrase developed partly from the idea of being daring enough to take a lion by the beard and partly from the use of beard as a verb to mean ‘face’, i.e. to face a lion in his den.

beat
beat a hasty retreat withdraw, typically in order to avoid something unpleasant.

1 In former times, a drumbeat could be used to keep soldiers in step while they were retreating.

beat about the bush discuss a matter without coming to the point; be ineffectual and waste time.

1 This phrase is a metaphor which originated in the shooting or netting of birds; compare with beat the bushes below.

1992 Barry Unsworth Sacred Hunger I don’t want to beat about the bush. Mr Adams is threatening to leave us.

beat someone at their own game use someone’s own methods to outdo them in their chosen activity.

beat your breast: see breast.
beat the bushes search thoroughly. North American informal

This expression originates from the way in which hunters walk through undergrowth wielding long sticks which are used to force birds or animals out into the open where they can be shot or netted.

beat the clock perform a task quickly or within a fixed time limit.

beat the daylights out of: see DAYLIGHT.
beat the drum for: see DRUM.

beat your (or the) meat (of a man) masturbate, vulgar slang beat the pants off prove to be vastly superior to. informal

1990 Paul Auster The Music of Chance ‘Not bad, kid,’ Nashe said. ‘You beat the pants off me.’

beat a path to someone's door (of a large number of people) hasten to make contact with someone regarded as interesting or inspiring.

This phrase developed from the idea of a large number of people trampling down vegetation to make a path: compare with off the beaten track (at BEATEN).

beat the system succeed in finding a means of getting round rules, regulations, or other means of control.

beet someone to it succeed in doing something or getting somewhere before someone else, to their annoyance.

if you can't beat them, join them if you are unable to outdo rivals in some endeavour, you might as well cooperate with them and gain whatever advantage possible by doing so. humorous.

miss a beat: see MISS.

to beat the band in such a way as to surpass all competition. North American informal

1990 Paul Auster The Music of Chance ‘Not bad, kid,’ Nashe said. ‘You beat the pants off me.’

beaver work like a beaver work steadily and industriously. informal

The beaver is referred to here because of the industriousness with which it constructs the dams necessary for its aquatic dwellings. The image is similarly conjured up by the phrase beaver away meaning ‘work hard’.

beck at someone's beck and call always having to be ready to obey someone's orders immediately.

Beck in the sense of 'a significant gesture of command' comes from the verb beck, a shortened form of beckon. It is now found mainly in this phrase.

bed bed and breakfast overnight accommodation and breakfast next morning as offered by hotels etc.

designating financial transactions in which shares are sold and then bought back the next morning.
a bed of nails a problematic or uncomfortable situation.

A bed of nails was originally a board with nails pointing out of it, lain on by Eastern fakirs and ascetics.

a bed of roses a situation or activity that is comfortable or easy.

get out of bed on the wrong side be bad-tempered all day long.
in bed with having sexual intercourse with. in undesirably close association with. informal Snowboard UK Jackson lies like an oasis of culture and good coffee in a state that is otherwise firmly in bed with gun culture.

you have made your bed and must lie in it you must accept the consequences of your own actions.

bedpost

between you and me and the bedpost (or the gatepost or the wall) in strict confidence. informal

1 The bedpost, gatepost, or wall is seen as marking the boundary beyond which the confidence must not go.

bedside

bedside manner a doctor’s approach or attitude to a patient.

1993 Bill Moyers Healing & the Mind Are you just talking about the old-fashioned bedside manner of a doctor who comes around and visits you when you need him?

bee

the bee’s knees something or someone outstandingly good. informal

1 The bee’s knees was first used to refer to something small and insignificant, but it quickly developed its current, completely opposite meaning.

have a bee in your bonnet have an obsessive preoccupation with something. informal

1 This expression, along with have bees in the head or bees in the brain, was first used to refer to someone who was regarded as crazy or eccentric.

beeline

make a beeline for go rapidly and directly towards.

1 The phrase refers to the straight line supposedly taken instinctively by a bee returning to its hive.

1997 Bookseller And when he heard that people might like him to sign copies of his new novel... he cut the small talk and made a beeline for the stall.

been

been there, done that: see THERE.

beer

beer and skittles amusement. British

1 This phrase comes from the proverb life isn’t all beer and skittles. The game of skittles is used as a prime example of a form of light-hearted entertainment.

beg

beg the question 1 raise a point that has not been dealt with; invite an obvious question. 2 assume the truth of an argument or of a proposition to be proved, without arguing it.

1 The original meaning of the phrase beg the question belongs to the field of logic and is a translation of Latin petitio principii, literally meaning ‘laying claim to a principle’, i.e. assume the truth of something that ought to be proved first. For many traditionalists this remains the only correct meaning, but far commoner in English today is the first sense here, ‘invite an obvious question’.

beggar

beggar belief (or description) be too extraordinary to be believed (or described).

beggar on horseback a formerly poor person made arrogant or corrupt through achieving wealth and luxury.

1 Compare with the mid 17th-century proverb set a beggar on horseback and he’ll ride to the devil, meaning that a person not used to power will use it unwisely.

beggars can’t be choosers people with no other options must be content with what is offered. proverb

begging

go begging 1 (of an article) be available.
2 (of an opportunity) not be taken.

beginner

beginner’s luck good luck supposedly experienced by a beginner at a particular game or activity.

beginning

the beginning of the end the event or development to which the conclusion or failure of something can be traced.

1992 H. Norman Schwartzkopf It Doesn’t Take a Hero I heard about D-Day on the radio. The announcer quoted Ohio governor John Bricker’s now-famous line that this was ‘the beginning of the end of the forces of evil’.

bejesus informal

beat the bejesus out of someone hit someone very hard or for a long time.

scare the bejesus out of someone frighten someone very much.
This place is going to scare the bejesus out of the fuddy-duddy Sloaney-Pony set.

Bejesus is an alteration of the exclamation by Jesus! It is often found in its Anglo-Irish form bejasus or bejabers.

Bell

Bell, book, and candle a formula for laying a curse on someone.

This expression alludes to the closing words of the rite of excommunication, ‘Do to the book, quench the candle, ring the bell’, meaning that the service book is closed, the candle put out, and the passing bell rung, as a sign of spiritual death.

Bell the cat take the danger of a shared enterprise upon yourself.

Bell the cat alludes to the fable in which mice or rats have the idea of hanging a bell around the cat’s neck so as to have warning of its approach, the only difficulty being to find one of their number willing to undertake the task.

Bells and whistles attractive additional features or trimmings. informal

The bells and whistles originally referred to those found on old fairground organs. Nowadays, the phrase is often used in computing jargon to mean ‘attractive but superfluous facilities’.

Saved by the bell: see Saved.

As clear (or sound) as a bell perfectly clear (or sound).

1993 Independent We spent a few thousand on redecoration, but basically the place was sound as a bell.

Give someone a bell telephone someone. British informal

Ring a bell revive a distant recollection; sound familiar. informal

With bells on enthusiastically. North American informal 1989 Mary Gordon The Other Side So, everybody’s waiting for you with bells on.

Belle

Belle of the ball the most admired and successful woman on a particular occasion.

The belle of the ball was originally the girl or woman regarded as the most beautiful and popular at a dance.

Bell

Go belly up go bankrupt. informal

The implied comparison is with a dead fish or other animal floating upside down in the water.

1998 Times: Weekend The single currency could well go belly-up within two or three years.

Bellyful

Have a bellyful of become impatient after prolonged experience of someone or something. informal

Below

Below stairs in the basement of a house, in particular as the part occupied by servants. British dated

Belt

Below the belt unfair or unfairly; not in keeping with the rules.

In boxing a blow below the belt is a low, and therefore unlawful, blow.

Belt and braces (of a policy or action) providing double security by using two means to achieve the same end. British

This meaning developed from the idea of a literal belt and braces holding up a pair of loose-fitting trousers.

2002 Digital Photography Made Easy Oddly, the manual is also on CD, which seems a bit belt and braces (though useful if you lose the original).

Tighten your belt cut your expenditure; live more frugally.

Under your belt (of food or drink) consumed. safely or satisfactorily achieved, experienced, or acquired.

Bend

Bend someone’s ear talk to someone, especially with great eagerness or in order to ask a favour. informal

Bend your elbow drink alcohol. North American

Bend over backwards: see backwards.

Round the bend (or twist) crazy; mad. informal 1998 Spectator She combines a fondness for holidays in Switzerland with an amiable husband... who saves her from going completely round the bend.

bended
on bended knee kneeling, especially when pleading or showing great respect.

 bénééd was the original past participle of bend, but in Middle English it was superseded in general use by bent. It is now archaic and survives only in this phrase.

benefit
give someone the benefit of — explain or recount to someone at length (often used ironically when someone pompously or impertinently assumes that their knowledge or experience is superior to that of the person to whom they are talking).

1999 Stage Our courses are delivered by 2 current TV personalities who will give you the benefit of their 6 years experience.

the benefit of the doubt a concession that someone or something must be regarded as correct or justified, if the contrary has not been proved.

Benjamin
a Benjamin’s portion (or mess) the largest share or portion.

1 In the Bible, Benjamin was the youngest son of the Jewish patriarch Jacob. When Jacob’s sons encountered their long-lost brother Joseph in Egypt, where he had become a high official, they failed to recognize him, but Joseph generously entertained them: ‘And he took and sent messes [servings of food] unto them from before him: but Benjamin’s mess was five times so much as any of their’s’ (Genesis 43:34).

bent
bent out of shape angry or agitated. North American informal 1994 David Spencer Alien Nation 6: Passing Fancy Max Corigliano was there . . . and bent out of shape about having been made to wait so long.

berth
give someone or something a wide berth stay away from someone or something.

1 Berth is a nautical term which originally referred to the distance that ships should keep away from each other or from the shore, rocks, etc., in order to avoid a collision. Therefore, the literal meaning of the expression is ‘steer a ship well clear of something while passing it’.

besetting
besetting sin a fault to which a person or institution is especially prone; a characteristic weakness.

1 The verb beset literally means ‘surround with hostile intent’, so the image is of a sin besieging or pressing in upon a person.

1974 Donal Scannell Mother Knew Best Mother said vanity was a besetting sin which Amy resented, to say the least of it.

beside
beside yourself overcome with worry, grief, or anger; distraught.

best
best bib and tucker: see BIB.

the best thing since sliced bread: see BREAD.

put your best foot forward: see FOOT.

with the best will in the world: see WILL.

the best of both worlds: see WORLD.

the best of British used to wish someone well in an enterprise, especially when you are almost sure it will be unsuccessful, informal

1 This phrase is an abbreviation of the best of British luck to you.

give someone or something best admit the superiority of; give way to. British 1990 Birds Magazine He finally decided to give us best and took himself off.

make the best of it derive what limited advantage you can from something unsatisfactory or unwelcome, ©use resources as well as possible.

1 The first sense is often found in the form make the best of a bad job, meaning ‘do something as well as you can under difficult circumstances’.

your best bet the most favourable option available in particular circumstances.

six of the best a caning as a punishment, traditionally with six strokes of the cane.

1 Six of the best was formerly a common punishment in boys’ schools, but it is now chiefly historical in its literal sense and tends to be used figuratively or humorously.

bet
all bets are off the outcome of a particular situation is unpredictable. informal don’t bet on it used to express doubt about an assertion or situation. informal you can bet your boots (or bottom dollar or life) you may be absolutely certain. informal bet the farm risk everything that you own on a bet, investment, or enterprise. North American informal a safe bet a certainty.

A safe bet originally referred to a horse that was confidently expected to win a race.

2002 Observer It is a safe bet that as the Western world gets fatter, the people on its television screens will continue to get thinner.

better
against your better judgement: see JUDGEMENT.
the — the better used to emphasize the importance or desirability of the quality or thing specified.

1986 Patrick Leigh Fermor Between the Woods & the Water He had a passion for limericks, the racier the better.

better the devil you know it’s wiser to deal with an undesirable but familiar person or situation than to risk a change that might lead to a situation with worse difficulties or a person whose faults you have yet to discover.

This phrase is a shortened form of the proverb better the devil you know than the devil you don’t know.

better late than never it’s preferable for something to happen or be done belatedly than not at all.

better safe than sorry it’s wiser to be cautious and careful than to be hasty or rash and so do something that you may later regret.

Apparently the expression is quite recent in this form (mid 20th century); better be sure than sorry is recorded from the mid 19th century.

1998 New Scientist The meeting is to be commended for taking a ‘better safe than sorry’ attitude, and drawing up a baseline list of measures to be put in place when disease breaks out.

the better to — so as to — better.

1986 Peter Mathiessen Men’s Lives Francis ran both motors with their housings off, the better to tinker with them.

get the better of win an advantage over someone; defeat or outwit someone.

go one better narrowly surpass a previous effort or achievement. narrowly outdo another person.

no better than you should (or ought to) be regarded as sexually promiscuous or of doubtful moral character.

This phrase dates back to the early 17th century. Used typically of a woman, it is now rather dated.

1998 Spectator ‘She’s no better than she ought to be’. (British mothers of my generation... often used that enigmatic phrase. They would use it about female neighbours of whom they disapproved, or women in low-cut dresses on television.)

your better half your husband or wife. humorous seen better days: see DAY.
so much the better: see MUCH.

betting
the betting is that it is likely that. informal between between the devil and the deep blue sea: see DEVIL. between a rock and a hard place: see ROCK.

betwixt
betwixt and between neither one thing nor the other. informal

Betwixt is now poetic or archaic and is seldom found outside this phrase.

beyond
the back of beyond: see BACK.
it’s beyond me it’s too astonishing, puzzling, etc. for me to understand or explain. informal bib

your best bib and tucker your best clothes. informal

Bib and tucker originally referred to certain items of women’s clothing. A bib is a garment worn over the upper front part of the body (e.g. the bib of an apron), and a tucker was a decorative piece of lace formerly worn on a woman’s bodice.

stick (or poke) your bib in interfere. Australian & New Zealand informal bicky

big bickies a large sum of money Australian informal Bickies is an abbreviation of biscuits.

1981 Canberra Times Appearance money is another claim which we think will succeed...just showing up is worth big bickies.

bide

bide your time wait quietly for a good opportunity.

Bide in the sense of await is now only found in this expression. It has been superseded by abide in most of its other senses.

1991 Gillian Slovo The Betrayal And so he bided his time, waiting, plotting, planning, looking for the signs that would be good for him.

big

Big brother: see brother.

the big C: see C.

a big cheese an important and influential person. informal

Other versions of this phrase substitute fish, gun, noise, shot, or wheel for cheese. These are mainly self-explanatory, with the exception of cheese itself, which is of doubtful origin but may be from Persian and Urdu chiz meaning 'thing'. As a phrase, big cheese seems to have originated in early 20th-century US slang, as did big noise. Big wheel in this metaphorical sense (as opposed to the fairground ride known as a Ferris wheel) and big shot are similarly US in origin (mid 20th century). Big fish may have connotations either of something it is desirable for you to catch or of the metaphorical expression a big fish in a small pond.

big deal 1 an important or impressive event. 2 used as an ironic exclamation to indicate that you do not think something is as important or impressive as another person has suggested. informal the big five a name given by hunters to the five largest and most dangerous African mammals: rhinoceros, elephant, buffalo, lion, and leopard.

the big lie a gross distortion or misrepresentation of the facts, especially when used as a propaganda device by a politician or official body.

the big smoke London. British informal 2 any large town. chiefly Australian the big Three, Four, etc. the dominant group of three, four, etc. informal 1998 Sunday Telegraph The notion that someone outside the so-called 'Big Four'—the ministerial group which meets before Cabinet—might be given such status is uplifting.

big white chief: see chief.

give someone the big e reject someone, typically in an insensitive or dismissive way. British informal

The e in the phrase is from elbow: give someone the big elbow has the same meaning.

make it big become very successful or famous. informal talk big talk confidently or boastfully. informal think big be ambitious. informal too big for your boots conceited. informal bike

give someone the big e reject someone, typically in an insensitive or dismissive way. British informal on your bike! 1 go away! 2 take action! British informal

Sense 2 became a catchphrase in 1980s Britain, when it was used as an exhortation to the unemployed to show initiative in their attempt to find work. It was taken from a speech by the Conservative politician Norman Tebbit in which he said of his unemployed father: 'He did not riot, he got on his bike and looked for work.'

bill

bill and coo exchange caresses or affectionate words; behave or talk in a very loving or sentimental way. informal, dated

The image is of two doves, a long-established symbol of mutual love.

a clean bill of health a declaration or confirmation that someone is healthy or something is in good condition.

In the mid 18th century, a bill of health was an official certificate given to the master of a ship on leaving port; if clean, it certified that there was no infection either in the port or on board the vessel.

fit (or fill) the bill be suitable for a particular purpose.

Bill in this context is a printed list of items on a theatrical programme or advertisement.
foot the bill be responsible for paying for something.

sell someone a bill of goods deceive or swindle someone, usually by persuading them to accept something untrue or undesirable.

A bill of goods is a consignment of merchandise.

1968 Globe & Mail (Toronto) There was no production bonus... We were sold a bill of goods.

top (or head) the bill be the main performer or act in a show, play, etc.

billy-o like billy-o very much, hard, or strongly.
British informal

1995 John Banville Athena This skin tone is the effect of cigarettes. I suspect, for she is a great smoker... going at the fags like billy-o.

a bill of goods a consignment of merchandise.

1968 Globe & Mail (Toronto) There was no production bonus... We were sold a bill of goods.

1994 Washington Post Magazine We could simultaneously honour America, break the law and flip the bird to all the do-gooders.

give someone (or get) the bird boo or jeer at someone (or be booed or jeered at). British informal

This phrase first appeared in early 19th-century theatrical slang as the big bird, meaning 'a goose'. This was because the hissing of geese could be compared to the audience's hissing at an act or actor of which it disapproved.

have a bird be very shocked or agitated. North American informal 1992 Globe & Mail (Toronto) The Washington press corps would have a bird if the president-to-be appointed his wife to a real job.

kill two birds with one stone: see KILL.

a little bird told me used as a teasing way of saying that you do not intend to divulge how you came to know something.

strictly for the birds not worth consideration; unimportant. informal

This expression was originally US army slang. It may be an allusion to the way in which birds eat the droppings of horses and cattle.

birthday in your birthday suit naked. humorous biscuit have had the biscuit be no longer good for anything; be done for. Canadian informal 1994 Equinox I thought I'd had the biscuit. I was more than 12 kilometres from camp, I didn't have a coat... and it was about 40 below.

take the biscuit: see TAKE.

bit a bit much somewhat excessive or unreasonable.

a bit of all right a pleasing person or thing, especially a woman regarded sexually. British informal bit of fluff (or skirt or stuff) a woman regarded in sexual terms. British informal 1937 W. Somerset Maugham Theatre It was strangely flattering for a woman to be treated as a little bit of fluff that you just tumbled on to a bed.

bit of rough: see ROUGH.

flip someone the bird stick your middle finger up at someone as a sign of contempt or anger. US informal bite

bit on the side (1) a person with whom you are unfaithful to your partner. (2) a relationship involving being unfaithful to your partner. (3) money earned outside your normal job. informal bits and pieces (or bobs) an assortment of small or unspecified items.

do your bit make a useful contribution to an effort or cause. informal get the bit between your teeth begin to tackle a problem or task in a determined or independent way.

The metal bit in a horse's mouth should lie on the fleshy part of its gums; if a headstrong horse grasps the bit between its teeth it can evade the control of the reins and its rider.

The exhortation to do your bit was much used during World War 1, but the expression was current in the late 19th century.

to bits very much. informal 1998 Times A succession of elderly ladies explained how, as young women, they had fancied him to bits.

bite

bite someone's head off respond curtly or angrily.

a bite at the cherry: see CHERRY.

bite the big one die. North American informal 1996 Tom Clancy Executive Orders The Premier of Turkmenistan bit the big one, supposedly an automobile accident.

bite the bullet face up to doing something difficult or unpleasant; stoically avoid showing fear or distress.

This phrase dates from the days before anaesthetics, when wounded soldiers were given a bullet or similar solid object to clench between their teeth when undergoing surgery.

1998 Joyce Holms Bad Vibes Once he accepted it as inevitable he usually bit the bullet and did what was required of him with a good grace.

bite the dust (1) be killed. (2) fail. informal bite the hand that feeds you deliberately hurt or offend a benefactor; act ungratefully.

1994 Warren Farrell The Myth of Male Power When this is combined with the fact that women watch more TV in every time slot, shows can’t afford to bite the hand that feeds them.

bite off more than you can chew take on a commitment you cannot fulfil.

bite your tongue make a desperate effort to avoid saying something.

put the bite on blackmail; extort money from. North American & Australian informal 1955 Ray Lawler Summer of the Seventeenth Doll Your money's runnin' out you know you can't put the bite on me any more.

take a bite out of reduce by a significant amount. informal

bitter

the bitter bit (or bitten) a person who has done harm has been harmed in a similar way.

Biter was a late 17th-century term for a fraudster or trickster. In this sense it now survives only in this phrase.

2000 Locus The most common plot device in Lee’s stories is the classic ‘biter bitten’ resolution.

bitten

be bitten by the bug: see BUG.

I could have bitten my tongue off used to convey that you profoundly and immediately regret having said something.

once bitten, twice shy: see ONCE.

bitter

a bitter pill: see PILL.

to the bitter end persevering to the end, whatever the outcome.

black

beat someone black and blue hit someone so severely that they are covered in bruises.

be in someone's black books be in disfavour with someone.

Although a black book was generally an official book in which misdemeanours and their perpetrators were noted down, this phrase perhaps originated in the black-bound book in which evidence of monastic scandals and abuses was recorded by Henry VIII's commissioners in the 1530s, before the suppression of the monasteries.

beyond the black stump: see STUMP.

black box an automatic apparatus, the internal operations of which are mysterious to non-experts.

Black does not refer to the colour of the device but to the arcane nature of its functions. Originally Royal Air Force slang for... a navigational instrument in an aircraft, the phrase is now used in aviation specifically to refer to the flight recorder.

black mark against someone something that someone has done that is disliked or disapproved of by other people.

The literal meaning of the phrase is a black cross or spot marked against the name of a person who has done something wrong.

black sheep a person considered to have brought discredit upon a family or other group; a bad character.

The literal meaning of the phrase is a black cross or spot marked against the name of a person who has done something wrong.

black spot a place that is notorious for something, especially a high crime or accident rate.

in the black not owing any money; solvent.

in black and white in writing or in print, and regarded as more reliable than by word of mouth. in terms of clearly defined opposing principles or issues.

not as black as you are painted not as bad as you are said to be. informal

The proverb the devil is not as black as he is painted, first recorded in English in the mid 16th century, was used as a warning not to base your fears of something on exaggerated reports.

bleed someone dry (or white) drain someone of all their money or resources.

Since the late 17th century bleeding has been a metaphor for extorting money from someone. White refers to the physiological effect of losing blood.

A stone at Blarney Castle near Cork in Ireland is said to give the gift of persuasive speech to anyone who kisses it; from this comes the verb blarney, meaning ‘talk in a flattering way’.

black sheep

The literal meaning of the phrase is a black cross or spot marked against the name of a person who has done something wrong.

black spot

a place that is notorious for something, especially a high crime or accident rate.

in the black

not owing any money; solvent.

in black and white

in writing or in print, and regarded as more reliable than by word of mouth. in terms of clearly defined opposing principles or issues.

not as black as you are painted

not as bad as you are said to be. informal

The proverb the devil is not as black as he is painted, first recorded in English in the mid 16th century, was used as a warning not to base your fears of something on exaggerated reports.

bleed

bleed someone dry (or white) drain someone of all their money or resources.

Since the late 17th century bleeding has been a metaphor for extorting money from someone. White refers to the physiological effect of losing blood.

A stone at Blarney Castle near Cork in Ireland is said to give the gift of persuasive speech to anyone who kisses it; from this comes the verb blarney, meaning ‘talk in a flattering way’.

bleeds

my heart bleeds for you I sympathize very deeply with you.

This image was used by Chaucer and Shakespeare to express sincere anguish. Nowadays, the phrase most often indicates the speaker’s belief that the person referred to does not deserve the sympathy they are seeking.
bless
not have a penny to bless yourself with: see PENNY.

blessing
a blessing in disguise an apparent misfortune that eventually has good results.
count your blessings: see COUNT.
a mixed blessing: see MIXED.

blind
a blind alley a course of action that does not deliver any positive results.
  1997 New Scientist The next person looking for the same information has to go through the process all over again—even if 1000 people have already been up the same blind alleys.
as blind as a bat having very bad eyesight. informal 1 This expression probably arose from the bat’s nocturnal habits and its disorientated flutterings if disturbed by day. The poor eyesight of bats (and less frequently, moles) has been proverbial since the late 16th century.
a blind bit of — the smallest bit of—; no — at all. informal 1995 Patrick McCabe The Dead School Not that it made a blind bit of difference what they thought, considering the way their lives were about to go.
a blind date a social meeting, usually with the object of starting a romance, between two people who have not met each other before.
the blind leading the blind a situation in which the ignorant or inexperienced are instructed or guided by someone equally ignorant or inexperienced.
  1 This phrase alludes to the proverb when the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch, quoting Matthew 15:14.
a blind spot 1 an area into which you cannot see. 2 an aspect of something that someone knows or cares little about.
  1 These general senses appear to have developed from a mid 19th-century cricketing term for the spot of ground in front of a batsman where a ball pitched by the bowler leaves the batsman undecided whether to play forward to it or back.

blind someone with science use special or technical knowledge and vocabulary to confuse someone.
go it blind act recklessly.
rob someone blind: see ROB.
turn a blind eye pretend not to notice.
  1 This phrase is said to be a reference to Admiral Horatio Nelson (1758–1805), who lifted a telescope to his blind eye at the Battle of Copenhagen (1801), thereby ensuring that he failed to see his superior’s signal to discontinue the action. A less usual version, referring directly to this story, is turn a Nelson eye.

blinder
play a blinder: see PLAY.

blinding
effing and blinding: see EFFING.

blink
in the blink of an eye very quickly. informal 1995 Daily Mail It also has an unnerving way of flipping over from comedy to tragedy, or from tragedy to comedy, in the blink of an eye. on the blink (of a machine) not working properly; out of order. informal block

a chip off the old block: see CHIP.
a new kid on the block a newcomer to a particular place or sphere of activity. informal 1 This phrase was originally American: the block referred to is a block of buildings between streets.
  1998 Times Andrew Flintoff has displaced Ben Hollioake as the new kid on the block.

have been around the block a few times (of a person) have a lot of experience. North American informal on the block for sale at auction. chiefly North American put the blocks on prevent from proceeding.

  1 A block of wood or other material placed in front of a wheel prevents forward movement.

put your head (or neck) on the block put your position or reputation at risk by proceeding with a particular course of action. informal

This phrase alludes to the block of wood on which a condemned person was formerly beheaded.

blood

blood and guts violence and bloodshed, especially in fiction. informal blood and iron military force rather than diplomacy.

Blood and iron is a translation of German Blut und Eisen, a phrase particularly associated with a speech made by the German statesman Bismarck (1815–98) in the Prussian House of Deputies in 1886.

blood and thunder unrestrained and violent action or behaviour, especially in sport or fiction. informal

Blood and thunder is often used to describe sensational literature, and in the late 19th century gave rise to penny bloods as a term for cheap sensational novels.

blood is thicker than water family loyalties are stronger than other relationships.

blood on the carpet used to refer in an exaggerated way to a serious disagreement or its aftermath.

1984 Times The last thing I want now is blood on the boardroom carpet.

blood, sweat, and tears extremely hard work; unstinting effort.

In May 1940 Winston Churchill made a speech in the House of Commons in which he declared: ‘I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears, and sweat.’

blood will tell family characteristics cannot be concealed. proverb first blood the first point or advantage gained in a contest.

First blood is literally ‘the first shedding of blood’, especially in a boxing match or formerly in duelling with swords.

have blood on your hands be responsible for the death of someone.

in cold blood: see COLD.

in your blood ingrained in or fundamental to your character.

like getting blood out of a stone extremely difficult and frustrating.

make your blood boil infuriate you.

make your blood curdle fill you with horror.

make your blood run cold horrify you.

The previous three phrases all come from the medieval physiological scheme of the four humours in the human body (melancholy, phlegm, blood, and choler). Under this scheme blood was the hot, moist element, so the effect of horror or fear in making the blood run cold or curdling (solidifying) it was to make it unable to fulfil its proper function of supplying the body with vital heat or energy. The blood boiling was a supposedly dangerous overreaction to strong emotion.

new (or young) blood new (or younger) members of a group, especially those admitted as an invigorating force.

someone’s blood is up someone is in a fighting mood.

sweat blood: see SWEAT.

taste blood achieve an early success that stimulates further efforts.

there is bad blood between — there is longstanding hostility between the parties mentioned.

2001 Hugh Collins No Smoke There are occasional square-gos sometimes, but there’s no bad blood between rival gangs.

bloody

bloody (or bloodied) but unbowed proud of what you have achieved despite having suffered great difficulties or losses.

bloom

the bloom is off the rose something is no longer new, fresh, or exciting. North American blot

blot your copybook tarnish your good reputation. British

A copybook was an exercise book with examples of handwriting for children to copy as they practised their own writing.

a blot on the escutcheon something that tarnishes your reputation.

An escutcheon was a family’s heraldic shield, and so also a record and symbol of its honour.
a blot on the landscape something ugly that spoils the appearance of a place; an eyesore.

1962 Listener Charabancs and monstrous hordes of hikers are blots upon the landscape.

blouse

big girl’s blouse a weak, cowardly, or oversensitive man. British informal blow

blow someone away ① kill, destroy, or defeat someone. ② have a very strong effect on someone. informal ① 1998 Times It blows me away the way she [a 13-year-old] is already moving through her life.

blow away the cobwebs: see COBWEB.

blow your cool lose your composure; become angry or agitated. informal blow the doors off be considerably better or more successful than. North American informal blow a fuse (or gasket) lose your temper. informal ① The metaphor is of the failure of an electrical circuit or engine as a result of overheating.

blow the gaff: see GAFF.

blow great guns: see GUN.

blow hot and cold alternate inconsistently between two moods, attitudes, or courses of action; be sometimes enthusiastic, sometimes unenthusiastic about something.

① This phrase refers to a fable involving a traveller who was offered hospitality by a satyr and offended his host by blowing on his cold fingers to warm them and on his hot soup to cool it.

blow the lid off: see LID.

blow someone’s mind affect someone very strongly. informal ① Blow someone’s mind was originally a mid 20th-century expression for the effect of hallucinatory drugs such as LSD.

blow off steam: see STEAM.

blow your own horn: see HORN.

blow your own trumpet: see TRUMPET.

blow a raspberry: see RASPBERRY.

blow someone’s socks off: see SOCK.

blow something sky-high destroy something completely in an explosion. informal blow your top lose your temper. informal

Two, chiefly North American, variants are blow your lid and blow your stack.

blow up in your face (of an action, plan, or situation) go drastically wrong with damaging effects to yourself.

blow the whistle on: see WHISTLE.

blow with the wind act according to prevailing circumstances rather than a consistent plan.

soften (or cushion) the blow make it easier to cope with a difficult change or upsetting news.

which way the wind blows how a situation is likely to develop.

blow-by-blow

a blow-by-blow account a detailed narrative of events as they happened.

blown

be blown away be extremely impressed. informal be blown off course have your plans disrupted by some circumstance.

① This phrase is a nautical metaphor: contrary winds turn a sailing ship away from its intended course.

be blown out of the water (of a person, idea, or project) be shown to lack credibility or viability.

1997 Daily Mail Things finally seem to be looking up for Kelly—which is more than can be said for Biff, whose romantic plans are blown out of the water by Linda.

blue

between the devil and the deep blue sea see DEVIL.

a bolt from the blue: see BOLT.

do something until you are blue in the face persist in trying your hardest at an activity but without success. informal once in a blue moon very rarely; practically never. informal ① The colour blue was an arbitrary choice in this phrase. To say that the moon is blue is recorded in the 16th century as a way of indicating that something could not be true.

out of the blue without warning; very unexpectedly. informal

This phrase refers to a blue (i.e. clear) sky, from which nothing unusual is expected.

scream blue murder: see MURDER.

talk a blue streak speak continuously and at great length. North American informal

A blue streak refers to something like a flash of lightning in its speed and vividness.

true blue genuine.

The sense of someone being true blue may derive from the idea of someone being genuinely aristocratic, or having 'blue blood'. In recent times, the term true blue has become particularly associated with loyal supporters of the British Conservative party.

the wide (or wild) blue yonder the sky or sea; the far or unknown distance.

The phrase comes from 'Army Air Corps' (1939), a song by Robert Crawford: 'Off we go into the wild blue yonder, Climbing high into the sun'.

true-eyed a blue-eyed boy the favourite of someone in authority.

The significance of blue eyes may be their association with the innocence and charm of a very young child. The term is first recorded in a novel by P. G. Wodehouse in 1924.

1998 Spectator Of the three, the arrest of Osborne, one of the blue-eyed boys of British racing, was the most striking.

blue-sky blue-sky research research that is not directed towards any immediate or definite commercial goal.

1997 New Scientist Bell Labs and IBM are well known for blue-sky research. They have people who are paid just to sit around and think—not about products.

bluff call someone's bluff challenge someone to carry out a stated intention, in the expectation of being able to expose it as a false pretence.

In the game of poker (which was formerly also known by the name of bluff), calling someone's bluff meant making an opponent show their hand in order to reveal that its value was weaker than their heavy betting suggested.

blush spare (or save) someone's blushes refrain from causing someone embarrassment.

board above board honest; not secret.

Above board was originally a gambling term, indicating fair play by players who kept their hands above the board (i.e. the table).

across the board: see ACROSS.

go by the board (of something planned or previously upheld) be abandoned, rejected, or ignored.

In former times, go by the board was a nautical term meaning 'fall overboard' and was used of a mast falling past the board (i.e. the side of the ship).

on board as a member of a team or group. informal

On board literally means on or in a ship, aircraft, or other vehicle, or (of a jockey) riding a horse.

take something on board fully consider or assimilate a new idea or situation. informal tread (or walk) the boards appear on stage as an actor. informal boat be in the same boat be in the same unfortunate or difficult circumstances as others. informal burn your boats: see BURN.

off the boat recently arrived from a foreign country, and by implication naive or an outsider. informal, often offensive push the boat out be lavish in your spending or celebrations. British informal

Push the boat out apparently originated as mid 20th-century naval slang meaning 'pay for a round of drinks'.

rock the boat say or do something to disturb an existing situation and upset other people. informal 1999 Times The six candidates are so determined not to rock the boat that they are in danger of saying nothing of interest.

bob

bob and weave make rapid bodily movements up and down and from side to side.

Bob’s your uncle everything is fine; problem solved. British informal

Bob is a familiar form of the name Robert. The origin of the phrase is often said to be in the controversial appointment in 1887 of the young Arthur Balfour to the important post of Chief Secretary for Ireland by his uncle Lord Salisbury, whose first name was Robert. The problem with this explanation is that the phrase is not recorded until the 1930s.

1996 Colin Bateman Of Wee Sweetie Mice and Men I couldn’t believe how easy it was to get. Just walked into a shop, signed a piece of paper, and Bob’s your uncle.

bodkin

ride bodkin travel squeezed between two other people. dated body

body and soul involving every aspect of a person; completely.

keep body and soul together manage to stay alive, especially in difficult circumstances.

know where the bodies are buried have the security deriving from personal knowledge of an organization’s confidential affairs and secrets. informal over my dead body: see DEAD.

boil

go off the boil pass the stage at which interest, excitement, activity, etc. is at its greatest.

it all boils down to it amounts to or is in essence.

Boiling down a liquid means reducing its volume and concentrating it by evaporation.

1998 Times And why are deals getting more complex? Unsurprisingly it all boils down to profit.

make your blood boil: see BLOOD.

boiling

keep the pot boiling maintain the momentum or interest value of something.

bold

as bold as brass confident to the point of impudence.

Brass is used in this phrase as a metaphorical representation of a lack of shame, as it was in the old expression a brass face, meaning ‘an impudent person’.

bolt

a bolt from the blue a sudden and unexpected event or piece of news.

The phrase refers to the unlikelihood of a thunderbolt coming out of a clear blue sky.

have shot your bolt have done all that is in your power. informal

In this idiom, the bolt referred to is a thick, heavy arrow for a crossbow.

1998 Spectator The Britpop boom has ended, the Spice Girls have shot their bolt.

make a bolt for try to escape by moving suddenly towards something.

A bolt here is a sudden spring or start into rapid motion, typically that made by a horse breaking into an uncontrollable gallop.

bomb

go down a bomb be very well received. British informal

This phrase is especially used of entertainment and in this context is the opposite of go down like a lead balloon (see LEAD).

go like a bomb be very successful. (of a vehicle or person) move very fast. British informal give someone Bondi attack someone savagely. Australian informal

Bondi

A bondi (also spelled boondie, bundi, or bundy) is a heavy Aboriginal club.

bone

a bag of bones: see BAG.

the bare bones: see BARE.

a bone of contention a subject or issue over which there is continuing disagreement.

The idea is of a bone thrown into the midst of a number of dogs and causing a fight between them.
a bone in your leg (or head) a (feigned) reason for idleness. informal close to (or near) the bone 1 (of a remark) penetrating and accurate to the point of causing hurt or discomfort. 2 (of a joke or story) likely to cause offence because near the limit of decency.

cut (or pare) something to the bone reduce something to the bare minimum.

have a bone to pick with someone have reason to disagree or be annoyed with someone. informal in your bones felt, understood, or believed very deeply or instinctively.

make no bones about something have no hesitation in stating or dealing with something, however unpleasant, awkward, or distasteful it is.

not a — bone in your body not the slightest trace of the specified quality.

in your bones felt, understood, or believed very deeply or instinctively.

make no bones about something have no hesitation in stating or dealing with something, however unpleasant, awkward, or distasteful it is.

point the bone at betray someone; cause someone’s downfall. Australian put the boot at betray someone; cause someone’s downfall. Australian point the bone at betray someone; cause someone’s downfall. Australian work your fingers to the bone work very hard.

boo wouldn’t say boo to a goose (of a person) very shy or reticent.

booy up the booy completely wrong or astray. Australian & New Zealand be in someone’s black books: see BLACK.

bring someone to book bring someone to justice; punish someone.

by the book strictly according to the rules.

close the books make no further entries at the end of an accounting period; cease trading.

a closed book: see CLOSED.

cook the books: see COOK.

in someone’s bad (or good) books in disfavour (or favour) with someone.

make (or open) a book take bets and pay out winnings on the outcome of a race or other contest or event.

on the books contained in a list of members, employees, or clients.

read someone like a book: see READ.

suit someone’s book be convenient or acceptable to someone. British take a leaf out of someone’s book: see LEAF.

throw the book at charge or punish someone as severely as possible or permitted. informal boot

boots and all completely. Australian & New Zealand informal the boot is on the other foot the situation has reversed.

A North American variant is the shoe is on the other foot.

die with your boots on: see DIE.

get the boot be dismissed from your job or position. informal Get the boot comes from the idea of being literally kicked out, as does give someone the boot. A facetious expansion of this idiom is get the Order of the Boot.

The literal sense is ‘kick someone hard when they are already on the ground’.

This phrase comes from the fairy story of Hop o’ my Thumb, in which magic boots enable the wearer to travel seven leagues at each stride.

Boot here has nothing to do with footwear but comes from an Old English word meaning ‘good, profit, or advantage’. It survives for the most part only in this phrase and in bootless meaning ‘unavailing or profitless’.

1998 New Scientist It’s an ideal first-year programming book, covering both Java and programming concepts clearly, with humour to boot.

to boot as well; in addition. informal

Be born with a silver spoon in your mouth: see SILVER.

be born with a silver spoon in your mouth: see SILVER.

born and bred by birth and upbringing.

born in the purple: see PURPLE.

born in the purple: see PURPLE.

not know you are born be unaware how easy your life is. informal there’s one (or a sucker) born every minute there are many stupid or gullible people about (used as a comment on a particular situation in which someone has been or is about to be deceived).

informal

to the manner born: see MANNER.

I wasn’t born yesterday used to indicate that you are not foolish or gullible.

borrow trouble take needless action that may have bad effects. North American borrowed living on borrowed time continuing to survive against expectations (used with the implication that this will not be for much longer).

borrowed plumes a pretentious display not rightly your own.

This phrase refers to the fable of the jay which dressed itself in the peacock’s feathers.

show someone who’s boss make it clear that it is yourself who is in charge.
both cut both ways: see cut.

have it both ways benefit from two incompatible ways of thinking or behaving.
1998 New Scientist It is only now dawning on the legislators that they cannot have it both ways—that cleanliness and ecological friendliness are incompatible.

bothered
hot and bothered in a state of anxiety or physical discomfort, especially as a result of being pressured.

bottle
have (or show) a lot of bottle have (or show) boldness or initiative. British informal hit (or be on) the bottle start to drink alcohol heavily, especially in an attempt to escape from one’s problems. informal bottom

be bumping along the bottom (of an economy or industry) be at the lowest point in its performance without improving or deteriorating further.

bottom drawer: see drawer.

the bottom falls (or drops) out of something something fails or collapses totally.

the bottom line: see line.

from the bottom of your heart: see heart.

scrape the bottom of the barrel: see scrape.

touch bottom: see touch.

you can bet your bottom dollar: see you can bet your boots at bet.

bought
have bought it be killed. informal bounce

bounce an idea off someone share an idea with another person in order to get feedback on it and refine it. informal bounce off the walls be full of nervous excitement or agitation. North American informal a dead cat bounce: see dead.

on the bounce 1as something rebounds.
2 in quick succession. informal

2001 Greyhound Star He has now won twelve races on the bounce, including three big competitions.

bound
duty-bound: see duty.

honour-bound: see honour.

bounden
a bounden duty a responsibility regarded by yourself or others as obligatory.

bounden as the past participle of bind is now archaic in all contexts and is seldom found except in this phrase.

bow
bow and scrape behave in an obsequious way to someone in authority.

bow down in the house of Rimmon pay lip service to a principle; sacrifice your principles for the sake of conformity.

bow down myself in the house of Rimmon, the Lord pardon thy servant in this thing’. खचतानियो तद्भावम् यद्इ भवावम् तद्भावम् have a second string to your bow: see string.

make your bow make your first formal appearance in a particular role.

take a bow (of an actor or entertainer) acknowledge applause after a performance. 2 used to tell someone that they should feel themselves worthy of applause.

a warning shot across the bows a statement or gesture intended to frighten someone into changing their course of action.

bowl
a bowl of cherries: see cherry.

box
black box: see black.

box clever act so as to outwit someone. British informal 1950 Alexander Baron There’s No Home If you box clever and keep your mouth shut... you ought to be able to count on a suspended sentence.

box seat

Be a box of birds be fine or happy. Australian & New Zealand

A box of tricks an ingenious gadget. Informal

In the wrong box placed unsuitably or awkwardly; in difficulty or at a disadvantage.

This phrase perhaps arose with reference to an apothecary's boxes, from which a mistaken choice might have provided poison instead of medicine.

Out of the box unusually good. Australian & New Zealand Informal

Out of your box intoxicated with alcohol or drugs. British Informal Pandora's box: see Pandora.

Think outside the box have ideas that are original, creative, or innovative. Informal

box seat

In the box seat in an advantageous position. Australian & New Zealand

Boy

Boys in blue policemen; the police. Informal

Boys will be boys childish, irresponsible, or mischievous behaviour is typical of boys or young men. Proverb

Jobs for the boys: see Job.

The old boy network: see Network.

One of the boys accepted by a group of men.

Sort out the men from the boys: see Man.

Brain

Have something on the brain be obsessed with something. Informal

Pick someone's brains: see Pick.

Rack your brains: see Rack.

Brass

Brass monkey used in various phrases to refer to extremely cold weather.

Brass monkey comes from the mid 20th-century vulgar slang expression 'cold enough to freeze the balls off a brass monkey', the origin of which has been debated. One suggestion relates it to brass trays known as monkeys on which cannon balls were once stowed aboard warships.

1994 Camping Magazine David will be doing his best to show you how to keep warm under canvas even if the temperature outside has dipped to brass monkey level.

The brass ring success, especially as a reward for ambition or hard work. North American Informal

This phrase refers to the reward of a free ride on a merry-go-round given to the person who succeeds in hooking a brass ring suspended over the horses.

Brass neck cheek or effrontery. Informal

Get down to brass tacks start to consider the essential facts or practical details; reach the real matter in hand. Informal 1932 T. S. Eliot Sweeney Agonistes That's all the facts when you come to brass tacks: Birth, and copulation, and death.

Not a brass farthing no money or assets at all. Informal

Part brass rags with: see Rag.

Brave

Brave new world a new and hopeful period in history resulting from major changes in society.

This phrase comes ultimately from Shakespeare's The Tempest, but is more often used with allusion to Aldous Huxley's ironical use of the phrase as the title of his 1932 novel Brave New World.

Put a brave face on something: see Face.

Breach

Step into the breach take the place of someone who is suddenly unable to do a job or task.

In military terms a breach is a gap in fortifications made by enemy guns or explosives. In this context, to stand in the breach is to bear the brunt of an attack when other defences or expedients have failed.

Bread

The best (or greatest) thing since sliced bread a notable new idea, person, or thing (used to express real or ironic appreciation). Informal

This phrase alludes to the mid 20th-century advertising promotions for packed, pre-sliced loaves.

Bread and circuses material benefits and entertainment employed by rulers or political parties to keep the masses happy and docile.
break bread with share a meal with someone. dated

cast your bread upon the waters do good without expecting gratitude or immediate reward.

---

break

break the back of accomplish the main or hardest part of a task. overwhelm or defeat.

break the bank see BANK.

---

break a butterfly on a wheel use unnecessary force in destroying something fragile or insignificant.

---

Bread and circuses is a translation of the Latin phrase panem et circenses, which appeared in Juvenal’s Satires, and which alludes to the Roman emperors’ organization of grain handouts and gladiatorial games for the populace.

---

break bread with share a meal with someone. dated

cast your bread upon the waters do good without expecting gratitude or immediate reward.

---

break a leg! good luck! theatrical slang break cover see COVER.

break the ice see ICE.

break the mould see MOULD.

break new (or fresh) ground do pioneering work.

break rank see RANK.

break ship fail to rejoin your ship after absence on leave.

give me a break! used to express contemptuous disagreement or disbelief about something that has been said.

give someone a break stop putting pressure on someone about something. informal make a clean break remove yourself completely and finally from a situation or relationship.

that’s (or them’s) the breaks that’s the way things turn out (used to express resigned acceptance of a situation). North American informal

---

bread-and-butter

a bread-and-butter letter a guest’s written thanks for hospitality.

---

bread

bread and circuses is a translation of the Latin phrase panem et circenses, which appeared in Juvenal’s Satires, and which alludes to the Roman emperors’ organization of grain handouts and gladiatorial games for the populace.

---

break bread with share a meal with someone. dated

cast your bread upon the waters do good without expecting gratitude or immediate reward.

---

eat the bread of idleness eat food that you have not worked for. literary

---

have your bread buttered on both sides be in a state of easy prosperity.

know on which side your bread is buttered know where your advantage lies.

man cannot live by bread alone people have spiritual as well as physical needs.

---

someone’s bread and butter someone’s livelihood: routine work to provide an income.

---

take the bread out of people’s mouths deprive people of their livings, especially by competition or unfair working practices.

want your bread buttered on both sides want more than is practicable or than is reasonable to expect. informal

---

break a butterfly on a wheel use unnecessary force in destroying something fragile or insignificant.

---

In former times, breaking someone upon the wheel was a form of punishment or torture which involved fastening criminals to a wheel so that their bones would be broken or dislocated.

---

break bread with share a meal with someone. dated

cast your bread upon the waters do good without expecting gratitude or immediate reward.
breathe

the breath of life a thing that someone needs or depends on.

1 Breath of life is a biblical phrase: ‘And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life’ (Genesis 2:7).

don’t hold your breath used to indicate that something is very unlikely to happen.
save your breath not bother to say something because it is pointless.
take someone’s breath away inspire someone with awed respect or delight; astonish someone.

1988 Janet Frame The Carpathians The speed of the process took everyone’s breath away.
waste your breath talk or give advice without effect.

breathe

breathe down someone’s neck 1 constantly check up on someone. 2 follow closely behind someone.
breathe your last die.

breed

a breed apart a kind of person or thing that is very different from the norm.
a dying breed: see DYING.

brick

a brick short of a load (of a person) stupid.
informal

1 This is one of a number of humorous variations on the theme of someone not possessing their proper share of brains or intelligence; compare, for example, with a sandwich short of a picnic (at SANDWICH).

come down like a ton of bricks exert crushing weight, force, or authority against someone. informal come up against (or hit) a brick wall encounter an insuperable problem or obstacle while trying to do something.

make bricks without straw try to accomplish something without proper or adequate material, equipment, or information.

1 The allusion here is to Exodus 5:6-19 where ‘without straw’ meant ‘without having straw provided’, as the Israelites were required to gather straw for themselves in order to make the bricks required by their Egyptian taskmasters. A misinterpretation has led to the current sense.

bridge

burn your bridges: see burn your boats at BURN.
cross that bridge when you come to it deal with a problem when and if it arises.

1998 Spectator As to what would happen to the case for non-proliferation when the Cold War was won, the allies would cross that bridge when they came to it, which seemed at the time well beyond any foreseeable future.

brief

hold no brief for not support or argue in favour of.

1 The brief referred to is the summary of the facts and legal points in a case given to a barrister to argue in court.

bright

bright and early very early in the morning.
as bright as a button intelligently alert and lively. informal

1 There is a play here on bright in its Old English sense of ‘shiny’ (like a polished metal button) and bright in its transferred sense of ‘quick-witted’, found since the mid 18th century.

the bright lights the glamour and excitement of a big city.
bright spark a clever person (often used ironically to or of a person who has done something you consider stupid). British informal bright young thing a wealthy, pleasure-loving, and fashionable young person.

© The term was originally applied in the 1920s to a member of a young fashionable group of people noted for their exuberant and outrageous behaviour.

look on the bright side be optimistic or cheerful in spite of difficulties.

bright-eyed bright-eyed and bushy-tailed alert and lively; eager. informal bring

bring home the bacon: see BACON.

bring the house down make an audience respond with great enthusiasm, especially as shown by their laughter or applause.

bring something home to someone: see HOME.
bring something into play cause something to begin to have an effect.

bring someone to book: see BOOK.

British

the British disease a problem or failing supposed to be characteristically British, especially (formerly) a proneness to industrial unrest. informal broad

broad in the beam fat round the hips, informal in broad daylight used generally to express surprise or outrage at someone’s daring to carry out a particular act, especially a crime, during the day, when anyone could see it.

it’s as broad as it’s long there’s no significant difference between two possible alternatives. informal broke

go for broke risk everything in an all-out effort. informal broken

a broken reed: see REED.

broo

on the broo claiming unemployment benefit. Scottish informal broth

a broth of a boy a lively boy. Irish too many cooks spoil the broth: see COOK.

brother

Big brother the state perceived as a sinister force supervising citizens’ lives.

buck

the buck stops here (or with someone) the responsibility for something cannot or should not be passed to someone else. informal

brown

as brown as a berry (of a person) very suntanned.
in a brown study in a reverie; absorbed in your thoughts.

brownie

brownie point an imaginary award given to someone who does good deeds or tries to please. informal brunt

bear the brunt of be the person to suffer the most (as the result of an attack, misfortune, etc.).

bubble

burst someone’s bubble: see BURST. on the bubble (of a sports player or team) occupying the last qualifying position in a team or for a tournament, and liable to be replaced by another. North American informal

buck

the buck stops here (or with someone) the responsibility for something cannot or should not be passed to someone else. informal Famously, the buck stops here was the wording of a sign on the desk of US President Harry S. Truman. Compare with pass the buck below.

buck up your ideas make more effort; become more energetic and hardworking. informal

Buck here refers to the lively action of a horse jumping with all its feet together and its back arched. Buck up in its modern senses of ‘cheer up’ and ‘hurry up’ is first found in late 19th-century school slang.

make a fast buck earn money easily and quickly. informal pass the buck shift the responsibility for something to someone else. informal

A buck is an object placed as a reminder in front of the person whose turn it is to deal in the game of poker.

1998 New York Review of Books The legislation left the main decisions to the individual states which may well pass the buck to the large cities where most of the problem is.

bucket

a drop in a bucket: see DROP.

kick the bucket: see KICK.

Buckley

Buckley’s chance a forlorn hope; no chance at all. Australian & New Zealand informal

The phrase is often shortened simply to Buckley’s. Who or what Buckley was remains uncertain: the name is sometimes said to refer to William Buckley, a convict transported to Australia in 1802 who escaped and lived with the Aborigines for many years, despite dire predictions as to his chances of survival.

1948 Vance Palmer Golconda Buckley’s chance we have of getting our price if we’re left to face the companies alone.

buff

in the buff naked. informal

The original meaning of buff in English was ‘buffalo’, and it later came to mean ‘ox hide’ or ‘the colour of ox hide’. In the buff itself comes from buff leather, a type of yellowish-beige ox hide formerly used in military uniform, the colour of which was regarded as comparable to that of human skin.

bug

have (or be bitten by) the bug develop a sudden strong enthusiasm for something.

bugger vulgar slang

bugger all nothing.

bugger me used to express surprise or amazement.

play silly buggers act in a foolish way.

Buggins

Buggins’ turn: see TURN.

built

built on sand without secure foundations; liable to collapse.

This phrase comes from the biblical parable contrasting the wise man who built his house on rock with the fool who built his house on sand (Matthew 7:24–7).

bulge

have (or get) the bulge on have or get an advantage over. British informal bulging

bulging at the seams: see SEAM.

bull

like a bull at a gate hastily and without thought.

like a bull in a china shop behaving recklessly and clumsily in a place or situation where you are likely to cause damage or injury.

a red rag to a bull: see RED.

take (or grab) the bull by the horns deal bravely and decisively with a difficult, dangerous, or unpleasant situation.

2000 Andrew Calcutt Brit Cult The government has failed to take the bull by the horns, thereby granting ‘hunt sabs’ a new lease of life.

bullet

bite the bullet: see BITE.

sweat bullets: see SWEAT.

bully

bully for —! well done! good for (you, them, etc.)!

This expression takes its origin from the US colloquial sense of bully meaning ‘first-rate’, recorded since the mid 19th century.
burn
bums on seats the audience at a theatre, cinema, or other entertainment, viewed as a source of income. informal give someone (or get) the bum's rush ① forcibly eject someone (or be forcibly ejected) from a place or gathering.
② abruptly dismiss someone (or be abruptly dismissed) for a poor idea or performance. chiefly North American 1998 Spectator When ... James Cameron wrote an uproariously funny piece about the hotel's iniquities ... he was promptly given the bum's rush. on the bum travelling rough and with no fixed home; vagrant. North American bum go bung (1) die. (2) fail or go bankrupt. Australian & New Zealand informal
• In this sense bung comes from Yagara, an extinct Aboriginal language.
1951 J. Devanny Travel in North Queensland 'The stations would go bung without the Abos', one of the missionaries told me.
bump
things that go bump in the night: see THING.
bumber
bumper-to-bumber (1) very close together, as cars in a traffic jam. (2) (chiefly of an insurance policy) comprehensive; all-inclusive.
bun
have a bun in the oven be pregnant. informal take the bun: see TAKE.
bunch bunch of fives (1) a fist. (2) a punch. British informal bundle
a bundle of nerves: see a bag of nerves at BAG.
a bundle of fun (or laughs) something extremely amusing or pleasant. informal drop your bundle panic or lose one's self-control. Australian & New Zealand informal • This expression comes from an obsolete sense of bundle meaning 'swag' or 'a traveller's or miner's bundle of personal belongings'. go a bundle on be very keen on or fond of. British informal
• In this idiom, bundle is being used in the late 19th-century US slang sense of a bundle of money, i.e. a large sum. To go a bundle on was originally early 20th-century slang for betting a large sum of money on a horse.
1968 Adam Diment Bang Bang Birds I don't go a bundle on being told I'm a pro.
burner
don the back (or front) burner having low (or high) priority, informal

1 The metaphor here is from cooking on a stove with several burners of varying heat: food cooking at a lower temperature on a back burner receives or requires less frequent attention than that cooking at a high temperature on a front burner. Compare with the mainly North American expression cook on the front burner meaning 'be on the way to rapid success'.

burnt
burnt to a cinder (or crisp) completely burnt through, leaving only the charred remnant.

burr
a burr under (or in) your saddle a persistent source of irritation. North American informal burst

burst someone's bubble shatter someone's illusions about something or destroy their sense of well-being.

bursting
bursting at the seams: see SEAMS.

Burton
go for a Burton meet with disaster; be ruined, destroyed, or killed. British informal

1 This phrase first appeared in mid 20th-century air force slang, meaning 'be killed in a crash'. It has been suggested that it refers to Burton's, the British men's outfitters, or to Burton, a kind of ale, but these are folk etymologies with no definite evidence to support them, and the origin of the phrase remains uncertain.

bury
bury the hatchet end a quarrel or conflict and become friendly.

1 This expression makes reference to an Native American custom of burying a hatchet or tomahawk to mark the conclusion of a peace treaty.

bury your head in the sand ignore unpleasant realities; refuse to face facts.

1 This expression alludes to the belief that ostriches bury their heads in the sand when pursued, thinking that as they cannot see their pursuers the pursuers cannot see them.

bush
beat about the bush: see BEAT.
beat the bushes: see BEAT.
bush telegraph: see TELEGRAPH.
go bush leave your usual surroundings; run wild.

1 Bush in the sense of 'wild, wooded, or uncleared country' became current among English speakers during 19th-century British colonial expansion. In South Africa it may have been adopted directly from Dutch bosch.

bushel
hide your light under a bushel: see HIDE.

business
the business end the part of a tool, weapon, etc. that carries out the object's particular function. informal 1936 Richmal Crompton Sweet William The business end of a geometrical compass was jabbed into Douglas's arm.

do the business 1 do what is required or expected; achieve the desired result. British informal 2 have sexual intercourse. vulgar slang like nobody's business in no ordinary way; to an extremely intense degree, informal 1991 Elspeth Barker O Caledonia They spread like nobody's business. They're a really pernicious weed.

busman
a busman's holiday a holiday or form of recreation that involves doing the same thing that you do at work.

1 From the late 19th century, a popular form of working-class recreation was to take an excursion by bus.

busted
a busted flush someone or something that has not fulfilled expectations; a failure. US informal

1 In the game of poker, a busted flush is a sequence of cards of one suit that you fail to complete.

busy
as busy as a bee very busy or industrious.

butcher
the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker people of all kinds.
This phrase comes from the traditional nursery rhyme Rub-dub-dub, Three men in a tub.

button

button your lip remain silent. informal on the button ① punctually. ② exactly right. informal, chiefly US press the button initiate an action or train of events. informal

> During the cold war period, this expression was often used with reference to the possible action of the US or Soviet presidents in starting a nuclear war.

push (or press) someone’s buttons be successful in arousing or provoking a reaction in someone. informal

buy

buy the farm die. North American informal

> This expression originated as US military slang, probably with the meaning that the pilot (or owner) of a crashed plane owes money to the farmer whose property or land is damaged in the crash.

buy time adopt tactics which delay an event temporarily so as to have longer to improve your own position.

by

by and large on the whole; everything considered.

> Originally this phrase was used in a nautical context, describing the handling of a ship both to the wind and off it.

by the by (or bye) incidentally; parenthetically.

bygones

let bygones be bygones forgive and forget past offences or causes of conflict.
Ce
the big C cancer. informal caboodle

the whole caboodle (or the whole kit and caboodle) the whole lot. informal

Caboodle may come from the Dutch word boedel meaning ‘possessions’.

Cackle

cut the cackle stop talking aimlessly and come to the point. informal cadenzanahave a cadenza be extremely agitated. South African informal Cadenza is an Italian term for a virtuoso solo passage near the end of a piece of music. This informal sense probably comes from Danny Kaye’s humorous 1940s recording ‘The Little Fiddle’.

1991 D. Capel Personality The Conservative party is having a cadenza about ‘subliminal messages’ on the SABC’s news logo.

Caesar

appeal to Caesar: see APPEAL.

Caesar’s wife a person who is required to be above suspicion.

This expression comes ultimately from Plutarch’s account of Julius Caesar’s decision to divorce his wife Pompeia. The libertine Publius Clodius, who was in love with Pompeia, smuggled himself into the house in which the women of Caesar’s household were celebrating a festival, thereby causing a scandal. Caesar refused to bring charges against Clodius, but divorced Pompeia; when questioned he replied ‘I thought my wife ought not even to be under suspicion’.

Cake

cakes and ale merrymaking.

dost thou think because thou art virtuous there shall be no more cakes and ale?

You can’t have your cake and eat it you can’t enjoy both of two desirable but mutually exclusive alternatives. proverb the icing on the cake: see ICING.

a piece of cake something easily achieved. informal sell (or go) like hot cakes be sold quickly and in large quantities.

a slice of the cake: see SLICE.

take the cake: see TAKE.

In most of these idioms cake is used as a metaphor for something pleasant or desirable.

calf

a golden calf: see GOLDEN.

kill the fatted calf: see FATTED.

call

call someone’s bluff: see BLUFF.

call it a day: see DAY.

call someone names: see NAME.
call of nature: see NATURE.
call the shots (or tune) take the initiative in deciding how something should be done; be in control. informal

Call the shots was originally an American phrase, first recorded in the 1960s. Call the tune comes from the saying he who pays the piper calls the tune, which dates from the late 19th century.

1996 Sunday Telegraph Britain is no longer run from Downing Street. It’s Brussels that calls the shots.
don’t call us, we’ll call you used as a dismissive way of saying that someone has not been successful in an audition or job application. informal good call (or bad call) used to express approval (or criticism) of a person’s decision or suggestion. informal Originally good call or bad call referred to decisions made by referees or umpires in a sports match.

call a spade a spade: see SPADE. too close to call: see CLOSE.
can carry the can: see CARRY.
in the can completed and available for use.

In recording or film-making, something that is in the can has been captured on tape or film.

open up a can of worms discover or bring to light a complicated matter likely to prove awkward or embarrassing. informal 1998 New Scientist UN officials readily accept that they have opened a can of worms, and their guidelines will only have an effect, they say, if governments act on them.

candle

burn the candle at both ends: see BURN.
cannot hold a candle to be nowhere near as good as. informal

In the 16th century, an assistant would literally hold a candle to his superior by standing beside him with a candle to provide enough light for him to work by. The modern version suggests that the subordinate is so far inferior that he is unfit to perform even this humble task.

not worth the candle not justifiable because of the trouble or cost involved.
cannon

a loose cannon: see LOOSE.
canoe

paddle your own canoe: see PADDLE.
canter

at a canter without much effort; easily. British

At a canter is a horse-racing metaphor: a horse has to make so little effort that it can win at the easy pace of a canter rather than having to gallop.
canvas

by a canvas by a small margin.
cap

cap in hand humbly asking for a favour.

To have your cap in your hand, and therefore to have your head uncovered, is a mark of respect and also of subordination. The idea of a cap as a begging bowl into which coins can be dropped may also be present. A North American version of this expression is hat in hand.

if the cap fits, wear it used as a way of suggesting that someone should accept a generalized remark or criticism as applying to themselves.

Early examples of this saying show that the cap in question was originally a fool’s cap. The variant if the shoe fits, wear it is also found, mainly in North America.

set your cap at try to attract as a suitor. dated capital

with a capital — used to give emphasis to the word or concept in question.
1991 Nesta Wyn Ellis John Major He is not a personality with a capital P, not flamboyant, not it seems an angry man.

card

get your cards be dismissed from your employment. British informal

1 Cards are the national insurance card and other documents relating to an employee that are retained by the employer during the period that the employee works for them. Give someone their cards means ‘make someone redundant’.

have a card up your sleeve have a plan or asset that is kept secret until it is needed. British hold all the cards be in the strongest or most advantageous position.

keep your cards close to your chest (or vest) be extremely secretive and cautious about something. informal

1 The previous two idioms both refer to a hand of cards in a card game. If you hold all the cards you have a winning hand, while card players who hold their cards close to their bodies ensure that no opponent can look at them.

mark someone’s card: see MARK.

on the cards possible or likely.

1 This phrase, a North American variant of which is in the cards, probably refers to the practice of using playing cards or tarot cards to foretell the future.

play the — card exploit the specified issue or idea mentioned, especially for political advantage.

1 This expression comes from the view expressed in 1886 by Lord Randolph Churchill that, concerning Irish Home Rule, ‘the Orange card would be the one to play’.

1998 Edinburgh Student The SNP, who dominate the Scottish independence campaign, argue that they do not play the race card.

play your cards right make the best use of your assets and opportunities.

put (or lay) your cards on the table be completely open and honest in declaring your resources, intentions, or attitude.

care

not care two straws care little or not at all.

carpet

a magic carpet a means of sudden and effortless travel.

1 In fairy tales, a magic carpet is able to transport a person sitting on it to any place they desire.

on the carpet 1 (of a topic or problem) under discussion. 2 (of a person) being severely reprimanded by someone in authority. informal sweep something under the carpet hide or ignore a problem or difficulty in the hope that it will be forgotten.

1 Carpet in both these senses originally meant ‘table covering’, and referred to ‘the carpet of the council table’, a table around which a problem was debated (as in sense 1) or before which a person would be summoned for reprimand (as in sense 2). The informal use of carpet as a verb meaning ‘reprove’ dates from mid 19th century.

1996 lain Pears Death & Restoration Many others would merely have swept all our problems under the carpet, and left them until they became too difficult to solve.

carrot

carrot and stick the promise of reward combined with the threat of force or punishment.

1 The image in this expression is of offering a carrot to a donkey to encourage it to move and using a stick to beat it if it refuses to budge.

1998 New Scientist And if your powers of persuasion prove insufficient, here’s a carrot and stick policy.

carry

carry the can take responsibility for a mistake or misdeed. British informal

1 The origin of this expression and the nature of the can involved are both uncertain, though the idiom appears to have started life as early 20th-century naval or military slang.

1998 Times Was this the same Mr Cook who danced on the Tories’ graves for not carrying the can for errors of their officials?

carry the day: see DAY.

cart

in the cart in trouble or difficulty. British informal A cart was formerly used to take convicted criminals to the public gallows and to expose prostitutes and other offenders to public humiliation in the streets.

put the cart before the horse reverse the proper order or procedure of something.

A medieval version of this expression was set the oxen before the yoke. The version with horse and cart dates from the early 16th century.

1998 Spectator It’s putting the cart before the horse. All history shows that if you want to create a political union, you do that first and the single currency follows.

carved

be carved in stone: see STONE.

case

be on (or get off) someone’s case start (or stop) criticizing or hounding someone. informal

cash

cash in your chips die. informal

The counters used in various gambling games are called chips. They are converted into cash at the conclusion of the game.

cash in hand payment for goods and services by money in the form of notes and coins.

Cash in hand is mainly used to distinguish between cash payment and payment by cheque, especially with reference to being paid in this way in order to avoid having to declare the amount earned to the tax authorities.

cast

be cast in a — mould be of the type specified.

1991 Jean Bow Jane’s Journey He was certainly not cast in a common mould. She had never met anyone like him before.

cast someone adrift: see ADRIFT.

cast your bread upon the waters: see BREAD.

cast the first stone: see STONE.

cast something in someone’s teeth reject defiantly or refer reproachfully to a person’s previous action or statement.

castle

build castles in the air (or in Spain) have a visionary and unattainable scheme; daydream.

The concept was known to St Augustine (354–430), who uses the phrase subtrahere fundamentum in aere aedificare meaning ‘build on air without foundation’. Castles in the air has been the version predominant in English since the late 16th century, but castles in Spain, from Old French châteaux en Espagne, was used in the late medieval period and occasionally in more recent times. The form of the saying in Old French, known from the 13th century, may refer to the fact that much of Spain in the Middle Ages was under Moorish control, so any scheme to build castles there was clearly unlikely to succeed.

cat

all cats are grey in the dark the qualities that distinguish people from one another are obscured in some circumstances, and if they can’t be perceived they don’t matter. proverb

The US version of this proverb is at night all cats are gray.

bell the cat: see BELL.

the cat has got someone’s tongue someone is remaining silent.

a cat may look at a king even a person of low status or importance has rights. proverb 1998 Times A cat may look at a king. The cat may be wrong in its conclusions, but others, following its gaze, can draw their own.

a dead cat bounce: see DEAD.

enough to make a cat laugh extremely ridiculous or ironic. informal

This expression dates from the mid 19th century and is associated with the story of Puss in Boots.

fight like cat and dog (of two people) be continually arguing with one another.

1995 Edward Toman Dancing in Limbo Her desertion of him hadn’t come as a total surprise… for the pair of them had been fighting like cat and dog for the best part of a year.

let the cat out of the bag reveal a secret, especially carelessly or by mistake.

A similar metaphorical use of bag may be found in the French phrase vider le sac, literally ‘empty the bag’, meaning ‘tell the whole story’.

1996 Bernard Connolly The Rotten Heart of Europe Tim Renton… at odds with his leader on Europe, let the cat out of the bag when he told a television audience, ‘we need a strong Europe to maintain our independence from the United States and the Pacific Rim.'

like a cat on a hot tin roof (or on hot bricks) very agitated, restless, or anxious.

like the cat that's got (or who's stolen) the cream self-satisfied; having achieved your objective. informal, chiefly British like a scalded cat: see SCALDED.

like something the cat brought in (of a person) very dirty, bedraggled, or exhausted. informal 1996 Frank McCourt Angela’s Ashes One of them says we look like something the cat brought in and Malachy has to be held back from fighting them.

no room to swing a cat: see ROOM.

not a cat in hell’s chance no chance at all. informal

---

that cat won’t jump that suggestion is implausible or impracticable. informal 1965 Simon Troy No More A-Roving If you’re telling me she fell in, just like that—oh no! That cat won’t jump.

turn cat in pan change sides; be a traitor.

---

when the cat’s away, the mice will play people will naturally take advantage of the absence of someone in authority to do as they like. proverb

catbird

in the catbird seat in a superior or more advantageous position. North American informal

---

catch-22

a catch-22 situation a dilemma or difficulty from which there is no escape because of mutually conflicting or dependent conditions.

---

catch

catch at straws: see STRAW. catch a cold: see COLD.
catch your death: see DEATH. catch the sun: 1 be in a sunny position. 2 become tanned or sunburnt. British catch a Tartar encounter or get hold of a person who can neither be controlled nor got rid of; meet with a person who is unexpectedly more than your match.

catch-up play catch-up try to equal a competitor in a sporting event.
cat's whiskers
the cat's whiskers an excellent person or thing. informal Other similar phrases include the cat's pyjamas and the chiefly North American the cat's miaou.
cause
make common cause with unite with in order to achieve a shared aim.
1997 A. Sivanandan When Memory Dies I was sorry that the crows, proud kings of the dung-heap, should make common cause with house-sparrows under the eaves of roofs.
a rebel without a cause: see REBEL.
cautions
throw caution to the wind (or winds) act in a completely reckless manner.
cave
keep cave act as lookout. school slang Cave is a Latin word meaning 'beware!' Pronounced as one or two syllables, cave was the traditional warning uttered by a schoolchild to let others know that a teacher was approaching. caviar
caviar to the general a good thing that is not appreciated by the ignorant.
  This phrase comes from Shakespeare's Hamlet, where Hamlet commends a play with the words: 'the play, I remember, pleased not the million; 'twas caviar to the general'.
Cherberus
a sop to Cerberus: see SOP. ceremony
stand on ceremony insist on the observance of formalities; behave formally. without ceremony without preamble or politeness.

cess
bad cess to a curse on. chiefly Irish
  The origin of cess in this expression is probably linked to the historical requirement for Irish households to provide the soldiers of their English overlords with provisions at the low prices 'assessed' by the government.

chafe
chafe at the bit: see champ at the bit at CHAMP.
chaff
be caught with chaff be easily deceived.
  Chaff is the husks of corn separated from the grain by threshing. Be caught with chaff has been used since the late 15th century as metaphor for being easily fooled or trapped.
separate the wheat from the chaff: see WHEAT.
chain
pull (or yank) someone's chain tease someone, especially by leading them to believe something that isn't true. US informal challice
a poisoned chalice: see POISONED.
chalk
as different as chalk and cheese fundamentally different or incompatible. British
  The opposition of chalk and cheese hinges on their being totally different in all qualities other than their rather similar appearance.
by a long chalk by far. British
  This expression is based on the old custom of marking up points scored in a game with chalk on a blackboard, as is its opposite not by a long chalk meaning 'by no means; not at all'. chuck and talk teaching by traditional methods focusing on the blackboard and presentation by the teacher as opposed to more informal or interactive methods. British walk the chalk: see WALK.
champ
champ (or chafe) at the bit be restlessly impatient, especially to start doing something.
chance

chance your arm (or luck) undertake something although it may be dangerous or unsuccessful; take a risk. British informal chance would be a fine thing used to express a belief that something desirable that has just been mentioned is unlikely to happen. informal

in the last chance saloon: see last.

not a cat in hell’s chance: see cat.

not a chance in hell: see hell.

not a Chinaman’s chance: see Chinaman.

on the off chance just in case. 1992 Neal Stephenson Snow Crash They upload staggering quantities of useless information to the database, on the off chance that some of it will eventually be useful.

a sporting chance: see sporting.

change

change horses in midstream: see horse.

a change is as good as a rest a change of work or occupation can be as restorative or refreshing as a period of relaxation. proverb a change of heart a move to a different opinion or attitude.

change your tune express a very different opinion or behave in a very different way, usually in response to a change in circumstances.

get no change out of fail to get information or a desired reaction from. British informal ring the changes vary the ways of expressing, arranging, or doing something.

In bell-ringing, the changes are the different sequences in which a peal of bells may be rung.

chapter

chapter and verse an exact reference or authority.

Chapter and verse was originally used to refer to the numbering of passages in the Bible. It is now also used more generally to refer to any (usually written) authority for something.

a chapter of accidents a series of unfortunate events.

charge

return to the charge make a further attempt at something, especially in arguing a point. dated

Charge here is used in the sense of a headlong rush forward, usually associated with attacking soldiers in a battle.

charity

charity begins at home a person’s first responsibility is for the needs of their own family and friends. proverb cold as charity: see cold.

charm

work like a charm be completely successful or effective.

Charm here means a magic spell or lucky talisman.

chase

chase the dragon take heroin (sometimes mixed with another smokable drug) by heating it in tinfoil and inhaling the fumes through a tube or roll of paper.

Chase the dragon is reputedly a translation from Chinese. The expression apparently refers to the undulating movements of the fumes and down the tinfoil, resembling those of the tail of a dragon, a creature found in many Chinese myths.

go and chase yourself! go away! informal chattering

the chattering classes articulate and educated people considered as a social group given to the expression of liberal opinions about society and culture. derogatory cheap

cheap and cheerful simple and inexpensive. British cheap and nasty of low cost and bad quality. British cheap at the price well worth having, regardless of the cost.

A frequently heard variant of this expression, cheap at half the price, while used to mean exactly the same, is, logically speaking, nonsense, since cheap at twice the price is the actual meaning intended.

check

check someone or something skeef give someone or something a dirty look; look askance at someone or something. South African check you goodbye. South African informal cheek

cheek by jowl close together; side by side.

Jowl here is used in the sense 'cheek'; the phrase was originally cheek by cheek.

turn the other cheek refrain from retaliating when you have been attacked or insulted.

This expression comes from Matthew 5:39: 'But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also'.

cheer

of good cheer cheerful or optimistic. archaic

The exhortation to be of good cheer occurs in several passages of the New Testament in the Authorized Version of the Bible (for example in Matthew 9:2, John 16:33, and Acts 27:22). In Middle English, cheer had the meaning 'face'. This sense of cheer is now obsolete, but the related senses of 'countenance' and 'demeanour as reflected in the countenance' survive in a number of phrases, including in good cheer and the archaic what cheer? (how are you?).

three cheers for — three successive hurrahs expressing appreciation or congratulation of someone or something.

Qualified approval or mild enthusiasm is sometimes expressed by two cheers for —, as in the title of E. M. Forster's book Two Cheers for Democracy (1951).

1998 Zest So three cheers for The Body Shop's Community Trade programme, which is helping organic bergamot farms thrive once more.

cheese

a big cheese: see BIG.

hard cheese used to express sympathy over a petty matter. British informal say cheese said by a photographer to encourage the subject to smile.

chequered flag

take the chequered flag finish first in a race.

In motor racing a chequered flag is used to signify that the winner has passed the finishing post.

cherry

a bite at the cherry an attempt or chance to do something.

This phrase is often used in the negative, to express the idea that you will not get a second chance (a second bite at the cherry). If you take two attempts to do something, especially some quite small task, this is taking two bites at (the same) cherry or another bite at the cherry.

a bowl of cherries a very pleasant or enjoyable situation or experience.

the cherry on the cake a desirable feature perceived as the finishing touch to something that is already inviting or worth having.

pop someone's cherry have sexual intercourse with a girl or woman who is a virgin. informal grin like a Cheshire cat have a broad fixed smile on your face.

Cheshire

The Cheshire cat with its broad grin is best known for its appearance (and disappearance) in Lewis Carroll's Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (1865), but the expression, which is of uncertain origin, is recorded from the first half of the 19th century.

chest

hope chest: see HOPE.

get something off your chest say something that you have wanted to say for a long time, resulting in a feeling of relief. informal chestnut

an old chestnut a joke, story, or subject that has become tedious and boring as a result of its age and constant repetition.
The most likely source for this sense of chestnut is in the following exchange between two characters, Zavior and Pablo, in William Dimond’s play Broken Sword (1816): ZAVIOR... When suddenly from the thick boughs of a cork-tree—PABLO. (Jumping up) A chesnut, Captain, a chesnut... Captain, this is the twenty-seventh time I have heard you relate this story, and you invariably said, a chesnut, until now.

pull someone’s chestnuts out of the fire succeed in a hazardous undertaking for someone else’s benefit.

A decapitated chicken may continue to flap about for a few moments before finally expiring.

chief

big white chief a person in authority. humorous

This expression supposedly represents Native American speech, and also occurs as great white chief.

1971 Roger Busby Deadlock You’d think he was the bloody big white chief instead of an OB technician.

chief cook and bottle-washer a person who performs a variety of important but routine tasks. informal too many chiefs and not enough Indians used to describe a situation where there are too many people giving orders and not enough people to carry them out.

child

child’s play a task which is very easily accomplished.

chin

keep your chin up remain cheerful in difficult circumstances. informal take it on the chin endure or accept misfortune courageously.

1998 Times The occasional ‘bad ‘un’ [i.e. decision] is inevitable, and when it comes … the players must take it on the chin.

Chinaman

not a Chinaman’s chance not even a very slight chance.

1952 Frank Yerby A Woman Called Fancy You haven’t a Chinaman’s chance of raising that money in Boston.

chink

a chink in someone’s armour a weak point in someone’s character, arguments, or ideas which makes them vulnerable to attack or criticism.

chip

a chip off the old block someone who resembles their parent, especially in character. informal a chip on your shoulder a strong and usually long-standing inclination to feel resentful or aggrieved, often about a particular thing; a sense of inferiority characterized by a quickness to take offence. informal

In 1830 the Long Island Telegraph described the practice which gave rise to this expression: ‘When two churlish boys were determined to fight, a chip would be placed on the shoulder of one, and the other demanded to knock it off at his peril’.

have had your chips be dead, dying, or out of contention. British informal when the chips are down when you find yourself in a very serious and difficult situation. informal Chips in this phrase, and in have had your chips above, are gambling chips.

choice

Hobson’s choice no choice at all.

Thomas Hobson, to whom this expression refers, was a carrier at Cambridge in the early 17th century, who would not allow his clients their own choice of horse from his stables as he insisted on hiring them out in strict rotation. They were offered the ‘choice’ of the horse nearest the door or none at all. Hobson’s choice is also mid 20th-century British rhyming slang for voice.

chop bust someone’s chops nag or criticize someone. North American informal bust your chops exert yourself. North American informal chop and change change your opinions or behaviour repeatedly and abruptly, often for no good reason. British informal

Both chop and change originally had the sense of ‘barter’, ‘exchange’, or ‘buy and sell’, but as this sense of chop became dated the meaning of the whole expression shifted to its present one.

chop logic argue in a tiresomely pedantic way; quibble.

Chop is here used in the 16th-century sense meaning ‘bandy words’. This sense is now obsolete, and the sense of chop used in this phrase was later wrongly understood as ‘cut something into small pieces’.

not much chop no good; not up to much. Australian & New Zealand informal

The sense of chop in this expression originated in the Hindi word châp meaning ‘official stamp’. Europeans in the Far East extended the use of the word to cover documents such as passports to which an official stamp or impression was attached and in China it came to mean ‘branded goods’. From this, in the late 19th century, chop was used to refer to something that had ‘class’ or had been validated as genuine or good.

1947 Dan Davin The Gorse Blooms Pale I know it’s not been much chop so far but we’re only getting started.

chord

strike (or touch) a chord say or do something which affects or stirs the emotions of others.

strike (or touch) the right cord skilfully appeal to or arouse a particular emotion in others.

chuck

chuck it down rain heavily. informal chump

off your chump crazy. British informal

The literal sense of chump meaning ‘a broad, thick block of wood’ led in the mid 19th century to its humorous use to mean ‘head’, with the implication of ‘blockhead’.

1995 Nick Hornby High Fidelity But, you know... you did not represent my last and best chance of a relationship. So, you know, nice try. Close, but no cigar.

cigar

close but no cigar (of an attempt) almost but not quite successful. North American informal

This phrase possibly originated as a consoling comment to or about a man who put up a good, but not winning, performance in a competition or contest of strength in which the prize was a cigar.

1995 Nick Hornby High Fidelity But, you know... you did not represent my last and best chance of a relationship. So, you know, nice try. Close, but no cigar.
cinder
burnt to a cinder: see BURNT.

circle

circle the wagons (of a group) unite in defence of a common interest. North American informal

In South Africa the Afrikaans word laager, meaning ‘a defensive circle of ox wagons’, is used in similar metaphorical contexts.

come (or turn) full circle return to a past position or situation, often in a way considered to be inevitable.
go round in circles do something for a long time without achieving anything but purposeless repetition. informal run round in circles be fussily busy with little result. informal the wheel has turned (or come) full circle the situation has returned to what it was in the past, as if completing a cycle.

This phrase comes from Shakespeare’s King Lear: ‘The wheel is come full circle’. The wheel referred to is that which the goddess Fortune was said to turn as a symbol of random luck or change.

circus

a three-ring circus 1 a circus with three rings for simultaneous performances. 2 a public spectacle, especially one with little substance.

1998 Spectator Along the way, these meetings have lost all that might have made them worthwhile... and have turned into a travelling three-ring circus.

citizen

citizen of the world a person who is at home in any country.

civilization

the end of civilization as we know it: see END.

claim

claim to fame a reason for being regarded as unusual or noteworthy (often used when the reason cited is comical, bizarre, or trivial).

clam

happy as a clam: see happy as a sandboy at HAPPY.

clanger

drop a clanger: see DROP.

clap

clap eyes on: see EYE.
clap hold of grab someone or something roughly or abruptly. informal clap someone in jail (or irons) put someone in prison (or in chains).

The meaning of clap in these idioms is somewhat removed from the original one of ‘make a sudden explosive sound’. Over time the word developed the additional sense of ‘make a sudden action’, without necessarily implying any sound.

clapper

like the clappers very fast or very hard. British informal Clappers may refer to the striking part of a bell, or it may refer to a device in a mill for striking or shaking the hopper in order to make the grain move down to the millstones. The phrase like the clappers developed as mid 20th-century RAF slang, and is sometimes found in the form like the clappers of hell.

1992 Jeff Torrington Swing Hammer Swing! Why should a hearse be going like the clappers through the streets of Glasgow at this time of night?

claret

tap a person’s claret make a person’s nose bleed by a blow with the fist. informal

class

a class act a person or thing displaying impressive and stylish excellence. informal claw

get your claws into enter into a possessive relationship with someone (used especially of a woman who dominates or manipulates a man). informal clay

have feet of clay: see FOOT.

clean

clean as a whistle 1 extremely clean or clear. 2 free of incriminating evidence. informal a clean bill of health: see BILL.

a clean sheet (or slate) an absence of existing restraints or commitments.
Given a clean slate and an impressive budget, I would love to programme a festival... that exposed audiences to completely new forms of music-making at their best and most diverse.

clean someone’s clock 1 give someone a beating. 2 defeat or surpass someone decisively. North American informal Clock is used here in the slang sense of ‘face’.

in clear not in code.

1966 Robert Sheckley Mindswap Thus, he crosscircuited his fear of embarrassment, and spoke to his oldest friend in clear.

in the clear 1 no longer in danger or suspected of something. 2 with nothing to hinder someone in achieving something.

out of a clear (blue) sky as a complete surprise.

1992 New Yorker The latest revelations... about the marriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales may have induced disbelief, but they did not come out of a clear blue sky.

cleft

be (or be caught) in a cleft stick be in a difficult situation, when any action you take will have adverse consequences. chiefly British

Cleft is one of the forms of the past participle of cleave, in its basic meaning of ‘divide with a cutting blow’ or ‘split’. The other form still current in standard English is cloven, and the two words tend to be used in different contexts: we find a cleft stick and a cleft palate but a cloven hoof.

cleaner
take someone to the cleaners 1 take all of someone’s money or possessions in a dishonest or unfair way. 2 inflict a crushing defeat on someone.

Mr Clean an honourable or incorruptible politician.

cleaver
take someone to the cleaners 1 take all of someone’s money or possessions in a dishonest or unfair way. 2 inflict a crushing defeat on someone.

clear the air defuse or clarify an angry, tense, or confused situation by frank discussion.

This expression comes from the idea that a thunderstorm makes the air less humid.

clear as a bell: see BELL.

as clear as day very easy to see or understand.

clear as mud not at all easy to understand. informal clear the decks prepare for a particular event or goal by dealing beforehand with anything that might hinder progress.

1 In the literal sense, clear the decks meant to remove obstacles or unwanted items from the decks of a ship before a battle at sea.

in clear not in code.

1966 Robert Sheckley Mindswap Thus, he crosscircuited his fear of embarrassment, and spoke to his oldest friend in clear.

in the clear 1 no longer in danger or suspected of something. 2 with nothing to hinder someone in achieving something.

out of a clear (blue) sky as a complete surprise.

1992 New Yorker The latest revelations... about the marriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales may have induced disbelief, but they did not come out of a clear blue sky.

cleft

be (or be caught) in a cleft stick be in a difficult situation, when any action you take will have adverse consequences. chiefly British

Cleft is one of the forms of the past participle of cleave, in its basic meaning of ‘divide with a cutting blow’ or ‘split’. The other form still current in standard English is cloven, and the two words tend to be used in different contexts: we find a cleft stick and a cleft palate but a cloven hoof.

clever too clever by half annoyingly proud of your intelligence or skill. informal click

click into place become suddenly clear and understandable.

Click into place is used literally of an object, especially part of a mechanism, to mean ‘fall smoothly into its allotted position’.

click your fingers at: see snap your fingers at FINGER.

climb

have a mountain to climb: see MOUNTAIN.

climbing

be climbing the walls feel frustrated, helpless, and trapped. informal clip
at a clip at a time; all at once. US informal 2000 Anthony Bourdain Kitchen Confidential
I peeled 75 pounds of shrimp at a clip.
clip someone’s wings prevent someone from acting freely.
Clip someone’s wings comes from the phrase clip a bird’s wings, which means ‘trim the feathers of a bird so that it cannot fly’. clock
round (or around) the clock all day and all night; ceaselessly. 1992 Susan Sontag The Volcano Lover
The mountain was… guarded round the clock by a ring of armed soldiers mounted on nervous horses.
turn back the clock return to the past or to a previous way of doing things.
watch the clock wait eagerly for the end of working hours.
Clock, the normal North American term for ‘cupboard’ or ‘wardrobe’, is used in the Bible to typify privacy and seclusion (for example in Luke 12:3: ‘that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops’). Come out of the closet means ‘cease hiding a secret about yourself’ or ‘make public your intentions’. It is now most commonly, though not always, used in connection with someone making their homosexuality public.
closet
out of the closet out into the open, informal
It is from this expression that the word clock-watcher has developed, referring to someone who is determined not to work more than their allotted hours.
clog clogs to clogs in three generations the return of a family to poverty after one generation of prosperity.
close close to the bone: see BONE.
close the door on: see DOOR.
close to home: see HOME.
close your mind to: see MIND.
close ranks: see RANK.
close shave (or call) a narrow escape from danger or disaster. informal close to (or close on) (of an amount) almost;
very nearly.
run someone close almost match the same standards or level of achievement as someone else.
too close for comfort dangerously or uncomfortably near.
too close to call (of a contest, race, etc.) so evenly balanced that it is impossible to predict the outcome with confidence.
informal
closed behind closed doors (of an action) done in a secretive or furtive way; hidden from public view.
a closed book a thing of which you have no knowledge or understanding. 1944 Frank Clune The Red Heart
The desert is an open book to the man of the Vast Open Spaces, but to the schoolmaster it was a closed book.
cloud
on cloud nine extremely happy.
On cloud nine refers to a ten-part classification of clouds in which nine was second highest. A dated variant of the expression is on cloud seven.
a silver lining: see SILVER.
under a cloud under suspicion or discredited. 1992 Alasdair Gray Poor Things
The career of this once famous soldier began as well as ended under a cloud.
with your head in the clouds (of a person)
out of touch with reality; daydreaming.
cloven hoof
a cloven hoof a symbol or indication of evil.
Traditional pictures of the Devil show him with the head and torso of a man but the legs and cloven hoofs of a goat. Therefore, a cloven hoof is a giveaway sign of the Devil.
1959 François Mauriac A Woman of Pharisees She had been a trial to him from the beginning, and now the cloven hoof was beginning to show.
clover
in clover in ease and luxury.
This sense of the phrase is a reference to clover’s being particularly attractive to livestock, as in the expression happy as a pig in clover.

This phrase is of biblical origin: ‘if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head’ (Romans 12:20).

club

in the club (or the pudding club) pregnant. British informal 1993 Carl MacDougall The Lights Below Must be serious if you’re drinking with the old man. Did you stick her in the club?

join (or welcome to) the club used as a humorous exclamation to express solidarity with someone else who is experiencing problems or difficulties that the speaker has already experienced.

clutch

clutch at straws: see STRAW.

coach

drive a coach and horses through make something entirely useless or ineffective. British.

1 An early example of this idiom is found in this statement by the Irish lawyer Stephen Rice (1637–1715): ‘I will drive a coach and six horses through the Act of Settlement’. Early versions of the phrase also refer to a space big enough to turn a coach and six (or four) (i.e. horses) in, but the context, following Rice’s declaration, is very often that of rendering a law or regulation ineffective.

1997 Spectator A coach and horses was driven through one of the guiding principles of American statecraft.

coal

coals to Newcastle something brought or sent to a place where it is already plentiful.

1 Coal from Newcastle-upon-Tyne in northern England was famously abundant in previous centuries, and carry coals to Newcastle has been an expression for an unnecessary activity since the mid 17th century.

haul someone over the coals reprimand someone severely.

1 This expression originated in a form of torture that involved dragging the victim over the coals of a slow fire.

heap coals of fire on someone’s head go out of your way to cause someone to feel remorse. British

coast

the coast is clear there is no danger of being observed or caught.

1 The coast is clear originally meant that there were no enemies guarding a sea coast who would prevent an attempt to land or embark.

coat-tail

on someone’s coat-tails undeservedly benefiting from another’s success.

1964 Economist Mr Robert Kennedy cannot be sure of riding the coat-tails of Mr Johnson in New York.

cob

have (or get) a cob on be annoyed or in a bad mood. British informal

cobweb

blow (or clear) away the cobwebs banish a state of lethargy; enliven or refresh yourself.

cock

a cock-and-bull story a ridiculous and implausible story.

1 The expression ‘talk of a cock and a bull’ is recorded from the early 17th century, and apparently refers to an original story or fable which is now lost.

at full cock: see FULL.

at half cock: see HALF.

cock a snook at: see SNOOK.

cock of the walk someone who dominates others within a group.

1 The places in which cocks bred for fighting were kept were known as walks: one cock would be kept in each walk and would tolerate no other birds in its space.
cocked hat

A cocked hat is a hat with the brim permanently turned up, especially a style of three-cornered hat worn from the late 18th century to the early 19th century.

cocked hat

knock something into a cocked hat ☞ put a definitive end to something. ☐ be very much better than someone or something.

A cocked hat is a hat with the brim permanently turned up, especially a style of three-cornered hat worn from the late 18th century to the early 19th century.

cock
cock your ear
listen attentively to or for something.

The image here is of a dog raising its ears to an erect position.

cocked hat
cock something into a cocked hat ☞ put a definitive end to something. ☐ be very much better than someone or something.

The image here is of a dog raising its ears to an erect position.

cockle

warm the cockles of someone’s heart give someone a comforting feeling of pleasure or contentment.

This phrase perhaps arose as a result of the resemblance in shape between a heart and a cockleshell.

cocoa

I should cocoa (or coco) ☞ I should say so. British rhyming slang 1996 Melvin Burgess Junk He said, ‘Someone’ll really buy it and it’ll be theirs then.’ ‘I should coco,’ I said.

cold
catch a cold (or catch cold) ☞ become infected with a cold. ☐ encounter trouble or difficulties, especially financial ones. informal 2001 Financial Times Most observers expect house prices to rise... depending on whether the UK economy continues to grow smoothly or whether it catches a cold from the US.

as cold as charity
very cold.

cold comfort
poor or inadequate consolation.

This expression, together with the previous idiom, reflects a traditional view that charity is often given in a perfunctory or uncaring way. The words cold (as the opposite of ‘encouraging’) and comfort have been associated since the early 14th century, but perhaps the phrase is most memorably linked for modern readers with the title of Stella Gibbons’s 1933 parody of sentimental novels of rural life, Cold Comfort Farm.

cold feet
loss of nerve or confidence.

in the cold light of day when you have had time to consider a situation objectively.

the cold shoulder
a show of intentional unfriendliness; rejection.

The verb cold-shoulder, meaning ‘reject or be deliberately unfriendly’, comes from this phrase.

go cold turkey
suddenly and completely stop taking drugs.

The image is of one of the possible unpleasant side effects of this, involving bouts of shivering and sweating that cause goose flesh or goose pimples, a bumpy condition of the skin which resembles the flesh of a dead plucked turkey.

have someone cold have someone at your mercy. US informal 1988 Rodney Hall Kisses of the Enemy He waited in his office for news of violence, knowing that then he would have the troublemakers
cold.
in cold blood without feeling or mercy;
ruthlessly.

According to medieval physiology blood was naturally hot, and so this phrase refers to an unnatural state in which someone can carry out a (hot-blooded) deed of passion or violence without the normal heating of the blood. Compare with make your blood curdle and make your blood run cold (at BLOOD).

leave someone cold fail to interest or excite someone.
left out in the cold ignored; neglected.
out cold completely unconscious.
pour (or throw) cold water on be discouraging or negative about a plan or suggestion.
1998 New Scientist When I put it to... the health minister, that perhaps all clinical trial results should be published, she threw cold water on the idea.
collar
feel someone's collar arrest or legally apprehend someone.

The image here is of using a person's collar as a means of getting a secure grip on them.
collision
on a collision course adopting an approach that is certain to lead to conflict with another person or group.

This phrase is also used literally to mean 'going in a direction that will lead to a violent crash with another moving object or person'.
colour
lend (or give) colour to make something seem true or probable.
1991 J. Rusbridger The Intelligence Game Nothing should be done that would lend colour to any suggestion that it [the Security Service] is concerned with the interests of any particular section of the community.

see the colour of someone's money receive some evidence of forthcoming payment from a person.
colours
nail (or pin) your colours to the mast declare openly and firmly what you believe or favour.
sail under false colours disguise your true nature or intentions.
show your (true) colours reveal your real character or intentions, especially when these are disreputable or dishonourable.

with flying colours: see FLYING.

The distinguishing ensign or flag of a ship or regiment was known as its colours, and the word is used in this sense in these four idioms.
A ship on illegal business or in time of war may fly a bogus flag in order to deceive and would therefore be sailing under false colours.
column
dodge the column: see DODGE.
fifth column: see FIFTH.
come
as — as they come used to describe someone or something that is a supreme example of the quality specified.
1991 Daily Telegraph The petrol-engined V-8 was as silky as they come.
come the — play the part of; behave like.
informal
1992 Jeff Torrington Swing Hammer Swing!
Don't come the innocent with me.
come the acid: see ACID.
come apart at the seams: see SEAM.
come clean: see CLEAN.
come in from the cold gain acceptance.
informal
1998 New Scientist Considering that the intracavity technique got off to such a slow start, it may, at last, have come in from the cold.
come it over seek to impose on or to impress deceptively. informal

come it strong go to excessive lengths; use exaggeration. informal

come of age: see AGE.
come off it! said when vigorously expressing disbelief. informal

come to grief: see GRIEF.
comfort

come the old soldier over someone seek to impose something on someone, especially on grounds of greater experience or age. informal come to that (or if it comes to that) said to introduce an additional significant point. informal 1998 Martin Booth The Industry of Souls I am sure you would not wish your son to hear of his father’s waywardness. Or your wife, come to that.

come to think of it said when an idea or point occurs to you while you are speaking.

come up smelling of roses: see SMELLING.

comfort
too — for comfort causing physical or mental unease by an excess of the specified quality.

1994 Janice Galloway Foreign Parts They were all too at peace with themselves, too untroubled for comfort.

coming
have it coming to you be due for retribution on account of something bad that you have done. informal not know if you are coming or going be confused, especially as a result of being very busy. informal where someone is coming from someone’s meaning, motivation, or personality. informal commando go commando wear no underpants. informal common common or garden of the usual or ordinary type. British informal

1 Common or garden was originally used to describe a plant in its most familiar domesticated form, e.g. ‘the common or garden nightshade’.

1964 Leonard Woolf Letter I certainly do not agree that the unconscious mind reveals deeper truths about someone else than plain common or garden common sense does.

the common touch the ability to get on with or appeal to ordinary people.

1 An obsolete sense of common (which comes from Latin communis meaning ‘affable’) may have influenced this phrase, as may a Shakespearean phrase used in his play about the great exponent of the common touch, King Henry V, on the eve of the battle of Agincourt: ‘a little touch of Harry in the night’.

1910 Rudyard Kipling If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue, Or walk with Kings—not lose the common touch ...

company
be (or err) in good company be in the same situation as someone important or respected.

compare compare notes exchange ideas, opinions, or information about a particular subject.

compliment
return the compliment 1 give a compliment in return for another. 2 retaliate or respond in kind.

conclusion
jump (or leap) to conclusions (or the conclusion that) make a hasty judgement or decision before learning or considering all the facts.

try conclusions with engage in a trial of skill or argument with. formal 1902 G. S. Whitmore The Last Maori War in New Zealand Te Kooti’s prestige enormously increased by an apparent unwillingness to try conclusions with him, even with an immensely superior force and in the open plains.

concrete
be set in concrete (of a policy or idea) be fixed and unalterable.

conjure
a name to conjure with a person who is important within a particular sphere of activity.

1 The image here is of magically summoning a spirit to do your bidding by invoking a powerful name or using a spell.

1954 Iris Murdoch Under the Net His name, little known to the public, is one to conjure with in Hollywood.

conspicuous
conspicuous by your absence obviously not present in a place where you should be.
This phrase was coined by Lord John Russell in a speech made in 1859. He acknowledged as his source for the idea a passage in Tacitus describing a procession of images at a funeral: the fact that those of Cassius and Brutus were absent attracted a great deal of attention.

conspiracy

A conspiracy of silence an agreement to say nothing about an issue that should be generally known.

This expression appears to have originated with the French philosopher Auguste Comte (1798–1857).

contempt

Hold someone or something in contempt consider someone or something to be unworthy of respect or attention.

In formal legal contexts, holding someone in contempt means that they are judged to have committed the offence of contempt of court, i.e. they are guilty of disrespect or disobedience to the authority of a court in the administration of justice.

content

To your heart’s content to the full extent of your desires.

Heart’s content was used by Shakespeare in Henry VI, Part 2 (1593) and in The Merchant of Venice (1596) in the sense of ‘complete inward satisfaction’.

contention

Bone of contention: see Bone.

contest

No contest a decision by the referee to declare a boxing match invalid on the grounds that one or both of the boxers are not making serious efforts.

A competition, comparison, or choice of which the outcome is a foregone conclusion.

This expression is mainly found in the USA, and is perhaps influenced by the plea of nolo contendere (I do not wish to contend) in US law, meaning that the defendant in a criminal prosecution accepts conviction but does not admit guilt.

contradiction

Contradiction in terms a statement or group of words associating objects or ideas which are incompatible.

1994 Toronto Life Veggie burger?— a contradiction in terms I had no wish to argue with: vegetables are fine and necessary, but in their place.

conviction

Have the courage of your convictions: see Courage.

cooee

Within cooee of within reach of; near to.

Cooee originated as an Aboriginal word used as a shout to attract attention, and was adopted by European settlers in Australia. The literal meaning of the phrase within cooee of is ‘within hailing distance of’.

cook

Cook the books alter records, especially accounts, with fraudulent intent or in order to mislead. Informal

Cook has been used since the mid 18th century in this figurative sense of ‘tamper with’ or ‘manipulate’.

Cook on the front burner be on the right lines; be on the way to rapid success. North American Informal Another version of this phrase is cook with gas.

Cook someone’s goose spoil someone’s plans; cause someone’s downfall. Informal

The underlying idea of this phrase seems to be that a goose was cherished and fattened up for a special occasion, and therefore to cook it prematurely meant to spoil the plans for a feast.

Too many cooks spoil the broth if too many people are involved in a task or activity, it will not be done well. Proverb 1997 Times Too many cooks spoil the broth and at Apple there is now the equivalent of Marco Pierre White, Anton Mosimann and Nico Ladenis.

Cookie the way the cookie crumbles how things turn out (often used of an undesirable but unalterable situation). Informal, chiefly North American with your hand in the cookie jar engaged in surreptitious theft from your employer. North American informal cool

cool as a cucumber perfectly cool or self-possessed.

1992 Randall Kenan Let the Dead Bury Their Dead How many men do you know, black or white, could bluff, cool as a cucumber, caught butt-naked in bed with a damn whore?

cool your heels: see HEEL.

coon

for (or in) a coon's age a very long time. North American informal 1951 William Styron Lie Down in Darkness I haven't seen him in a coon's age.

a gone coon a person or thing in desperate straits or as good as dead. US informal

Coon in these idioms is an informal abbreviation of raccoon. Raccoons were hunted for their fur, and a gone coon was one that had been cornered so that it could not escape.

coop

fly the coop: see FLY.

coot

bald as a coot: see BALD.

cop

cop hold of take hold of. British

A slang word meaning ‘catch’, cop probably originated in northern English dialect.

an a plea engage in plea bargaining. North American it's a fair cop an admission that the speaker has been caught doing wrong and deserves punishment.

not much cop not very good. British informal

Cop is used here in the sense of ‘an acquisition’.

1998 Spectator Suddenly everyone has noticed that the rest of her album... isn't actually much cop after all.

copybook

blot your copybook: see BLOT.

cord

cut the cord cease to rely on someone or something influential or supportive and begin to act independently.

1 The image here is of the cutting of a baby's umbilical cord at birth.

corn

corn in Egypt a plentiful supply.

1 This expression comes from the aged Jacob's instructions to his sons in Genesis 42:2: 'Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt: get you down thither, and buy for us from thence'.

corner

cut corners: see CUT.

fight your corner defend your position or interests.

the four (or far) corners of the world (or earth) remote regions of the earth, far away from each other.

1999 Katie Hickman Daughters of Britannia In amongst the fishing boats and the caiques... sailed innumerable vessels from all four corners of the earth.

in someone's corner on someone's side; giving someone support.

1 This idiom and fight your corner are boxing metaphors and refer to the diagonally opposite corners taken by opponents in a boxing match. Trainers and assistants are in a boxer's corner to offer support and encouragement between rounds.

paint yourself into a corner: see PAINT.

turn the corner: see TURN.

corridor

the corridors of power the senior levels of government or administration, where covert influence is regarded as being exerted and significant decisions are made.

1 This expression comes from the title of C. P. Snow's novel The Corridors of Power (1964). Although most usual with power, the phrase can be more specifically applied to the most influential levels of the hierarchy within a particular place or organization, especially when they are regarded as operating covertly. The French word coulisse (meaning 'the wings in a theatre' and 'corridor') has a similar figurative sense of the corridor as a place of negotiation and behind-the-scenes scheming.
cost
cost an arm and a leg: see ARM.
count the cost: see COUNT.
cotton wool
wrap someone in cotton wool be overprotective towards someone.
couch
couch potato someone who watches a lot of television, eats junk food, and takes little or no physical exercise. informal

A Couch potato was a humorous American coinage using the image of a person with the physical shape of a potato slouching on a sofa or couch. Originally, the phrase relied on a pun with tuber in the slang term boob tuber, which referred to someone devoted to watching the boob tube or television.

on the couch undergoing psychoanalysis or psychiatric treatment.
counsel
a counsel of despair an action to be taken when all else fails.
2003 Guardian This is not a counsel of despair. The argument in favour of the euro can be won, as Winning From Behind, a pamphlet published today by Britain in Europe, argues.
a counsel of perfection advice that is ideal but not feasible.
1986 E. Hall in Home Owner Manual Twice yearly desludging has been recommended but this is probably a counsel of perfection.
count
count your chickens treat something that has not yet happened as a certainty. informal

This phrase refers to the proverb don’t count your chickens before they’re hatched.
count the pennies: see PENNY.
count the sheep: see SHEEP.
count something on the fingers of one hand used to emphasize the small number of a particular thing.
1992 Fly Rod and Reel Two decades ago one could count on the fingers of one hand the saltwater anglers who had caught a sailfish or a marlin on a fly.
count to ten count to ten under your breath in order to prevent yourself from reacting angrily to something.
out for the count unconscious or soundly asleep.
take the count (of a boxer) be knocked out.
countenance
out of countenance disconcerted or unpleasantly surprised.

Countenance here has the sense of confidence of demeanour or calmness of expression.
counter
go counter run or ride against the direction taken by an animal or person hunted or sought.

In Britain, the variants hunt counter and run counter are also found.

over the counter by ordinary retail purchase, with no need for a prescription or licence.
under the counter (or table) (with reference to goods bought or sold) surreptitiously and usually illegally.
1994 Coarse Fishing Today The obvious danger is that river fish will be pinched and flogged ‘under the counter’.
country
go (or appeal) to the country test public opinion by dissolving Parliament and holding a general election. British line of country a subject about which a person is skilled or knowledgeable. British unknown country an unfamiliar place or topic.

The Latin equivalent, terra incognita, is also used in English.
courage
Dutch courage: see DUTCH.

have the courage of your convictions act on your beliefs despite danger or disapproval.
1998 Times The knives were out for us and we had to have the courage of our convictions.
take your courage in both hands nerve yourself to do something that frightens you.

course
stay the course: see stay.

court
hold court: see hold.

Coventry
send someone to Coventry refuse to associate with or speak to someone. chiefly British

1 This expression, which dates from the mid 18th century, is thought by some to stem from the extreme unpopularity of soldiers stationed in Coventry, who were cut off socially by the citizens. Another suggestion is that the phrase arose because Royalist prisoners were sent to Coventry during the English Civil War, the city being staunchly Parliamentarian.

cover
blow someone's cover discover or expose someone's real identity.
break cover emerge into the open; suddenly leave a place of shelter.

1 Break cover originally referred to a hunted animal emerging from the undergrowth in which it had been hiding.

cover the waterfront cover every aspect of something. North American informal 1999 Tony Parsons Man and Boy And I suddenly realised how many father figures Luke has, father figures who seem to cover the waterfront of parental responsibilities.

cover your back foresee and avoid the possibility of attack or criticism. informal cover your tracks conceal evidence of what you have done.

cow
have a cow become angry, excited, or agitated. North American informal 1990 Susin Nielsen Wheels 'Don't have a cow,' she said huffily. 'It's no big deal.'

a sacred cow an idea, custom, or institution held, especially unreasonably, to be above questioning or criticism.

1 Sacred cow originally referred to the veneration of the cow as a sacred animal in the Hindu religion.

1991 Here's Health The British diet remains a sacred cow.

till the cows come home for an indefinitely long time. informal crab

catch a crab (in rowing) effect a faulty stroke in which the oar is jammed under water or misses the water altogether.

1991 Here's Health The British diet remains a sacred cow.

crack

1 crack heads together: see bang heads together at bang.

1 crack a book open a book and read it; study. North American informal

1 crack a bottle open a bottle, especially of wine, and drink it.

1 crack a crib break into a house. British informal the crack of dawn very early in the morning.

1 Crack here means the instant of time occupied by the crack of a whip.

crack of doom a peal of thunder announcing the Day of Judgement.

1 The idea of thunder announcing the Last Judgement comes from several passages in the book of Revelation (e.g., 6:1, 8:5).

a fair crack of the whip fair treatment; a chance to participate or compete on equal terms. British informal 1989 T. M. Albert Tales of the Ulster Detective You might think that the police concocted the circumstances to deny these men a fair crack of the whip.

1 crack wise make jokes. North American informal

1 paper over the cracks: see paper.

cracked

1 cracked up to be asserted to be (used to indicate that someone or something has been described too favourably). informal

1 This expression stems from the use of crack as an adjective to mean 'pre-eminent', a sense dating from the late 18th century.

1986 Willy Russell Shirley Valentine Our Brian suddenly realised that the part of Joseph wasn't as big as it had been cracked up to be.

crackers

1 go crackers 1 become insane; go mad. 2 become extremely annoyed or angry.

cracking

1 get cracking act quickly and energetically. informal crackling
a bit of crackling an attractive woman regarded as a sexual object. British informal 1968 Peter Dickinson Skin Deep 'You know her? 'I do, sir. Nice bit of crackling, she is.'
cramp

cramp someone's style prevent a person from acting freely or naturally. informal crash

-crash and burn fail spectacularly. North American informal 1994 Hispanic But if you use Spanish, be careful not to crash and burn... the language is booby-trapped for the unwary PR professional.
craw stick in your craw make you angry or irritated.

1 Literally, this phrase means 'stick in your throat'. A craw is the crop of a bird or insect; the transferred sense of the word to refer to a person's gullet, originally humorous, is now almost entirely confined to this expression. Compare with stick in your gizzard (at GIZZARD).
crazy
crazy like a fox very cunning or shrewd.
creature

-creature of habit a person who follows an unvarying routine.
credit

-credit where credit is due praise should be given when it is deserved, even when you are reluctant to give it.

1 This sentiment was earlier expressed in the form honour where honour is due, following the Authorized Version of the Bible: 'Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour' (Romans 13:7).
creek

-be up the creek without a paddle be in severe difficulty, usually with no means of extricating yourself from it. informal

1 Often shortened to be up the creek, this expression is recorded in the mid 20th century as military slang for 'lost' (for example, while on a patrol).
cross

at cross purposes misunderstanding or having different aims from one another.
cross as two sticks very annoyed or grumpy. British informal cross your fingers (or keep your fingers crossed) hope that your plans will be successful; trust in good luck.

1998 Spectator Since resources were limited ... the only hope the clients had was to hang in there, fingers crossed.
cross the floor join the opposing side in Parliament. British cross my heart used to emphasize the truthfulness and sincerity of what you are saying or promising. informal

The full version of this expression is cross my heart and hope to die, and is sometimes reinforced by making a sign of the Cross over your chest.
cross someone’s palm with silver pay someone for a favour or service. often humorous

Crossing someone’s palm with silver was originally connected with the telling of fortunes, when the client would literally trace out the sign of a cross on the hand of the fortune-teller with a silver coin.
cross the Rubicon: see RUBICON.
cross swords have an argument or dispute.

Originally, this expression had the literal sense of ‘fight a duel’.

have your cross to bear suffer the troubles that life brings.

The reference here is to Jesus (or Simon of Cyrene) carrying the Cross to Calvary before the Crucifixion. The image is also used metaphorically in the New Testament (for example, in Matthew 10:38: ‘And he that taketh not his cross and followeth after me is not worthy of me’).
crossed get your wires (or lines) crossed have a misunderstanding.

Wires being crossed originally referred to a faulty telephone connection (‘a crossed line’), which resulted in another call or calls being heard.
crossfire be caught in the crossfire suffer damage or harm inadvertently as the result of the conflict between two other people or groups.

The literal sense of the phrase, in a military context, is ‘be trapped (and possibly killed) by being between two opposing sides who are shooting at each other’.

crossroads at a (or the) crossroads at a critical point, when decisions with far-reaching consequences must be made.
dirty work at the crossroads: see DIRTY.
crow as the crow flies used to refer to a shorter distance in a straight line across country rather than the distance as measured along a more circuitous road.
eat crow: see EAT.
crowd crowd the mourners exert undue pressure on someone. US informal pass in a crowd: see PASS. crowning crowning glory 1 the best and most notable aspect of something. 2 a person's hair. informal be cruel to be kind act towards someone in a way which seems harsh but will ultimately be of benefit.

In Shakespeare's Hamlet, 'I must be cruel only to be kind' was Hamlet's explanation of his reasons for bullying his mother about her second marriage.

be cruel to be kind act towards someone in a way which seems harsh but will ultimately be of benefit.

1998 Times The problem... is the unrealistic value of the Hong Kong dollar... it has been cruising for a bruising for most of last year.

cruising cruising for a bruising heading or looking for trouble. informal, chiefly North American 1998 Times The problem... is the unrealistic value of the Hong Kong dollar... it has been cruising for a bruising for most of last year.

crumb
crumbs from someone's (or a rich man's) table an unfair and inadequate or unsatisfactory share of something.

Luke 16:21 describes the beggar Lazarus as 'desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table'.

crunch
crunch when (or if) it comes to the crunch when (or if) a point is reached or an event occurs such that immediate and decisive action is required. informal when (or if) it comes to the crunch when (or if) a point is reached or an event occurs such that immediate and decisive action is required. informal 1998 Times She can't cry foul when subjected to fair and standard competition.

cry
cry for the moon: see MOON.

cry foul protest strongly about a real or imagined wrong or injustice.

Foul in this context means foul play, a violation of the rules of a game to which attention is drawn by shouting 'foul!'

1998 Times She can't cry foul when subjected to fair and standard competition.

cry from the heart a passionate and honest appeal or protest.

The French equivalent cri de coeur has also been in use in English since the early 20th century.

cry stinking fish disparage your own efforts or products.

1 This expression stems from the practice of street vendors crying their wares (i.e. shouting and praising their goods) to attract customers. If a vendor were to cry 'stinking fish', he could not expect to attract many.

1991 Independent on Sunday I want to use the Home Affairs Committee Report for those in racing to go forward together and at last to stop crying 'stinking fish'.

cry wolf: see WOLF.

in full cry expressing an opinion loudly and forcefully.

Full cry originated and is still used as a hunting expression referring to a pack of hounds all baying in pursuit of their quarry.

great (or much) cry and little wool a lot of fuss with little effect; a lot of fuss about nothing.

1 This expression comes from the idea of shearing pigs, where the result could be expected to be great cry and little wool.

crying
crying for crying out loud used to express your irritation or impatience. informal 1941 Rebecca West Black Lamb and Grey Falcon For crying out loud, why did you do it?

crystal
crystal clear 1 completely transparent and unclouded. 2 unambiguous; easily understood.

cuckoo
cuckoo in the nest an unwelcome intruder in a place or situation.

The female cuckoo often lays its eggs in other birds' nests. Once hatched, the cuckoo fledgling pushes the other birds' fledglings out of the nest.

cucumber
cucumber: see COOL.

cud
cud chew the cud 1 (of a ruminant animal) further chew partly digested food. 2 think or talk reflectively.

1992 DJ We chewed the cud, drank a few beers and at the end of the meal, Malu asked if I wanted to hit a club.

cry over spilt milk: see MILK.
cudgel

cudgel your brain (or brains) think hard about a problem.

This expression was used by Shakespeare in Hamlet: ‘Cudgel thy brains no more about it’.

take up the cudgels start to support someone or something strongly.

cue

on cue at the correct moment.

take your cue from follow the example or advice of.

Cue in both of these idioms is used in the theatrical sense of ‘the word or words that signal when another actor should speak or perform a particular action’.

cuff

off the cuff without preparation. informal

This expression refers to impromptu notes made on a speaker’s shirt cuffs as an aid to memory.

on the cuff 1 on credit. US informal 2 beyond what is appropriate or conventional. New Zealand 1992 Sandra Birdsell The Chrome Suite Their surveillance system keeps a beady eye open and they don’t let you buy groceries on the cuff.

culture

culture vulture a person who is very interested in the arts, especially to an obsessive degree.

The image of a vulture here is of a greedy and often undiscriminating eater.

cup

in your cups while drunk. informal

In your cups is now used mainly to mean ‘drunk’, but in former times the phrase could also mean ‘during a drinking bout’. Either could be intended in the passage in the Apocrypha regarding the strength of wine: ‘And when they are in their cups, they forget their love both to friends and brethren, and a little after draw out swords’ (1 Esdras 3.22).

1948 Vladimir Nabokov Letter I have received your letter… and can only excuse its contents by assuming that you were in your cups when you wrote it.

not your cup of tea not what you like or are interested in. informal curate

a curate’s egg something that is partly good and partly bad.

This expression stems from a Punch cartoon produced in 1895, showing a meek curate breakfasting with his bishop. BISHOP: I’m afraid you’ve got a bad egg, Mr Jones. CURATE: Oh no, my Lord, I assure you! Parts of it are excellent!

curdle

make your blood curdle: see BLOOD.

curiosity

curiosity killed the cat being inquisitive about other people’s affairs may get you into trouble. proverb curl

curl the mo succeed brilliantly; win. Australian informal make someone’s hair curl shock or horrify someone. informal

This expression may have developed in the mid 20th century as a dramatic or humorous variation of make someone’s hair stand on end (see HAIR).

out of curl lacking energy. British

This is an early 20th-century expression based on the idea that curly hair has vitality (as in ‘bouncy curls’). Therefore, hair which has become limp or out of curl may be thought to indicate listlessness or enervation.

current pass current be generally accepted as true or genuine. British

Pass current originally referred to the currency of a genuine coin, as opposed to a counterfeit one.

curry

curry favour ingratiate yourself with someone through obsequious behaviour.

Curry here means ‘groom a horse or other animal’ with a coarse brush or comb. The phrase is an early 16th-century alteration of the Middle English curry favel, Favel (or Faufel) being the name of a chestnut horse in an early 14th-century French romance who epitomized cunning and duplicity. From this ‘to groom Favel’ came to mean to use on him the cunning which he personified. It is unclear whether the bad reputation of chestnut horses existed before the French romance, but the idea is also found in 15th-century German in the phrase den fahlen hengst reiten (ride the chestnut horse) meaning ‘behave deceitfully’.

cut

b cut above superior to. informal 1998 Spectator Samuel was a scholar… and his contributions are a cut above the rest.

an atmosphere that you could cut with a knife: see ATMOSPHERE.

be cut out for (or to be) have exactly the right qualities for a particular role, task, or job. informal

The sense of cut out here is ‘formed or fashioned by cutting’, as the pieces of a garment are cut out from the fabric.

1992 Paul Auster Leviathan Whenever I stopped and examined my own behavior, I concluded that I wasn’t cut out for marriage.

cut and dried (of a situation, issue, or ideas) completely settled or decided.

A distinction was originally made between the cut and dried herbs sold in herbalists’ shops and growing herbs.

cut and run make a speedy or sudden departure from an awkward or hazardous situation rather than confront or deal with it. informal

Cut and run was originally an early 18th-century nautical phrase, meaning ‘sever the anchor cable because of an emergency and make sail immediately’.

cut and thrust 1. a spirited and rapid interchange of views. 2. a situation or sphere of activity regarded as carried out under adversarial conditions.

In fencing, a cut is a slashing stroke and a thrust one given with the point of the weapon.

cut both ways 1. (of a point or statement) serve both sides of an argument. 2. (of an action or process) have both good and bad effects.

The image behind this expression is that of a double-edged weapon (see double-edged sword at DOUBLE-EDGED).

1998 Sanjida O’Connell Angel Bird Words have the power to cut both ways and I was not strong enough to wield them.

cut corners undertake something in what appears to be the easiest, quickest, or cheapest way, often by omitting to do something important or ignoring rules.

This phrase comes from cutting (off) the corner, which means ‘taking the shortest course by going across and not round a corner’.

cut the crap get to the point; state the real situation. vulgar slang cut a dash be stylish or impressive in your dress or behaviour.

As a noun, dash in the sense of ‘showy appearance’ is now found only in this expression, but this sense does also survive in the adjective dashing.

cut someone dead completely ignore someone.

cut a deal come to an arrangement, especially in business; make a deal. North American informal

Cut here relates to the informal sense of the noun cut as ‘a share of profits’.

cut someone down to size deflate someone’s exaggerated sense of self-worth. informal cut a—figure present yourself or appear in a particular way.

1994 Vanity Fair David has cut a dashing figure on the international social scene.

cut from the same cloth of the same nature.

1999 Washington Post The last thing a franchise needs is for the two most important men at the top to be cut from the same cloth.

cut in line jump the queue. US

cut it meet the required standard. informal 1998 Spectator Heaven knows how such people get jobs in universities; they would not cut it on Fifteen-to-One.

cut it fine: see FINE.

cut the Gordian knot solve or remove a problem in a direct or forceful way. rejecting gentler or more indirect methods.

The knot referred to is that with which Gordius, king of ancient Phrygia (in Asia Minor), fastened the yoke of his wagon to the pole. Its complexity was such that it gave rise to the legend that whoever could undo it would become the ruler of Asia. When Alexander the Great passed that way en route to conquer the East he is said simply to have severed the knot with his sword.

The knot referred to is that with which Gordius, king of ancient Phrygia (in Asia Minor), fastened the yoke of his wagon to the pole. Its complexity was such that it gave rise to the legend that whoever could undo it would become the ruler of Asia. When Alexander the Great passed that way en route to conquer the East he is said simply to have severed the knot with his sword.

cut it out used to ask someone to stop doing or saying something that is annoying or offensive. informal cut loose distance yourself from a person, group, or system by which you are unduly influenced or on which you are over-dependent. begin to act without restraint. informal 1993 Isidore Okpewho Tides When the time comes that I feel my friends are not sufficiently behind me in what I’m trying to do, I’m going to cut loose from them.

cut your losses abandon an enterprise or course of action that is clearly going to be unprofitable or unsuccessful before you suffer too much loss or harm.

The sense of cut here is probably ‘sever yourself from’ rather than ‘reduce in size’.

1991 Jane Smiley A Thousand Acres Ginny is eternally hopeful, you know. She never cuts her losses. She always thinks things could change.

cut the mustard come up to expectations; meet the required standard. informal Mustard appears in early 20th-century US slang with the general meaning of ‘the best of anything’.

1998 New Scientist But if you want to go beyond this into hypersonic flight... they just don’t cut the mustard.

cut no ice have no influence or effect. informal 1973 Joyce Porter It’s Murder with Dover MacGregor remembered... that logical argument didn’t cut much ice with Dover and he abandoned it.

cut someone off (or down) in their prime bring someone’s life or career to an abrupt end while they are at the peak of their abilities.

the cut of someone’s jib the appearance or look of a person.

This was originally a nautical expression suggested by the prominence and characteristic form of the jib (a triangular sail set forward of the foremast) as the identifying characteristic of a ship.

cut a (or the) rug dance, typically in an energetic or accomplished way. North American informal 1966 Sky Magazine The wide-open spaces around the bar... mean, as it fills up, the place soon resembles a club and the punters are itching to cut a rug.

cut someone some slack see slack.

cut your teeth acquire initial practice or experience of a particular sphere of activity or with a particular organization.

The form cut your eye teeth is also found. The image is that of the emergence of a baby’s teeth from its gums.

cut to the chase come to the point. North American informal

In this idiom, cut is being used in the cinematographic sense ‘move to another shot in a film’. Chase scenes are a particularly exciting feature of some films, and the idiom expresses the idea of ignoring any preliminaries and coming immediately to the most important part.

cut up rough behave in an aggressive, quarrelsome, or awkward way. British informal

Cut up is here being used in the sense of ‘behave’. The phrase cut up rough is used by Dickens and the variant cut up savage (now no longer in use) by Thackeray.

1998 Spectator The jury, knowing full well that Clodius’ supporters could cut up rough, asked for and received state protection.

cut your coat according to your cloth undertake only what you have the money or ability to do and no more. proverb have your work cut out see work.

make (or miss) the cut come up to (or fail to come up to) a required standard.

In golf, a player has to equal or better a particular score in order to avoid elimination from the last two rounds of a four-round tournament. If the player succeeds, they make the cut.

cylinder

firing on all cylinders: see firing.
dab
be a dab hand at be expert at.

Dab in this sense is recorded since the late 17th century, but its origin is unknown.

1998 Bookseller Stephanie Cabot... is apparently a dab hand at milking cows, according to one of those mystifying diary items in Skateboarders’ Weekly.

dagger
at daggers drawn in a state of bitter enmity.

The image here is of the drawing of daggers as the final stage in a confrontation before actual fighting breaks out. Although recorded in 1668, the expression only became common from the early 19th century onwards.

look daggers at glare angrily or venomously at.

The expression speak daggers is also found and is used by Shakespeare’s Hamlet in the scene in which he reproaches his mother.

dag
rattle your dags hurry up. Australian & New Zealand informal

Dags are the excreta-clotted lumps of wool at the rear end of a sheep, which, in heavily fouled animals, rattle as they run.

daisy
fresh as a daisy very bright and cheerful. informal

This expression alludes to a daisy reopening its petals in the early morning or to its welcome appearance in springtime. The freshness of daisies has been a literary commonplace since at least the late 14th century, when it was used by Chaucer.

pushing up the daisies dead and buried. informal

This phrase, a humorous early 20th-century euphemism, is now the most frequently used of several daisy-related expressions for being in the grave. Other idioms include under the daisies and turn your toes up to the daisies, both dating from the mid 19th century.

damage
what’s the damage? used to ask the cost of something. informal

dammit
as near as dammit (or damn it) as close to being accurate as makes no difference. informal damn

not give a damn: see GIVE.

damn someone or something with faint praise praise someone or something so unenthusiastically as to imply condemnation.

This expression comes from the poet Alexander Pope’s Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot (1735): ‘Damn with faint praise, assent with civil leer, And without sneering, teach the rest to sneer’.

1994 Canadian Defence Quarterly True there is the occasional condescending nod to those who served, but this frequently amounts to damning with faint praise.

not be worth a damn have no value or validity at all. informal damned

damned if you do and damned if you don’t in some situations whatever you do is likely to attract criticism.

1998 Spectator Some of the media were critical of the photo... That did not stop them all running it on the front page. You’re damned if you do and damned if you don’t.

damnedest
do (or try) your damnedest do or try your utmost to do something.

The superlative form of the adjective damned is used here as a noun and can mean either ‘your worst’ or (more usually now) ‘your best’, depending on the context.

Damon
Damon and Pythias two faithful friends.
Phintias (the more correct form of the name) was condemned to death for plotting against Dionysius I of Syracuse. To enable Phintias to go to arrange his affairs, Damon offered to take his friend’s place in Dionysius’ prison and to be executed in his stead if he failed to return. Phintias returned just in time to redeem Damon, and Dionysius was so impressed by their friendship that he pardoned and released Phintias as well.

a damp squib an unsuccessful attempt to impress; an anticlimax.

This expression stems from the idea that a squib, a type of small firework, will not have the desired explosive effect if it is damp.

damper

put a (or the) damper (or dampener) on have a depressing, subduing, or inhibiting effect on someone or something.

damsel

damsel in distress a young woman in trouble. humorous

This expression makes humorous reference to the ladies in chivalric romances whose sole purpose was to be rescued from peril by a knight in shining armour (see knight).

dance

dance attendance on do your utmost to please someone by attending to all their needs or requests.

The expression originally referred to someone waiting ‘kicking their heels’ until an important person summoned them or would see them.

Yet Tammy and I sat on a vinyl bench seat and watched the visiting flow while Jan disappeared to dance attendance on her mother.

dance to someone’s tune comply completely with someone’s demands and wishes.

lead someone a (merry) dance cause someone a great deal of trouble or worry. British

dander

get your dander up lose your temper; become angry.

The sense of dander in this originally US expression is uncertain, as neither dandruff nor dunder (meaning ‘the ferment of molasses’) seems entirely plausible.

dangling

keep someone dangling keep someone, especially a would-be suitor, in an uncertain position.

dark

a dark horse a person, especially a competitor, about whom little is known.

The expression was originally horse-racing slang. The earliest recorded use was by Benjamin Disraeli in 1831: ‘A dark horse, which had never been thought of... rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph’.

keep someone in the dark ensure that someone remains in a state of ignorance about something.

2003 Village Voice It’s payback time for an administration that... has ignored lawmakers and... deliberately kept them in the dark.

keep something dark keep something secret from other people.

1993 New York Review of Books Ottoline was determined to keep her affair with Russell safe from Bloomsbury’s prying eyes and she and Russell went to Feydeaquesque lengths to keep their secret dark.

a shot (or stab) in the dark an act whose outcome cannot be foreseen; a mere guess.

The metaphorical use of in the dark to mean ‘in a state of ignorance’ dates from the late 17th century.

darken

never darken someone’s door (or doorstep) keep away from someone’s home permanently.

1988 Salman Rushdie The Satanic Verses They couldn’t lock her away in any old folks’ home, sent her whole family packing when they dared to suggest it, never darken her doorstep, she told them, cut the whole lot off without a penny or a by your leave.

dash

cut a dash: see CUT.

do your dash exhaust your energies or chances. Australian informal

1996 Charlie Higson Getting Rid of Mr Kitchen ‘You are the worst beggar I have ever encountered,’ I said. ‘Don’t give up the day job.’

from day one from the very beginning.

1996 Christopher Brookmyre Quite Ugly One Morning The system churns out junior doctors who have paid bugger-all attention to the meat and two veg medicine they will find themselves up to their necks in from day one.

have had your (or its) day be no longer popular, successful, or influential.

if he (or she) is a day at least (added to a statement about the age of a person or thing).

1992 Shashi Tharoor Show Business Lawrence must be fifty if he’s a day.

just another day at the office: see OFFICE.

make a day of it: see MAKE.

make someone’s day: see MAKE.

not someone’s day used to convey that someone has suffered a day of successive misfortunes. informal 1997 A. Sivanandan When Memory Dies He sighed inwardly, this was not his day.

one of those days a day when several things go wrong.

a red letter day: see RED.

seen (or known) better days be in a worse state than in the past; have become old, worn-out, or shabby.

that will be the day something is very unlikely to happen. informal 1991 Alistair Campbell Sidewinder ‘Now for my proposal, which you’ll find irresistible.’

‘That’ll be the day.’

those were the days used to assert that a particular past time was better in comparison with the present.

1997 Brenda Clough How Like a God ‘Those were the days,’ Rob said. ‘B.C.—before children! Remember?’

daylight

beat the living daylights out of someone a very severe beating. informal Daylight or daylights has been used from the mid 18th century as a metaphor for ‘eyes’, and here has the extended sense of any vital organ of the body.

burn daylight use artificial light in daytime; waste daylight.
frighten (or scare) the living daylights out of give someone a very severe fright.

> This expression was a mid 20th-century development from beat the living daylights out of, on the premise that the effect of extreme fear is as drastic as physical violence.

---

dead

dead and buried used to emphasize that something is finally and irrevocably in the past.

dead as a (or the) dodo

1. no longer alive.
2. no longer effective, valid, or interesting. informal

> The name dodo comes from Portuguese duodo meaning 'simpleton'. It was applied to the large flightless bird of Mauritius because the bird had no fear of man and so was easily killed, being quickly wiped out by visiting European sailors. The dodo's fate has made it proverbial for something that is long dead and the name has been used metaphorically for an old-fashioned, stupid, or unenlightened person since the 19th century.

---

dead as a doornail (or as mutton) completely dead.

> A doornail was one of the large iron studs formerly often used on doors for ornamentation or for added strength; the word occurred in various alliterative phrases (e.g. deaf as a doornail and dour as a doornail) but dead as a doornail is now the only one in common use.

---

a dead cat bounce a misleading sign of vitality in something that is really moribund. informal

> A dead cat might bounce if it is dropped from a great height: the fact of it bouncing does not reliably indicate that the cat is alive after all. The expression was coined in the late 20th century by Wall Street traders to refer to a situation in which a stock or company on a long-term, irrevocable downward trend suddenly shows a small temporary improvement.

---

dead from the neck (or chin) up stupid. informal

---

dead in the water unable to function effectively.

> Dead in the water was originally used of a ship and in this context means 'unable to move'.

---

a dead letter a law or practice no longer observed.

> This phrase was originally used with reference to passages in the biblical epistles in which St Paul compares the life-giving spirit of the New Testament with what he sees as the dead 'letter' of the Mosaic law. Later (until the late 19th century) Dead-letter Office was the name given to the organization that dealt with unclaimed mail or mail that could not be delivered for any reason. The expression has been used metaphorically for an obsolete or unobserved law since the mid 17th century.

---

dead men’s shoes see SHOE.

---

the dead of night the quietest, darkest part of the night.

the dead of winter the coldest part of winter.

> The sense of dead here and in the previous idiom developed in the 16th century from dead time of—, meaning the period most characterized by lack of signs of life or activity.

---

dead on your feet extremely tired. informal

> This expression was a development from the phrase dead tired, as an exaggerated way of expressing a feeling of exhaustion. Dead is sometimes also used on its own to mean 'exhausted'.

---

dead to the world fast asleep; unconscious. informal 2000 Michael Ondaatje Anil’s Ghost The nurse tried to wake him, but he was dead to the world.

---

from the dead

1. from a state of death.
2. from a period of obscurity or inactivity.
make a dead set at make a determined attempt to win the affections of. British

Dating from the early 19th century, this was originally a sporting idiom, referring to the manner in which a dog such as a setter or pointer stands stock still with its muzzle pointing in the direction of game.

over my dead body used to emphasize that you completely oppose something and would do anything to prevent it from happening. informal wouldn’t be seen (or caught) dead in (or with or at) — used to express strong dislike or disinclination for a particular thing or situation. informal 1997 Independent Kate’s books, said one literary editor, can be read happily by those who wouldn’t be seen dead with a Catherine Cookson.

deaf
deaf as an adder (or a post) completely or extremely deaf.

The traditional deafness of an adder is based on an image in Psalm 58:4: ‘the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear’.

fall on deaf ears (of a statement or request) be ignored by others. 1990 Ellen Kuzwayo Sit Down and Listen All efforts by her husband to dissuade her from wishing to leave fell on deaf ears.

deal
a big deal a thing considered important. informal big deal! used to express contempt for something regarded as impressive or important by another person. informal a raw (or rough) deal a situation in which someone receives unfair or harsh treatment. informal a square deal a fair bargain or treatment.

Square here has the sense of ‘honest’, which as an adjective was associated originally with honourable play at cards. See also on the square (at SQUARE).

death
at death’s door so ill that you may die. 1994 S. P. Somtow Jasmine Nights How stupid of me to trouble her with my petty problems when she’s probably at death’s door!

be the death of cause someone’s death.

Be the death of is generally used as an exaggerated or humorous way of describing the effects of laughter, embarrassment, boredom, or similar emotions. 1999 Chris Dolan Ascension Day If her mother ever found out that William Grant was in Glasgow, it'd be the death of her.

be frightened to death be made very alarmed and fearful. informal be in at the death 1 be present when a hunted animal is caught and killed. 2 be present when something fails or comes to an end.

catch your death (of cold) catch a severe cold or chill. informal a death’s head at the feast: see FEAST.

die a (or the) death come to an end; cease or fail to be popular or successful. 1999 Linedancer Our industry must expand . . . otherwise it will die a death with just a few clubs remaining.

do something to death perform or repeat something so frequently that it becomes tediously familiar.

a fate worse than death: see FATE.

like death warmed up extremely tired or ill. informal

Like death warmed up was originally military slang, recorded from the 1930s. The North American version is like death warmed over.

a matter of life and death: see LIFE.

deck
not playing with a full deck mentally deficient. North American informal

A deck in this phrase is a pack of playing cards.

on deck ready for action or work. North American

This expression refers to a ship’s main deck as the place where the crew musters to receive orders for action.

deep
dig deep 1 give money or other resources generously. 2 make a great effort to do something. informal

The idea here is of thrusting your hands deep into your pockets to find money with which to pay for something.
deliver

1991 Sports Illustrated You really have to dig deep night after night to get up for every game.

go off (or go in off) the deep end give way immediately to anger or emotion.
informal

This expression refers to the deep end of a swimming pool, where the diving board is located. In the USA the phrase has also developed the meaning 'go mad', but in either sense the underlying idea is of a sudden explosive loss of self-control.

in deep water (or waters) in trouble or difficulty.
informal

This expression is a biblical metaphor; see, for example, Psalm 69:14: ‘let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters’.

jump (or be thrown) in at the deep end face a difficult problem or undertaking with little experience of it.
informal

deliver

deliver the goods provide something promised or expected.
informal

delusion
delusions of grandeur a false impression of your own importance.

This expression is the equivalent of the French phrase folie de grandeur, which came into English in the late 19th century and is still used today.

demon

like a demon: see like the devil at DEVIL.

death

hidden depths admirable but previously unnoticed qualities.

out of your depth unable to cope due to lack of ability or knowledge.

Literally, if you are out of your depth you are in water too deep to stand in.

derry

have a derry on someone be prejudiced against someone.

This expression refers to the traditional song refrain derry down, and was a late 19th-century adaptation of have a down on (see DOWN).

1948 David Ballantyne The Cunninghams She didn’t like the Baptists though, had a derry on that crowd ever since Hilda took her to an evening service.

deserts
get (or receive) your just deserts receive what you deserve, especially appropriate punishment.

design

have designs on aim to obtain something desired, especially in an underhand way.

2003 Economist Hardliners... think America has designs on its oil, and will act against Iran once it has disposed of Saddam Hussein.

despite
despite yourself used to indicate that you did not intend to do the thing mentioned.

1995 Ginu Kamani Junglee Girl Sahil chuckled, despite himself.

deuce

a (or the) deuce of a — something very bad or difficult of its kind.

1933 John Galsworthy The End of the Chapter It seems there’s a deuce of a fuss in the Bolivian papers.

the deuce to pay trouble to be expected.

like the deuce very fast.

Deuce was first used in 17th-century English in various exclamatory expressions in which it was equated with ‘bad luck’ or ‘mischief’, because in dice-playing two (= deuce) is the lowest and most unlucky throw. From this there soon developed the sense of deuce as ‘the devil’ (i.e. bad luck or mischief personified). Deuce as a euphemism for the devil occurs in a number of expressions, including those above.

device

leave someone to their own devices leave someone to do as they wish without supervision.

Device in the sense of ‘inclination’ or ‘fancy’ now only occurs in the plural, and is found only in this expression or in the phrase devices and desires, as quoted from the General Confession in the Book of Common Prayer.

devil

between the devil and the deep blue sea caught in a dilemma; trapped between two equally dangerous alternatives.
devil-may-care  cheerfully or defiantly reckless.

a (or the) devil of a — something very large or bad of its kind. informal 1919 Katherine Mansfield Letter We had the devil of a great storm last night, lasting for hours, thunder, lightning, rain & I had appalling nightmares!

the devil’s in the detail the details of a matter are its most tricky or problematic aspect.

the devil’s own — a very difficult or great —. informal 1991 Mavis Nicholson Martha Jane & Me It was the devil’s own job to get her to give me some money for savings.

the devil to pay serious trouble to be expected.

This expression refers to the bargain formerly supposed to be made between magicians and the devil, the former receiving extraordinary powers or wealth in return for their souls.

give the devil his due if someone or something generally considered bad or undeserving has any redeeming features these should be acknowledged. proverb like the devil (or a demon) with great speed or energy.

play devil’s advocate take a side in an argument that is the opposite of what you really want or think.

A translation of the Latin phrase advocatus diaboli, devil’s advocate is the popular name for the official in the Roman Catholic Church who puts the case against a candidate for canonization or beatification; he is more properly known as promotor fidei ‘promoter of the faith’.

1994 Jude Deveraux The Invitation She had played devil’s advocate with herself a thousand times.

play the devil (or Old Harry) with damage or affect greatly.

Old Harry has been a nickname for the devil in northern England since the 18th century.

raise the devil make a noisy disturbance. informal sell your soul (to the devil): see SELL.

speak (or talk) of the devil said when a person appears just after being mentioned.

This phrase stems from the superstition that the devil will manifest himself if his name is spoken.

sup (or dine) with the devil have dealings with a cunning or malevolent person.

The proverb he who sups with the devil should have a long spoon is used especially to urge someone dealing with a person of this type to take care.

dialogue
dialogue of the deaf a discussion in which each party is unresponsive to what the others say.

The French equivalent dialogue des sourds is also sometimes used in English.

diamond
diamond cut diamond a situation in which a sharp-witted or cunning person meets their match. British 1863 Charles Reade Hard Cash He felt... sure his employer would outwit him if he could; and resolved it should be diamond cut diamond.

rough diamond: see ROUGH.

dice
dice with death take serious risks.

Dice with is used here in the general sense of ‘play a game of chance with’. In the mid 20th century dice with death was a journalistic cliché used to convey the risks taken by racing drivers; the expression seems for some time to have been especially connected with motoring, although it is now used of other risky activities. It gave rise to the use of dicing as a slang word among drivers for ‘driving in a race’, and it can be compared with dicey meaning ‘dangerous’, a word which originated in 1950s air-force slang.

load the dice against: see LOAD.

no dice used to refuse a request or indicate that there is no chance of success. North American informal 1990 Paul Auster The Music of Chance Sorry kid. No dice. You can talk yourself blue in the face, but I’m not going.

dicky bird

not a dicky bird not a word; nothing at all. informal

Dicky bird is rhyming slang for ‘word’.
Sammy put his ear to where he thought its heart ought to be: not a dickybird.

dictionary
have swallowed a dictionary use long and obscure words when speaking. informal dido

cut didoes perform mischievous tricks or deeds. North American informal die

die a death: see DEATH.
die hard disappear or change very slowly.

This expression seems to have been used first of criminals who died resisting to the last on the Tyburn gallows in London. At the battle of Albuera in 1811, during the Peninsular War, William Inglis, commander of the British 57th Regiment of Foot, exhorted his men to ‘die hard’; they acted with such heroism that the regiment earned the nickname Die-hards. The name was attached later in the century to various groupings in British politics who were determinedly opposed to change. The word diehard is still often used of someone who is stubbornly conservative or reactionary.

die in your bed suffer a peaceful death from natural causes.
die in harness die before retirement.

This expression is drawing a comparison between a person at work and a horse in harness drawing a plough or cart.

1992 Harper’s Magazine Don’t overly concern yourself with the union pension fund. Musicians mostly die in harness.
die in the last ditch die desperately defending something; die fighting to the last extremity.

This expression comes from a remark attributed to King William III (1650–1702). Asked whether he did not see that his country was lost, he is said to have responded: ‘There is one way never to see it lost, and that is to die in the last ditch’. Last-ditch is often used as an adjective meaning ‘desperately resisting to the end’.

the die is cast an event has happened or a decision has been taken that cannot be changed.

This expression has its origins in Julius Caesar’s remark as he was about to cross the Rubicon, as reported by the Roman historian Suetonius; jacta alea esto ‘let the die be cast’.

die like flies: see FLY. die on the vine be unsuccessful at an early stage. Compare with wither on the vine (at WITHER).
die on your feet come to a sudden or premature end. informal die with your boots on die while actively occupied.

Die with your boots on was apparently first used in the late 19th century of the deaths of cowboys and others in the American West who were killed in gun battles or hanged.

never say die used to encourage someone not to give up hope in a difficult situation.

straight as a die absolutely straight.

entirely open and honest.

1920 Blackwood’s Magazine The ... Ganges Canal... runs straight as a die between its wooded banks.

to die for extremely good or desirable.

informal

1990 Los Angeles Farther down the street is Tutti’s, an Italian deli-restaurant that serves up... hazelnut torte to die for.

differ
agree to differ: see AGREE.

different

different strokes for different folks different things please or are effective with different people. proverb

This chiefly US expression was used as a slogan in the early 1970s in a Texan drug abuse project.

dig dig the dirt (or dig up dirt) discover and reveal damaging information about someone. informal

Dirt is commonly used as a metaphor for unsavoury gossip or scandal, as in, for example, dish the dirt (see DISH).

dig in your heels resist stubbornly; refuse to give in.

The image here is of a horse or other animal obstinately refusing to be led or ridden forwards. Dig in your heels is the commonest form, but dig in your toes and dig in your feet are also found.
dig yourself into a hole (or dig a hole for yourself) get yourself into an awkward or restrictive situation.

dig your own grave do something foolish which causes you to fail or leads to your downfall.

1995 Colin Bateman Divorcing Jack Then I thought about Patricia again and how much I was missing her and how I'd dug my own grave over the phone.

dig a pit for try to trap.

This is a common biblical metaphor: for example, in Jeremiah 18:20 we find ‘they have digged a pit for my soul’.

dignity

beneath your dignity of too little importance or value for you to do it.

The Latin equivalent is infra dignitatem, and the humorous abbreviation of this, infra dig, is sometimes used in informal contexts.

stand on your dignity insist on being treated with due respect.

dim

take a dim view of: see VIEW.

dime

a dime a dozen very common and of no particular value. US informal

A dime is a small US coin worth ten cents which occurs in various US expressions as a metaphor for cheapness or smallness.

1998 New Scientist Of course, medical breakthroughs are not a dime a dozen.

drop the dime on: see DROP.

get off the dime be decisive and show initiative. US informal 2001 U.S. News & World Report Congress must get off the dime and redeem the commitments that President Bush made to New York City.

on a dime (of a manoeuvre that can be performed by a moving vehicle or person) within a small area or short distance.

The British equivalent to sense 1 is on a sixpence (see SIXPENCE).

diminishing

the law of diminishing returns used to refer to the point at which the level of profits or benefits to be gained is reduced to less than the amount of money or energy invested.

This expression originated in the early 19th century with reference to the profits from agriculture.

dine

dine out on regularly entertain friends with a humorous story or interesting piece of information.

1998 Fannie Flagg Welcome to the World, Baby Girl! I didn’t have a great childhood but I’m not going to dine out on it. I hate whiners.

dinkum

fair dinkum genuine or true. (of behaviour) acceptable. Australian & New Zealand informal

As a noun dinkum, recorded from the late 19th century, was an English dialect word meaning ‘hard work, honest toil’; it now mainly features as an adjective in various Australian and New Zealand expressions.

dinner done like (a) dinner utterly defeated or outwitted. Australian & Canadian informal 1978 C. Green The Sun Is Up I had old Splinters Maloney the fishing inspector knocking on me door wanting to see me licence. Of course I was done like a dinner.

more — than someone has had hot dinners someone’s experience of a specified activity or phenomenon is vastly greater than someone else’s. British informal 1998 Odds On Triplett has been second more times than he’s had hot dinners, and there must be a question about his bottle, but he has two qualities that will stand him in good stead at the Olympic Club.

dinner pail

hand in your dinner pail die. informal

A dinner pail was the bucket in which a workman formerly carried his dinner; compare with kick the bucket (at KICK).

dint

by dint of by means of.

Dint in the sense of ‘blow’ or ‘stroke’ is now archaic, and in the sense of ‘application of force’ survives only in this phrase.

dip

dip your pen in gall write unpleasantly or spitefully.
dirt

dip your toe into something: begin to do or test something cautiously.

dirt

do someone dirt: harm someone maliciously. informal

1939 Nathaniel West The Day of the Locust I remember those who do me dirt and those who do me favors.

drag someone through the dirt: see drag.

eat dirt: see eat.

treat someone like dirt: treat someone contemptuously or unfairly.

1996 Just Seventeen He was only nice to me in private—as soon as he was around other people he’d treat me like dirt.

dirty

the dirty end of the stick: the difficult or unpleasant part of a task or situation. informal 2000 Sunday Times (Johannesburg) I still feel a bit sorry for Hugh, he always seems to get the dirty end of the stick.

dirty work at the crossroads: illicit or underhand dealing. humorous 1914 P. G. Wodehouse The Man Upstairs A conviction began to steal over him that some game was afoot which he did not understand, that—in a word—there was dirty work at the crossroads.

do the dirty on someone: cheat or betray someone. British informal get your hands dirty: become manual, menial, or other hard work.

do dirty work: become directly involved in dishonest or dishonorable activity. informal 1998 Spectator Unlike its sister churches in the West, the Catholic Church in the Philippines is not afraid to get its hands dirty.

play dirty: act in a dishonest or unfair way. informal talk dirty: speak about sex in a way considered to be coarse or obscene. informal wash your dirty linen in public: see linen.

disappearing

do a disappearing act: go away without being seen to go, especially when someone is looking for you.

1 The suggestion here is that the person has vanished as completely and inexplicably as things vanish in a magician’s act.

disaster

be a recipe for disaster: be almost certain to have unfortunate consequences.

discretion

discretion is the better part of valour: it’s better to avoid a dangerous situation than to confront it. proverb dish

dish the dirt: reveal or spread scandalous information or gossip. informal 1997 New Scientist We love revisionist biographies that dish the dirt on our icons.

dishwater

dull as dishwater: see dull.

distance

go the distance: complete a difficult task or endure an ordeal.

1 Go the distance is a metaphor from boxing that means, when used of a boxer, ‘complete a fight without being knocked out’ or, when used of a boxing match, ‘last the scheduled length’. In the USA there is an additional baseball-related sense: ‘pitch for the entire length of an inning’.

1998 Times ‘Everyone wants to see an amateur who can go the distance,’ another spectator said. Kuchar has certainly gone the distance.

within spitting distance: within a very short distance.

1991 Time His reputation as a hard-boiled novelist is within spitting distance of Hammett’s and Chandler’s.

within striking distance: near enough to hit or achieve.

ditchwater

dull as ditchwater: see dull as dishwater at dull.
dive
take a dive (of a boxer or footballer) pretend to fall so as to deceive an opponent or referee. (of prices, hopes, fortunes, etc.) fall suddenly and significantly, informal 1998 New Scientist When the DOJ announced its action, Microsoft's stock price took a dive, knocking $10 billion off the firm's market value.
divide
divide and rule (or conquer) the policy of maintaining supremacy over your opponents by encouraging dissent between them, thereby preventing them from uniting against you.
1 This is a maxim associated with a number of rulers, and is found in Latin as divide et impera and in German as entzwei und gebiete. Since the early 17th century, English writers have often wrongly attributed it to the Italian political philosopher Niccolò Machiavelli (1469–1527).
divided divided against itself (of a group which should be a unified whole) split by factional interests.
1 This expression originates in Jesus's words in Matthew 12:25: 'every city or house divided against itself shall not stand'.
 Dixie
whistle Dixie engage in unrealistic fantasies; waste your time. US 1 Dixie is an informal name for the Southern states of the USA. The marching song 'Dixie' (1859) was popular with Confederate soldiers in the American Civil War.
dock
in dock (of a ship) moored in a dock. (of a person) not fully fit and out of action. British informal (of a vehicle) in a garage for repairs.
in the dock under investigation or scrutiny for suspected wrongdoing or harm caused. British 1 In a court of law, the dock is the enclosure where the defendant stands during a trial.
doctor be just what the doctor ordered be very beneficial or desirable under the circumstances. informal 1948 Gore Vidal The City and the Pillar The waiter brought her a drink. 'Just what the doctor ordered,' she said, smiling at him. go for the doctor make an all-out effort. Australian informal dodge dodge the column shirk your duty; avoid work. British informal 1 Column is a military term which refers to the usual formation of troops for marching.
dodo
dead as a dodo: see DEAD.
dog dog-and-pony show an elaborate display or performance designed to attract people's attention. North American informal 1998 Spectator Happy as I always am to help the Bank of England, I have ... supplied the script for its euro dog and pony show.
dog eat dog a situation of fierce competition in which people are willing to harm each other in order to succeed.
This expression makes reference to the proverb dog does not eat dog, which dates back to the mid 16th century in English and before that to Latin canis caninam non est 'a dog does not eat dog's flesh'.

1998 Rebecca Ray A Certain Age It's dog eat dog, it's every man for himself... Right from the start, fighting amongst ourselves for the few decent wages left.

dog in the manger a person inclined to prevent others from having or using things that they do not want or need themselves.

This expression comes from the fable of the dog that lay in a manger to prevent the ox and horse from eating the hay.

the dog's bollocks the best person or thing of its kind. British vulgar slang a dog's dinner (or breakfast) a poor piece of work; a mess. British informal

The image is of a dog's meal of jumbled-up scraps.

2000 Independent He was rightly sacked because he had made such a dog's dinner of an important job.

a dog's life an unhappy existence full of problems or unfair treatment.

1987 Fannie Flagg Fried Green Tomatoes at the Whistle Stop Cafe The judge's daughter had just died a couple of weeks ago, old before her time and living a dog's life on the outskirts of town.

dog tired extremely tired; utterly worn out. informal

The image here, and in the variant dog weary, is of a dog exhausted after a long chase or hunt.

dogs of war the havoc accompanying military conflict. literary mercenary soldiers.

This phrase is from Shakespeare's Julius Caesar 'let slip the dogs of war'. The image is of hunting dogs being loosed from their leashes to pursue their prey.

1998 Times The good guys... may have broken the rules by employing dogs of war.

dressed (up) like a dog's dinner wearing ridiculously smart or ostentatious clothes. British informal every dog has his (or its) day everyone will have good luck or success at some point in their lives. proverb give a dog a bad name it is very difficult to lose a bad reputation, even if it is unjustified.

This is a shortened version of the proverb give a dog a bad name and hang him, which was known from the early 18th century.

go to the dogs deteriorate shockingly, especially in behaviour or morals. informal

This idiom derives from the fact that attending greyhound races was once thought likely to expose a person to moral danger and the risk of incurring great financial loss.

1997 Daily Telegraph If you read the English media or watch the cretinities of television, you would think that the country is going to the dogs.

the hair of the dog: see HAIR.

help a lame dog over a stile come to the aid of a person in need.

in a dog's age in a very long time. North American informal keep a dog and bark yourself pay someone to work for you and then do the work yourself.

1991 Purchasing and Supply Management He does not solve the subcontractor's technical problems, keeping a dog and barking himself.

let the dog see the rabbit let someone get on with work they are ready and waiting to do. informal

This phrase comes from greyhound racing, where the dogs chase a mechanical rabbit around a track.

let sleeping dogs lie: see SLEEPING.

like a dog with two tails showing great pleasure; delighted.

The image here is of a dog wagging its tail as an expression of happiness.

not a dog's chance no chance at all.

put on the dog behave in a pretentious or ostentatious way. North American informal

Dog was late 19th-century US slang for 'style' or a 'flashy display'.

1962 Anthony Gilbert No Dust in the Attic Matron put on a lot of dog about the hospital's responsibility.

rain cats and dogs: see RAIN.

sick as a dog: see SICK.

throw someone to the dogs discard someone as worthless.
you can’t teach an old dog new tricks
you cannot make people change their ways.
proverb

doggo

lie doggo remain motionless or quiet. British

Lie doggo is of uncertain origin, but probably arose from a dog’s habit of lying motionless or apparently asleep but nonetheless alert.

doghouse

in the doghouse (or dogbox) in disgrace or disfavour. informal

1963 Pamela Hansford Johnson Night & Silence He’d been getting bad grades, he was in the dog-house as it was.

dollar

be dollars to doughnuts that be a certainty that. North American informal 1936 James Curtis The Gift Kid

If he were seen it was dollars to doughnuts that he would be arrested.

do your best
you can bet your bottom dollar: see you can bet your boots at BET.

done

a done deal a plan or project that has been finalized or accomplished.

1991 New Yorker The French are still overreacting to German unification, even though it is a done deal.

done for
in a situation so bad that it is impossible to get out of it. informal

1993 Catholic Herald
Don’t you realise that without that contract we’re done for?

done in

extremely tired, informal

1999 Chris Dolan Ascension Day
Morag was too upset and Paris was too done in to try and work out what was happening.

donkey

for donkey’s years for a very long time. informal

For donkey’s years is a pun referring to the length of a donkey’s ears and playing on a former pronunciation of ears.

1998 Ardal O’Hanlon The Talk of the Town
He’ll be no loss, that’s for sure. Sure his own family haven’t spoken to him for donkey’s years.

doodah

all of a doodah very agitated or excited. informal

The nonsense word doodah is the refrain of the song ‘Camptown Races’, originally sung by slaves on American plantations.

doom

doom and gloom a general feeling of pessimism or despondency.

This expression, sometimes found as gloom and doom, was particularly pertinent to fears about a nuclear holocaust during the cold war period of the 1950s and 1960s. It became a catchphrase in the 1968 film Finian’s Rainbow.

doomsday

till doomsday for ever.

Doomsday means literally ‘judgement day’, the Last Judgement of Christian tradition.

door

as one door closes, another opens you shouldn’t be discouraged by failure, as other opportunities will soon present themselves. proverb

at death’s door see DEATH.

close (or shut) the door on (or to) exclude the opportunity for; refuse to consider.

1999 South China Morning Post
Fergie did not close the door on the couple reconciling some day.

door to door (of a journey) from start to finish. © visiting all the houses in an area to sell or publicize something.

lay something at someone’s door regard or name someone as responsible for something.

This phrase may have arisen from the practice of leaving an illegitimate baby on the doorstep of the man who was identified as its father.

leave the door open for ensure that there is still an opportunity for something.

open the door to create an opportunity for.

1995 Kindred Spirit
By recreating the space in which you live or work, Feng Shui can open the door to abundance, wellbeing and a Renewed Sense of Purpose!

show someone the door dismiss someone unceremoniously from your presence.
a toe in the door: see TOE.

door

doornail
dead as a doornail: see DEAD.

doornail

donstep

on your (or the) doorstep very near; close at hand. 1998 New Scientist The solution to Underhill’s problem was on his doorstep.

dose

a dose of your own medicine: see MEDICINE.
in small doses experienced or engaged in a little at a time. 1994 American Spectator In small doses, ironical detachment is as necessary for getting along in life as ... any of the other human qualities.

like a dose of salts very fast and efficiently. British informal

The salts referred to in this expression are laxatives.

1991 Peter Carey The Tax Inspector She’s going to go through your old man like a dose of salts.

dot

dot the i’s and cross the t’s ensure that all details are correct. informal on the dot exactly on time. informal

The dot referred to is that appearing on a clock face to mark the hour.

1998 Oldie The Conditions of Sale state that the buyer has to pay the auctioneer on the dot.

the year dot a very long time ago. British informal 1998 Spectator From the year dot there has been an uneasy relationship between press and police.

double

at (or on) the double at running speed; very fast.

This modern generalized sense has developed from the mid 19th-century military use of double pace to mean twice the number of steps per minute of slow pace.

double or nothing a gamble to decide whether a loss or debt should be doubled or cancelled.

A British variant of double or nothing is double or quits.

double-edged

a double-edged sword (or weapon) a course of action or situation having both positive and negative effects. 2000 Investor A rising pound is a double-edged sword when investing overseas.

doubting

a doubting Thomas a person who refuses to believe something without having incontrovertible proof; a sceptic.

In the Bible, the apostle Thomas said that he would not believe that Christ had risen from the dead until he had seen and touched his wounds (John 20:24–9).

dovecote

flutter the dovecotes: see FLUTTER.

down

down and dirty unprincipled; unpleasant. energetically earthy, direct, or sexually explicit. North American informal down and out beaten in the struggle of life; completely without resources or means of livelihood.

The phrase down and out comes from boxing, and refers to a boxer who is knocked out by a blow. Since the early 20th century the noun down-and-out has been used to describe a person without money, a job, or a place to live.

down in the mouth (of a person or their expression) unhappy or dejected. informal down on your luck experiencing a period of bad luck. informal down the road in the future; later on. informal, chiefly North American

An Australian variant of this phrase is down the track.

down the tube (or tubes) lost or wasted. informal 2001 High Country News I’ve already lost my alfalfa crop; that’s about $20,000 down the tubes.

down to the ground completely; totally. informal 1997 Daily Mail Sly’s better sense of comic timing suits the tongue-in-cheek script down to the ground.

down tools stop work, typically as a form of industrial action. British informal have (or put) someone or something down as judge someone or something to be a particular type or class of person or thing.
1914 M. A. Von Arnim The Pastor’s Wife The other excursionists were all in pairs; they thought Ingeborg was too, and put her down at first as the German gentleman’s wife because he did not speak to her.

have a (or be) down on disapprove of; feel hostile or antagonistic towards. informal downgrade on the downgrade in decline. North American

1 Downgrade was originally used literally of a downward slope.

1935 William Burroughs Letter As a matter of fact the whole region is on the downgrade. The rubber business is shot, the cocoa is eat up with broom rot.

downhill
be downhill all the way ① be easy in comparison with what came before. ② become worse or less successful.
go downhill become worse; deteriorate.
downwardly downwardly mobile: see MOBILE. dozen
a baker’s dozen: see BAKER.
talk nineteen to the dozen: see TALK.
drag
drag your feet (or heels) (of a person or organization) be deliberately slow or reluctant to act.
1994 Nature Conservancy We can’t afford to drag our feet until a species is at the brink of extinction.
drag someone or something through the dirt (or mud) make damaging allegations about someone or something.
1998 Economist The deputy prime minister . . . is having his name dragged through the mud.
dragon
chase the dragon: see CHASE.
sow (or plant) dragon’s teeth take action that is intended to prevent trouble, but which actually brings it about.

1 In Greek legend, Cadmus killed a dragon and sowed its teeth, which sprang up as armed men; these men then killed one another, leaving just five survivors who became the ancestors of the Thebans.
draw

draw a bead on: see BEAD.
draw a blank: see BLANK.
draw someone’s fire attract hostility or criticism away from a more important target.
draw the (or a) line at set a limit of what you are willing to do or accept, beyond which you will not go.
1995 Kate Atkinson Behind the Scenes at the Museum She even manages to persuade Gillian not to cheat . . . although Gillian draws the line at not screaming when she loses.
draw the short straw: see STRAW.
draw stumps cease doing something.

1 In the game of cricket, the stumps are taken out of the ground at the close of play.

draw the short straw: see STRAW.
draw stumps cease doing something.

draw stumps this short straw cease doing something.

1 In Greek legend, Cadmus killed a dragon and sowed its teeth, which sprang up as armed men; these men then killed one another, leaving just five survivors who became the ancestors of the Thebans.
draw

draw a bead on: see BEAD.
draw a blank: see BLANK.
draw someone’s fire attract hostility or criticism away from a more important target.
draw the (or a) line at set a limit of what you are willing to do or accept, beyond which you will not go.
1995 Kate Atkinson Behind the Scenes at the Museum She even manages to persuade Gillian not to cheat . . . although Gillian draws the line at not screaming when she loses.
draw the short straw: see STRAW.
draw stumps cease doing something.

1 In the game of cricket, the stumps are taken out of the ground at the close of play.

draw the short straw: see STRAW.
draw stumps cease doing something.

draw stumps this short straw cease doing something.

1 In Greek legend, Cadmus killed a dragon and sowed its teeth, which sprang up as armed men; these men then killed one another, leaving just five survivors who became the ancestors of the Thebans.
drain

down the drain totally wasted or spoilt.
informal
1930 W. Somerset Maugham The Breadwinner All his savings are gone down the drain.
drama
make a drama out of exaggerate the importance of a minor problem or incident. informal draught feel the draught experience an adverse change in your financial circumstances. informal 192 Daily Express Redland . . . felt the draught of George Wimpey’s interim profits slide.

draw

draw a bead on: see BEAD.
draw a blank: see BLANK.
draw someone’s fire attract hostility or criticism away from a more important target.
draw the (or a) line at set a limit of what you are willing to do or accept, beyond which you will not go.
1995 Kate Atkinson Behind the Scenes at the Museum She even manages to persuade Gillian not to cheat . . . although Gillian draws the line at not screaming when she loses.
draw the short straw: see STRAW.
draw stumps cease doing something.

1 In the game of cricket, the stumps are taken out of the ground at the close of play.

draw the short straw: see STRAW.
draw stumps cease doing something.

draw stumps this short straw cease doing something.

1 In Greek legend, Cadmus killed a dragon and sowed its teeth, which sprang up as armed men; these men then killed one another, leaving just five survivors who became the ancestors of the Thebans.
dream

beyond your wildest dreams bigger, better, or to a greater extent than it would be reasonable to expect or hope for.

dream in colour (or Technicolour) be wildly unrealistic.

in your dreams used to assert that something much desired is not likely ever to happen.

dream in colour (or Technicolour) be wildly unrealistic.

like a dream very well or successfully. informal never in your wildest dreams used to emphasize that something is beyond the scope of your imagination.

dressed

dressed to kill wearing attractive and flamboyant clothes in order to make a striking impression.

drink

drink like a fish drink excessive amounts of alcohol, especially habitually.

drink someone under the table consume more alcohol than your drinking companion without becoming as drunk. informal drive

drive a coach and horses through: see COACH.

drive something home: see HOME.

let drive attack with blows, missiles, or criticism.

driver

in the driver’s (or driving) seat in charge of a situation.

driving

what someone is driving at the point that someone is attempting to make.

1986 Robert Sproat Stunning the Punters Martin is always saying things where I can’t see what he’s driving at.

drop

at the drop of a hat without delay or good reason. informal 1991 Independent These days Soviet visas are issued at the drop of a hat.

drop your aitches fail to pronounce the ‘h’ sound, especially at the beginning of words.

In Britain, dropping your aitches is considered by some to be a sign of a lack of education or of inferior social class.

1903 George Bernard Shaw Man & Superman This man takes more trouble to drop his aitches than ever his father did to pick them up.

drop dead die suddenly and unexpectedly, informal 1998 Spectator Yet he never escaped from his own nagging suspicion that he had somehow overachieved... and that he was likely to drop a huge clanger at any moment.

drop the ball make a mistake; mishandle things. North American informal drop a brick make an indiscreet or embarrassing remark. British informal drop your bundle become very nervous or upset; go to pieces. Australian drop a clanger make an embarrassing or foolish mistake. British informal drop the (or a) dime on inform on someone to the police. US informal 1990 Scott Turow The Burden of Proof Dixon says he’s thought it over, the best course for him is just to drop the dime on John.

drop your guard: see GUARD.
drop a hint (or drop hints) let fall a hint or hints, as if casually or unconsciously.
drop someone or something like a hot potato: see HOT.
drop someone a line send someone a note or letter in a casual manner.
a drop in the ocean (or in a bucket) a very small amount compared with what is needed or expected.
1995 Ian Rankin Let It Bleed A few million was a drop in the ocean, hardly a ripple.
drop names: see NAME.
drop the pilot: see PILOT.
drop your trousers deliberately let your trousers fall down, especially in a public place.
fit (or ready) to drop worn out; exhausted.
have the drop on have the advantage over.
informal

Have the drop on was originally a mid 19th-century US expression used literally to mean that you have the opportunity to shoot before your opponent can use their weapon.

2000 Clay Shooting He always seems to have the drop on me by one bird no matter how hard I try.

drown
drown your sorrows forget your problems by getting drunk.
drowned
like a drowned rat extremely wet and bedraggled.

duck
break your duck score the first run of your innings. Cricket make your first score or achieve a particular feat for the first time. British duck and dive use your ingenuity to deal with or evade a situation.
1998 New Scientist You don't last for over 100 million years without some capacity to duck and dive.

duck and dive: see WEATHER.

get (or have) your ducks in a row get (or have) your facts straight; get (or have) everything organized. North American informal 1996 Brew Your Own You really want to have all your ducks in a row before the meeting.

like a dying duck in a thunderstorm having a dejected or hopeless expression.
informal

The miserable demeanour of ducks during thunder has been proverbial since the late 18th century.
1933 Agatha Christie Lord Edgcote Dies You did look for all the world like a dying duck in a thunderstorm.
lame duck a person or thing that is powerless or in need of help. informal

In the mid 18th century, lame duck was used in a stock-market context, with reference to a person or company that could not fulfil their financial obligations. Later, from the mid 19th century, it was used specifically with reference to US politicians in the final period of office, after the election of their successor.

1998 Spectator At some point in his second and final term, every president becomes a lame duckling

an ugly duckling: see UGLY.

dudgeon

in high dudgeon in a state of deep resentment.

1938 Zane Grey Raiders of the Spanish Peaks Neale left in high dudgeon to take his case to his court of appeal—his mother.

duff

up the duff pregnant. British informal 1994 Daily Telegraph At 19, he was married (‘only because she was up the duff’ he explains gallantly).

duke

duke it out fight it out. North American informal Dukes or dooks are ‘fists’, especially when raised in a fighting position. The word comes from rhyming slang Duke of Yorks, ‘forks’ (i.e. fingers).

dull

dull as dishwater (or ditchwater) extremely dull.

dull the edge of make less sensitive, interesting, or effective.
dusty
a dusty answer a curt and unhelpful reply. British

1 The source of this expression is probably a passage in George Meredith's Modern Love (1862): 'Ah, what a dusty answer gets the soul when hot for certainties in this our life!'

Dutch
Dutch courage bravery induced by drinking alcohol.

1 The phrase Dutch courage stems from a long-standing British belief that the Dutch are extraordinarily heavy drinkers.

a Dutch uncle a kindly but authoritative figure.

1 Dutch here probably means no more than that the person described is not a genuine blood relation. In the mid 19th century I will talk to him like a Dutch uncle (meaning 'I will give him a lecture') was noted as being an American expression.

1999 Daily Telegraph She was the kindest of Dutch uncles, always prepared to listen to one’s troubles.

go Dutch share the cost of something equally.

1 An outing or entertainment paid for in this way is a Dutch treat and sharing the cost of a meal in a restaurant is eating Dutch.

1993 Vanity Fair He insists on buying his own tickets, 'going Dutch', as he puts it.

in Dutch in trouble. US informal, dated 1939 Raymond Chandler The Big Sleep And for that amount of money you’re willing to get yourself in Dutch with half the law enforcement of this country?

that beats the Dutch that is extraordinary or startling. US

Dutchman
I'm a Dutchman used to express your disbelief or as a way of underlining an emphatic assertion. British 1994 Ian Botham My Autobiography I read somewhere that Warne said he had been possessed by demons. Well, in that case I’m a Dutchman.

duty
duty bound morally or legally obliged to do something.

dwaal
in a dwaal in a dreamy, dazed, or absent-minded state. South African 1985 Paul Slabolepsy Saturday Night at the Palace Yassas—Carstens!! Wake up, man. You in a real dwaal tonight.

dyed
dyed in the wool (of a person) completely and permanently fixed in a particular belief or opinion; inveterate.

1 If yarn is dyed in the raw state, it produces a more even and permanent colour.

dying
to your dying day for the rest of your life.

1967 George Mackay Brown A Calendar of Love This one always was and ever will be to his dying day a garrulous long-winded old man.

dyke
put your finger in the dyke attempt to stem the advance of something undesirable which threatens to overwhelm you. informal

1 This expression stems from the story of a small Dutch boy who saved his community from flooding by placing his finger in a hole in a dyke.
eager
an eager beaver a person who is very enthusiastic about work. informal ear

be all ears be listening eagerly and attentively. informal bring something (down) about your ears bring something, especially misfortune, on yourself.

dry behind the ears mature or experienced.
fall on deaf ears: see DEAF.

have someone’s ear have access to and influence with someone.

have something by the ears keep or obtain a secure hold on.

have something coming out of your ears have a substantial or excessive amount of something.

have (or keep) an ear to the ground be well informed about events and trends.

in one ear and out the other heard but disregarded or quickly forgotten.

lend an ear: see LEND.

listen with half an ear not give your full attention to someone or something.

make a pig’s ear of: see PIG.

make a silk purse out of a sow’s ear: see SILK.

out on your ear dismissed or ejected ignominiously. informal set by the ears cause people to quarrel.

someone’s ears are flapping someone is listening intently in order to overhear something not intended for them.

turn a deaf ear: see DEAF.

up to your ears in very busy with or deeply involved in. informal wet behind the ears immature or inexperienced.

someone’s ears are burning someone is subconsciously aware of being talked about, especially in their absence.

The superstition that your ears tingle when you are being talked about is recorded from the mid 16th century. Originally it was the left ear only that was supposed to do so.

early
early bird a person who gets up, arrives, or acts before the usual or expected time.

early doors early on, especially in a game or contest. British informal it’s early days it is too soon to be sure how a particular situation will develop. British informal take an early bath be sent off in a game of football or other sport. fail early on in a race or contest. informal 2003 Guardian Jeremy Vine, hosting Radio 2’s music industry debate last night, got a dig in early doors about his hallowed predecessor on the station.

2 1992 Bowlers’ World Defending champion Dave Phillips took an early bath losing all his three opening qualifying games.
earn

earn your corn put in a lot of effort for your wages. British informal earn your keep be worth the time, money, or effort spent on you.

earner
a nice little earner a profitable activity or business. British informal 1996 Independent Today's children know a nice little earner when they see one.

earth
come back (down) to earth (or bring someone back (down) to earth) return or make someone return suddenly to reality after a period of daydreaming or euphoria.

2003 Guardian When you start to believe you're in with a shout, the big boys have a nasty habit of bringing you down to earth with a bump.

cost (or charge or pay) the earth cost (or charge or pay) a large amount of money.

British informal

the earth moved (or did the earth move for you?) you had (or did you have?) an orgasm. humorous go to earth go into hiding.

Go to earth is used literally of a hunted animal hiding in a burrow or earth. Compare with go to ground (at GROUND).

like nothing on earth very strange. informal 1994 Mixmag Once in a blue moon, a record tumbles down from the vinyl mountain that sounds like nothing on earth and completely knocks you for six.

promise someone the earth: see promise someone the moon at MOON.

run someone or something to earth: see RUN.

earthly

not stand (or have) an earthly have no chance at all. British informal easy

an easy touch: see a soft touch at TOUCH.

come easy to present little difficulty to.

1989 Tony Parker A Place Called Bird College was a lot harder than High School, book work didn't come easy to me there.

easy as ABC: see ABC.

easy as falling off a log very easy. informal

This expression was originally a mid 19th-century American one, but it is now in general use. It was used around the year 1880 by Mark Twain in the alternative form rolling off a log.

easy as pie very easy. informal

Pie as a metaphor for something pleasant was originally late 19th-century US slang. Compare with nice as pie and pie in the sky (at PIE).

easy come, easy go used to indicate that something acquired without effort or difficulty may be lost or spent casually and without regret.

Although recorded in this exact form only from the mid 19th century, easy come, easy go had parallels in medieval French and in the English sayings light come, light go (mid 16th century) and quickly come, quickly go (mid 19th century).

easy does it approach a task carefully and slowly. informal easy meat a person or animal overcome, outwitted, or persuaded without difficulty. informal easy on the eye (or ear) pleasant to look at (or listen to). informal

Easy on the eye originated in the late 19th century as a US expression describing a pretty woman, a context in which it is still often used.

go (or be) easy on someone be less harsh on or critical of someone. informal go easy on (or with) something be sparing or cautious in your use or consumption of something. informal have it easy be free from difficulties, especially those normally associated with a particular situation or activity. informal

I'm easy said by someone when offered a choice to indicate that they have no particular preference. informal of easy virtue (of a woman) promiscuous.

Easy in the sense of ‘sexually compliant’ is found in Shakespeare’s Cymbeline: ‘Not a whit, Your lady being so easy’.

take the easy way out extricate yourself from a difficult situation by choosing a course of action offering the least effort, worry, or inconvenience, even though a more honourable alternative exists.
take it easy 1 approach a task or activity gradually or carefully. 2 relax.

eat
eat someone alive 1 (of insects) bite someone many times. 2 exploit someone's weakness ruthlessly. informal eat crow be humiliated by your defeats or mistakes. North American informal

1 In the USA 'boiled crow' has been a metaphor for something extremely disagreeable since the late 19th century.

eat(dirt) suffer insults or humiliation. informal

1 In the USA eat dirt also has the sense of 'make a humiliating retraction' or 'eat your words'.

eat someone's dust fall far behind someone in a competitive situation. North American informal 1993 Fiddlehead She let everybody know she was moving on to True Love and they could eat her dust.

eat your heart out 1 suffer from excessive longing, especially for someone or something unattainable. 2 used to indicate that you think someone will feel great jealousy or regret about something.

1 1997 Christina Reid Clowns Wait'll you see my new frock. Joan Collins eat your heart out.

eat someone out of house and home eat a lot of someone else's food. informal eat humble pie: see HUMBLE.

eat salt with: see SALT.

eat your words retract what you have said, especially when forced to do so.

eating
have someone eating out of your hand have someone completely under your control.

1987 Bernard MacLaverty The Great Profundo One of my main difficulties is that I'm not good with an audience. There's guys can come out and have a crowd eating out of their hand right away with a few jokes.

what's eating you (or him or her)? what is worrying or annoying you (or him or her)? informal ebb

at a low ebb in an especially poor state.

ebb and flow a recurrent or rhythmical pattern of coming and going or decline and regrowth.

echo applaud (or cheer) someone to the echo applaud (or cheer) someone very enthusiastically.

eclipse
in eclipse 1 (of a celestial object) obscured by another or the shadow of another. 2 losing or having lost significance, power, or prominence.

1991 Atlantic Within a decade of his death... he was in eclipse: not written about, undiscussed, forgotten in architecture schools.

economical
economical with the truth used euphemistically to describe a person or statement that lies or deliberately withholds information.

1 The phrase economy of truth was used in the 18th century by the orator Edmund Burke (1729-97), while in the 19th century Mark Twain observed 'Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it.' (Following the Equator, 1897). The present phrase became current after its use in the 'Spycatcher' trial in the New South Wales Supreme Court: Robert Armstrong, head of the British Civil Service, was reported as saying of a letter: 'It contains a misleading impression, not a lie. It was being economical with the truth.'

2003 Observer He is ruthless in pursuit of commercial goals, otherwise he would not have been so economical with the truth two months ago when he ruled out any notion of signing Beckham.

de edge
on the edge of your seat (or chair) very excited and giving your full attention to something. informal set someone's teeth on edge: see TEETH.

take the edge off something reduce the intensity or effect of something, especially something unpleasant or severe.

edgeways
get a word in edgeways contribute to a conversation with difficulty because the other speaker talks almost incessantly.
effing

effing and blinding using vulgar expletives; swearing.

1 Effing and blinding here stand for the initial letters of taboo or vulgar slang words.

egg

a curate's egg: see CURATE.

don't put all your eggs in one basket don't risk everything on the success of one venture. proverb 1996 Mail on Sunday Having too many eggs in one basket—the British stock market—can be a bad idea. Overseas investments can add balance to an investment portfolio.

go suck an egg go away (used as an expression of anger or scorn). North American informal 1993 Virginian Pilot & Ledger-Star (Norfolk, Va.) A place [in the country] where you can drop a line in the water from your back yard and tell the rest of the world to go suck an egg.

kill the goose that lays the golden egg: see GOOSE.

lay an egg be completely unsuccessful; fail badly. North American informal sure as eggs is eggs: see SURE.

with egg on your face appearing foolish or ridiculous. informal eight behind the eight ball at a disadvantage; baffled. North American informal 1 The black ball is numbered eight in a variety of the game of pool known as eight-ball pool.

one over the eight slightly drunk. British informal 1 The idea behind this idiom is that a drinker can reasonably be expected to consume eight glasses of beer without becoming drunk. The expression was originally armed forces' slang from the early 20th century.

elephant

the Elysian Fields heaven. literary 1 Homer describes the Elysian Fields (called Elysium by Latin writers) as the happy land in which the blessed spirits live in the afterlife.

empty

be running on empty have exhausted all your resources or sustenance. 1998 New Scientist Bateson concluded that a hunted deer may be running on empty for 90 minutes, but Harris argues that this period will be just a few minutes.

empty nester a person whose children have grown up and left home. informal empty vessels make most noise (or sound) those with least wisdom or knowledge are always the most talkative. proverb 1 Vessel here refers to a hollow container, such as a bowl or cask, rather than a ship.

enchilada

the big enchilada a person or thing of great importance. North American informal the whole enchilada the whole situation; everything. North American informal 1992 New York Times High-tech gadgetry is best viewed as the spice, but not the whole enchilada.

An enchilada is an American Spanish word for a tortilla served with chilli sauce and a filling of meat or cheese.

the end

all ends up completely. informal 1921 A. W. Myers Twenty Years of Lawn Tennis Barrett beat him 'all ends up' in an early round.

at the end of the day when everything is taken into consideration. British informal 1995 Jayne Miller Voxpop Today I’ve been giving out leaflets. You don’t have to, but at the end of the day, it’s worth it.

at the end of your tether having no patience, resources, or energy left to cope with something.

A North American variant of this expression is at the end of your rope, and in both cases the image is that of a grazing animal tethered on a rope that allows it a certain range in which to move but which at full stretch prohibits further movement.

at a loose end: see LOOSE.

at your wit’s end: see WIT.

the beginning of the end: see BEGINNING.

be on the receiving end: see RECEIVING.

be thrown in at the deep end: see DEEP.

burn the candle at both ends: see BURN.

the dirty end of the stick: see DIRTY.

end in tears have an unhappy or unpleasant outcome (often used as a warning). British 1992 Iain Banks The Crow Road Well, let them get married. The earlier the better; it would end in tears. Let them rush into it, let them repent at leisure.

end it all commit suicide.

1993 Ray Shell iCED Quentin thought…he’d jump off the Brooklyn Bridge and make the papers. At least he’d end it all in a blaze of media glory.

end the means wrong or unfair methods may be used if the overall goal is good.

The Roman poet Ovid expresses this concept in Heroides as exitus acta probat meaning ‘the outcome justifies the actions’.

the end of civilization as we know it the complete collapse of ordered society.

2 used to indicate that someone is being alarmist or is overreacting to a trivial inconvenience or blunder as if it were enormously significant and catastrophic.

This expression is supposedly a cinematic cliché, and was actually used in the film Citizen Kane (1941): ‘a project which would mean the end of civilization as we know it’.

1999 Select The giant, dreadlocked rapper’s third album contains extensive deliberations on the end of civilisation as we know it.

the end of the road (or line) the point beyond which progress or survival cannot continue.

end of story used to emphasize that there is nothing more to add on the subject just mentioned. informal 1998 Times Parents are role models. Footballers are picked for teams because they are good at football. End of story.

the end of the world a complete disaster. informal

This expression comes from the idea of the termination of life on earth as the ultimate catastrophe, but is often used with the negative as a reassurance that a mistake or setback is not that important.

1994 Face If people are buying my records that’s good, but if they’re not it’s not the end of the world.

give your end away have sex. British vulgar slang get the wrong end of the stick: see WRONG.

go off the deep end: see DEEP.

keep your end up perform well in a difficult or competitive situation. informal make (both) ends meet earn or have enough money to live on without getting into debt.

2002 Observer If it was Ireland or Wales we’d support them, but not England. It’s a minority nations thing. If England was to win, we’d never hear the end of it.
no end to a great extent; very much. informal 1984 James Kelman The Busconductor Hines
McCulloch gives him a go at the wheel at certain remote terminuses at specific times of the late night and early morning and his confidence grows no end.

no end of something a vast number or amount of something. informal 1996 Frank McCourt Angela’s Ashes
If I could have Mrs Leibowitz and Minnie for mothers at the same time I’d have no end of soup and mashed potatoes.

the sharp end: see SHARP.

the thin end of the wedge: see THIN.

to the bitter end: see BITTER.

a — to end all —s something so impressive of its kind that nothing that follows will have the same impact. informal

1971 Bessie Head Maru
It was a wedding to end all weddings.

enemy
be your own worst enemy act contrary to your own interests; be self-destructive.

1993 Richard Lowe & William Shaw Travellers
We convinced ourselves that everything was against us but the truth was we were probably our own worst enemies.

equal
first among equals the person or thing having the highest status in a group.

other (or all) things being equal provided that other factors or circumstances remain the same.

1996 E. D. Hirsch Jr. Schools We Need
Other things being equal, students from good-home schools will always have an educational advantage over students from less-good-home schools.

err
err on the right side act so that the most likely mistake to be made is the least harmful one.

err on the side of act with a specified bias towards something.

1999 Nature Der Sündenfall’s message may err on the side of alarmism, but it certainly is a good read.

to err is human, to forgive divine it is human nature to make mistakes yourself while finding it hard to forgive others. proverb envelope push the envelope (or the edge of the envelope) approach or extend the limits of what is possible. informal

1 This expression was originally aviation slang and related to graphs of aerodynamic performance on which the envelope is the boundary line representing an aircraft’s capabilities.

1993 Albuquerque
These are extremely witty and clever stories that consistently push the envelope of TV comedy.

épater
épater les bourgeois shock people who have attitudes or views regarded as conventional or complacent.

1 The French phrase is generally used in English, there being no exact English equivalent. ‘Il faut épater le bourgeois’ (‘one must astonish the bourgeois’) was a comment attributed to the French poet and critic Charles Baudelaire.

1995 Times
Because it takes more than a urinal to épater les bourgeois now, the real things that are being hauled into galleries grow ever more provocative: turds, frozen foetuses and used sanitary towels.

Englishman
an Englishman’s home is his castle an English person’s home is a place where they may do as they please and from which they may exclude anyone they choose. British proverb enough enough is as good as a feast moderation is more satisfying than excess. proverb enough is enough no more will be tolerated.

1997 Earthmatters Unless we say ‘enough is enough’ and start to take habitat protection seriously, the future of the world’s wildlife is in jeopardy.

enough said there is no need to say more; all is understood.

enough to make a cat laugh: see CAT.
escutcheon

A blot on your escutcheon: see BLOT.

essence

Of the essence critically important.

1990 Louis de Bernières The War of Don Emmanuel’s Nether Parts Gentlemen, we have before us an important mission for which speed and efficiency are of the essence, and where surprise is the key element.

eternal

The Eternal City a name for the city of Rome.

Eternal triangle a relationship between three people, typically a couple and the lover of one of them, involving sexual rivalry.

even

An even break a fair chance. informal

This phrase is perhaps best known from W. C. Fields’ catchphrase ‘Never give a sucker an even break’. It is said to have originated in the 1923 musical Poppy, and was also the title of one of Field’s films (1941).

Even Stephens (or Stevens) an even chance.

1990 Alan Duff Once Were Warriors And I give her half. Clean down the middle. Even Stevens. I don’t try and cheat her out of her share.

Get (or be) even with inflict similar trouble or harm on someone as they have inflicted on you. informal

On an even keel (of a ship or aircraft) not tilting to one side. (of a person or situation) functioning normally after a period of difficulty.

1991 Deirdre Purcell A Place of Stones Life ran on an even keel in the house as both of them came and went and became re-immersed in their own lives.

ever

It was ever thus (or so) used as a humorous way of suggesting that despite claims of things having been better in the past nothing much alters. informal 1998 Bookseller Curious and surprising (to say the least) and depressing things happen. But it was ever so.

every

Every last (or single) used to emphasize every member of a group.

1991 Colin Dexter The Jewel That Was Ours One clue unfinished in a Listener puzzle, and he would strain the capacity of every last brain-cell to bursting point until he had solved it.

every man for himself everyone must take care of themselves and their own interests and safety.

This expression has been used since medieval times, but from the mid 16th century onwards it has often been expanded to every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost or, less commonly, every man for himself and God for us all.

1997 Daniel Quinn My Ishmael Tribes survive by sticking together at all costs, and when it’s every man for himself, the tribe ceases to be a tribe.

Every which way in all directions; in a disorderly fashion. North American informal

evil

The evil eye a gaze or stare superstitiously believed to cause harm.

Put off the evil day (or hour) postpone something unpleasant for as long as possible.

exception

The exception that proves the rule a particular case that is so unusual that it is evidence of the validity of the rule that generally applies.

This phrase comes from the Latin legal maxim exceptio probat regulam in casibus non exceptis ‘exception proves the rule in the cases not excepted’. This in fact meant that the recognition of something as an exception proved the existence of a rule, but the idiom is popularly used or understood to mean ‘a person or thing that does not conform to the general rule affecting others of that class’.

1998 Spectator The success of The Full Monty in the United States is an exception which proves the rule. On such lucky breaks, industries and economies are not built.

exeunt

Exeunt omnes everyone leaves or goes away.

The Latin phrase exeunt omnes means ‘all go out’, and was used originally as a stage direction in a printed play to indicate that all the actors leave the stage.

exhibition

Make an exhibition of yourself behave in a very foolish or ill-judged way in public.
eye

expect

what can (or do) you expect? used to emphasize that there was nothing unexpected about a person or event.

1. A more elaborate statement of the same sentiment is the proverb what can you expect from a pig but a grunt?

eye

an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth used to refer to the belief that retaliation in kind is the appropriate way to deal with an offence or crime.

1. This expression refers to the law of retribution as set out in the Old Testament (Exodus 21:24), known as lex talionis.

the eye of a needle a very small opening or space (used to emphasize the impossibility of a projected endeavour).

1. This phrase comes from Matthew 19:24: ‘It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God’.

2001 FourFourTwo Able to thread a pass through the eye of a needle, he can play in the centre or on either flank.

the eye of the storm ① the calm region at the centre of a storm or hurricane. ② the most intense part of a tumultuous situation.

1. 1998 Times He [Mr Yeltsin] was now our heroic figure in the eye of the storm, preaching defiance ... from the top of a tank outside the White House.

be all eyes be watching eagerly and attentively.

1958 Jessie Kesson The White Bird Passes Standing there all eyes and ears. Beat it before I take the lights from you!

clap (or lay or set) eyes on see. informal 1992 Barry Unsworth Sacred Hunger If we go by the indications of the play, these two charmers have never clapped eyes on a man before, never flirted, never known the sweets of love.

get (or keep) your eye in become (or remain) able to make good judgements about a task or occupation in which you are engaged. British close (or shut) your eyes to refuse to notice or acknowledge something unwelcome or unpleasant.

do a person in the eye defraud, thwart, or humiliate a person.

1930 J. B. Priestley* Angel Pavement* He’d invented the job five minutes before, just to do mother in the eye.

eyes out on stalks full of eager curiosity or amazement. informal 1999 Escape This breathtaking graphics accelerator takes 3D game play on PCI systems to a whole new dimension of excitement with imagery so realistic your eyes will be out on stalks.

give someone the (glad) eye look at someone in a way that clearly indicates your sexual interest in them. informal 1992 James Meek Last Orders If it was an attractive woman, men would give her the eye.

a gleam in someone’s eye: see GLEAM.

go eyes out make every effort. Australian informal half an eye a slight degree of perception or attention.

1962 Cyprian Ekwensi Burning Grass His sandals were new because it was market day; or perhaps he had half an eye to some maiden.

have an eye for be able to recognize, appreciate, and make good judgements about a particular thing.

2003 Observer Europe’s oldest continually inhabited city is Cádiz, founded by the Phoenicians in 1100 BC, but those wily Phoenicians, with an eye for a good setting, founded ‘Malaka’ further along the Andalucian coast a few hundred years later in 800 BC.

have (or with) an eye for (or on or to) the main chance look or be looking for an opportunity to take advantage of a situation for personal gain, especially when this is financial.

1. This expression is taken from the use of main chance in the gambling game of hazard, where it refers to a number (5, 6, 7, or 8) called by a player before throwing the dice.

have eyes bigger than your stomach have asked for or taken more food than you can actually eat.

have eyes in the back of your head observe everything that is happening even when this is apparently impossible.

1991 Barbara Anderson Girls High They were all in Miss Royston’s class who said that she had eyes in the back of her head and they half believed it, because how else did she know.

have square eyes: see SQUARE.

hit someone in the eye (or between the eyes) be very obvious or impressive. informal
When I saw the technology in operation, it hit me between the eyes. I was happy to give him £20,000, and became a non-executive director.

Keep an eye out (or open) for look out for something with particular attention.

Keep your eye on the ball: see ball.

Keep your eyes open (or peeled or skinned) be on the alert; watch carefully or vigilantly for something.

Make eyes at someone look at someone in a way that makes it clear you find them sexually attractive.

More to someone or something than meets the eye: see meet.

My eye (or all my eye and Betty Martin) nonsense. informal, dated

Who or what Betty Martin was has never been satisfactorily explained. Another version of the saying also in use in the late 18th century was all my eye and my elbow.

One in the eye for a disappointment or setback for someone or something, especially one that is perceived as being well deserved.

Open someone’s eyes enlighten someone about certain realities; cause someone to realize or discover something.

These events opened his eyes to what had happened to his country. Now his one wish was that Scotland should be independent.

Pull the wool over someone’s eyes: see wool.

See eye to eye have similar views or attitudes to something; be in full agreement.

I always liked to stick my face right up against the hot sweaty broken surface of what was being done, with my eyes open.

Shut your eyes to be wilfully ignorant of.

Turn a blind eye: see blind.

Up to your eyes in very busy with or deeply involved in. informal

What the eye doesn’t see, the heart doesn’t grieve over if you’re unaware of an unpleasant fact or situation you can’t be troubled by it. proverb

With one eye on giving some but not all your attention to.

These events opened his eyes to what had happened to his country. Now his one wish was that Scotland should be independent.

One in the eye for a disappointment or setback for someone or something, especially one that is perceived as being well deserved.

Open someone’s eyes enlighten someone about certain realities; cause someone to realize or discover something.

I always liked to stick my face right up against the hot sweaty broken surface of what was being done, with my eyes open.

Shut your eyes to be wilfully ignorant of.

Turn a blind eye: see blind.

Up to your eyes in very busy with or deeply involved in. informal

What the eye doesn’t see, the heart doesn’t grieve over if you’re unaware of an unpleasant fact or situation you can’t be troubled by it. proverb

With one eye on giving some but not all your attention to.
eye teeth

cut your eye teeth: see cut your teeth at CUT.

give your eye teeth for go to any lengths in order to obtain something.

---

1 The eye teeth are the two canine teeth in the upper jaw.

1930 W. Somerset Maugham Cakes & Ale He’d give his eye-teeth to have written a book half as good.
fac

face
- the acceptable face of: see ACCEPTABLE.
- a face as long as a fiddle: a dismal face.
- face the music: be confronted with the unpleasant consequences of your actions.
- get out of someone’s face: stop harassing or annoying someone. North American informal
- have the (brass) face to: have the effrontery to do something. informal
- in your face: aggressively obvious; assertive. informal

1996 Sunday Telegraph

The ... campaign reflects a growing trend of aggressive and ‘in your face’ advertisement that is alarming many within the industry.

lose face: suffer a loss of respect; be humiliated.

- This expression was originally associated with China and was a translation of the Chinese idiom tiu lien.

make (or pull) a face (or faces): produce an expression on your face that shows dislike, disgust, or some other negative emotion, or that is intended to be amusing.

not just a pretty face: see PRETTY.

off your face: very drunk or under the influence of illegal drugs. informal

1998 Times Magazine

I’ve been accused of being off my face many times but you just go, by osmosis, with the people that you’re with.

put a brave (or bold or good) face on something: act as if something unpleasant or upsetting is not as bad as it really is.

save face: retain respect; avoid humiliation.

1994 Thomas Boswell

Cracking Show

And Rose got to save face, at least in his own eyes, with one last brassy news conference.

save someone’s face: enable someone to avoid humiliation.

set your face against: oppose or resist with determination.

someone’s face fits: someone has the necessary qualities for something.

1992 Looks

My face fits and I’ve got the job!

throw something back in someone’s face: reject something in a brusque or ungracious manner.

fact
- a fact of life: something that must be accepted and cannot be changed, however unpalatable.
- the facts of life: information about sexual functions and practices, especially as given to children or teenagers.

fade
- do a fade: run away. informal

1990 Stephen King

The Stand

Two days ago, he would probably have done a fade himself if he had seen someone.

fail
- without fail: absolutely predictably; with no exception or cause for doubt.

- Fail as a noun in the sense of ‘failure or deficiency’ is now only found in this phrase.

faint
- a faint heart: timidity or lack of willpower preventing you from achieving your objective.

- Faint heart never won fair lady is a proverb which dates in this wording from the early 17th century; the idea, however, was around at least two centuries earlier.

faintest
- not have the faintest (idea): have no idea. informal

fair
- fair and square: with absolute accuracy.

- Honestly and straightforwardly.

- a fair crack of the whip: see CRACK.

- a fair deal: equitable treatment.

- fair dinkum: see DINKUM.

- a fair field and no favour: equal conditions in a contest.

- fair play to someone: used as an expression of approval when someone has done something praiseworthy or the right thing under the circumstances.

famous used to request just treatment or assert that an arrangement is just. informal 2000 Sallee Vickers Miss Garnet's Angel  Jonah, the wandering prophet, reminded her too much of her father. 'He was a bit of a misery, wasn't he?' But then, fair's fair, living in the belly of a whale must give one a different point of view.

fair's fair completely and finally. US informal

1997 John Barth The Sot-Weed Factor And when the matter of hostages arose, the mother had said 'Pray God they will take Harry, for then we'd be quit of him for fair, and not a penny poorer.'

it's a fair cop: see COP.

no fair unfair (often used in or as a petulant protestation). North American informal fairy

(away) with the fairies giving the impression of being mad, distracted, or in a dreamworld.

fall

fall apart at the seams: see come apart at the seams at SEAM.

fall between two stools: see STOOL.

fall from grace: see GRACE.

fall in (or into) line conform with others or with accepted behaviour.

fall off the back of a lorry (of goods) be acquired in illegal or unspecified circumstances.

false

false dawn a misleadingly hopeful sign.

false

false for being famous having no recognizable reason for your fame other than high media exposure.

famous

fall on stony ground: see STONY.

fall over backwards: see BACKWARDS.

fall prey to: see PREY.

fall short (of) (of a missile) fail to reach its target. 2 be deficient or inadequate; fail to reach a required goal.

take the fall receive blame or punishment, typically in the place of another person. North American informal

In late 19th-century criminals' slang fall could mean an 'an arrest', and this was later extended to mean 'a term of imprisonment'. From this the US term fall guy meaning 'a scapegoat' developed in the early 20th century.

false

false dawn a misleadingly hopeful sign.

false

false for being famous having no recognizable reason for your fame other than high media exposure.

famous

false

false dawn a misleadingly hopeful sign.

false

false for being famous having no recognizable reason for your fame other than high media exposure.

famous

false

false dawn a misleadingly hopeful sign.

false

false for being famous having no recognizable reason for your fame other than high media exposure.
In 1968, the pop artist Andy Warhol (1927–87) predicted that 'in the future everybody will be world famous for fifteen minutes'. Short-lived celebrity or notoriety is now often referred to as fifteen minutes of fame.

famous last words said as an ironic comment on or reply to an overconfident assertion that may well soon be proved wrong by events.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fantastic trip the light fantastic: see TRIP.

far be a far cry from be very different from.

far and away by a very large amount.

far be it from (or for) me to used to express reluctance, especially to do something which you think may be resented.

far be it from (or for) me to used to express reluctance, especially to do something which you think may be resented.

fate a fate worse than death a terrible experience, especially that of seduction or rape.

fat the fat is in the fire something has been said or done that is about to cause trouble or anger.

farm buy the farm: see BUY.

fast fast and furious lively and exciting.

play fast and loose ignore your obligations; be unreliable.

this expression apparently originated as a catchphrase in mid 20th-century armed forces' slang.

2000 Canberra Sunday Times Speaking from New York, he said 'I expect NASDAQ to fall more than another 5–10 per cent. Famous last words, but I expect it to break 3000, that is about a 20 per cent descent.'

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fantastic trip the light fantastic: see TRIP.

far be a far cry from be very different from.

1987 National Geographic 'I walk out and hire a helicopter... an expensive way to mine.' And a far cry from the ancient Maori canoe expeditions... to hunt for jade.

far and away by a very large amount.

1990 A. L. Kennedy Night Geometry & Garscadden Trains She enjoyed being far and away the best cook.

fast and furious lively and exciting.

play fast and loose ignore your obligations; be unreliable.

1996 Time Out The big MGM production typically plays fast and loose with the facts, so it's as much an action spectacular as a genuine historical chronicle.

in the fast lane where life is exciting or highly pressured.

pull a fast one try to gain an unfair advantage by rapid action of some sort. informal

1993 What Mortgage We also know what prices should be and will pull up any builder trying to pull a fast one.

fat the fat is in the fire something has been said or done that is about to cause trouble or anger.

live off (or on) the fat of the land have the best of everything.

1911 R. D. Saunders Colonel Todhunter The fight's begun, and we've got to rally around old Bill Strickland to a fare-you-well.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fantastic trip the light fantastic: see TRIP.

far be a far cry from be very different from.

1987 National Geographic 'I walk out and hire a helicopter... an expensive way to mine.' And a far cry from the ancient Maori canoe expeditions... to hunt for jade.

far and away by a very large amount.

1990 A. L. Kennedy Night Geometry & Garscadden Trains She enjoyed being far and away the best cook.

fast and furious lively and exciting.

play fast and loose ignore your obligations; be unreliable.

1996 Time Out The big MGM production typically plays fast and loose with the facts, so it's as much an action spectacular as a genuine historical chronicle.

in the fast lane where life is exciting or highly pressured.

pull a fast one try to gain an unfair advantage by rapid action of some sort. informal

1993 What Mortgage We also know what prices should be and will pull up any builder trying to pull a fast one.

fat the fat is in the fire something has been said or done that is about to cause trouble or anger.

live off (or on) the fat of the land have the best of everything.

1911 R. D. Saunders Colonel Todhunter The fight's begun, and we've got to rally around old Bill Strickland to a fare-you-well.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fantastic trip the light fantastic: see TRIP.

far be a far cry from be very different from.

1987 National Geographic 'I walk out and hire a helicopter... an expensive way to mine.' And a far cry from the ancient Maori canoe expeditions... to hunt for jade.

far and away by a very large amount.

1990 A. L. Kennedy Night Geometry & Garscadden Trains She enjoyed being far and away the best cook.

fast and furious lively and exciting.

play fast and loose ignore your obligations; be unreliable.

1996 Time Out The big MGM production typically plays fast and loose with the facts, so it's as much an action spectacular as a genuine historical chronicle.

in the fast lane where life is exciting or highly pressured.

pull a fast one try to gain an unfair advantage by rapid action of some sort. informal

1993 What Mortgage We also know what prices should be and will pull up any builder trying to pull a fast one.

fat the fat is in the fire something has been said or done that is about to cause trouble or anger.

live off (or on) the fat of the land have the best of everything.

1911 R. D. Saunders Colonel Todhunter The fight's begun, and we've got to rally around old Bill Strickland to a fare-you-well.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fancy your (or someone's) chances believe that you (or someone else) are likely to be successful.

fantastic trip the light fantastic: see TRIP.

far be a far cry from be very different from.

1987 National Geographic 'I walk out and hire a helicopter... an expensive way to mine.' And a far cry from the ancient Maori canoe expeditions... to hunt for jade.

far and away by a very large amount.

1990 A. L. Kennedy Night Geometry & Garscadden Trains She enjoyed being far and away the best cook.

fast and furious lively and exciting.

play fast and loose ignore your obligations; be unreliable.

1996 Time Out The big MGM production typically plays fast and loose with the facts, so it's as much an action spectacular as a genuine historical chronicle.

in the fast lane where life is exciting or highly pressured.

pull a fast one try to gain an unfair advantage by rapid action of some sort. informal

1993 What Mortgage We also know what prices should be and will pull up any builder trying to pull a fast one.

fat the fat is in the fire something has been said or done that is about to cause trouble or anger.

live off (or on) the fat of the land have the best of everything.

1911 R. D. Saunders Colonel Todhunter The fight's begun, and we've got to rally around old Bill Strickland to a fare-you-well.
1991 Thomas Hayden The Killing Frost He dominated the conversation, holding the Hackett and Townshend women spellbound as he told of how he had broken up a white-slave ring in Dublin, and how he had rescued an innocent young girl from a fate worse than death.

seal someone’s fate make it inevitable that something unpleasant will happen to someone.

tempt fate: see TEMPT.

father

founding father: see FOUNDING.

how’s your father sexual intercourse. British informal

A pre-World War I music-hall catchphrase, how’s your father was earlier used to mean ‘nonsense’ before acquiring its present sexual sense. It is now used also to refer to a man’s penis.

like father, like son a son’s character or behaviour can be expected to resemble that of his father.

A The Latin version of this expression is qualis pater, talis filius. The female equivalent, like mother, like daughter, is based on Ezekiel 16:44: ‘Behold, every one that useth proverbs shall use this proverb against thee, saying, As is the mother, so is the daughter’.

fatted

kill the fatted calf produce a lavish celebratory feast.

A The allusion is to the New Testament story of the prodigal son (Luke 15:11–32), in which the forgiving father orders his best calf to be killed in order to provide a feast to celebrate the return of his wayward son. Fatted is an archaic form of the verb fat meaning ‘make or become fat’. Nowadays we use the forms fatten and fattened.

fault

—to a fault (of someone or something displaying a particular commendable quality) to an extent verging on excess.

1995 Bill Bryson Notes from a Small Island Anyway, that’s the kind of place Bournemouth is—genteel to a fault and proud of it.

favour

do me a favour used as a way of expressing brusque dismissal or rejection of a remark or suggestion.

1993 Merv Grist Life at the Tip Do me a favour, Webley couldn’t even pass a mug of tea across the counter last season, let alone pass a ball.

do someone a favour do something for someone as an act of kindness. British informal favourite

favourite son a famous man who is particularly popular and praised for his achievements in his native area.

A In the USA, the term is used specifically of a person supported as a presidential candidate by delegates from the candidate’s home state.

fear

put the fear of God in (or into) someone cause someone to be very frightened.

without fear or favour not influenced by any consideration of the people involved in a situation; impartially.

1996 Japan Times It should be possible if all officials involved in the election process are allowed to work without fear or favour and keep their impartiality.

feast

feast your eyes on gaze at with pleasure.

feast of reason intellectual talk.

feast or famine either too much of something or too little.

a ghost (or spectre) at the feast someone or something that brings gloom or sadness to an otherwise pleasant or celebratory occasion.

*A The ghost or spectre of Banquo at the feast in Shakespeare’s Macbeth is the most famous literary instance of this. There are other versions of the expression. A skeleton at the feast dates from the mid 19th century and probably refers to the ancient Egyptian practice of having the coffin of a dead person, adorned with a painted portrait of the deceased, present at a funeral banquet. A death’s head at the feast alludes to the use of a death’s head or skull as a memento mori (an object which serves as a reminder of death).*

a movable feast an event which takes place at no regular time.
In a religious context a movable feast is a feast day (especially Easter Day and the other Christian holy days whose dates are related to it) which does not occur on the same calendar date each year.

feather

Firstly (in the late 17th century), a feather in your cap was taken as a sign of foolishness. However, by the mid 18th century the phrase was acquiring its modern positive sense.

1998 Times To take six wickets in the last innings of the game was a feather in his cap.

feather your (own) nest make money, usually illicitly and at someone else's expense.

This phrase refers to the way in which some birds use feathers (their own or another bird's) to line the interior of their nest.

1998 Spectator It won't solve a damned thing except feather the nests of a lot of dodgy pen-pushers and party hacks.

in fine (or high) feather in very good condition.

The image here is of a bird in its breeding plumage, when it is in peak condition.

show the white feather: see WHITE.

fed up

fed up to the teeth (or back teeth) extremely annoyed.

feel

feel your age become aware that you are growing older and less energetic.

feel someone's collar: see COLLAR.

feel the draught: see DRAUGHT.

feel your oats: see OAT.

feel the pinch: see PINCH.

feel the pulse of: see PULSE.

fell

in (or at) one fell swoop all in one go.

This expression comes from Macduff's appalled reaction to the murder of his wife and children in Shakespeare's Macbeth: 'Oh hell-kite!...All my pretty chickens, and their dam At one fell swoop?'

fence

mend fences: see MEND.

over the fence unreasonable or unacceptable. Australian & New Zealand informal 1964 Sydney Morning Herald Some publications which unduly emphasize sex were 'entirely over the fence'.

sit on the fence avoid making a decision or choice.

The two sides of a fence are seen here as representing the two opposing or conflicting positions or interests involved in a particular debate or situation.

1995 Duncan McLean Bunker Man Let's have a proper decision—goal or no goal—none of this sitting on the fence.

fetch

fetch and carry go backwards and forwards bringing things to someone in a servile fashion.

This phrase was originally used to refer to a dog retrieving game that had been shot.

fettle

in fine fettle in very good condition.

Fettle was recorded in a mid 18th-century glossary of Lancashire dialect as meaning 'dress, case, condition'. It is now seldom found outside this phrase and its variants, which include in good fettle and in high fettle.

few

few and far between scarce or infrequent.

have a few drink enough alcohol to be slightly drunk. informal 1991 James Kelman Events in Yer Life In fact it's hard to talk politics at all down there. I tend to keep my mouth shut. Unless I've had a few.

fiddle

a face as long as a fiddle: see FACE.

fiddle while Rome burns be concerned with relatively trivial matters while ignoring the serious or disastrous events going on around you.

This phrase comes from the Roman biographer and historian Suetonius' description of the behaviour of the Roman emperor Nero during the great fire that destroyed much of Rome in AD 64.

fit as a fiddle in very good health.
hang up your fiddle retire from business; give up an undertaking. chiefly US hang up your fiddle when you come home cease to be cheerful or entertaining when you are in the company of your family. chiefly US on the fiddle engaged in cheating or swindling. informal Fiddle was late 19th-century US slang for a 'swindle'.

play second fiddle to take a subordinate role to someone or something.

The expression derives from the respective roles of the fiddles or violins in an orchestra. Both play first fiddle and play third fiddle are much less common. The implication of playing second fiddle is often that it is somewhat demeaning.

1998 Times In A Yank at Oxford she played second fiddle to Vivien Leigh, which never got anyone very far.

field

a fair field and no favour: see FAIR.

hold the field remain the most important.

1991 Twentieth Century British History What analyses of AIDS policies hold the field?

play the field indulge in a series of sexual relationships without committing yourself to anyone. informal 1936 L. Lefko Public Relations He hasn’t any steady. He plays the field—blonde, brunette, or what have you.

fierce something fierce to a great and almost overwhelming extent; intensely or furiously. North American informal 1986 Monica Hughes Blaine’s Way Maud had trapped my right arm against the chair and it was getting pins and needles something fierce.

fifteen

famous for fifteen minutes: see FAMOUS.

fifth

fifth column an organized group of people sympathizing with and working for the enemy within a country at war or otherwise under attack.

Fifth column is a translation of the Spanish phrase quinta columna: during the Spanish Civil War, an extra body of supporters was claimed by General Mola as being within Madrid when he besieged the city with four columns of Nationalist forces in 1936.

take the fifth (in the USA) exercise the right of refusing to answer questions in order to avoid incriminating yourself.

The reference in this phrase is to Article V of the ten original amendments (1791) to the Constitution of the United States, which stated that 'no person... shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself'.

fig

in full fig wearing the smart clothes appropriate for an event or occasion. informal

Fig in the sense of 'dress or equipment' is now used only in this phrase, which was first recorded in the mid 19th century.

not give (or care) a fig not have the slightest concern about.

Fig was formerly used in a variety of expressions to signify something regarded as valueless or contemptible.

fight

fight fire with fire use the weapons or tactics of your enemy or opponent, even if you find them distasteful.

1998 New Scientist Many opponents of biotechnology might say that they are simply fighting fire with fire. After all, the biotechnology industry is not averse to misquoting people when it suits them.

fight like cat and dog: see CAT.

fight a losing battle be fated to fail in your efforts.

fight or flight the instinctive physiological response to a threatening situation, which readies you either to resist violently or to run away.

fight shy of be unwilling to undertake or become involved with.

1992 Farmers Guardian Welsh companies often fight shy of dealing with the big multiples.

fight tooth and nail: see TOOTH.

figure

figure of fun a person who is considered ridiculous.
fill

fill the bill: see BILL.

fill someone’s shoes (or boots) take over someone’s function or duties and fulfil them satisfactorily. informal final

the final straw: see the last straw at STRAW.

find

find your feet ① stand up and become able to walk. ② establish yourself in a particular situation or enterprise.

① 1990 V. S. Naipaul India In Calcutta he stayed with some friend or distant relation until he found his feet.

find God experience a religious conversion or awakening.

find it in your heart to do something allow or force yourself to do something.

1988 Richard Rayner Los Angeles Without a Map Could you find it in your heart to lend me, say, $2,500?

finder

finder keepers (losers weepers) used, often humorously, to assert that whoever finds something by chance is entitled to keep it (and the person who lost it will just have to lament its loss). informal

This expression has been widely used since the early 19th century, although the idea goes back much further and is found in the work of the Roman dramatist Plautus. A variant sometimes heard is findings keepings.

fine

cut it (or things) fine allow a very small margin of something, usually time.

fine feathers beautiful clothes.

① The proverb fine feathers make fine birds, meaning that an eye-catching appearance makes a person seem beautiful or impressive, has been known in England since the late 19th century. It is recorded in the early 16th century in French as les belles plumes font les beaux oiseaux.

not to put too fine a point on it to speak bluntly.

one fine day at some unspecified or unknown time.

fine art

have (or get) something down to a fine art achieve a high level of skill, facility, or accomplishment in some activity through experience.

finer

the finer points of the more complex or detailed aspects of.

finest

your finest hour the time of your greatest success.

1940 W. S. Churchill Speech to House of Commons Let us therefore brace ourselves to that duty, and so bear ourselves that, if the British Commonwealth and its Empire lasts for a thousand years, men will still say, ‘This was their finest hour’.

—’s finest the police of a specified city. North American informal 2000 Nelson DeMille The Lion’s Game As I indicated, I was a homicide detective, one of New York’s Finest.

finger

be all fingers and thumbs be clumsy or awkward in your actions. British informal burn your fingers (or get your fingers burned/burnt) suffer unpleasant consequences as a result of your actions. 1998 Times An American buyer remains a possibility, although it is not entirely clear why any would want to risk getting their fingers burnt twice.

cross your fingers: see CROSS.

get (or pull) your finger out cease prevaricating and start to act. British informal give someone the finger make a gesture with the middle finger raised as an obscene sign of contempt. North American informal ① Since 1976, this gesture has sometimes been called the Rockefeller Gesture after Nelson Rockefeller was seen making it on a news film.

have a finger in every pie be involved in a large and varied number of activities or enterprises.

have a finger in the pie be involved in a matter, especially in an annoyingly interfering way.

have your fingers in the till: see TILL.

have (or keep) your finger on the pulse be aware of all the latest news or developments.

lay a finger on touch someone, usually with the intention of harming them.

1993 Tony Parker May the Lord in His Mercy be Kind to Belfast The one thing I’ll say about my husband is he never laid a finger on the children and he never hit me in front of them.

point the finger openly accuse someone or apportion blame.

1998 Spectator Reason suggests that one should point the finger at those who whipped up the emotion in the first place.

put something on the long finger postpone consideration of something; put something off. Irish put the finger on inform against someone to the authorities, informal put your finger on identify something exactly.

1988 Glenn Patterson Burning Your Own There was something about the dinette that struck him as peculiar, but he couldn’t quite put his finger on it.

snap (or click) your fingers make a sharp clicking sound by bending the last joint of the middle finger against the thumb and suddenly releasing it, typically in order to attract attention in a peremptory way or to accompany the beat of music.

twist (or wind or wrap) someone around your little finger have the ability to make someone do whatever you want.

work your fingers to the bone: see BONE.

your fingers itch you are longing or impatient to do something.

1998 Patchwork & Quilting There’s a good gallery towards the end of the book and it will make your fingers itch to get started.

fingertip

at your fingertips (especially of information) readily available.

by your fingertips only with difficulty; barely.

1990 Current History In early 1988, United States Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams said that General Noriega was clinging to power ‘by his fingertips’.

to your fingertips totally; completely.

1991 Sun McMahon, a professional to his fingertips, gave it his best shot even though an injury at this delicate stage could have sabotaged the last big move of his career.

finish

a fight to the finish a fight, contest, or match which only ends with the complete defeat of one of the parties involved.

finished

the finished article something that is complete and ready for use.

fire

breathe fire be fiercely angry.

1 The implied comparison in this expression is with a fire-breathing dragon.

catch fire ① begin to burn. ② become interesting or exciting.

1994 Coloradoan I do not think this is something that’s going to catch fire as a trend.

fire and brimstone the supposed torments of hell.

1 In the Bible, fire and brimstone are the means of divine punishment for the wicked (see, for example, Genesis 19:24 or Revelation 21:8). Brimstone (from the Old English word brystân meaning ‘burning stone’) is an archaic word for ‘sulphur’ and is now rarely found outside this phrase.

fire in the (or your) belly a powerful sense of ambition or determination.

1991 Vanity Fair Bennett is quick to deny feeling the fire in the belly generally considered a prerequisite for tenancy at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

go through fire (and water) face any peril.

1 This phrase originally referred to the medieval practice of trial by ordeal, which could take the form of making an accused person hold or walk on red-hot iron or of throwing them into water.

light a fire under someone stimulate someone to work or act more quickly or enthusiastically. North American play with fire: see PLAY.

set the world on fire: see set the world alight at SET.
under fire 1 being shot at. 2 being rigorously criticized.

1993 Albuquerque (New Mexico) Journal Zoe Baird, under fire for hiring illegal aliens to work in her home, has withdrawn her name as President Clinton’s nominee for US Attorney General.

where’s the fire? used to ask someone why they are in such a hurry or in a state of agitation. informal 1963 J. F. Straker Final Witness ‘Where’s the fire, dear boy?’ he drawled. ‘Do we really have to run for it?’

first thing early in the morning; before anything else.

first things first important matters should be attended to before anything else.

1 First Things First was the title of a book by George Jackson, subtitled ‘Addresses to young men’ (1894).

first up 1 first of all. 2 at the first attempt. Australian get to first base: see BASE.

first blood: see BLOOD.

first come, first served used to indicate that people will be dealt with strictly in the order in which they arrive or apply.

1985 Gregory Benford Artifact Kontos can throw a fit back there, chew the rug, anything—it won’t matter. His government has bigger fish to fry.

first past the post 1 (of a contestant, especially a horse, in a race) winning a race by being the first to reach the finishing line. 2 denoting an electoral system whereby a candidate or party is selected by achievement of a simple majority. British first off as a first point; first of all. informal, chiefly North American 1991 Globe & Mail (Toronto) First off, I wouldn’t worry about the ‘fashionability’ of any particular garment. If you’d like to wear something, then wear it.

first among equals: see EQUAL.

first blood: see BLOOD.

first come, first served used to indicate that people will be dealt with strictly in the order in which they arrive or apply.

first past the post 1 (of a contestant, especially a horse, in a race) winning a race by being the first to reach the finishing line. 2 denoting an electoral system whereby a candidate or party is selected by achievement of a simple majority. British

fish

big fish: see big cheese at BIG.

a big fish in a small (or little) pond a person seen as important and influential only within the limited scope of a small organization or group.

drink like a fish: see DRINK.

fish in troubled waters make a profit out of trouble or upheaval.

fish or cut bait stop vacillating and decide to act on or disengage from something. North American informal a fish out of water a person who is in a completely unsuitable environment or situation.

1991 Margaret Weiss King’s Test He realized that he was a fish out of water—a pilot in the midst of marines.

have other (or bigger) fish to fry have other or more important matters to attend to.

1985 Gregory Benford Artifact Kontos can throw a fit back there, chew the rug, anything—it won’t matter. His government has bigger fish to fry.

like shooting fish in a barrel done very easily.

1992 Laurie Colwin Home Cooking I fear that’s the urgency of greed. Picking cultivated berries is like shooting fish in a barrel.

neither fish nor fowl (nor good red herring) of indefinite character and difficult to identify or classify.
This expression arose with reference to dietary laws formerly laid down by the Church during periods of fasting or abstinence.

A pretty kettle of fish: see KETTLE.

There are plenty more fish in the sea used to console someone whose romantic relationship has ended by pointing out that there are many other people with whom they may have a successful relationship in the future.

This expression alludes to the proverb there are as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it.

Fishing

A fishing expedition a search or investigation undertaken with the hope, though not the stated purpose, of discovering information.

1998 High Country News Agency insiders describe the inquiry as a fishing expedition to uncover evidence that Dombeck may have been a party to illegal lobbying.

Fist

An iron fist in a velvet glove: see an iron hand in a velvet glove at IRON.

Make a — fist of do something to a specified degree of success. informal 1998 Times An opening stand of 99 by Hancock and Hewson helped Gloucestershire to make a decent fist of it yesterday.

Fit

Fit the bill: see fill the bill at BILL.

Fit as a fiddle: see FIDDLE.

Fit as a flea: see FLEA.

Fit for the gods excellent; extremely pleasing.

Fit like a glove: see GLOVE.

Fit to be tied very angry. informal 1988 Joan Smith A Masculine Ending He was fit to be tied when I separated from Hugh, and he seems to blame me for the whole thing.

Fit to bust with great energy.

1992 Daphne Glazer The Last Oasis I’d be rushing back at night, pedalling on my bike fit to bust.

Give someone a fit greatly shock, frighten, or anger someone. informal

In fits in a state of hysterical amusement. informal

In (or by) fits and starts with irregular bursts of activity.

Flag

Fly the flag (of a ship) be registered to a particular country and sail under its flag.

Represent or demonstrate support for your country, political party, or organization, especially when you are abroad.

1 In sense 2, the forms show the flag, carry the flag, and wave the flag are also found.

1996 Hello! She flew the flag for British tennis in the Eighties.

Keep the flag flying represent your country or organization, especially when abroad. Show continued commitment to something, especially in the face of adversity.

Put the flags (or flag) out celebrate publicly.

Show the flag (of a naval vessel) make an official visit to a foreign port, especially as a show of strength.

Wrap yourself in the flag make an excessive show of your patriotism, especially for political ends. chiefly North American 1993 Globe & Mail (Canada) For a politician at election time, wrapping oneself in the Canadian flag is a reflex action, as irresistible as bussing a baby.

Five

Take five take a short break; relax.

Five here is short for 'a five-minute break'.
flagpole
run something up the flagpole test the popularity of a new idea or proposal.

The idea behind this expression is of hoisting a particular flag to see who salutes.

flame
an old flame a former lover. informal shoot someone or something down in flames: see SHOOT.

flapping
someone's ears are flapping: see EAR.

flash
flash in the pan a thing or person whose sudden but brief success is not repeated or repeatable.

This phrase developed from the priming of a firearm, the flash being from an explosion of gunpowder within the lock.

1998 New Scientist But Java . . . may turn out to be flash in the pan: books on human– computer interaction struggle to stay abreast of rapid developments in computing.

quick as a flash (especially of a person's response or reaction) happening or made very quickly.

flat
fall flat fail completely to produce the intended or expected effect.

fall flat on your face fail over forwards.
fail in an embarrassingly obvious way.

flat as a pancake: see PANCAKE.

flat out as fast or as hard as possible. informal without hesitation or reservation; unequivocally. chiefly North American 1995 Independent Since August 1993 she has been working flat out on her latest three part documentary.

flattening leave the family home to live in a flat. Australian & New Zealand flavour flavour of the month someone or something that enjoys a short period of great popularity; the current fashion.

This phrase originated in a marketing campaign in American ice-cream parlours in the 1940s, when a particular flavour of ice cream would be singled out each month for special promotion.

flea
fit as a flea in very good health.

The phrase makes reference to a flea's agility.

a flea in your ear a sharp reproof.

Formerly a flea in your ear also meant something that agitates or alarms you, as does the French phrase avoir la puce à l'oreille. Nowadays, it is often found in the phrases give someone a flea in the ear or send someone away with a flea in their ear.

flesh
go the way of all flesh die or come to an end.

In the Authorized Version of the Bible all flesh is used to refer to all human and animal life.

in the flesh in person rather than via a telephone, film, article, etc.

make someone's flesh creep (or crawl) cause someone to feel fear, horror, or disgust.

put flesh on (the bones of) something add more details to something which exists only in a draft or outline form.

your pound of flesh: see POUND.

flesh and blood
your (own) flesh and blood near relatives;
close family.
flex
flex your muscles give a show of strength or power.
1998 Times Mr Prescott is flexing his muscles and the City is wondering just how far he is prepared to go.

flexible flexible friend a credit card.
1 This phrase comes from the advertising slogan ‘Access—your flexible friend’.

flick
give someone the flick (or get the flick) reject someone (or be rejected) in a casual or offhand way. informal, chiefly Australian flight

in full flight escaping as rapidly as possible.
1938 Life A week later General Cedillo was reported in full flight through the bush, with Federal troops hot on his heels.

flip flip your lid suddenly go mad or lose your self-control. informal 1 A chiefly US variant of this phrase is flip your wig.

flood
be in full flood 1(of a river) be swollen and overflowing its banks. 2 have gained momentum; be at the height of activity.
1991 Journal of Theological Studies There is too much detail for comfort... which is somewhat confusing when exposition is in full flood.

floor
cross the floor: see CROSS.
from the floor (of a speech or question) delivered by an individual member at a meeting or assembly, rather than by a representative on the platform.
take the floor 1 begin to dance on a dance floor. 2 speak in a debate or assembly.

flotsam
flotsam and jetsam useless or discarded objects.
1 Flotsam refers to the wreckage of a ship or its cargo found floating on or washed up by the sea, while jetsam is unwanted material thrown overboard from a ship and washed ashore. The two nouns are seldom used independently, almost always appearing together in this phrase.

flow
go with the flow be relaxed; accept a situation. informal 1 The image here is of going with the current of a stream rather than trying to swim against it.

1997 J-17 Go with the flow today. You can’t change the way things are going to pan out, so just let it all happen.
in full flow 1 talking fluently and easily and showing no sign of stopping. 2 performing vigorously and enthusiastically.

flower
the flower of — the finest individuals out of a number of people or things.
1 Middle and early modern English did not recognize the modern distinction in spelling and sense between flower and flour, and the earliest instances of this expression relate to the sense that in modern English would be spelt flour, referring to the finest part of the wheat.

1991 Pat Robertson New World Order This vainglorious conqueror wasted the flower of French youth on his own personal dreams of empire.

fluff bit of fluff: see BIT.

flush
a busted flush: see BUSTED.
in the first flush in a state of freshness and vigour.
1 The exact origins of flush as a noun are unknown; early senses share the idea of a sudden rush or abundance of something (e.g. water, growth of grass, or emotion).
flutter flutter the dovecotes alarm, startle, or upset a sedate or conventionally minded community.

This expression may come from Shakespeare’s Coriolanus: ‘like an eagle in a dove-cote, I fluttered your Volscians in Corioli’. Compare with put the cat among the pigeons (at CAT).

1992 Daily Telegraph It is however the arrival of Michael Heseltine at the DTI that will flutter the dovecotes most of all.

flutter your eyelashes open and close your eyes rapidly in a coyly flirtatious manner.

fly die (or drop) like flies die or collapse in large numbers.
drink with the flies drink alone. Australian & New Zealand informal 1963 D. Whittington Mile Pegs ‘Have a drink?’ the larrikin invited. ‘Or do you prefer drinking with the flies?’

fly the coop make your escape. informal 1991 Julia Phillips You’ll Never Eat Lunch In This Town Again Has David left? Nah, he would want to make sure I’m really ensconced, or I might fly the coop.

fly the flag: see FLAG.

fly high be very successful; prosper.

The noun high-flyer (or high-flier) meaning ‘a successful and ambitious person’ developed from this phrase in the mid 17th century.

a fly in amber a curious relic of the past, preserved into the present.

The image is of the fossilized bodies of insects which are often found preserved in amber.

fly in the face of be openly at variance with what is usual or expected.
a fly in the ointment a minor irritation or other factor that spoils the success or enjoyment of something.

This expression alludes to Ecclesiastes 10:1: ‘Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savour’.

fly a kite try something out to test opinion. informal

A historical sense of this phrase was ‘raise money by an accommodation bill’, meaning to raise money on credit, and this sense of testing public opinion of your creditworthiness gave rise to the current figurative sense. The US phrase go fly a kite means ‘go away!’.

fly the nest (of a young person) leave their parent’s home to set up home elsewhere. informal

The image here is of a young bird’s departure from its nest on becoming able to fly. Compare with empty nester (at EMPTY).

fly off the handle lose your temper suddenly and unexpectedly. informal

This expression uses the image of a loose head of an axe flying off its handle while the axe is being swung.

a fly on the wall an unnoticed observer of a particular situation.

This expression is often used as an adjective, as in a fly-on-the-wall documentary, where it refers to a film-making technique in which events are merely observed and presented realistically with minimum interference, rather than acted out under direction.

a fly on the wheel a person who overestimates their own influence.

This phrase stems from Aesop’s fable of a fly sitting on the axletree of a moving chariot and saying, ‘See what a dust I raise’.

like a blue-arsed fly in an extremely hectic or frantic way. British vulgar slang

The ‘blue-arsed fly’ referred to is a bluebottle, well known for its frenetic buzzing about.

fly on the fly while in motion. while busy or active. (of an addition or modification in computing) carried out during the running of a program without interrupting the run.

on the fly while in motion. while busy or active. (of an addition or modification in computing) carried out during the running of a program without interrupting the run.

there are no flies on — the person mentioned is very quick and astute.
wouldn’t hurt (or harm) a fly used to emphasize how inoffensive and harmless a person or animal is.

flyer

- take a flyer take a chance. chiefly North American 1998 Times Or we [i.e. journalists] can take a flyer: share a hunch and risk coming a cropper.

flying

- with flying colours with distinction. 1 Formerly, in military contexts, flying colours meant having the regimental flag flying as a sign of success or victory; a conquered army usually had to lower (or strike) its colours.

Flynn

- be in like Flynn seize an opportunity; be successful. Australian 1987 Kathy Lette Girls’ Night Out Russell brightened. ‘Really?’ I’m in, he thought to himself. I’m in like Flynn. ‘You really see it that way?’ He slid his arms around her.

foam

- foam at the mouth: see froth at the mouth at FROTH.

fog

- in a fog in a state of perplexity; unable to think clearly or understand something.

foggiest

- not have the foggiest (idea or notion) have no idea at all. informal, chiefly British

follow

- follow in someone’s footsteps: see FOOTSTEP.
- follow your nose 1 trust to your instincts. 2 move along guided by your sense of smell. 3 go straight ahead.

food

- food for thought something that warrants serious consideration or reflection.

fool

- a fool and his money are soon parted a foolish person spends money carelessly and will soon be penniless. proverb
- fools rush in where angels fear to tread people without good sense or judgement will have no hesitation in tackling a situation that even the wisest would avoid. proverb
- be no (or nobody’s) fool be a shrewd or prudent person.
- fool’s gold something deceptively attractive and promising in appearance. 1 Fool’s gold is the name popularly given to any yellow metal, such as pyrite or chalcopyrite, that may be mistaken for gold.

foot

- dig in your feet: see dig in your heels at DIG.
- drag your feet: see DRAG.
- fall on your feet: see FALL.
- foot the bill: see BILL.
- get (or start) off on the right (or wrong) foot make a good (or bad) start at something, especially a task or relationship. 1998 Spectator This relationship got off on the wrong foot ... when Mr Cook’s scathing attack on the government over the arms-to-Iraq affair was felt to include some officials as well.

get your feet under the table establish yourself securely in a new situation. chiefly British get your feet wet begin to participate in an activity.

have feet of clay have a fatal flaw in a character that is otherwise powerful or admirable.

This expression alludes to the biblical account of a magnificent statue seen in a dream by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. It was constructed from fine metals, all except for its feet which were made of clay; when these were smashed, the whole statue was brought down and destroyed. Daniel interprets this to signify a future kingdom that will be 'partly strong, and partly broken', and will eventually fall (Daniel 2:31–5).

have a foot in both camps have an interest or stake in two parties or sides without commitment to either.

1992 Community Care Care As EWOs [Education Welfare Officers] we have a foot in both camps. We work with the children and their families and the school and bring the two together.

have (or get) a foot in the door have (or gain) a first introduction to a profession or organization.

have one foot in the grave be near death through old age or illness. informal, often humorous have (or keep) your feet on the ground be (or remain) practical and sensible.

have something at your feet have something in your power or command.

keep your feet: see KEEP.

put your best foot forward embark on an undertaking with as much speed, effort, and determination as possible.

put foot hurry up; get a move on. South African informal put your foot down adopt a firm policy when faced with opposition or disobedience. 2 make a motor vehicle go faster by pressing the accelerator pedal with your foot. British informal put your foot in it (or put your foot in your mouth) say or do something tactless or embarrassing; commit a blunder or indiscretion. informal made a point of not talking to me. I realized that I'd put my foot in it.

put a foot wrong make any mistake in performing an action.

1999 Times For 71 holes of the Open he didn't put a foot wrong.

be run off your feet: see RUN.

six feet under: see SIX.

sweep someone off their feet quickly and overpoweringly charm someone.

think on your feet: see THINK.

vote with your feet: see VOTE.

footloose

footloose and fancy-free without any commitments or responsibilities; free to act or travel as you please.

Footloose was used literally in the late 17th century to mean 'free to move the feet'. The sense 'without commitments' originated in late 19th-century US usage. Fancy in fancy-free is used in the sense of 'love' or 'the object of someone's affections'.

footsie

play footsie with someone touch someone's feet lightly with your own feet, usually under a table, as a playful expression of romantic interest. work with someone in a cosy and covert way.

footstep

follow (or tread) in someone's footsteps do as another person did before, especially in making a journey or following an occupation.

for

be for it be in imminent danger of punishment or other trouble. British informal 1997 Peter Carey Jack Maggs The master. He reads to me. He would be reading to me now but I said I was ill and must go back to my bed. I'm for it if he finds me gone.

there's (or that's) — for you used ironically to indicate a particularly good example of a quality or thing mentioned.

1982 William Least Heat-Moon Blue Highways Satchel Paige—there's a name for you—old Satch could fire the pill a hundred and five miles an hour.

forbidden

forbidden fruit a thing that is desired all the more because it is not allowed.
force force someone’s hand make someone act prematurely or do something they dislike.
force the issue compel the making of an immediate decision.
force the pace adopt a fast pace in a race in order to tire out your opponents quickly.
in force in great strength or numbers.

forelock
take time by the forelock seize an opportunity. literary touch (or tug) your forelock raise a hand to your forehead in deference when meeting a person of higher social rank.

fork
Morton’s fork: see MORTON.

forked
with forked tongue untruthfully or deceitfully. humorous four on all fours with equal with; presenting an exact analogy with.

to the four winds: see to the wind at WIND.

foul
foul your own nest do something damaging or harmful to yourself or your own interests.

founding
founding father someone who establishes an institution.

fourth
the fourth estate the press; the profession of journalism.
regarded as having equal power. As early as 1843 Lord Macaulay stated: ‘The gallery in which the reporters sit has become a fourth estate of the realm’.

fox

crazy like a fox: see CRAZY.

frame

be in (or out of) the frame 1 be (or not be) eligible or the centre of attention. 2 under suspicion or wanted (or not) by the police.

Frankenstein

Frankenstein’s monster a thing that becomes terrifying or destructive to its maker.

1 Frankenstein was the title of a novel written in 1818 by Mary Shelley. The scientist Frankenstein creates and brings to life a manlike monster which eventually turns on him and destroys him; Frankenstein is not the name of the monster itself, as is often assumed.

1991 John Kingdom Local Government & Politics in Britain The factories of the bourgeoisie had created another dangerous by-product, a Frankenstein’s monster posing a constant sense of threat—the working class.

free

for free without cost or payment; free of charge. informal 1957 Godfrey Smith The Friends Back home we pay if we’re ill... You don’t expect to be ill for free.

free and easy informal and relaxed.

free, gratis, and for nothing without charge. humorous free rein: see REIN.

it’s a free country said when asserting that a course of action is not illegal or forbidden, often in justification of it.

make free with treat without ceremony or proper respect; take liberties with.

there’s no such thing as a free lunch: see LUNCH.

freeze

freeze the balls off a brass monkey: see brass monkey at BRASS.

freeze your blood fill you with feelings of fear or horror.

1 According to the medieval physiological scheme of the four humours in the human body (melancholy, phlegm, blood, and choler), blood was the hot, moist element, so the effect of horror or fear in making the blood cold was to make it unable to fulfil its proper function of supplying the body with vital heat or energy. Compare with make your blood run cold (at BLOOD).

French

excuse (or pardon) my French used to apologize for swearing. informal

1 French has been used since the late 19th century as a euphemism for bad language.

1992 Angela Lambert A Rather English Marriage A loony can change a bloody toilet-roll, pardon my French.

take French leave make an unannounced or unauthorized departure.

fresh

be fresh out of something have just sold or run out of a supply of something. informal break fresh ground: see break new ground at GROUND.

a breath of fresh air: see BREATH.

fresh as a daisy: see DAISY.

fresh blood: see new blood at BLOOD.

friend

a fair-weather friend someone who cannot be relied on in a crisis.

1998 Spectator The Americans gave up supplying gold on demand to other countries’ central banks at £35 an ounce... when their fair-weather friends from London threatened to turn up and clean them out.

flexible friend: see FLEXIBLE.

a friend at court a person in a position to use influence on your behalf.

friends in high places people in senior positions who are able and willing to use their influence on your behalf.

fright

look a fright have a dishevelled or grotesque appearance. informal frighten

frighten the daylights out of: see DAYLIGHT. frighten the life out of: see LIFE.

frightened frightened of your own shadow: see afraid of your own shadow at SHADOW.

be frightened out of your wits: see WIT.

be frightened to death: see DEATH.

frightener

put the frighteners on threaten or intimidate. British informal

1 Literally, a frightener is a thug who intimidates victims on behalf of a gang.

1998 John Milne Alive & Kicking She decides to put the frighteners on him by hiring me as a private detective.

fritz

go (or be) on the fritz (of a machine) stop working properly. North American informal

1 The nature of any connection with Fritz, the derogatory nickname for a German, is uncertain. The related phrase put the fritz on means ‘put a stop to something’.

frog

have a frog in your throat lose your voice or find it hard to speak because of hoarseness or an apparent impediment in your throat. informal front

front of house the parts of a theatre in front of the proscenium arch. the business of a theatre that concerns the audience, such as ticket sales.

on the front burner: see on the back burner at BURNER.

frosty

it’ll be a frosty Friday (in July) used to indicate that something is very unlikely to happen. Canadian informal 1990 Walter Stewart Right Church, Wrong Pew It would be a frosty Friday in the middle of July before he would discuss personal affairs with the press.

froth

froth (or foam) at the mouth be very angry.

1 This phrase stems from the involuntary production of large amounts of saliva from the mouth during a seizure or fit.

fruit

bear fruit have good results.

1 This expression is a biblical metaphor, found, for example, in Matthew 13:23: ‘But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty’.

frying

out of the frying pan into the fire from a bad situation to one that is worse.

fudge

fudge factor a figure which is included in a calculation in order to account for some unquantified but significant phenomenon or to ensure a desired result.

1 Fudge, apparently originating in the mid 18th century as an exclamation of disgust or irritation, later acquired a specific verbal sense in printers’ jargon, meaning to ‘do work imperfectly or as best you can with the materials available’.

fuel

add fuel to the fire (or flames) (of a person or circumstance) cause a situation or conflict to become more intense, especially by provocative comments.

full

at full cock (of a firearm) with the cock lifted to the position at which the trigger will act.

at full stretch: see STRETCH.

come full circle: see CIRCLE.

in full cry: see CRY.

full as a goog: see GOOG.

the full monty: see MONTY.

full of beans: see BEAN.

full of years having lived to a considerable age. archaic

1 Full of years is an expression originating in the Authorized Version of the Bible: ‘an old man, and full of years’ (Genesis 25:8).

full pelt: see PELT.

full steam (or speed) ahead used to indicate that you should proceed with as much speed or energy as possible.

in full fig: see FIG.

in full flight: see FLIGHT.
fullness

in full flow: see FLOW.
in full swing: see SWING.
not the full quid: see QUID.
not playing with a full deck: see DECK.
on a full stomach: see STOMACH.
to the full to the greatest possible extent.
full whack: see top whack at WHACK.

fullness

the fullness of your (or the) heart great or overwhelming emotion, literary in the fullness of time after a due length of time has elapsed; eventually.

fun

poke fun at: see POKE.

fund

in funds having money to spend. British funeral

it's (or that's) someone's funeral used to warn someone that an unwise act or decision is their own responsibility, informal 1996 Amitav Ghosh The Calcutta Chromosome
I'll turn a few pages for you; but remember, it was you who asked. It's your funeral.

funny

see the funny side of something appreciate the humorous aspect of a situation or experience.

fur

be all fur coat and no knickers have an impressive or sophisticated appearance which belies the fact that there is nothing to substantiate it. British informal fur and feather game animals and birds.

the fur will fly there will be serious, perhaps violent, trouble, informal fearfully give someone furiously to think: see THINK.

furniture

part of the furniture a person or thing that has been somewhere so long as to seem a permanent, unquestioned, or invisible feature of the scene. informal fury

like fury with great energy or effort. informal fuse

light the fuse: see LIGHT.

future

future shock a state of distress or disorientation due to rapid social or technological change.

i This phrase was coined by the American writer Alvin Toffler in Horizon (1965), where he defines it as 'the dizzying disorientation brought on by the premature arrival of the future'.

i This expression dates from the mid 19th century, but fury has been used of things that operate with irresistible force since the late 16th century (e.g. 'the fury of the sea').

1994-5 Game Gazette I was to fish it [the Zambesi] for the legendary Tiger fish... that... has a mouth of teeth like a canteen of cutlery and fights like fury.
gad
on (or upon) the gad on the move.

The noun gad is archaic and is now used only in this expression. The verb gad meaning ‘go from one place to another in search of pleasure’, is more familiar today; both may have their origins in an obsolete word gadling, meaning ‘a wanderer or vagabond’.

gaff
blow the gaff reveal or let out a plot or secret.

The word gaff is recorded from the early 19th century, but its origins are uncertain.

gaiety
the gaiety of nations general cheerfulness or amusement. British

In The Lives of the English Poets, Samuel Johnson wrote about the death of the great actor David Garrick (1717–79), remarking that it ‘has eclipsed the gaiety of nations and impoverished the public stock of harmless pleasure’.

gait
go your (or your own) gait pursue your own course. dated 1940 Herbert Read Annals of Innocence These are qualities to be enjoyed by non-poetic people: the poet must go his own gait.

gall
dip your pen in gall: see DIP.
wormwood and gall: see WORMWOOD.

gallery
play to the gallery act in an exaggerated or histrionic manner, especially in order to appeal to popular taste.

From the mid 17th century the highest seating in a theatre was called the gallery, and it was here that the cheapest seats—and the least refined members of the audience—were to be found. This figurative expression dates from the late 19th century.

game

ahead of the game: see AHEAD.

beat someone at their own game: see BEAT.

as game as Ned Kelly very brave. Australian

Ned Kelly (1855–80) was a famous Australian outlaw, the leader of a band of horse and cattle thieves and bank raiders operating in Victoria; he was eventually hanged at Melbourne.

the game is up the plan, deception, or crime is revealed or foiled.

game on 1 a signal for play to begin in a game or match. 2 said when you feel that a situation is about to develop in your favour.

informal

1999 FHM She soon invited me back to her place for the other. Game on!

1999 Spectator But there is… a sense of resentment that the big set-piece political interviews are not now the only game in town.

game over said when a situation is regarded as hopeless or irreversible.

2001 Wall Street Journal There’s a finite amount of money available, and, if it runs out, game over.

give the game away inadvertently reveal your own or another’s intentions.

the name of the game: see NAME.

off (or on) your game playing badly (or well).

on the game involved in prostitution. British informal

1 The phrase itself apparently dates from the late 19th century, but game in the sense of ‘sexual activity’ is much older. Shakespeare talks of ‘daughters of the game’ in Troilus and Cressida (1606) and from the early 17th century gamester was a term used to describe a lewd person.

the only game in town the best or most important of its kind; the only thing worth concerning yourself with. informal

1998 Spectator But there is… a sense of resentment that the big set-piece political interviews are not now the only game in town.
play games deal with someone or something in a way that lacks due seriousness or respect or deviates from the truth.

2000 Mike Gayle Turning Thirty I couldn’t stand him at first. I’d have a conversation with him and would come away feeling like he was playing games with me.

play someone’s game advance another’s plans, whether intentionally or not.

play the game behave in a fair or honourable way; abide by the rules or conventions.

1993 Andy McNab Bravo Two Zero Shorncliffe was a nightmare, but I learned to play the game. I had to—there was nothing else for me.

two can play at that game see TWO.

what’s your (or the) game? what’s going on?; what are you up to? informal gamut run the gamut experience, display, or perform the complete range of something.

1 Gamut is a contraction of medieval Latin gamma ut, gamma being the lowest note in the medieval musical scale and ut the first of the six notes forming a hexachord. Together, therefore, they represent the full range of notes of which a voice or an instrument is capable.

1996 Europe: Rough Guide Russia’s hotels run the gamut from opulent citadels run as joint-ventures with foreign firms to seedy pits inhabited by mobsters.

gangbusters go gangbusters proceed very vigorously or successfully. North American informal

1 Literally, a gangbuster is ‘a person who assists in the vigorous or violent break-up of criminal gangs’, from which the more general sense of ‘a successful person’ has developed. The phrase like gangbusters means ‘vigorously and successfully’.

1994 Wall Street Journal Sotheby’s glamorous semi-annual black tie auction of contemporary art was going gangbusters.

garbage

garbage in, garbage out incorrect or poor quality input inevitably produces faulty output.

1 This expression is often abbreviated as GIGO. The phrase originated in the mid 20th century in the field of computing, but it can now have a more general application.

1987 Washington Times The computer rule ‘garbage in, garbage out’ applies to the human mind just as much as it does to the computer.

garden

everything in the garden is lovely (or rosy) all is well. informal

1 Everything in the garden is lovely was an early 20th-century catchphrase, originating in a song popularized by the English music-hall artiste Marie Lloyd (1870–1922), and is used as an expression of general satisfaction and contentment.

lead someone up the garden path give someone misleading clues or signals. informal

1 The earliest (early 20th-century) examples of this phrase use just garden rather than garden path, which suggests that the original context was of someone enticing a person they wanted to seduce or flirt with out into a garden. A North American variant of the phrase is lead someone down the garden path.

Garnet

all Sir Garnet highly satisfactory. informal, dated

1 Sir Garnet Wolseley (1833–1913), leader of several successful military expeditions, was associated with major reforms in the army. He was the model for the ’modern Major-General’ in Gilbert and Sullivan’s The Pirates of Penzance.

gas

gas and gaiters a satisfactory state of affairs. informal, dated

1 This expression was first recorded in Charles Dickens’ Nicholas Nickleby (1839): ‘All is gas and gaiters’.

1961 P. G. Wodehouse Ice in the Bedroom She cries ‘Oh, Freddie darling!’ and flings herself into his arms, and all is gas and gaiters again.

run out of gas run out of energy; lose momentum. North American informal step on the gas press on the accelerator to make a car go faster. North American informal gasket

blow a gasket suffer a leak in a gasket of an engine. informal gasp

your (or the) last gasp the point of death, exhaustion, or completion.
1996 Will Hutton The State We're In The failure of the 1994 rail strike was the last gasp of an old order.

gate get (or be given) the gate be dismissed from a job. North American informal gatepost between you and me and the gatepost: see between you and me and the bedpost at BEDPOST.

gauntlet
run the gauntlet go through an intimidating or dangerous crowd, place, or experience in order to reach a goal.

| This phrase alludes to the former military practice of punishing a wrongdoer by forcing him to run between two lines of men armed with sticks, who beat him as he passed. Gauntlet here has nothing to do with a glove, but is a version of an earlier word gantlope, itself taken from Swedish gatloppe, which meant 'lane course'. |

| In medieval times, a person issued a challenge by throwing their gauntlet (i.e. glove) to the ground; whoever picked it up was deemed to have accepted the challenge. | throw down (or take up) the gauntlet issue (or accept) a challenge.

gear
change gear begin to move or act differently, usually more rapidly.

| This expression derives from literally engaging a different gear of a motor vehicle in order to alter its speed. Compare with in gear (with a gear engaged, and so ready for action) and its opposite out of gear. To move up a gear means literally 'change to a higher gear'; the phrase is often used figuratively to mean 'put more effort into an activity'. | give someone the gears harass or pester someone.

1989 Guy Vanderhaeghe Homestick Whenever Daniel gave him the gears about overdressing, the old man grew sulky and grouchy.

genie
let the genie out of (or put the genie back in) the bottle let loose (or bring back under control) an unpredictable force, course of events, etc.

| A genie or jinnee in Arabian stories is a spirit that can adopt various forms and take a mischievous or benign hand in human affairs. The genie generally inhabits a lamp (compare with Aladdin's lamp at ALADDIN) or bottle from which someone can release it by the appropriate words or actions. The Arabic word appears in English in various transliterations; genie derives from French génie (from Latin genius meaning 'a tutelary spirit'), used by the French translators of The Arabian Nights because it was similar in form and sense to the Arabic word. |

2002 Chicago Tribune Keeping the nuclear genie in the bottle has not been easy. India and Pakistan have both developed nuclear weapons in recent years.

gentleman
gentleman's agreement an arrangement or understanding which is based on the trust of both or all parties, rather than being legally binding.

1991 Charles Anderson Grain: Entrepreneurs There had been a 'gentleman's agreement' by the Grain Growers not to enter the markets of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool's predecessor.

the little gentleman in the velvet coat the mole, humorous

| This expression was a toast used by the Jacobites, supporters of the deposed James II and his descendants in their claim to the British throne. It referred to the belief that the death of King William III resulted from complications following a fall from his horse when it stumbled over a molehill. The phrase is found in various other forms, including the wee gentleman in black velvet. | genuine

genuine article a person or thing considered to be an authentic and excellent example of their kind.

George
let George do it let someone else do the work or take the responsibility.

get as — as all get out to a great or extreme extent. North American informal 1990 M. Scott Peck A Bed by the Window She could be as huffy as all get out.

be out to get someone be determined to punish or harm someone.

don't get mad, get even used to advise in favour of revenge rather than fruitless rage. informal 1998 New Scientist The Wellcome Trust doesn’t get mad, it gets even.

get it together get yourself or a situation organized or under control. informal get-up-and-go energy, enthusiasm, and initiative. informal

A mid 19th-century US colloquialism was ‘get up and get’.

get your own back have your revenge; retaliate British informal ghost

the ghost in the machine the mind viewed as distinct from the body.

This phrase was coined by the British philosopher Gilbert Ryle in The Concept of Mind (1949) for a viewpoint that he considered completely misleading.

the ghost walks money is available and salaries will be paid.

This expression has been explained in theatrical phrasebooks by the story that an actor playing the ghost of Hamlet’s father refused to ‘walk again’ until the cast’s overdue salaries had been paid.

give up the ghost (of a person) die. (of a machine) stop working; break down, especially permanently. stop making an effort; give up hope.

The Old English meaning of ghost, ‘the soul or spirit as the source of life’, survives only in this idiom.

look as if you have seen a ghost look very pale and shocked.

not have (or stand) the ghost of a chance have no chance at all.

gift

the gift of the gab the ability to speak with eloquence and fluency.

Gab, dating from the late 18th century, was an informal word for ‘conversation or chatter’. In Scotland it was associated with gab, an early 18th-century dialect variant of gob meaning ‘the mouth’.

the gift of tongues: see TONGUE.

God’s (own) gift to —: see GOD.

in the gift of (of a church living or official appointment) in the power of someone to award.

look a gift horse in the mouth find fault with what has been given or be ungrateful for an opportunity.

The Latin version of the proverb don’t look a gift horse in the mouth (noli... equi dentes inspicere donati) was known to St Jerome in the early 5th century AD. The 16th-century English form was do not look a given horse in the mouth.

1998 New Scientist The JAMA paper offers this advice to researchers involved in industry-funded studies: ‘At times it may be prudent... to look a gift horse in the mouth’.

gild

gild the lily try to improve what is already beautiful or excellent.

This phrase adapts lines from Shakespeare’s King John: ‘To gild refined gold, to paint the lily... Is wasteful and ridiculous excess’.

gill

green about the gills: see GREEN.

gilt

take the gilt off the gingerbread make something no longer appealing.

Gingerbread was traditionally made in decorative forms that were then ornamented with gold leaf.

ginger

ginger group a highly active faction within a party or movement that presses for stronger action on a particular issue. informal

An old horse dealer’s trick (recorded from the late 18th century) to make a broken-down animal look lively was to insert ginger into its anus. From this developed the metaphorical phrase ginger up, meaning ‘make someone or something more lively’; in the early 20th century the term ginger group arose, to refer to a highly active faction in a party or movement that presses for stronger action about something.

1970 New Society The appearance of ginger groups to fight specific proposals, is not necessarily a bad thing—particularly if the established bodies aren’t prepared to fight.
gingerbread
take the gilt off the gingerbread: see GILT.

gird
gird (up) your loins prepare and strengthen yourself for what is to come.

This expression is of biblical origin, the idea being that the long, loose garments worn in the ancient Orient had to be hitched up to avoid impeding a person’s movement. In 1 Kings 18:45–6, we find: ‘And Ahab rode, and went to Jezreel. And...Elijah...girded up his loins, and ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel’. The phrase was also used metaphorically in the New Testament: ‘Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you...’ (1 Peter 1:13).

girl
page three girl: see PAGE.

give give and take ① mutual concessions and compromises. ② exchange of words and views.
give as good as you get respond with equal force or vehemence when attacked.
give someone or something best: see BEST.
give someone furiously to think: see THINK.
give the game (or show) away inadvertently reveal something secret or concealed.
give it to someone scold or punish someone. informal give me — I prefer or admire a specified thing.
1998 BBC Vegetarian Good Food Iceberg lettuce is a massive Eighties con—give me a round lettuce any day.
give or take — to within — (used to express the degree or accuracy of a figure). informal 1991 Biyi Bandele-Thomas The Man who Came in from the Back of Beyond Aged twenty-five give or take a few years, he spoke in a detached voice, like a judge passing the death sentence.
give up the ghost: see GHOST. give someone what for punish or scold someone severely. British informal give yourself airs: see AIR.
not give a damn (or hoot) not care at all. informal 1998 Penelope Lively Spiderweb The boys knew that the teachers didn’t like them and they didn’t give a damn.

gizzard stick in your gizzard be a source of great and continuing annoyance. informal glad give someone the glad hand offer someone a warm and hearty, but often insincere, greeting or welcome. informal in your glad rags in your smartest clothes; in formal evening dress. informal 1922 H. B. Hermon-Hodge Up Against It In Nigeria We all turned out in our glad rags to join in the procession.

glassy
the (or just the) glassy the most excellent person or thing. Australian informal

In mid 20th-century surfing slang, a glassy is an extremely smooth wave offering excellent surfing conditions.

gleam
a gleam (or twinkle) in someone’s eye ① a barely formed idea. ② a child who has not yet been conceived. humorous glitter

all that glitters is not gold the attractive external appearance of something is not a reliable indication of its true nature. proverb gloom doom and gloom: see DOOM.

glory
crowning glory: see CROWNING.
go to glory die or be destroyed.
in your glory in a state of extreme joy or exaltation. informal glove

fit like a glove (of clothes) fit exactly.
1989 T. M. Albert Tales of an Ulster Detective McNinch invited him to try the shoe on his foot, which he did—and it fitted him like a glove.
the gloves are off (or with the gloves off or take the gloves off) used to express the notion that something will be done in an uncompromising or brutal way, without compunction or hesitation.

The contrast implied in this phrase is with a gloved hand handling things gently or in a civilized way.
glutton

a glutton for punishment a person who is always eager to undertake hard or unpleasant tasks.

Glutton of — was used figuratively from the early 18th century for someone inordinately fond of the thing specified, especially when translating the Latin phrase helluo librorum 'a glutton of books'. The possible origin of the present phrase is in early 19th-century sporting slang.

gonash

gnash your teeth feel or express anger or fury.

The gnashing of teeth, along with weeping or wailing, is used throughout the Bible to express a mixture of remorse and rage (for example, in Matthew 8:12: 'But the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth').

1998 Times Prepare yourself for the usual wailing and gnashing of teeth after tomorrow's retail price index figures.

gnat

strain at a gnat: see STRAIN.

gnome

gnomes of Zurich Swiss financiers or bankers, regarded as having sinister influence. derogatory

This phrase stems from a remark made by the British politician Harold Wilson in a speech in 1956: 'all the little gnomes in Zurich ... about whom we keep on hearing'.

1987 Evelyn E. Smith Miss Melville Returns He'd been unable to make a go of life in the city, and so he'd returned to the small New England village he came from.

1991 Brian MacArthur Despatches from the Gulf War Television's mission to explain was taken to its outer limit and at times scored an own goal by developing a bias against understanding.

go

all systems go: see SYSTEM.

be all go be very busy or active. informal from go to whoa from start to finish.

from the word go from the very beginning. informal 1997 Bridget O'Connor Tell Her You Love Her Mr Parker was in love with me almost from the word go.

go ape: see APE.

go-as-you-please untrammelled or free.

1998 Canal Boat and Inland Waterways Enjoy a go-as-you-please cruise aboard one of our all weather self drive luxury day boats.

go ballistic: see BALLISTIC.

go bananas: see BANANA.

go down with (all) guns firing fail or be beaten, but continue to offer resistance until the end.

go figure said to express the speaker's belief that something is inexplicable. North American informal 1999 Massive In the last election, the Tories got 19 per cent of the votes in Scotland and have no MPs there at all, while the Lib Dems got 13 per cent and have 10 MPs. Go figure.

go great guns: see GUN.

go halves (or shares) share something equally.

go (to) it act in a vigorous, energetic, or dissipated way. British informal 1995 Times While there is time, become an activist, disrupt political meetings. Go to it.

go postal: see POSTAL.

go the way of all flesh: see FLESH.

go the whole hog: see HOG.

go well used to express good wishes to someone leaving. South African have a go make an attempt; act resourcefully. take independent or single-handed action against a criminal or criminals.

chiefly British

make a go of be successful in something. informal

An Australian and New Zealand variant of this expression is make a do of it, which dates from the early 20th century.

1987 Evelyn E. Smith Miss Melville Returns He'd been unable to make a go of life in the city, and so he'd returned to the small New England village he came from.

on the go very active or busy. informal to go (of food or drink from a restaurant or cafe) to be eaten or drunk off the premises. North American goal

score an own goal (in football) score a goal by mistake against your own side. do something that has the unintended effect of harming your own interests. informal 1991 Brian MacArthur Despatches from the Gulf War Television's mission to explain was taken to its outer limit and at times scored an own goal by developing a bias against understanding.

goalpost

move the goalposts unfairly alter the conditions or rules of a procedure during its course.

1989 Dimensions Many companies have, in recent years, moved the goalposts so that those who used to qualify no longer do so.

goat

get someone's goat irritate someone.

informal

1998 Andrea Ashworth Once in a House on Fire It got his goat when he caught me... with my nose stuck in a book turned the wrong way up.

play (or act) the (giddy) goat fool around; act irresponsibly. informal

God

God's acre a churchyard. archaic

1 This phrase comes from the German word Gottesacker meaning 'God's seed field' in which the bodies of the dead are 'sown'.

God's (own) gift to — the ideal or best possible person or thing for someone or something (used chiefly ironically or in negative statements).

1998 Spectator Their [the English] hooligans, their pressmen, hell, even their footballers behave as if they were God's own gift to sport.

God willing used to express the wish that you will be able to do as you intend or that something will happen as planned.

I This is an expression found in many cultures: compare with Latin deo volente or Arabic inshallah.

in the lap of the gods: see LAP.

little tin god a self-important person.

I Tin is implicitly contrasted here with precious metals. The phrase seems to have originated in Rudyard Kipling's Plain Tales from the Hills, where he described idols that he thought were given undeserved veneration: 'Pleasant it is for the Little Tin Gods When great Jove nods; But Little Tin Gods make their little mistakes In missing the hour when great Jove wakes'.

1987 Fannie Flagg Fried Green Tomatoes at the Whistle Stop Cafe This little tin God in the polyester suit and the three-pound shoes. So smug, so self-important, with the nurses fluttering around him like geisha girls.

play God behave as if all-powerful or supremely important.

goes

anything goes there are no rules about acceptable behaviour or dress.

I This phrase appeared earlier, in the late 19th century, as everything goes.

as (or so) far as it goes bearing in mind its limitations (said when qualifying praise of something).

what goes around comes around the consequences of your actions will have to be dealt with eventually. proverb who goes there? said by a sentry as a challenge.

going

going, going, gone! an auctioneer's traditional announcement that bidding is closing or closed, and that this is the last chance to have something. informal going on — (or going on for —) approaching a specified time, age, or amount. humorous 1994 Janice Galloway Foreign Parts Cassie, carrying this bloody windsurfing board through customs. Thirty-one going on fifteen.

have — going for you have a specified factor or factors in your favour. informal 1997 Marian Keyes Rachel's Holiday All we really had going for us was our hair; mine was long and dark and hers was long and blonde.

while the going is good while conditions are favourable.

gold

fool's gold: see FOOL.

go gold (of a recording) achieve sales meriting a gold disc.

pot (or crock) of gold a large but distant or illusory reward.

I This expression alludes to the traditional story that a pot of gold is to be found by anyone who succeeds in reaching the end of a rainbow.

worth your weight in gold: see WEIGHT.

gold dust like gold dust very valuable and rare.

golden

a golden age a period in the past when things were at their best, happiest, or most successful.
According to Greek and Roman mythology, the Golden Age was the earliest and best age of the world, when human beings lived in a state of perfect happiness. The Ages of Silver, Brass, and Iron represented successive stages of a descent into barbarism and misery.

a golden calf something, especially wealth, as an object of excessive or unworthy worship.

In the Bible, the golden calf was a statue of gold in the shape of a calf, made by Aaron in response to the Israelites’ plea for a god while they awaited Moses’ return from Mount Sinai, where he was receiving the Ten Commandments (Exodus, chapter 32).

a golden handshake a sum of money paid by an employer to a retiring or redundant employee.

On the same principle, the phrase a golden hello was coined in the late 20th century. It is explained in an Appointments section of the New Scientist in 1998: ‘Employers ... especially in the financial sector, are offering “golden hellos”. These are advances of up to £2000, sometimes given on acceptance of a job offer or with the first month’s salary.’

the golden mean the avoidance of extremes.

This phrase translates the Latin phrase aurea mediocritas, which comes from the Roman poet Horace’s Odes.

the golden section the division of a line so that the whole is to the greater part as that part is to the smaller part.

This is a mathematical term for a proportion known since the 4th century and mentioned in the works of the Greek mathematician Euclid. It has been called by several names, but the mid 19th-century German one goldene Schnitt, translating Latin sectio aurea, has given rise to the current English term.

---

1997 Cosmopolitan If you are famous, you can’t allow someone to diss you without retaliating—it’s as good as admitting they’re more important than you.

as good as gold extremely well-behaved.

as good as new in a very good condition or state, especially close to the original state after damage, injury, or illness.

be good news: see NEWS.

be in good company: see COMPANY.

be — to the good have a specified amount of profit or advantage.

1992 Guardian By then Sheffield were a goal to the good.

come up with (or deliver) the goods do what is expected or required of you.

get (or have) the goods on someone obtain (or possess) information about a person which may be used to their detriment.

good and — used as an intensifier before an adjective or adverb.

1998 Barbara Kingsolver The Poisonwood Bible As soon as I had her good and terrified I’d slip away.

good oil reliable information. Australian informal

This expression has behind it the image of oil that is used to lubricate a machine and so ensure that it runs well.

good Samaritan: see SAMARITAN.

have a (good) mind to do something: see MIND.

in good time with no risk of being late.

in someone’s good books: see in someone’s bad books at BOOK.

make good be successful.

no good to gundy no good at all. Australian informal 1955 Nina Pulliam I Traveled a Lonely Land Just cards and races and booze—and fightin’. No good to Gundy!

one good turn deserves another: see TURN.

take something in good part not be offended by something.

up to no good doing or intending to do something wrong. informal 1997 Lain Sinclair Lights Out for the Territory ‘Here we are then,’ he said, ‘two boyos from the valleys up to no good in the big, wicked city.’

goog full as a goog very drunk. Australian informal

Goog is slang for ‘egg’, but its origins are uncertain.

goose
all someone’s geese are swans someone habitually exaggerates the merits of undistinguished people or things.

The goose is proverbially contrasted with the swan as being the clumsier, less elegant, and less distinguished bird; compare with turn geese into swans below.

cook someone’s goose: see COOK.

kill the goose that lays the golden egg(s) destroy a reliable and valuable source of income.

One of Aesop’s fables tells the tale of a man who owned a miraculous goose that laid eggs of gold. However, he grew dissatisfied with its production of just one egg a day and killed it in the deluded expectation of finding a large quantity of gold inside it.

1999 New York Times Change is needed in the nation’s drug policies... But we need to address the problem carefully in a way that doesn’t kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

turn geese into swans exaggerate the merits of people.

what’s sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander: see SAUCE.

gordian
cut the Gordian knot: see CUT.

gorge
cast the gorge at reject with loathing. dated

Gorge is an obsolete term from falconry, meaning ‘a meal for a hawk’; from this derives the more general sense of ‘the contents of the stomach’.

your gorge rises you are sickened or disgusted.

fall from grace fall into a state of sin. fall from favour.

1998 Martin Booth The Industry of Souls He was an officer in the local militia before he arrested a young official... for corruption and fell from grace.

with good (or bad) grace in a willing and happy (or resentful and reluctant) manner.

grade
make the grade succeed; reach the desired standard. informal grain

against the grain contrary to the natural inclination or feeling of someone or something.

a grain of mustard seed a small thing capable of vast development.

Black mustard seed grows to a great height. In Matthew 13:31–2 it is stated that ‘mustard seed... indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs’.
grand
a (or the) grand old man of a man long and highly respected in a particular field.

- Recorded from 1882, and popularly abbreviated as GOM, Grand Old Man was the nickname of the British statesman William Ewart Gladstone (1809–98), who went on to win his last election in 1892 at the age of eighty-three.

grandeur
delusions of grandeur: see DELUSION.

grandmother
teach your grandmother to suck eggs presume to advise a more experienced person.

- The proverb you can't teach your grandmother to suck eggs has been used since the early 18th century as a caution against any attempt by the ignorant or inexperienced to instruct someone wiser or more knowledgeable.

grape
sour grapes: see SOUR.

grapevine
hear something on the grapevine acquire information by rumour or by unofficial communication.

- This phrase comes originally from an American Civil War expression, when news was said to be passed 'by grapevine telegraph'. Compare with bush telegraph (at TELEGRAPH).

grasp
grasp at straws: see clutch at straws at STRAW.
grasp the nettle tackle a difficulty boldly.

- This expression refers to a belief (recorded from the late 16th century onwards) enshrined in a rhyme quoted in Sean O'Casey's Juno and the Paycock (1925): 'If you gently touch a nettle it'll sting you for your pains; grasp it like a lad of mettle, an' as soft as silk remains'.

1998 New Scientist The problem was that governments failed to grasp the nettle and scrap the system.

grass
at the grass roots at the level of the ordinary voter; among the rank and file of a political party.

the grass is always greener other people's lives or situations always seem better than your own.

- This is a shortened form of the proverb 'the grass is always greener on the other side of the fence', usually used as a caution against dissatisfaction with your own lot in life. There are a number of sayings about the attractions of something distant or inaccessible, for example blue are the faraway hills.

not let the grass grow under your feet not delay in acting or taking an opportunity.

put someone or something out to grass
- put an animal out to graze.
- force someone to retire; make someone redundant. informal gasshopper

knee-high to a grasshopper: see KNEE-HIGH.

grave
dig your own grave: see DIG.

have one foot in the grave: see FOOT.
silent (or quiet) as the grave very quiet.
take the (or your etc.) secret to the grave die without revealing a secret.
turn (or turn over) in their grave used to express the opinion that something would have caused anger or distress in someone who is now dead.

1998 Spectator There was a lot of buzz at Jeff Koons's studio... But the grinding noise one heard was Peter Fuller turning in his grave.

graven
a graven image a carved representation of a god used as an object of worship.

- This expression is from the second of the Ten Commandments: 'Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image' (Exodus 20:4).

gravy
board the gravy train obtain access to an easy source of financial gain. informal

- Gravy is an informal term for 'money easily acquired' and gravy train is perhaps an alteration of gravy boat, a long, narrow jug used for serving gravy.
grease

grease (or oil) someone’s palm bribe someone, informal

1. This phrase comes from the practice of applying grease to a machine to make it run smoothly. The same expression exists in French as graisser la patte. The form with palm is now predominant but hand appears in the earliest recorded versions of the idiom, dating from the 16th century.

1998 Economist Licences to run a shop [in Italy]... have caused many an official’s palm to be greased.

grease the wheels make things go smoothly, especially by paying the expenses.

greased

like greased lightning: see like lightning at LIGHTNING.

greasy

greasy spoon a cheap, run-down restaurant or cafe serving fried foods.

1968 Len Deighton Only When I Larf Bob said he was hungry and wanted to pull up at every greasy spoon we passed.

great

the great and the good distinguished and worthy people collectively. often ironic 1998 New Scientist But last year, an ad hoc committee of the Internet’s great and good unveiled its own plan.

great and small of all sizes, classes, or types.

1997 Times Education Supplement You are strongly advised to keep well clear of all creatures great and small.

a great one for a habitual doer of; an enthusiast for.

1994 Romesh Gunesekera Reef Early on I learned the value of making lists from watching Mister Salgado. He was a great one for lists.

Greek

it’s all Greek to me I can’t understand it at all. informal

1. Greek meaning ‘unintelligible language or gibberish’ is recorded from the 16th century. In Shakespeare’s Julius Caesar, Casca, having noted that Cicero speaks Greek, adds ‘for mine own part, it was Greek to me’.

beware (or fear) the Greeks bearing gifts if rivals or enemies show apparent generosity or kindness, you should be suspicious of their motives. proverb

1. This proverb refers to the Trojan priest Laocoön’s warning in Virgil’s Aeneid: ‘timeo Danaos et dona ferentes’, in which he warns his countrymen against taking into their city the gigantic wooden horse that the Greeks have left behind on their apparent departure. The fall of Troy results from their failure to heed this warning.

green

green about (or around or at) the gills looking or feeling ill or nauseous.

informal

1. A person’s gills are the fleshy parts between the jaw and the ears: this sense of the word dates from the early 17th century. Other colours are occasionally used to indicate a sickly appearance; much less common is rosy about the gills indicating good health.

green light permission to go ahead with a project.

1. The green light referred to is the traffic signal indicating that traffic is free to move forward. Red and green lights were in use from the late 19th century in railway signals, but this figurative use of green light appears to date from the mid 20th century.

1997 New Scientist Zemin even got the green light to buy nuclear power plants.

green with envy very envious or jealous.

the green-eyed monster jealousy. literary

1. Green is traditionally the colour of jealousy, as shown in the previous idiom green with envy and in this one, where the green-eyed monster is jealousy personified. This expression is a quotation from Shakespeare’s Othello, where Iago warns: ‘O! beware my lord of jealousy; It is the green-eyed monster which doth mock The meat it feeds on’.

grey

a grey area an ill-defined situation or field not readily conforming to a category or to an existing set of rules.

1. In the 1960s, grey areas in British planning vocabulary referred to places that were not in as desperate a state as slums but which were in decline and in need of rebuilding.

2001 Rough Guide to Travel Health In theory, it should be a cinch to diagnose appendicitis, but in practice it’s much more of a grey area.
grief

come to grief have an accident; meet with disaster.

2000 R. W. Holden Taunton Cider & Langdons
The historian ... will see no trace of the battlefield where Charles's grandson, the Duke of Monmouth, came to grief.

give someone grief be a nuisance to someone. informal

1998 Times One of the passengers who'd been giving the cabin crew grief started yelling. 'We've had a near miss.'

grig

merry (or lively) as a grig full of fun; extravagantly lively.

The meaning and origin of the word grig are unknown. Samuel Johnson conjectured in his Dictionary that it referred to 'anything below the natural size'. A sense that fits in with the lively version of this idiom is 'a young or small eel in fresh water'. The phrases merry grig and merry Greek, meaning 'a lively, playful person', were both in use in the mid 16th century, but it is impossible to establish the precise relationship between them or to be certain which may be an alteration of the other.

grim

like (or for) grim death with intense determination.

1989 Jonathan Gash Jade Woman Here and there a greenish scumble of vegetation hung on for grim death.

the Grim Reaper a personification of death in the form of a cloaked skeleton wielding a large scythe.

grin

grin and bear it suffer pain or misfortune in a stoical manner.

The usual modern sense of grin is less sinister than its earliest senses: when it entered the language it primarily meant 'an act of showing the teeth' or 'a snarl'. From the mid 17th century to the mid 18th century, a grin was generally used in a derogatory way or in unfavourable contrast to a cheerful smile. The sense of grin in grin and bear it retains the earlier associations with showing your teeth in a grimace of pain or anger. Grin and abide is recorded as a proverb in the late 18th century; the modern version dates from the late 19th century.

grind

grind to a halt (or come to a grinding halt) move more and more slowly and then stop.

1999 Times Traffic is expected to grind to a halt throughout the West Country as up to a million sightseers make the trip.

grindstone

keep your nose to the grindstone work hard and continuously.

1 A grindstone was a thick revolving disc of stone on which knives and tools were sharpened. Appearing in various forms since the mid 16th century, this idiom originally referred to getting mastery over someone else by forcing them to work without a break.

grip

come (or get) to grips with engage in physical combat with. 2 begin to deal with or understand.

get a grip keep or recover self-control.

2000 Jo-Ann Goodwin Danny Boy I took a deep breath, trying desperately to get a grip, to hold myself together.

grist

grist to the mill experience, material, or knowledge which can be turned to good use.

Grist in the sense of 'corn that is to be ground' is now used only in this phrase and in the proverb all is grist that comes to the mill. The word is related to Old Saxon gristgrimma meaning 'gnashing of teeth'.

grit

ture grit strength of character; stamina. informal

Grit in this colloquial sense originated in early 19th-century US English.

Grody

Grody to the max unspeakably awful. US informal

Grody is probably an alteration of grotesque and to the max of to the maximum point.

groove

in (or into) the groove 1 performing well or confidently, especially in an established pattern. 2 indulging in relaxed and spontaneous enjoyment, especially dancing. informal A groove is the spiral track cut in a gramophone record that forms the path for the needle. In the groove is first found in the mid 20th century, in the context of jazz, and it gave rise to the adjective groovy, which initially meant 'playing or able to play jazz or similar music well'.

groove

groves of Academe the academic community. literary

This phrase alludes to the Roman poet Horace's Epistles, in which he says: Atque inter silvas Academi quaerere verum 'and seek for truth in the groves of Academe'. The Academia was a grove near ancient Athens where a number of philosophers, Plato among them, taught their pupils.

gross

by the gross in large numbers or amounts.

A gross was formerly widely used as a unit of quantity equal to twelve dozen; the word comes from the French gross douzaine, which literally means 'large dozen'.

ground

break new (or fresh) ground do something innovative which is considered an advance or positive benefit.

Literally, to break new ground is to do preparatory digging or other work prior to building or planting something. In North America the idiom is break ground.

cut the ground from under someone’s feet do something which leaves someone without a reason or justification for their actions or opinions. informal get in on the ground floor become part of an enterprise in its early stages. informal guard

lower (or drop or let down) your guard relax your defensive posture, leaving yourself vulnerable to attack. reduce your level of vigilance or caution.

This is an expression connected in its literal sense with boxing, as is its opposite raise your guard meaning 'adopt a defensive posture'.

guernsey

get a guernsey be selected for a football team. gain recognition or approbation. Australian informal

A guernsey is a type of knitted shirt or sweater; in Australia the word is specifically applied to a football shirt.

guess

anybody's guess a totally unpredictable matter. informal

1999 Jason Elliot An Unexpected Light The most likely scenario was a government alliance with the forces of the north, although it was anyone's guess how long such a Faustian pact might last.

by guess and by God without specific guidance or direction.

This expression was originally used in a nautical context, where it meant to steer blind, without the guidance of landmarks. The alternative by guess and by Godfrey is also sometimes found.

guest

be my guest please do. informal gullet

gullet

stick in your gullet: see stick in your throat at throat.

gum tree

up a gum tree in or into a predicament.

informal

This phrase is now found mainly in British English, but the phrase is recorded in the early 19th century in the USA, where possum up a gum tree was the title of a song or dance.

1992 Economist If they should end up seeking a deal with the Unionists, offers of devolution will lead ministers straight up a gum tree.

gun

a big gun: see a big cheese at BIG.

blow great guns be very windy. informal go down with (all) guns firing: see go.

go great guns perform forcefully, vigorously, or successfully. informal 1913 Field A moment later Louvois shot out, passed Sanquhar and Fairy King, and going great guns... beat the favourite by a head.

jump the gun: see JUMP.

smoking gun: see SMOKING.

stick to your guns refuse to compromise or change, despite criticism. informal

- The image here is of a soldier maintaining his position under enemy fire.

1998 New Scientist Researchers have bravely stuck to their guns as they went about seeking public funds.

top gun a (or the) most important person.

under the gun under great pressure. North American informal with (all) guns blazing with great determination and energy, often without thought for the consequences. informal gut

— your guts out perform a specified action as hard or as fully as possible. informal

2000 Anthony Bourdain Kitchen Confidential He’ll take them out, get them liquored up so they blab their guts out, and I’ll have a full report by noon next.

hate someone’s guts feel a strong hatred for someone. informal

have someone’s guts for garters punish or rebuke someone severely. informal

gutser

come a gutser suffer a failure or defeat. informal

- Gutser (also spelled gutzer) is explained in Fraser and Gibbons’ Soldier and Sailor Words (1925) as ‘pre-war slang, and an old term among Scottish boys for falling flat on the water in diving, instead of making a clean header’. In air-force slang come (or fetch) a gutser meant ‘crash’.

gyp

give someone gyp cause pain or severe discomfort to someone. British informal

- Gyp may be a dialect contraction of gee-up, a word of command used to urge a horse to move faster, the connection being that, in this phrase, whatever is giving someone gyp is preventing them from resting or taking things easy.
habit
kick the habit: see KICK.

hackles
make someone’s hackles rise make someone angry or indignant.

This expression was first recorded in the late 17th century. Split straws, dating from the 19th century, is a less common version.

hail
hail-fellow-well-met showing excessive familiarity.

1979 Steven Levenkron The Best Little Girl in the World Harold was accustomed to hail-fellow-well-met salesmen and deferential secretaries and even irate accountants.

hair
hair of the dog a small quantity of alcohol taken as a remedy for a hangover. informal

The full form of this phrase is hair of the dog that bit you. Hair from a rabid dog was at one time thought to be a remedy against the effects of its bite; in this expression, the recommended cure for a hangover is a small amount of the cause of the problem.

1987 Bruce Allen Powe The Ice Eaters Murray, still feeling the effects of the previous evening, had suggested they go into a bar because he needed a hair of the dog.

in (or out of) someone’s hair annoying (or ceasing to annoy) someone. informal keep your hair on! used to urge someone not to panic or lose their temper. British informal let your hair down behave wildly or uninhibitedly. informal make someone’s hair stand on end alarm or horrify someone.

neither hide nor hair of: see HIDE.

not turn a hair remain apparently unmoved or unaffected.

put hair (or hairs) on your chest (of alcoholic drink) revive your strength. informal split hairs make small and overfine distinctions.

half
a — and a half a particular person or thing considered as an impressive example of the kind specified. informal 1998 Sarah Waters Tipping the Velvet The daughter must be a beauty and a half... if the mother is so eager to keep her safe and close, away from young men’s eyes.

at half cock when only partly ready.

informal

At half cock is used of a firearm with the cock lifted but not moved to the position at which the trigger will act. It is usually found in go off at half cock or go off half-cocked meaning ‘go ahead without making proper preparation and therefore fail’.

half the battle: see BATTLE.

half a chance the slightest opportunity.

informal

1970 Nina Bawden The Birds on the Trees Give her half a chance and she’ll make you think black’s white.

half an eye: see EYE.

half a loaf not as much as you want but better than nothing.

This phrase alludes to the proverb half a loaf is better than no bread, which has been in use since the mid 16th century.

the half of it the most important part or aspect of something. informal 1987 George Turner Sea & Summer Mum... would ask, ‘But is this true?’ and Billy... would tell her that wasn’t the half of it.

have a mind to do something: see MIND.

how the other half lives: see OTHER HALF.

not do things by halves do things thoroughly or extravagantly.

not half 1 not nearly as. 2 not at all. informal

3 to an extreme degree; very much so. British informal halfway — by half used to emphasize something bad. British 1994 Independent on Sunday The idea that moving a few pot plants around a room can bring its occupant prosperity and well-being... seems too superstitious by half.

your better half: see BETTER.

halfway

a halfway house a compromise. the halfway point in a progression. a place where ex-prisoners, mental patients, etc. can stay while they become reacquainted to normal life.

In the late 18th century, a halfway house was an inn or other establishment halfway between two places or at the midpoint of a journey.

Hamlet

Hamlet without the prince a performance or event taking place without the principal actor.

The phrase comes from an account given in the Morning Post of September 1775. The member of a theatrical company who was to play Hamlet in a production of Shakespeare's play ran off with an innkeeper's daughter before the performance; when the play was announced to the audience, they were told 'the part of Hamlet [was] to be left out, for that night'.

hammer

come (or go) under the hammer be sold at an auction.

hammer something home: see drive something home at HOME.

hammer and tongs with great energy and noise.

The image here is of a blacksmith striking the hot iron removed from the forge with a pair of tongs.

1996 Emma Lathen Brewing Up a Storm The big fight she had with Sean Cushing. They were going at it hammer and tongs.

hammering

take a hammering be subjected to harsh treatment. be heavily defeated. informal hand

all hands the entire crew of a ship.
This phrase first appeared in the mid 18th century as hand over hand. Found in nautical contexts, it referred to the movement of a person’s hands when rapidly climbing a rope or hauling it in. By the mid 19th century, hand over hand was being used to mean ‘advancing continuously and rapidly’, especially of one ship pursuing another. Hand over fist is first recorded in the early 19th century, also in a nautical context, but it was soon used more generally to indicate speed, especially in the handling of money.

1991 Simon Winchester Pacific Japan continued making money hand over fist, the American trade deficit became steadily larger and larger.

on (or off) someone’s hands having (or not having) to be dealt with or looked after by the person specified.

put your hands together applaud.

put your hands up raise your hands in surrender or to signify assent or participation.

the right hand doesn’t know what the left hand’s doing there is a state of confusion or a failure of communication within a group or organization.

set (or put) your hand to start work on.

A fuller version of this phrase is set your hand to the plough, which alludes to Luke 9:62: ‘No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God’.

sit on your hands: see SIT.

take a hand in become influential in determining something; intervene.

1988 Shetland Times The amenity trust is also taking a hand in restoring two old gravestones in the Ollaberry kirkyard.

turn your hand to something undertake an activity different from your usual occupation.

1994 Barbara Anderson All the Nice Girls Win had always told him he was an able man, a fixer, one who could turn his hand to anything.

wash your hands of: see WASH.

with your hand in the cookie jar: see COOKIE.
hang tough be or remain inflexible or firmly resolved. North American informal 1992 Randall Kenan Let the Dead Bury their Dead Obviously, he intended to hang tough at first, but apparently Miss Jesse's psychic bullwhip lashed out and snap-crackled his brain.

hang up your boots stop working; retire. informal 1997 Farmers Weekly The hard fact is that all farmers, whether the pension scheme is attractive or not, are, mostly, reluctant to hang their boots up.

hang your hat be resident. North American informal 2001 Kevin Sampson Outlaws End of the day though it ain't the Royal and that is where I want to hang my hat.

let it all hang out be uninhibited or relaxed. informal not care (or give) a hang not care at all. informal

Hang here is a late 19th-century euphemism for damn.

hanging

a hanging offence a fault or crime so serious that the perpetrator should be executed.

1998 Spectator It is hardly a hanging offence to overlook telegrams about a small African country, but surely the Prime Minister must read JIC reports?

happy

happy as a sandboy extremely happy; perfectly contented with your situation.

An 1823 dictionary describes a sandboy as an urchin who sold sand in the streets, and according to the same source the expression jolly as a sandboy was already proverbial by that date for 'a merry fellow who has tasted a drop'. A common British version of the phrase is happy as Larry, Larry being a pet name for Lawrence. This saying is sometimes connected with the renowned boxer Larry Foley (1847-1917); on the other hand, it may owe something to larry, a dialect word used by Thomas Hardy, meaning 'a state of excitement'. The North American version is happy as a clam, which apparently originated in the early 19th century on the east coast, where clams are plentiful: the full version happy as a clam at high water explains the source of the clam's satisfaction.

happy hunting ground a place where success or enjoyment is obtained.

This phrase originally referred to the optimistic hope of Native Americans that the afterlife will be spent in a country where there are good hunting grounds.

1991 Antique Collector With Old Master drawings still considered an undervalued genre, this should prove a happy hunting ground for those in search of a bargain.

hard

be hard put to find it very difficult to.

2001 Marc Blake 24 Karat Schmooze He wore an Armani suit with a navy shirt, a club tie (although the vintners would have been hard put to name the actual club) and a Freemasonry pin.

hard as nails very hard. (of people) insensitive or callous; without pity.

hard as the nether millstone callous and unyielding.

The nether millstone is the lower of the two millstones by which corn is ground. The phrase alludes to Job 41.24: 'His heart is as firm as a stone, and as hard as a piece of the nether millstone'.

hard at it busily working. informal 1997 Independent I leave home... just after 6am each day and I'm hard at it by 7.30.

a hard case a tough or intractable person. an amusing or eccentric person. Australian & New Zealand

a hard nut to crack a person or thing that is difficult to understand or influence. informal

a hard row to hoe: see ROW.

the hard way through suffering or learning from the unpleasant consequences of mistakes.

1996 Nozipo Maraire Zenzele I think she understands better than the rest of us that we are at heart one family, for she has had to learn the hard way.

play hard to get deliberately adopt an aloof or uninterested attitude, typically in order to make yourself more attractive or interesting. informal put the hard word on ask a favour of someone, especially a sexual or financial favour. Australian & New Zealand informal 1997 Derek Hansen Sole Survivor But if he'd come to put the hard word on her, why hadn't he picked a more appropriate time? Midmorning had never struck her as particularly conducive to romance.

a hard nut: see a tough nut at NUT.

hare
mad as a March hare: see mad as a hatter at MAD.

run with the hare and hunt with the hounds try to remain on good terms with both sides in a conflict or dispute. British play Old Harry with: see play the devil with at DEVIL.

Harry

hash
make a hash of make a mess of; bungle.
informal

harm
out of harm’s way in a safe place.

1996 Frank McCourt Angela’s Ashes Take down the Pope and hide him in the coal hole... where he won’t be seen and he’ll be out of harm’s way.

someone or something wouldn’t harm a fly: see someone or something wouldn’t hurt a fly at FLY.

there is no harm in — the course of action specified may not guarantee success but is at least unlikely to have unwelcome repercussions.

1997 Arundhati Roy The God of Small Things He decided that since she couldn’t have a husband there was no harm in her having an education.

harness
in harness ① in the routine of daily work. ② working closely with someone to achieve something.

harp
harp on the same string dwell tediously on one subject.

harrow
under the harrow in distress.

Rudyard Kipling alludes to such a situation: ‘The toad beneath the harrow knows exactly where each tooth-point goes’.

black hat (or white hat) used in reference to the bad (or good) party in a situation.

1921 This idiom refers to the colour of the hats traditionally worn by the bad (or good) characters in cowboy films.

settle someone’s hash deal with and subdue a person very forcefully. informal sling hash: see SLING.

haste
more haste, less speed you make better progress with a task if you don’t try to do it too quickly. proverb

Hash comes from the French verb hacher meaning ‘chop up small’. A hash is a dish of cooked meat cut into small pieces and recooked with gravy; from this comes the derogatory sense of hash meaning ‘a jumble of incongruous elements; a mess’.

1921 The primary meaning of ‘speed’ in this proverbial saying was ‘success in the performance of an activity’, rather than ‘rapidity of movement’, though it is the latter that is now generally assumed to be meant.

be all hat and no cattle tend to talk boastfully without acting on your words. US informal black hat (or white hat) used in reference to the bad (or good) party in a situation.

1921 This idiom refers to the colour of the hats traditionally worn by the bad (or good) characters in cowboy films.

keep something under your hat keep something a secret.

pass the hat round collect contributions of money from a number of people for a specific purpose.

pick something out of a hat select something, especially the winner of a contest, at random.

pull one out of the hat bring off an unexpected trick in an apparently desperate situation.

1921 The image here is of a rabbit pulled out of a magician’s hat.
1971 James McClure The Steam Pig I must say you've really pulled one out of the hat this time.

take your hat off to state your admiration for someone who has achieved something.

British

throw your hat in (or into) the ring indicate willingness to take up a challenge or enter a contest. 1998 Times We have been anticipating that South Africa would throw its hat into the ring for some time and have a high regard for the candidacy.

hatch

batten down the hatches: see BATTEN.

hatches, matches, and despatches the births, marriages, and deaths columns in a newspaper, humorous, dated under (the) hatches 1 below deck in a ship. 2 concealed from public knowledge.

hatchet

do a hatchet job on criticize savagely.

haul

haul someone over the coals: see COAL.

have

have had it 1 be in a very poor condition; be beyond repair or past its best. 2 be extremely tired. 3 have lost all chance of survival. 4 be unable to tolerate someone or something any longer. informal have it away (on your toes) leave quickly. British informal have it away (or off) with have sexual intercourse with. British vulgar slang 1998 Oldie Today, young Billy would be having it off with all three young ladies on a rota basis.

have it both ways: see BOTH.

have (got) it in for have a particular dislike of someone and behave in a hostile manner towards them. informal have (got) it in you to do something have the capacity or potential to do something. informal have it out with someone attempt to resolve a contentious matter by confronting someone and engaging in a frank discussion or argument. informal have (got) nothing on someone or something be not nearly as good as someone or something, especially in a particular respect.

1998 Barbara Kingsolver The Poisonwood Bible Those glassy museum stares have got nothing on you, my uncaptured favorite child, wild as the day is long.

have one too many: see MANY.

havoc

play havoc with completely disrupt; cause serious damage to.

1989 Vijay Singh In Search of the River Goddess I hate contractors who come from the plains, chop down trees, play havoc with our lives.

hawk

watch someone like a hawk keep a vigilant eye on someone, especially to check that they do nothing wrong.

hay

hit the hay go to bed. informal make hay make good use of an opportunity while it lasts.

1998 Simon Winchester The Surgeon of Crowthorne The British papers, always eager to vent editorial spleen on their transatlantic rivals, made hay with this particular aspect of the story.

make hay of throw into confusion.

head

bang (or knock) people’s heads together reprimand people severely, especially in an attempt to stop them arguing.

1998 Community Care There are few signs yet that the SEU has been willing to bang government heads together over social security policy.

bang (or knock) your head against a brick wall doggedly attempt the impossible and have your efforts repeatedly and painfully rebuffed.

1995 Jayne Miller Voxpop You’re banging your head against a brick wall for years and still getting nowhere. It’s soul-destroying.

be hanging over your head (of something unpleasant) threaten to affect you at any moment.

be on someone’s (own) head be someone’s sole responsibility.

bite (or snap) someone’s head off reply sharply and brusquely to someone.

do someone’s head in cause someone to feel annoyed, confused, or frustrated. British informal 1990 Community Care There are few signs yet that the SEU has been willing to bang government heads together over social security policy.

1997 Sunday Telegraph Now psychobabble has become part of our vocabulary—and it’s doing Theodore Dalrymple’s head in.

do something standing on your head do something very easily.

get your head down 1 sleep. 2 concentrate on the task in hand. British informal get your head round (or around) something understand or come to terms with something. informal give someone their head allow someone complete freedom of action.

The image is of allowing a horse to go as fast as it wants rather than checking its pace with the bit and reins. Compare with allow free rein to (at REIN).

1994 Charles Grant X-Files: Goblins Rather than try to derail him, however, it was better to give him his head and go along for the ride.

go to your head 1 (of alcohol) make you dizzy or slightly drunk. 2 (of success) make you conceited.

have your head screwed on: see SCREWED.

head and shoulders above by far superior to. informal 1996 Time Out The film stands head and shoulders above 99.9 per cent of post-70’s Hollywood product.

head over heels upside down; turning over completely in a forward motion, as in a somersault.

The earlier, more logical, version of this phrase was heels over head; the normal modern form dates from the late 18th century. It is often used figuratively of an extreme condition, as in head over heels in love, ‘madly in love’, or head over heels in debt, ‘deeply in debt’.

heads I win, tails you lose I win whatever happens.

heads will roll there will be some people dismissed or disgraced. 1975 Sam Selvon Moses Ascending It appears he went back for reinforcements, and is returning to make some drastic changes in the administration of the Establishment. Heads will roll, they say.

hold (or put) a gun (or a pistol) to someone’s head force someone to do something by using threats.

keep (or lose) your head remain (or fail to remain) calm. 1990 Time He claims that Quayle rises to the challenge, takes chances but keeps his head.

keep your head above water avoid succumbing to difficulties, especially falling into debt.

keep your head down remain inconspicuous in difficult or dangerous times. informal 1995 Edward Toman Dancing in Limbo All his instincts told him to keep his head down. He didn’t need Lily’s constant nagging to remind him he was in deep trouble.

King Charles’s head: see KING.

knock someone or something on the head: see KNOCK.

make head or tail of understand at all. 1994 S. P. Somtow Jasmine Nights I’m... trying to puzzle out why he has turned his animosity on me instead of those who are clearly his enemies. I can’t make head or tail of it.

need your head examined be foolishly irresponsible.

The implication here is that the examination will reveal proof of insanity.

1992 Patrick McCabe The Butcher Boy Any man thinks this work is easy needs his head examined—you want to be tough to work here!

off (or out of) your head 1 mad or crazy. 2 extremely drunk or severely under the influence of illegal drugs. informal off the top of your head without careful thought or investigation. informal 1988 Jamaica Kincaid A Small Place He apologises for the incredible mistake he has made in quoting you a price off the top of his head which is so vastly different (favouring him) from the one listed.

over your head 1 beyond your ability to understand. 2 without your knowledge or involvement, especially when you have a right to this. 3 with disregard for your own (stronger) claim.

put your heads together consult and work together.

put something into someone’s head suggest something to someone.

stand (or turn) something on its head completely reverse the principles or interpretation of an idea, argument, etc.

take it into your head to do something decide impetuously to do something. 1991 Ben Okri The Famished Road Fearing that the supervisor might notice me as well and take it into his head to order me to break my neck carrying cement bags, I hurried on.

turn heads attract a great deal of attention or interest.
turn someone's head make someone conceited.

with your head in the clouds: see CLOUD.
— your head off laugh, talk, shout, etc. with a complete lack of restraint or without stopping.

1990 Paul Auster The Music of Chance Now that the kid was out of danger, he began to show his true colors, and it wasn't long before he was talking his head off.

headline
hit the headlines be written about or given attention as news.

heap
at the top (or bottom) of the heap (of a person) at the highest (or lowest) point of a society or organization.
be struck all of a heap be extremely disconcerted. informal heap coals of fire on someone's head: see COAL.

hear
be unable to hear yourself think be unable to think clearly as a result of an excessive amount of noise. informal heart

after your own heart of the type that you like or understand best; sharing your tastes.

1988 Sebastian Barry Boss Grady's Boys He took away every year I had to give a man, and then took away himself for good measure. He was a man after my own heart so I will not blame him.

from the bottom of your heart (or from the heart) with sincere feeling.

have the heart be insensitive or hard-hearted enough.

1990 Neil Bissoondath On the Eve of Uncertain Tomorrows Miguel doesn't have the heart to force her to do what he knows she should be doing.

have (or put) your heart in be (or become) keenly involved in or committed to an enterprise.

have your heart in your mouth be greatly alarmed or apprehensive.

have your heart in the right place be sincere or well intentioned.

heart and soul great energy and enthusiasm.

1977 Michael Frayn Alphabetical Order She hasn't been here long, I know. But she's put her whole heart and soul into this place.

heart of gold a generous nature.

heart of oak a courageous nature.

1 Literally, the heart is the solid central part of the oak tree traditionally used for timber for ships. The phrase was popularized by the words of an 18th-century song: 'Heart of oak are our ships, Heart of oak are our men'.

heart of stone a stern or cruel nature.

heart to heart candidly or intimately.

hearts and minds used in reference to emotional and intellectual support or commitment.

1999 New Yorker In the battle between Darwinians and creationists for the hearts and minds of the uncommitted, it matters whether evolution by natural selection is spiritually suggestive.

in your heart of hearts in your innermost feelings.

my heart bleeds for you: see BLEEDS.

take something to heart take something seriously; be much affected or upset by something.

1992 Ian Rankin A Good Hanging Suicidal, just as actors can be. He took criticism to heart. He was a perfectionist.

to your heart's content: see CONTENT.

wear your heart on your sleeve make your feelings apparent.

1 In medieval times, it was the custom for a knight to wear the name of a lady on his sleeve during a tournament; the phrase was later popularized by Shakespeare in Othello: 'For I will wear my heart upon my sleeve, For daws to peck at'.

1998 Spectator He... is not suffering from compassion fatigue, yet neither does he wear his heart on his sleeve.

your heart's desire someone or something that is greatly wished for.

your heart sinks into your boots: see BOOT.

heartbeat
a heartbeat (away) from very close to: on the verge of.

hearth
hearth and home home and its comforts.

heat
if you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen if you can't deal with the pressures and difficulties of a situation or task, you should leave others to deal with it rather than complaining. proverb in the heat of the moment while temporarily angry, excited, or engrossed, and without stopping for thought.

turn the heat on someone or something concentrate pressure or criticism on someone or something. informal turn up the heat intensify pressure or criticism. informal heather

set the heather on fire be very exciting. Scottish heave

heave in sight (or into view) come into view. informal

Heave meaning ‘rise up, as on the swell of a wave’ occurs in several nautical expressions; here the allusion is to the way that objects appear to rise up over the horizon at sea.

heaven

in seventh heaven in a state of ecstasy.

In late Jewish and Muslim theology, there were considered to be seven heavens, and the seventh of these was the highest, where a state of eternal bliss was to be enjoyed.

move heaven and earth make extraordinary efforts.

Dogs Today We may not be vets but we are owners who will move heaven and earth to help our dogs recover.

stink (or smell) to high heaven have a very strong and unpleasant odour.

the heavens opened it started to rain suddenly and very heavily.

heavy

heavy on using a lot of.

Studs Terkel The Good War We were heavy on the Italian feeling in America. We were more Italian than Italians.

make heavy weather: see WEATHER.

heck

a heck of a — used for emphasis in various statements or exclamations. informal

Of dialect origin, heck is a late 19th-century euphemism for hell.

hell

all hell broke (or was let) loose suddenly there was chaos or uproar. informal be hell on be unpleasant or harmful to.

come hell or high water no matter what difficulties may occur.

Hedging your financial liabilities, especially bets or speculative investments, meant limiting your potential losses by also putting money on another outcome, in such a way as to balance, more or less, any potential loss on the initial transaction. In betting terms, this specifically means putting money on more than one runner in a race.

All three methods have their proponents, and most anglers are wise to hedge their bets by using more than one method.

A British variant of this is kick your heels.

dig in your heels: see DIG.

down at heel 1 (of a shoe) with the heel worn down. 2 (of a person, place, or thing) with a poor, shabby appearance.

drag your heels: see drag your feet at DRAG.

kick up your heels have a lively, enjoyable time. chiefly North American set (or rock) someone back on their heels astonish or discomfit someone.

take to your heels (or legs) run away.

under the heel of dominated or controlled by.

The exceptional sufferings of Russia under the heel of Marxism may in the long run have a redemptive effect.

1992 Great Lakes Fisherman All three methods have their proponents, and most anglers are wise to hedge their bets by using more than one method.

1995 Ian Rankin Let It Bleed It was the one appointment he’d known all day he would keep, come hell or high water.
for the hell of it just for fun. informal — from hell an extremely unpleasant or troublesome instance or example of something. informal 1998 Times As for Ellie Sykes, who calls herself ‘the skating mum from hell’, she’s pushier still.

get the hell out (of) escape from a place or situation very quickly. informal give someone (or get) hell reprimand someone (or be reprimanded) severely. informal go to (or through) hell and back endure an extremely unpleasant or difficult experience.
go to hell in a handbasket undergo a rapid process of deterioration. North American informal

1 This expression has been recorded since the early 20th century; variants of it include go to hell in a handcart and go to hell in a basket.

1990 Nature Conservancy I read widely on environmental issues and often feel that ‘the world is going to hell in a handbasket’.

hell for leather as fast as possible.

1 This phrase dates from the late 19th century, and originally referred to riding a horse at reckless speed.

a (or one) hell of a — used to emphasize something very bad or great. informal 1990 Stephen King The Stand If someone on the committee has been leaking, we’re in a hell of a jam.

hell’s half acre a great distance. North American hell hath no fury like a woman scorned a woman who has been rejected by a man can be ferociously angry and vindictive. proverb not a hope (or chance) in hell no hope (or chance) at all. informal

1 An elaboration of this phrase is not a snowball’s chance in hell.

play (merry) hell with throw into turmoil; disrupt. informal raise hell 1 make a noisy disturbance. 2 complain vociferously. informal there will be hell to pay serious trouble will occur as a result of a previous action. informal until (or till) hell freezes over for an extremely long time or forever. informal hello a golden hello: see a golden handshake at HANDSHAKE.

help so help me (God) used to emphasize that you mean what you are saying.

1 This phrase alludes to the oath taken by witnesses in court when they swear to tell ‘the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help me God’.

hen like a hen with one chick (or chicken) absurdly fussy and overanxious.
rare (or scarce) as hen’s teeth extremely rare.

1 As hens do not possess teeth, the implication is that something is rare to the point of non-existence. The phrase was originally a US colloquialism, dating from the mid 19th century.

her her indoors a humorous reference to a man’s wife. British informal herd ride herd on: see RIDE.

here here today, gone tomorrow soon over or forgotten; short-lived or transient.

1996 Sunday Telegraph Apparently when people spend their money on things that are here today gone tomorrow, like flowers, food and Champagne, it tells you more about the state of the economy than when they buy solid things.

neither here nor there of no importance or relevance.

1993 Independent on Sunday The fact that American audiences haven’t recognised it as a great film and appreciated its outstanding acting is neither here nor there.

Herod out-Herod Herod behave with extreme cruelty or tyranny.

1 Herod, the ruler of Judaea at the time of Jesus’s birth and the man responsible for ordering the massacre of boy babies in his realm, was portrayed in medieval miracle plays as a blustering tyrant. The phrase is from Shakespeare’s Hamlet: ‘I would have such a fellow whipp’d for o’erdoing Termagant; it out-herods Herod’.
high dimensional: 393.0x604.0

herring
a red herring: see RED.

hewer
hewers of wood and drawers of water menial drudges; labourers.

This expression refers to Joshua 9:21, which tells the story of how the Israelites were tricked into sparing the lives of some of the indigenous inhabitants of the Promised Land: 'And the princes said unto them, Let them live; but let them be hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation'.

hidden
a hidden agenda a person’s real but concealed aims and intentions.

1993 New Scientist I hear that the physics community is fearful the government has a hidden agenda and intends eventually to close the Daresbury Laboratory.

hide
hide your light under a bushel keep quiet about your talents or accomplishments.

A bushel is a unit of measurement equal to eight gallons: in former times the word also referred to a container able to hold this amount. The expression has its source in Matthew 5:15: ‘neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick’.

1997 Spectator Actors are not naturally people who believe in hiding their light under a bushel.

neither hide nor hair of someone not the slightest trace of someone.

hiding
on a hiding to nothing unlikely to succeed, or in a position to gain no advantage if you do. British

1998 Spectator Which only goes to show that even the most reflexive liberal panderer is on a hiding to nothing in this territory.

high
be for the high jump be about to be severely punished. British informal

This expression was first recorded in the early 20th century as a military term meaning ‘be put on trial before your commanding officer’. The image behind it is that of an execution by hanging.

from on high ① from a very high place.
② from remote high authority or heaven.

high and dry ① (especially of ships left stranded by the sea as the tide ebbs) out of the water. ② in a difficult position, especially without resources.

① 1996 Frank McCourt Angela’s Ashes I hear he left you high and dry, eh? I don’t know how a man in his right mind can go off and leave a wife and family to starve and shiver in a Limerick winter.

high and low in many different places.

1993 Independent As the world’s press hunted for him high and low, he was holed up in a country hotel.

high and mighty ① important and influential. ② thinking or acting as though you are more important than others; arrogant. informal

high as a kite intoxicated.

high days and holidays special occasions.
informal

In the Church’s calendar a high day was the day of an important festival. A holiday (originally holy day) was similar but less specific. Holiday now refers to any day off, without any sacred significance, and so holy day is used if a specifically religious occasion is intended.

1998 Pamela Jooste Dance with a Poor Man’s Daughter I was too busy looking out for all of you. I only danced on high days and holidays.

high old (of a time or state) most enjoyable or remarkable. informal

1955 Jean Potts Death of a Stray Cat You probably had a high old time chasing blondes.

high on the hog: see HOG.

high, wide, and handsome expansive and impressive; stylish and carefree in manner.
informal

This phrase originated in the USA, and Yankee Slang (1932) identifies ‘Ride him, Cowboy, high, wide and handsome’ as a shout commonly heard at rodeos.

1990 Times Education Supplement Your eyes are often distracted by high quality displays of work, and the library is high, wide and handsome.

hit the high spots visit places of entertainment. informal

in high feather: see in fine feather at FEATHER.

on a high in a state of euphoria. informal

This expression was originally mid 20th-century US slang, referring specifically to the euphoria induced by drugs.
on your high horse used to refer to someone behaving in an arrogant or pompous manner. informal run high: see RUN.

hike
take a hike go away (used as an expression of irritation or annoyance). informal 1998 Dennis Danvers Circuit of Heaven I’m going to bed now. Why don’t you take a hike?

hike
a hill of beans: see BEAN.

ancient (or old) as the hills of very long standing or very great age.

Hills are used in the Bible as a metaphor for permanence.

over the hill past your best; declining. informal up hill and down dale: see UP.

hilt
(up) to the hilt completely.

The image is that of plunging the blade of a knife deeply into something, so that only the hilt is visible.

hind
on your hind legs: see LEG.

hint
drop a hint: see DROP.

hip pocket
in someone’s hip pocket completely under someone’s control. North American hire

hire and fire engage and dismiss, especially as indicating a position of established authority over other employees.

1992 Martin Anderson Impostors in the Temple Usually the trustees, and they alone, hire and fire the president. They have fiduciary responsibility.

history be history 1 be perceived as no longer relevant to the present. 2 used to indicate imminent departure, dismissal, or death.

informal

1995 Country If Ducas does get the girl, you can lay odds that she’ll be history by the end of the song.

the rest is history used to indicate that the events succeeding those already related are so well known that they need not be recounted again.

hit
hit and miss done or occurring at random; succeeding by chance rather than through planning.

1998 New Scientist But not all species of mosquitoes carry malaria and identifying the culprits is difficult, making control hit and miss.

hit-and-run 1 (of a person) causing accidental or wilful damage and escaping before being discovered or stopped. 2 (of an incident or accident) in which damage is caused in this way.

hit someone below the belt behave deviously towards someone, especially so as to gain an unfair advantage.

hit someone for six: see SIX.

hit the bottle: see BOTTLE.

hit the bricks go on strike. US informal hit the ground running start something and proceed at a fast pace with enthusiasm.

informal

This late 20th-century expression achieved the status of a cliché in the 1990s. It seems likely to refer to military personnel disembarking rapidly from a helicopter, though it cannot be definitely traced back to any particular 20th-century war.

1997 Independent Some targets move too fast, even for a government that makes it clear it has hit the ground running.

hit the hay: see HAY.

hit the headlines: see HEADLINE.

hit home: see HOME.

hit it off with feel a liking for; be friendly with. informal hit the jackpot: see JACKPOT.

hit the mark be successful in an attempt or accurate in a guess.

1 The mark referred to here is a target in shooting.

hit the nail on the head state the truth exactly; find exactly the right answer.

1998 Spectator Yet his conceit and knack of hitting nails on heads meant that even his best performances made him as many enemies as friends.
hit or miss as likely to be unsuccessful as successful.

hit the right note: see NOTE.

hit the road set out on a journey; depart.
informal

- A US variant of this expression is hit the trail.

hit the sack: see SACK.

hit the spot: see SPOT.

hit where you live strike at your vital point.

hitch

hitch horses together get on well together; act in harmony. US hitch your wagon to a star make use of powers higher than your own.

- This phrase was used by the American philosopher and poet Ralph Waldo Emerson in 1870 in the context of idealistic aspiration; modern usage generally has the more cynical implication of attaching yourself to someone successful or famous in order to profit from the association.

1998 Spectator [Francis Bacon] was among the first to hitch his wagon to the star of the repulsive George Villiers... James I's next favourite.

hob

play (or raise) hob cause mischief; make a fuss. North American

- Hob is short for hobgoblin and is used in this mid 19th-century expression to mean the devil. Compare with raise Cain (at CAIN) and raise the devil (at DEVIL).

1993 Canadian Living When rain finally came, it wouldn’t stop and played hob with the lentils that were growing there for the first time in a big way.

Hobson

Hobson’s choice: see CHOICE.

hock

in hock having been pawned. in debt.

- Hock here comes from the Dutch word hok meaning ‘hutch’ or ‘prison’. Originally mid 19th-century US slang, this sense of hock is now found only in this phrase or, occasionally, in out of hock.

1998 Spectator Our conservatoires are still in hock to the Germano-Austrian symphonic tradition.

hog

go the whole hog do something completely or thoroughly. informal

- The origin of the phrase is uncertain, but a fable in William Cowper’s The Love of the World: Hypocrisy Detected (1779) is sometimes mentioned: certain Muslims, forbidden to eat pork by their religion but tempted to indulge in some, maintained that Muhammad had in mind only one particular part of the animal. They could not agree which part that was, and as ‘for one piece they thought it hard. From the whole hog to be debarred’ between them they ate the whole animal, each salving his conscience by telling himself that his own particular portion was not the one that had been forbidden. Go the whole hog is recorded as a political expression in the USA in the early 19th century; an 1835 source maintains that it originated in Virginia ‘marking the democrat from a federalist’.

live high on (or off) the hog have a luxurious lifestyle. North American 1991 Norman Mailer Harlot’s Ghost Even the Joint Chiefs’ flunkies live high on the military hog.

hog in armour a person who is ill at ease.

hog on ice an insecure person. North American informal hoist

hoist with your own petard: see PETARD.

hold

don’t hold your breath: see BREATH.

hold someone or something at bay: see BAY.

hold the clock on time a sporting contest or similar event.

hold court be the centre of attention amidst a crowd of your admirers.

hold the field: see FIELD.

hold the fort take responsibility for a situation while someone is absent.

hold someone’s hand give a person comfort, guidance, or moral support in a sad or difficult situation.

hold hard used to exhort someone to stop or wait. British

- Hold hard was originally an exclamation warning riders in the hunting field to pull hard on the reins to make their horses stop, similar to hold your horses below.
hold the line ① not yield to the pressure of a difficult situation. ② maintain a telephone connection during a break in the conversation.

① Sense 1 is a military metaphor, from the idea of a line of soldiers withstanding an attack without moving from their positions.

② 1980 Shirley Hazzard The Transit of Venus But if we made one exception we would naturally be in no position to hold the line on similar cases.

hold your horses wait a moment; restrain your enthusiasm. informal 1999 Colin Dexter The Remorseful Day Hold your horses! One or two things I'd like you to check first, just to make it one hundred per cent.

hold your own: see OWN.

hold your peace: see PEACE.

hold the stage: see STAGE.

hold your thumbs fold your fingers over your thumbs to bring good luck; hope for luck or success. South African 1987 Sunday Times (South Africa) They say they are holding thumbs for her and praying that the pregnancy will be trouble-free.

hold your tongue remain silent. informal holier than thou characterized by an attitude of self-conscious virtue and piety.

① This phrase comes from Isaiah 65:5: ‘Stand by thyself, come not near to me; for I am holier than thou’.

hollow

beat someone hollow defeat or surpass someone completely or thoroughly.

in the hollow of your hand entirely in your power.

holy

holier than thou characterized by an attitude of self-conscious virtue and piety.

① The reference here is to the Hebrew phrase for the inner chamber of the sanctuary in the Jewish Temple at Jerusalem, separated by a veil from the outer chamber.

holiest

holy of holies a place or thing regarded as sacrosanct.

home

bring something home to someone make someone realize the full significance of something.

close (or near) to home (of a remark or topic of discussion) relevant or accurate to the point that you feel uncomfortable or embarrassed.
come home to someone (of the significance of something) become fully realized by someone.

1981 Fannie Flagg Daisy Fay & the Miracle Man It came home to me that night that Momma has certainly lost her sense of humour.

drive something home make something clearly and fully understood by the use of repeated or forcefully direct arguments.

The verbs hammer, press, and ram are also used in place of drive.

hit (or strike) home (of a blow or a missile) reach an intended target. (of a person's words) have the intended, often unsettling or painful, effect on their audience. (of the significance or true nature of a situation) become fully realized by someone.

home and dry successful in achieving your objective, chiefly British

A fuller version of this phrase, which dates from the mid 20th century, is home and dry on the pig's back.

home and hosed successful in achieving your objective, chiefly Australian & New Zealand 1998 Times The championship was over, Manchester United were home and hosed.

home free successful in achieving your objective. North American

a home from home a place where you are as happy, relaxed, or at ease as in your own home.

The North American version of this expression is a home away from home.

home, James (and don’t spare the horses)! used as a humorous way of exhorting the driver of a vehicle to drive home quickly. dated

This was the title of a popular song by F. Hillebrand in 1934; it represents a parody of the instruction given to a coachman in the days of the horse and carriage.

who's — when —'s at home a humorously emphatic way of asking about someone's identity. British

1991 Joseph O'Connor Mothers Were All the Same The old lady said to tell that to Yuri Gagarin, but the hostess just giggled and said, 'Who's he when he's at home?'

honest earn (or turn) an honest penny earn money by fair means, especially by hard work.

an honest broker a disinterested intermediary or mediator.

This expression is a translation of the German ehrlicher Makler. In a speech in 1878 the German statesman Bismarck (1815–98) recommended adopting this role in peace-making, and the phrase became one of his sobriquets.

make an honest woman of marry a woman, especially to avoid scandal if she is pregnant. dated or humorous Honest here originally meant 'respectable', but was probably associated with the archaic sense 'chaste or virtuous'.

honour

do the honours perform a social duty or small ceremony for others.

honours are even there is equality in the contest. British

(in) honour bound obliged by your sense of honour.

hoof

on the hoof (of livestock) not yet slaughtered. without great thought or preparation.

1997 Times Are we not witnessing an example of Tony Blair making policy on the hoof... with a decision to match the circumstances, not the principle?

hook

by hook or by crook by one means or another; by fair means or foul.

The hook referred to here is probably a billhook or heavy curved pruning knife; one of the earliest recorded instances of this phrase is in Gower's Confessio Amantis (1390), which uses the rare word hepe (meaning 'a pruning knife') in place of hook. Various folk etymologies for the expression have been put forward, none of them entirely convincing. In 1822 William Cobbett wrote of people who lived near woodland being allowed, under the ancient forest law of England, to gather dead branches for fuel, which they may have brought down from the trees literally by hook or by crook.

1998 Adèle Géras Silent Snow, Secret Snow Till then, she would hang on. By hook or by crook. Come what may.

get (or give someone) the hook be dismissed from a job (or dismiss someone from a job). North American informal hook it run away. British informal hook, line, and sinker used to emphasize that someone has been completely tricked or deceived. informal

---

This phrase is a fishing metaphor: all three are items attached to a fishing rod and likely to be gulped down by a greedy fish. The phrase has been in use since the mid 19th century.

1996 Colin Bateman Of Wee Sweetie Mice & Men Patricia wouldn’t know what had hit her. She’d fall for me hook, line and sinker once I’d reminded her what we were all about.

off the hook 1 no longer in trouble or difficulty. informal 2 (of a telephone receiver) not on its rest, and so not receiving incoming calls.

---

Hook in sense 1 is a long-standing (mid 15th-century) figurative use of the word to mean 'something by which a person is caught and trapped', as a fish hook catches a fish. Sense 2 is a fossilized expression from the late 19th century, the early years of telephony, when the receiver literally hung on a hook.

1994 Legion The crew was as fast and efficient as any they had put through the hoops.

off the hooks dead. British informal sling your hook leave; go away. British informal

---

Sling your hook appears in a slang dictionary of 1874, where it is defined as ‘a polite invitation to move on’.

1998 Times I now realise that Sylvia hasn’t heard from him since she told him to sling his hook.

hookey

play hookey stay away from school without permission or explanation; play truant. North American informal hoop

put someone (or go) through the hoops make someone undergo (or be made to undergo) a difficult and gruelling test or series of tests.

1994 Legion The crew was as fast and efficient as any they had put through the hoops.

hoot

not care (or give) a hoot (or two hoots) not care at all. informal 1990 Karen Lawrence Sprays of Living Water Never think about anybody but yourself, do you? Never give two hoots about your poor little sister following you around.

hop

hop the twig (or stick) 1 depart suddenly. 2 die. British informal on the hop unprepared. British informal 1991 M. S. Power Come the Executioner He went down to the dining-room, catching the staff on the hop, but they greeted him cheerfully enough.

hope

hope chest a chest containing linen, clothes, and household items stored by a woman in preparation for her marriage. North American

---

The British equivalent of this expression is bottom drawer (see DRAWER).

1995 Bill Bryson Notes from a Small Island I plodded on, hoping against hope that there would be a pub or cafe in Kimmeridge.

hope springs eternal it is human nature always to find fresh cause for optimism.

1992 Angela Lambert A Rather English Marriage Hope springs eternal—she smiled wryly—even in Tunbridge Wells.

horizon

on the horizon just imminent or becoming apparent.

Horlicks

make a Horlicks of make a mess of. British informal 1988 Joanna Trollope The Choir He thought privately that they would make a fearful horlicks of running the choir.

horn

blow (or toot) your own horn talk boastfully about yourself or your achievements. North American draw (or pull) in your horns become less assertive or ambitious; draw back.

1991 Paul Grescoe Flesh Wound Hollywood’s major studios were pulling in their horns in the wake of a disastrous Christmas season.

on the horn on the telephone. North American informal on the horns of a dilemma faced with a decision involving equally unfavourable alternatives.

A mid 16th-century source described a dilemma as ‘a horned argument’ (after Latin argumentum cornutum), the idea being that if you avoided one ‘horn’ of the argument you ended up impaled on the other.

hornet

a hornets’ nest a situation fraught with trouble, opposition, or complications.

1992 New Scientist The notion of these ‘life patents’ has opened up a hornets’ nest of moral, legal, social and scientific concerns.

horse

a dark horse: see DARK.

don’t change horses in midstream choose a sensible moment to change your mind. proverb eat like a horse eat heartily and greedily.

frighten the horses cause consternation or dismay; shock.

1996 Independent No matter the inadvertent hurt or crass provocation or outright insult, bite your tongue, be pleasant, be polite, don’t frighten the horses.

(straight) from the horse’s mouth from the person directly concerned or another authoritative source.

hostage

a hostage to fortune an act, commitment, or remark which is regarded as unwise because it invites trouble or could prove difficult to live up to.

1989 Guardian It’s a question of horses for courses, finding the best route forward and adopting the practices to fit that rather than bulldozing your way through without perhaps realising the wider environment in which this needs to work.

a Trojan horse: see TROJAN.

wild horses won’t drag someone to something (or something from someone) nothing will make someone go to a particular place (or divulge particular information). informal 1998 Times As things stand, wild horses wouldn’t drag [children] to a symphony concert.

hot

blow hot and cold: see BLOW.

drop someone or something like a hot potato quickly abandon someone or something. informal 1998 New Scientist PhD students will be able to learn these subjects direct from the horse’s mouth.

go hot and cold experience sudden feelings of fear, embarrassment, or shock.

1973 Anthony Price October Men His wife had said … that she had gone ‘all hot and cold’ after nearly being run over.

have the hots for be sexually attracted to. informal

1996 Janette Turner Hospital Oyster One summer night, there was a man with a knife, a man on my own surveying team, a man I fancied, a man I knew had the hots for me.

hot air empty talk that is intended to impress.

1998 Times If a chief executive is convinced that a day spent hot-air ballooning is a more effective way of motivating the troops than a lot of hot air from him or her, then anything goes.

hot and heavy intense; with intensity. North American informal hot on the heels of following closely.

hot to trot ready and eager to engage in an activity. informal hot under the collar angry, resentful, or embarrassed.

1995 Edward Toman Dancing in Limbo It seems that the gentleman in question has been getting very hot under the collar of late about our public image.

in hot water in a situation of difficulty, trouble, or disgrace.

1997 TV Quick Hunter finds himself in hot water when a local TV reporter accuses him of police brutality—and is later found dead.

make it (or things) hot for someone make life difficult for someone.

sell like hot cakes: see CAKE.

too hot to hold you (of a place) not safe to remain in because of your past misconduct.

1984 Gwyn Jones A History of the Vikings Of Naddod we read that he was... a viking of note who seems to have made Norway and other Norse settlements too hot to hold him.

hour

keep late (or regular) hours do the same thing, typically getting up and going to bed, late (or at the same time) every day.

the small hours: see SMALL.

till all hours till very late. informal

house

eat someone out of house and home: see EAT.

get on (or along) like a house on fire have a very good and friendly relationship.

go round (or all round) the houses 1 take a circuitous route to your destination. 2 take an unnecessarily long time to get to the point.

house and home a person's home (used for emphasis).

a house divided a group or organization weakened by internal dissensions.

---

This phrase alludes to Matthew 12:25: Every city or house divided against itself shall not stand', that is, will be unable to withstand external pressures.

a house of cards an insecure or over-ambitious scheme.

put (or set or get) your house in order make necessary reforms.

2002 New York Times There will be no moral credibility for the bishops to speak about justice, truth, racial equality, war or immigration if they can't get their own house in order.

safe as houses thoroughly or completely safe. British

houseroom

not give something houseroom be unwilling to have or consider something. British 1986 Liz Lochhead True Confessions Course I do get the Woman and the Woman's Own plus I swap Options for the Cosmopolitan off our Joy. I wouldn't give Woman's Realm houseroom.

housetop

proclaim (or shout) something from the housetops announce something publicly.

Hoyle

according to Hoyle according to plan or the rules.

1989 Tom Bodett The End of the Road His divinely inspired plan had gone exactly according to Hoyle. He'd fooled them.

huff

huff and puff 1 breathe heavily with exhaustion. 2 express your annoyance in an obvious or threatening way.
hum
hum and haw (or ha) hesitate; be indecisive.
British
1 The word hum has been used as an inarticulate syllable in hesitant speech since Chaucer; ha appears in a similar role from the early 17th century.

humble
eat humble pie make a humble apology and accept humiliation.

1 Humble pie is from a mid 19th-century pun based on umbles, meaning 'offal', which was considered to be an inferior food.

1998 Spectator A white youth behind us did shout racial abuse. But... after the game was over his companions forced him to come up to Darcus to eat humble pie.

hump
live on your hump be self-sufficient. informal

1 The image here is of the camel, which is famous for surviving on the fat in its hump without feeding or drinking.

over the hump over the worst.

hurt
someone or something wouldn’t hurt a fly: see fly.

hustle hustle your butt move or act quickly. North American informal

1 Other variants of this phrase include hustle your buns and, in vulgar slang, hustle your ass.
dot the i’s and cross the t’s: see DOT.

ice

break the ice do or say something to relieve tension or get conversation started at the start of a party or when people meet for the first time.

on ice (especially of a plan or proposal) held in reserve for future consideration. (of wine or food) kept chilled by being surrounded by ice. (of an entertainment) performed by skaters.

(skating) on thin ice in a precarious or risky situation.

iceberg

the tip of an (or the) iceberg the small perceptible part of a much larger situation or problem which remains hidden.

This phrase refers to the fact that only about one fifth of the mass of an iceberg is visible above the surface of the sea.

1998 New Scientist This leaves pressure groups wondering whether there are further breaches still waiting to be discovered. Sue Mayer of Gene Watch asks: 'Is it the tip of the iceberg?'

icing

the icing on the cake an attractive but inessential addition or enhancement.

A North American variant of this phrase is the frosting on the cake.

1996 Independent State education is no longer always free. The jumble sale and the summer fair, which used to provide the icing on the school cake, are now providing the staple fare.

idea

get (or give someone) ideas become (or make someone) ambitious, big-headed, or tempted to do something against someone else’s will, especially make a sexual advance. informal

if

if anything used to suggest tentatively that something may be the case (often the opposite of something previously implied).

illusion

be under the illusion that wrongly believe that.

1998 Independent The keening harmonies of the Brothers Gibb, a million naff dance routines by medallion men under the illusion that they were John Travolta.

be under no illusion (or illusions) be fully aware of the true state of affairs.

1992 Christian Scientist Monitor It is crucial to the nation’s security... that we be under no illusions about reasons for this zero-loss rate.

image

a graven image: see GRAVEN.

imitation

imitation is the sincerest form of flattery copying someone or something is an implicit way of paying them a compliment. proverb improve

improve the shining hour make good use of time; make the most of your time. literary

This expression comes from Isaac Watts’s Divine Songs for Children (1715): ‘How doth the little busy bee Improve each shining hour’.

in

be in for have good reason to expect (typically something unpleasant).

1988 Hugh Scott The Shaman’s Stone The weather will break soon, then we’ll be in for a storm.

be in on be privy to a secret.

have it in for someone have hostile feelings towards someone. informal in with enjoying friendly relations with.
informal

1990 Jeffrey Masson Final Analysis I was in demand everywhere ... simply because I was in with the right people.

the ins and outs all the details of something.

inch
give someone an inch once concessions have been made to someone they will demand a great deal.

1 The full form of the saying is the proverb give someone an inch and he will take a mile. In former times, ell (an obsolete measure of length equal to a little over a metre) was sometimes substituted for mile.

within an inch of your life almost to the point of death.

1997 Marian Keyes Rachel's Holiday He kept touching his hair, which, as well as being dyed to within an inch of its life, was blowdried, flicked and rigid with spray.

incline

incline your ear listen favourably, literary

1 Incline thine ear is an expression used throughout the Bible, for example in Psalms 17:6: 'I have called upon thee, for thou wilt hear me, O God: incline thine ear unto me, and hear my speech'.

Indian

Indian summer 1 a period of dry, warm weather occurring in late autumn. 2 a tranquil or productive period in someone’s later years.

1930 Vita Sackville-West The Edwardians Meanwhile she was quite content that Sebastian should become tanned in the rays of Sylvia’s Indian summer.

influence

under the influence affected by alcoholic drink, especially beyond the legal limits for driving a vehicle; drunk. informal

Injun

honest Injun honestly; really, dated injury

do yourself an injury suffer physical harm or damage. informal innings

have had a good innings have had a long and fulfilling life or career. British informal interest

In cricket, an innings is the period that a team or batsman spends batting, and a good innings is one during which a lot of runs are scored.

2002 Oldie He keeps dropping heavy hints when he visits: he ... said the other evening I have had a good innings (I am 86).

innocence

in all innocence without knowledge of something’s significance or possible consequences.

1992 Jeff Torrington Swing Hammer Swing! I’d given him the matches in all innocence but that didn’t let me off the hook.

inside

on the inside in a position affording private information. informal 1932 Daily Express I have chatted with men who are believed to be on the inside, and they have informed me that there will certainly be changes at forward and in the three-quarter line.

inside out

know someone or something inside out know someone or something very thoroughly.

turn something inside out 1 turn the inner surface of something outwards. 2 change something utterly.

2002 New Republic My every preconception about Renaissance tapestry had been turned inside out.

insult

add insult to injury do or say something that makes a bad or displeasing situation even worse.

1 This phrase comes from Edward Moore’s play The Foundling (1748): ‘This is adding insult to injuries’.

intent

to all intents and purposes in all important respects.

1992 London Review of Books For if in 1976 pianists really were about to lose the skill of polyphonic piano-playing, then to all intents and purposes the skill of playing the piano was at an end.

interest

declare an (or your) interest make known your financial interests in an undertaking before it is discussed.
interference

run interference intervene on someone’s behalf, typically so as to protect them from distraction or annoyance. North American informal

1 Run interference is a metaphor from American football, where it refers to the legal blocking of an opponent to clear a way for the ball carrier.

iron

have many (or other) irons in the fire have many (or a range of) options or courses of action available or be involved in many activities or commitments at the same time.

1 Various tools and implements made (or formerly made) of iron are called irons, for example grappling irons or branding irons. The metaphor is of a blacksmith or other worker who heats iron objects in a fire until they reach the critical temperature at which they can be shaped or used.

an iron curtain an impenetrable barrier, especially the Iron Curtain, the physical and other barriers preventing the passage of people and information between the Soviet bloc and the West during the cold war.

1 In the late 18th century, an iron curtain was literally a fire curtain in a theatre, but the figurative sense was in use from the early 19th century, well before Winston Churchill observed in a speech in March 1946 that ‘an iron curtain has descended across the Continent [of Europe]’.

the iron entered into someone’s soul someone became deeply and permanently affected by imprisonment or ill-treatment.

literary

1 This expression comes from a phrase in the Latin Vulgate version of the Bible, ferrum pertransit animam ejus, a mistranslation of the Hebrew which literally translates as ‘his person entered into the iron’, meaning ‘he was placed in fetters’.

an iron hand (or fist) in a velvet glove firmness or ruthlessness masked by outward gentleness.

iron out the wrinkles resolve all minor difficulties and snags.

1 Iron out has been in figurative use since the mid 19th century; it often occurs with other nouns, especially differences.

1984 New Yorker Willa had sold her story to Universal Pictures and was in California ironing out some wrinkles in the deal.

new off the irons newly made or prepared; brand new, dated

1 The irons here are engraved stamps used for impressing a design or figure on something, as in coining money, striking a medal, or embossing paper. This sense is now obsolete and survives only in this phrase.

strike while the iron is hot: see STRIKE.

itching

an itching palm an avaricious or greedy nature.

1937 Wyndham Lewis The Revenge for Love Had Alvaro been bribed? Had such a man an itching palm like the rest of them?

itchy

get (or have) itchy feet be restless; have a strong urge to travel or move from place to place. informal item

be an item (of a couple) be involved in an established romantic or sexual relationship. informal 1997 Independent ‘It is fair to say they are an item but they are not engaged,’ said one of Mr Brown’s closest confidantes.

ivory

tickle (or tinkle) the ivories play the piano.

informal

1 The ivories are the white keys of the piano, traditionally made of ivory.
jack

before you can say Jack Robinson very quickly or suddenly. informal

1 This expression was in use in the late 18th century, but neither an early 19th-century popular song about Jack Robinson nor some mid 19th-century attempts to identify the eponymous Jack Robinson shed any light on its origins.

every man Jack each and every person. informal

1 Jack is a pet name form of the forename John. It was sometimes used in informal American speech as a form of address to a man whose name you did not know, and as a generic name for any ordinary or working-class man.

I'm all right, Jack used to express or comment upon selfish complacency. informal

1 I'm all right, Jack was an early 20th-century catchphrase which became the title of a 1959 British film.

jack of all trades (and master of none) a person who can do many different types of work (but has special skill in none).

1 Jack is used here to mean a 'general labourer' or 'odd-job man', a sense dating from the mid 19th century.

on your Jack on your own. British informal

1 This an abbreviation of the rhyming slang expression on your Jack Jones.

jam

have jam on it have some additional pleasure, ease, or advantage.

1974 Olivia Manning Rain Forest Hugh... was free to leave at six... Pedley... said: ‘You’ve got jam on it: walking home in the sunset.’

jam tomorrow a pleasant thing which is often promised but rarely materializes. British

1 This expression comes from Lewis Carroll's Through the Looking-Glass (1871): ‘The rule is jam tomorrow and jam yesterday—but never jam today’.

Jane

plain Jane an unattractive girl or woman.

2002 Guardian [The film] assembles its stereotypes (the sexy exchange student, the plain Jane who’s really a fox, the jock who is only dating her for a bet) then proceeds to gunk them all with a ton of scatological prankery.

jazz

and all that jazz and such similar things. informal

1 Of unknown origin, jazz was used informally to mean 'meaningless talk' within a decade of the word's first appearance in its musical sense, in the early 20th century. This phrase was a mid 20th-century development.

1960 Punch Politics, world affairs, film stars' babies and all that jazz, the things that the adult world seems obsessed with, do not interest us at all.

Jekyll and Hyde a person alternately displaying opposing good and evil personalities.

1 The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde (1886) is a novel by Robert Louis Stevenson, in which the physician Jekyll, in order to indulge his evil instincts, uses a drug to create the persona of Hyde, which at first he can assume at will but which gradually gains control of him.

jackpot

hit the jackpot 1 win a jackpot. 2 have great or unexpected success, especially in making a lot of money quickly. informal

1 Originally, in the late 19th century, jackpot was a term used in a form of poker, where the pot or pool accumulated until a player could open the betting with a pair of jacks or higher cards. It is now used of any large money prize that accumulates until it is won.
jerk

put a jerk in it act vigorously, smartly, or quickly. informal, dated 1939 C. Day Lewis Child of Misfortune Put a jerk in it. I'm meeting my boy at the second house at the Royal.

jewel

the jewel in the (or someone's) crown the most attractive or successful part of something.

In the early 20th century, this was used as a term for the British imperial colonies as a whole. The Jewel in the Crown was subsequently used by Paul Scott as the title of the first novel of his Raj Quartet, which is set in the last days of British rule in India.

jib

the cut of someone's jib: see CUT.

jig

in jig time extremely quickly; in a very short time. North American informal the jig is up the scheme or deception is revealed or foiled. North American informal

The sense of jig here dates from the late 16th century and means 'jest' or 'trick'. The jig is over is recorded from the late 18th century in the USA and the usual modern version with up appeared only slightly later.

jingbang

the whole jingbang the whole lot. informal

The origins of jingbang and its variant jimbang, both found only in this phrase, are uncertain.

Job

a Job's comforter a person who aggravates distress under the guise of giving comfort.

In the Bible, Job was a prosperous man whose patience and piety was tested by a series of undeserved misfortunes. The attempts of his friends to comfort him only add to his sense of despair and he tells them: 'miserable comforters are ye all' (Job 16:2). Despite his ordeals, he remains confident of the goodness and justice of God and in the end he is restored to his former situation.

job

do a job on someone do something which harms or defeats an opponent. informal jobs for the boys used in reference to the practice of giving paid employment to your friends, supporters, or relations. British derogatory 2002 Guardian The James Report found the unit operated a 'jobs for the boys' recruitment policy favouring Reed's friends and political acquaintances.

just the job exactly what is needed. British informal make the best of a bad job: see make the best of it at BEST.

more than your job's worth not worth risking your job for.

This phrase has given rise to the term Jobsworth, which is applied to the kind of person, usually a minor official, who says 'it's more than my job's worth' as a way of justifying an insistence on petty rules, even at the expense of common sense.

join

join the club: see CLUB.

join the great majority die. euphemistic

This expression was first used by the poet Edward Young (1683–1765): 'Death joins us to the great majority'. However, the idea of the dead being 'the majority' is a very old one; it is found, for example, in the writings of the Roman satirist Petronius as abiit ad plures: 'he's gone to join the majority'.

joint

out of joint (of a specified joint) out of position; dislocated. in a state of disorder or disorientation.

1601 William Shakespeare Hamlet The time is out of joint.

joke

get (or be) beyond a joke become (or be) something that is serious or worrying. informal 2002 Guardian The rogue animal is believed to have attacked at least six residents in the past week, and his antics are now described by residents as 'well beyond a joke'.

the joke is on someone someone looks foolish, especially after trying to make someone else look so. informal 1998 Spectator He turned out to be as right as rain... so the joke was on us.

joker

the joker in the pack a person or factor likely to have an unpredictable effect on events.

In a pack of playing cards, a joker is an extra card which does not belong to one of the four suits (clubs, diamonds, hearts, and spades) and usually bears the figure of a jester. It is used in some card games as a trump and in poker as a wild card.

1973 George Sims Hunters Point Fred Wheeler may be the joker in the pack. He might have got Dave involved in something wild.

Jokers

keep up with the Joneses try to maintain the same social and material standards as your friends or neighbours.

In keeping with the phrase originated as a comic-strip title, 'Keeping up with the Joneses—by Pop' in the New York Globe (1913). Jones, one of the most common British family names, is used as a generic name for neighbours or presumed social equals.

1921 Daily Telegraph The Joneses... wish Lord Hamlyn, Tony and Cherie every possible joy of sex, money, and all the rest of it.

Judas

a Judas kiss an act of betrayal, especially one disguised as a gesture of friendship.

In Judas Iscariot was the disciple who betrayed Jesus to the authorities in return for thirty pieces of silver: 'And he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he: hold him fast' (Matthew 26:48).

judgement

against your better judgement contrary to what you feel to be wise or sensible.

jugular

go for the jugular be aggressive or unrestrained in making an attack.

1997 Cosmopolitan Once she decides she wants a man, she goes for the jugular and doesn’t give a hoot about any other woman (such as his girlfriend).
jumping

2002 Guardian For the Going Underground single in 1980, the producer made Weller jump through hoops to deliver a convincing vocal performance.

jump (or leap) to conclusions (or the conclusion) form an opinion hastily, before you have learned or considered all the facts.

jump to it take prompt and energetic action.

1974 Marian Babson The Stalking Lamb When you hear my signal—jump to it!

on the jump moving quickly; abruptly; swiftly, informal

Θ 1972 Judson Philips The Vanishing Senator Get over here on the jump... Step on it, will you?

one jump ahead one step or stage ahead of someone else and so having the advantage over them.

jumping

be jumping up and down be very angry, upset, or excited. informal jungle

the law of the jungle the principle that those who are strong and apply ruthless self-interest will be most successful.

1989 Bessie Head Tales of Tenderness & Power And at the beer tank the law of the jungle prevailed, the stronger shoving the weaker.

jury

the jury is out a decision has not yet been reached on a controversial subject.

1998 New Scientist The jury is still out, but it looks as if there are no significant changes in the cosmic dust flux during past climate cycles.

justice

do someone or something justice (or do justice to someone or something) treat or represent someone or something with due fairness or appreciation.

do yourself justice perform as well as you are able to.

poetic justice: see POETIC.

rough justice: see ROUGH.
kangaroo have kangaroos in the (or your) top paddock be mad or eccentric. Australian informal 1985 Peter Carey Illywacker 'And he was a big man too, and possibly slow-witted. 'Leichhardt?' 'No, Bourke... He had kangaroos in his top paddock.'

keen keen as mustard extremely eager or enthusiastic. British informal Keen is used here to mean 'operating on the senses like a sharp instrument'.

keep
keep the ball rolling: see BALL.
keep open house provide general hospitality.
1950 Elizabeth Goudge Gentian Hill All well-to-do Devon farmhouses keep open house on Christmas Eve.
keep something under wraps: see WRAP.
keep up with the Joneses: see JONESES.
keep your eye on the ball: see BALL.
keep your feet (or legs) manage not to fall.
keep someone on their toes: see on your toes at TOE.
you can’t keep a good man (or woman) down a competent person will always recover well from setbacks or problems. informal kettle

a different kettle of fish a completely different matter or type of person from the one previously mentioned. informal 1993 Empire Meryl is the finest actress of her generation but Arnold is, er, a different kettle of fish.
the pot calling the kettle black: see POT.
a pretty (or fine) kettle of fish an awkward state of affairs. informal
In late 18th-century Scotland, a kettle of fish was a large saucepan of fish, typically freshly caught salmon, cooked at Scottish picnics, and the term was also applied to the picnic itself. By the mid 18th century, the novelist Henry Fielding was using the phrase to mean 'a muddle'.

key
in (or out of) key in (or out of) harmony.

kibosh
put the kibosh on put an end to; thwart the plans of. informal
The meaning and origin of kibosh is uncertain. 'Put the kye-bosk on her' is used by 'a pot-boy' in Charles Dickens's Sketches by Boz (1836).

kick
kick against the pricks hurt yourself by persisting in useless resistance or protest.
In the Bible, on the road to Damascus Saul heard the words: 'It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks' (Acts 9:5). The image is that of an ox or other beast of burden fruitlessly kicking out when it is pricked by a goad or spur.
kick someone's ass (or butt) dominate, beat, or defeat someone. North American vulgar slang kick (some) ass (or butt) act in a forceful or aggressive manner. North American vulgar slang 1995 Martin Amis Information You got to come on strong. Talk big and kick ass.
a kick at the can (or cat) an opportunity to achieve something. Canadian informal kick the bucket die. informal
The bucket in this phrase may be a pail on which a person committing suicide might stand, kicking it away before they hanged themselves. Another suggestion is that it refers to a beam on which something can be hung up; in Norfolk dialect the beam from which a slaughtered pig was suspended by its heels could be referred to as a bucket.

kick someone down the ladder reject or disown the friends or associates who have helped you to rise in the world, especially with the idea of preventing them from attaining a similar position.

kick the gong around smoke opium. informal

1. Gong is early 20th-century US slang for a narcotic drug, especially opium.

kick the habit stop engaging in a habitual practice. informal 1992 Economist Perhaps it is time for ex-French West Africa to choose its own forms of government... and kick the habit of turning to France whenever trouble starts.

a kick in the pants (or up the arse or backside) something that prompts or forces fresh effort. informal 1996 Southern Cross On Saturday night, Mr Groom said the party understood the electorate had given the Liberals a kick in the pants.

a kick in the teeth a grave setback or disappointment, especially one seen as a betrayal. informal 1994 Daily Mirror The rates rise was a kick in the teeth for the housing market, which had been showing signs of recovery.

kick over the traces become insubordinate or reckless.

1. Traces are the straps by which a draught horse is attached to the vehicle it is pulling. If the animal kicked out over these straps, the driver would no longer be able to control it.

kick someone upstairs remove someone from an influential position in a business by giving them an ostensible promotion. informal kick someone when they are down cause further misfortune to someone who is already in a difficult situation.

kick something into touch remove something from the centre of attention or activity. British informal

1. In football and rugby, the touchlines mark the sides of the playing area and if the ball is kicked beyond these (into touch), it is no longer in play.

1998 New Scientist The British public is more interested in these matters than many politicians think. Such issues cannot be kicked into touch.

kick up a fuss (or a stink) register strong disapproval; object loudly to something. informal kick up your heels: see heel.

kick your heels: see cool your heels at heel.

kick yourself be annoyed with yourself for doing something foolish or missing an opportunity.

more kicks than halfpence more harsh treatment than rewards. informal, dated kid

handle (or treat) someone or something with kid gloves deal with someone or something very gently or tactfully.

1. Kid gloves are those made with leather from a young goat's skin.

kids' stuff something that is childishly simple or naive. informal 1982 Vivien Alcock The Sylvia Game He had grown out of the game; it was kid's stuff. Besides it always landed him in trouble.

a new kid on the block: see block.

kill

be in at the kill be present at or benefit from the successful conclusion of an enterprise.

dressed to kill: see dressed.

go (or move in or close in) for the kill take decisive action to turn a situation to your advantage.

if it kills you whatever the problems or difficulties involved. informal 2001 Nancy Hope Wilson Mountain Pose I'm cracking that code if it kills me.

kill the fatted calf: see fatted.

kill the goose that lays the golden egg: see goose.

kill or cure (of a remedy for a problem) likely to either work well or fail catastrophically, with no possibility of partial success. British 1998 Richard Gordon Ailments through the Ages Mackenzie complained that the Germans' policy was 'kill or cure': if they tried an elaborate laryngectomy, it would turn them from surgeons into assassins.

kill two birds with one stone achieve two aims at once.

kill someone with (or by) kindness spoil someone by overindulging them.

1. This expression dates back to the mid 16th century; it famously appears in the title of Thomas Heywood's play A Woman Killed with Kindness (1607).

kill yourself laughing be overcome with laughter. killing
make a killing have a great financial success, especially on a stock exchange.

kilter
out of kilter out of harmony or balance.

kilter, dating from the early 17th century, was a dialect word meaning 'frame or order'. It is now used only in this phrase.

knight
King Charles's head an obsession.

This expression alludes to the character of 'Mr Dick', in Charles Dickens's novel David Copperfield, who could not write or speak on any matter without the subject of King Charles's head intruding.

king of beasts the lion.

king of birds the eagle.

king of kings a king who has lesser kings under him. God.

king of terrors death personified.

King or Kaiser any powerful earthly ruler.

a king's ransom a huge amount of money; a fortune.

In feudal times prisoners of war were freed for sums in keeping with their rank, so a king, as the highest-ranking individual, commanded the greatest ransom.

take the King's shilling: see SHILLING.

kingdom
come into (or to) your kingdom achieve recognition or supremacy.

till (or until) kingdom come forever. informal to kingdom come into the next world. informal

Kingdom come is the next world or eternity; it comes from the clause in the Lord's Prayer thy kingdom come.

1996 Total Sport Graham Gooch may be fast approaching his mid-forties but the old boy still clatters most bowlers to Kingdom come.

kiss
have kissed the blarney stone: see BLARNEY.

a Judas kiss: see JUDAS.

kiss and make up become reconciled.

1991 Economist [China] and Vietnam are preparing to kiss and make up in the cause of socialist solidarity.

kiss and tell recount your sexual exploits, especially to the media concerning a famous person. chiefly derogatory kiss someone's arse (or ass) behave obsequiously towards someone. vulgar slang kiss ass behave in an obsequious or sycophantic way. North American vulgar slang kiss my arse go away!; go to hell! vulgar slang kiss of death an action or event that causes certain failure for an enterprise.

This expression may refer to the kiss of betrayal given by Judas Iscariot to Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane (Matthew 26:48–9).

1998 Spectator I commend the Commission’s recent Green Paper and its efforts to introduce an enlightened, evolutionary discussion—although I hope my saying so will not be the kiss of death.

kiss of life mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

an action or event that revives a failing enterprise.

1997 Anthony Barnett This Time She gave a decrepit institution the kiss of life, when she became its adversary.

kiss the dust submit abjectly; be overthrown.

kiss the ground prostrate yourself as a token of respect.

This phrase refers to the practice, found particularly in courts of the ancient Eastern world, of throwing yourself on the ground in front of a monarch.

kiss the rod accept punishment meekly or submissively.

This idiom refers to a former practice of making a child kiss the rod with which it was beaten. It is used by Shakespeare in Two Gentlemen of Verona: 'How wayward is this foolish love That, like a testy babe, will scratch the nurse And presently all humbled kiss the rod'.

kiss something goodbye (or kiss goodbye to something) accept the certain loss of something. informal kissy-face play kissy-face (or kissy-kissy) behave in an excessively friendly way in order to gain favour. informal kit get your kit off take off all your clothes. British informal kitchen

everything but the kitchen sink everything imaginable, informal, humorous

This expression was identified by Eric Partridge in his Dictionary of Forces’ Slang (1948) as being used in the context of an intense bombardment in which the enemy fired everything they had except the kitchen sink (or including the kitchen sink).

1965 Ed McBain Doll Brown began searching. ‘Everything in here but the kitchen sink,’ he said.

kneehigh

knee-high to a grasshopper very small or very young, informal, humorous

In this form the phrase apparently dates from the mid 19th century, but early 19th-century US versions include knee-high to a toad and knee-high to a mosquito.

knight

ring the knell of announce or herald the end of.

The image here is of the tolling of a bell to announce a death or funeral.

knickers

get your knickers in a twist become upset or angry. British informal

This expression was originally used specifically of women, the humorous masculine equivalent being get your Y-fronts in a twist.

1998 Times I’m not as anxious as I was… Most things these days, I’m really not going to get my knickers in a twist about.

knife

an atmosphere that you could cut with a knife see ATMOSPHERE.

before you can say knife very quickly; almost instantaneously. informal get (or stick) the knife into (or in) someone do something hostile or aggressive to someone. informal

go (or be) under the knife have surgery. informal like a (hot) knife through butter very easily; without any resistance or difficulty.

twist (or turn) the knife deliberately make someone’s grief or problems worse.

1991 Mavis Nicholson Martha Jane & Me While she and I were playing the cat-and-mouse game of these stories, I would sometimes, just to twist the knife a little further, ask about the little girl’s father.

the knives are out (for someone) there is open hostility (towards someone). informal

knife-edge

on a knife-edge in a tense situation, especially one finely balanced between success and failure.

2000 South African Times UK With the game poised on a knife-edge, the Wallabies won a ruck and George Gregan’s pass was floated to the flyhalf, who picked his line perfectly.

knight

a knight in shining armour an idealized or heroic person, especially a man who comes to the rescue of a woman in distress or in a difficult situation.

- This expression, a variant of which is a knight on a white charger, is often used ironically of someone who presents himself in this guise but is in fact inadequate to the role. Compare with a white knight (at WHITE).

knight of the road a man who frequents the roads, for example a travelling sales representative, lorry or taxi driver, or tramp.

- Originally, in the mid 17th century, this phrase was ironically applied to a highwayman.

a white knight: see WHITE.

knitting

stick to the (or your) knitting (of an organization) concentrate on a known core area of business activity rather than diversify into other areas in which it has no experience. informal knob

with knobs (or brass knobs) on and something more. British informal 1998 Pi Magazine But all this would count for zilch if the music didn’t stand the test of time. But it does, with knobs on.

knock

knock someone’s block off hit someone very hard in anger. informal

- Block is used here in its informal sense of ‘head’.

knock someone dead greatly impress someone. informal 1991 Julia Philips You’ll Never Eat Lunch in This Town Again I’m good at public speaking. I’ve been knocking them dead at seminars.

knock someone into the middle of next week hit someone very hard. informal knock it off used to tell someone to stop doing something that you find annoying or foolish. informal knock on (or at) the door seek to join a particular group or sphere of action.

knock someone for six: see hit someone for six at SIX.

knock someone or something on the head decisively prevent an idea, plan, or proposal from being held or developed. British informal

- The image in this phrase is of stunning or killing a person or an animal by a blow to their head.

knock someone sideways affect someone very severely; make someone severely depressed or unable to cope. informal 1998 Penelope Lively Spiderweb It’s always knocked me sideways—the thought of what we carry around, stashed away.

knock someone’s socks off: see SOCK.

knock something into a cocked hat: see COCKED HAT.

knock spots off easily outdo. informal

- This expression may refer to shooting out the pips (spots) on a playing card in a pistol-shooting competition. Although it is now found chiefly in British English, the phrase originated in America.

1997 Spectator [Walter Laut Palmer’s] ‘Morning in Venice’ is a tour-de-force... It knocks spots off the neighbouring, deeply unattractive, Monet of a gondola.

knock them in the aisles amaze and impress people. informal knock your head against a brick wall: see bang your head against a brick wall at HEAD.

knock someone or something into shape: see lick someone or something into shape at SHAPE.

the school of hard knocks: see SCHOOL.

take a knock suffer a material or emotional setback.

knock on wood: see touch wood at WOOD.

knocked you could have knocked me (or her, him, etc.) down with a feather I (or she, he, etc.) was greatly surprised. informal

- A similar idiom is found in Samuel Richardson’s novel Pamela (1741) (‘you might have beat me down with a feather’); the modern form of the expression with knock dates from the mid 19th century.

knocker

on the knocker going from door to door.
knot

usually canvassing, buying, or selling. (of payment) immediately; on demand. Australian & New Zealand informal up to the knocker in good condition; to perfection. informal

knot

at a rate of knots very fast. British informal

A knot here is a nautical unit of speed, equal to one nautical mile per hour.

cut the knot: see CUT.

tie the knot get married. informal tie someone (up) in knots make someone completely confused. informal 1996 Daily Star It looks like an open and shut case until the brilliant QC starts getting the prosecution witnesses tied up in knots.

know — as we know it as is familiar or customary in the present.

1991 Scientific American Now that all-out nuclear war seems to be receding as an imminent threat to life as we know it, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has come up with something else to keep us worried: doomsday asteroids.

be in the know be aware of something known only to a few people.

before you know where you are (or before you know it) with baffling speed. informal 1993 Rolling Stone Andy Shernoff... knows a thing or two about great glam punk.

know a thing or two be experienced or shrewd.

1993 Rolling Stone Andy Shernoff... knows a thing or two about great glam punk.

know better than be wise, well-informed, or well-mannered enough to avoid doing something specified.

1989 Anne Fine Goggle-Eyes Inspector McGee knows better than to tangle with Beth’s granny.

know (or not know) from nothing be totally ignorant, either generally or concerning something in particular. North American informal know little (or nothing) and care less be completely unconcerned about something; be studiously ignorant.

know someone in the biblical sense have sex with someone. informal, humorous Know in this sense is an old use which is particularly associated with language in the Bible, e.g. Genesis 4:1: And Adam knew Eve his wife; and she conceived, and bare Cain’.

know something like the back of your hand: see BACK.

know the ropes be thoroughly acquainted with the way in which something is done. informal

In its literal sense, this expression goes back to the days of sailing ships, when skill in handling ropes was essential for any sailor. The idiom is found in various forms, from the mid 19th century onwards, e.g. learn or understand the ropes and show or teach someone the ropes know the score be aware of what is going on.

2002 New York Times Magazine Nowadays, everyone knows the score. Aside from discovering, say, that Tom Hanks is mean, what story of show business ugliness would scandalize us?

know too much be in possession of too much important information to be allowed to live or continue as normal.

know what’s what have enough knowledge or experience. informal 1992 More I know what’s what at work, so no-one’s going to trip me up.

know what you like have fixed or definite tastes, without necessarily having the knowledge or informed opinion to support them.

2002 Sunday Herald We adjourn to Starbucks where... I know what I like (grand skinny latte, £2.15).

know where the bodies are buried: see BODY.

know where you are (or stand) with know how you are regarded by someone; know the opinions of someone on an issue.

1991 Julian Barnes Talking It Over Good old Stuart, he’s so reliable. You know where you are with Stuart.

know who’s who be aware of the identity and status of each person.

know your own mind be decisive and certain.

not know someone from Adam: see ADAM.

not know what hit you be hit, killed, or attacked by someone or something without warning.

not know what to do with yourself be at a loss as to what to do, typically through boredom, embarrassment, or anxiety.

not know where (or which way) to look feel great embarrassment and not know how to react.
knowing

there is no knowing no one can tell.

known

have known better days: see have seen better days at DAY.

knows

for all someone knows used to express the limited scope or extent of someone’s information.

knuckle

go the knuckle fight with the fists. Australian informal near the knuckle verging on the indecent or offensive. British informal

---

1 In the late 19th century this expression was used more generally to mean ‘close to the permitted limit of behaviour’.
labour

- a labour of Hercules: a task requiring enormous strength or effort.

  In Greek mythology, Hercules was a man of superhuman strength and courage who performed twelve immense tasks or labours imposed on him as a penance for killing his children in a fit of madness. After his death he was ranked among the gods.

- a labour of love: a task done for the love of a person or for the work itself.

- labour the point: explain or discuss something at excessive or unnecessary length.

ladder

- kick someone down the ladder: see KICK.

lady

- it isn’t over till the fat lady sings: there is still time for a situation to change.

  This phrase comes from the saying the opera isn’t over till the fat lady sings, which originated in the 1970s in the USA; it is doubtful whether any particular operatic production or prima donna was ever intended.

- ladies who lunch: women with the money and free time to meet for social lunches.

  This expression comes from the title of a 1970s song by Stephen Sondheim: ‘A toast to that invincible bunch… Let’s hear it for the ladies who lunch’. While it is often used of women who raise money for charity by organizing fashionable lunches, it is also often used in a derogatory way of women with the money and leisure to lunch at expensive restaurants.

- Lady Bountiful: a woman who engages in ostentatious acts of charity to impress others.

  Lady Bountiful is the name of a character in The Beaux’ Stratagem (1707), a play by the Irish Restoration dramatist George Farquhar.

Lady Luck

- chance personified as a controlling power in human affairs.

Lady Muck

- a haughty or socially pretentious woman.

laldy

- give it laldy: do something with vigour or enthusiasm.

  Lady or ladie, as in give someone laldy, means ‘a punishment or beating’.

  1993 Irvine Welsh Trainspotting A chorus... echoes throughout the pub. Auld, toothless Willie Shane is giein it laldy.

lam

- on the lam: in flight, especially from the police.

lamb

- like a lamb to the slaughter: as a helpless victim.

  This expression is found in the Bible in Isaiah 53:7: ‘he is brought as a lamb to the slaughter’, an image later applied to Jesus.

lame

- lame duck: see DUCK.

lamp

- smell of the lamp: see SMELL.

land

- land on your feet: see fall on your feet at FALL.

- how the land lies: what the state of affairs is.

- in the land of the living: alive or awake.

  This is a biblical idiom: see, for example, Job 28:13: ‘Man knoweth not the price thereof; neither is it found in the land of the living’ or Psalms 52:5: ‘God shall likewise destroy thee for ever, he shall take thee away, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling place, and root thee out of the land of the living’.

land of Nod

- a state of sleep.

  In the Bible, the Land of Nod was the place to which Cain was exiled after the murder of his brother Abel (Genesis 4:16). It has been used punningly to refer to sleep since the 18th century, notably by Jonathan Swift in Polite Conversation (1731–8): 'I’m going to the Land of Nod'.

live off the land (or the country) live on whatever food you can obtain by hunting, gathering, or subsistence farming.

1995 Empire Harrison Ford is the frazzled father who ups his family from cosy suburbia in an effort to live off the land, get back to nature, etc.

no man’s land: see NO.

landscape
a blot on the landscape: see BLOT.

language
speak the same language understand one another as a result of shared opinions and values.

1990 New Age Journal I translate between Greenpeace-speak and record industry-speak, because the two groups just don’t speak the same language.

lap
fall (or drop) into someone’s lap (of something pleasant or desirable) come someone’s way without any effort having been made.

in the lap of luxury in conditions of great comfort and wealth.

in the lap of the gods (of the success of a plan or event) open to chance; depending on factors that you cannot control.

This expression comes from one used in several passages in the works of the Greek epic poet Homer. The original Greek refers to the 'knees' of the gods, possibly because suppliants laid gifts on the knees of those who were sitting in judgement upon them.

lares
lares and penates the home.

In ancient Rome, the lares and penates were the protective gods of a household, and they came to be used to signify the home itself. The phrase lares and penates is generally used to refer to those things that are considered to be the essential elements of someone’s home; in 1775 Horace Walpole wrote in a letter 'I am returned to my own Lares and Penates—to my dogs and cats'.

large
give (or have) it large go out and enjoy yourself, typically with drink or drugs.

British informal

1999 London Student Clubbers had it large to Americans Josh Wink and long-time Detroit supremo Derrick May.

large as life: see LIFE.

lark
up with the lark up very early in the morning.

1 References to the early-morning singing of the lark date back to the 16th century: the first recorded instance is found in John Lyly’s Euphues. Early risers are often referred to as larks, while their late-to-bed counterparts may be described as owls. The phrase also employs a play on the word up, since the lark sings on the wing while flying high above its nest.

Larry
happy as Larry: see happy as a sandboy at HAPPY.

lash
have a lash at make an attempt at; have a go at.

British & New Zealand

last
be the last word be the most fashionable or up-to-date.

1989 Life Thanks to a built-in microchip, Teddy Ruxpin became the last word in talking dolls.

die in the last ditch: see DIE.

famous last words: see FAMOUS.

have the last word 1 make or have the right to make the final decision or pronunciation about something. 2 carry out a final and conclusive action in a process or course of events.

(drinking) in the last chance saloon having been allowed one final opportunity to improve or get something right, informal 1998 Times Gascoigne has finally found himself in the Last Chance Saloon.

last but not least last in order of mention or occurrence but not of importance.

the last of the Mohicans the sole survivor(s) of a particular race or kind.

The Last of the Mohicans is the title of an 1826 novel by James Fenimore Cooper (1789–1851). The Mohicans, also spelled Mohegans, were an Algonquian people who late

formerly inhabited the western parts of the US states of Connecticut and Massachusetts.

the last straw: see STRAW.
last thing late in the evening, especially as a final act before going to bed.
on your last legs: see LEG. pay your last respects: see PAY.
late

late in the day at a late stage in proceedings, especially too late to be useful.

A North American variant of this expression is late in the game.

the late unpleasantness: see UNPLEASANTNESS.

laugh

enough to make a cat laugh: see CAT.
good for a laugh guaranteed to amuse or entertain.

1998 Spectator I'm now ashamed to admit it, but the fact remains that in 1979 voting Tory did seem good for a laugh.

have the last laugh be finally vindicated, thereby confounding earlier scepticism.

There are various proverbial sayings expressing this idea, such as he laughs best who laughs last and he who laughs last, laughs longest.

laugh all the way to the bank make a great deal of money with very little effort, informal 1998 Country Life In the Taw Valley they don't need to say 'cheese' to raise a smile—they just whisper 'environment' and laugh all the way to the bank.

laugh in someone's face show open contempt for someone by laughing rudely at them in their presence.

laugh like a drain laugh raucously; guffaw.

British informal

a laugh a minute very funny.

laugh yourself silly (or sick) laugh uncontrollably or for a long time.

laugh on the other side of your face be discomfited after feeling satisfaction or confidence about something.

A North American variant of this expression is laugh out of the other side of your mouth.

laugh someone or something out of court dismiss someone or something with contempt as being obviously ridiculous.

laugh someone or something to scorn ridicule someone or something.

This is a biblical idiom: see, for example, Job 12:4: 'I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he answereth him: the just upright man is laughed to scorn' or Matthew 9:24: 'He said unto them, Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn.'

laugh up your sleeve be secretly or inwardly amused.

The use of up in this expression is a relatively recent development; the phrase dates from the mid 16th century in the form laugh in your sleeve.

play something for laughs (of a performer) try to arouse laughter in an audience, especially in inappropriate circumstances.

laughing

be laughing be in a fortunate or comfortable situation, informal

2000 Ian Pattison A Stranger Here Myself I spotted a card in the window of a Lyons Tearoom. Dishwashers Wanted. No Exp. Nec. 'That's it,' I said to Cotter, 'we're laughing.'

no laughing matter something serious that should not be joked about.

laurels

look to your laurels be careful not to lose your superior position to a rival.

rest on your laurels be so satisfied with what you have already done or achieved that you make no further effort.

In ancient Greece, a wreath made of bay-tree (laurel) leaves was awarded as a mark of distinction and, in particular, to victors at the Pythian Games held at Delphi.

lavender

lay something up in lavender: see LAY.

law

be a law unto yourself behave in a manner that is not conventional or predictable.

the law of the jungle: see JUNGLE.

the law of the Medes and Persians: see MEDES.
lay down the law issue instructions to other people in an authoritative or dogmatic way.

take the law into your own hands punish someone for an offence according to your own ideas of justice, especially in an illegal or violent way.

take someone to law initiate legal proceedings against someone.

there’s no law against it used in spoken English to assert that you are doing nothing wrong, especially in response to an actual or implied criticism. informal lay

lay rubber: see burn rubber at RUBBER.

lay eyes on: see clap eyes on at EYE.

lay a charge make an accusation.

1989 Tony Parker A Place Called Bird We have domestic assaults. The complainant lays a charge.

lay down the law: see LAW.

lay a (or the) ghost get rid of a distressing, frightening, or worrying memory or thought.

1 The image here is of exorcizing an unquiet or evil spirit.

lay it on the line: see LINE.

lay someone low (of an illness) reduce someone to inactivity. bring to an end the high position or good fortune formerly enjoyed by someone.

lay something at someone’s door: see DOOR.

lay something on the table: see TABLE.

lay something on thick (or with a trowel) grossly exaggerate or overemphasize something. informal lay something to rest soothe and dispel fear, anxiety, grief, and similar unpleasant emotions.

lay something up in lavender preserve something carefully for future use.

1 The flowers and stalks of lavender were traditionally used as a preservative for stored clothes.

lay store by: see set store by at STORE.

lead

get the lead out move or work more quickly; hurry up. North American informal

1 This expression originated as mid 20th-century jazz slang, meaning ‘play at a brisk speed’. A fuller version is get the lead out of your pants. Renowned for its weight, the metal lead appears in a number of expressions as a metaphor for inertness or heaviness (see, for example, go down like a lead balloon below and swing the lead at SWING).

go down (or over) like a lead balloon (especially of a speech, proposal, or joke) fail; be a flop. informal 1996 Prospect Simon Jenkins’s book, Accountable to None, has gone down like a lead balloon with most Conservative reviewers.

lead someone a dance: see DANCE.

lead someone by the nose control someone totally, especially by deceiving them. informal

1 The image here is of an animal being controlled by a restraint round or in the nose. Shakespeare used this expression in Othello (1604): ‘The Moor... will as tenderly be led by th’ nose As asses are’.

lead from the front take an active role in what you are urging and directing others to do.

lead in your pencil vigour or energy, especially sexual energy in a man. informal 1972 Dan Lees Zodiac The couscous is supposed to put lead in your pencil but with Daria I needed neither a talking point nor an aphrodisiac.

lead someone up the garden path: see GARDEN.

lead with your chin behave or speak incautiously. informal

1 This expression originated as mid 20th-century boxing slang, referring to a boxer’s stance that leaves his chin unprotected.

swing the lead: see SWING.

leaf

shake (or tremble) like a leaf tremble greatly, especially from fear.

take a leaf out of someone’s book closely imitate or emulate someone in a particular way.

1999 London Student Maybe the other colleges should take a leaf out of Imperial’s book and try pub games instead of sports.

turn over a new leaf improve your conduct or performance.
leak

The leaf referred to here is a page of a book. The phrase has been used in this metaphorical sense since the 16th century, and while it now always means 'change for the better', it could previously also mean just 'change' or even 'change for the worse'.

leak

have (or take) a leak urinate, informal spring a leak (of a boat or container) develop a leak.

The expression was originally a nautical one, referring to the timbers of a wooden ship springing out of position and so letting in water.

lean

lean over backwards: see bend over backwards at BACKWARDS.

leap

a leap in the dark a daring step or enterprise whose consequences are unpredictable.

leap to the eye (especially of writing) be immediately apparent.

by leaps and bounds with startlingly rapid progress.

lease

a new lease of (or on) life a substantially improved prospect of life or use after rejuvenation or repair. 1997 BBC Vegetarian Good Food Give salads, sandwiches and jacket spuds a new lease of life with a spoonful of flavoured mayonnaise.

least

least said, soonest mended a difficult situation will be resolved more quickly if there is no more discussion of it.

not least notably; in particular.

to say the least (or the least of it) used as an understatement or euphemism to imply that the reality is more extreme, usually worse.

1997 Spectator References in Mr Cole's letter to the 'bottle' were, to say the least, distasteful.

leave

leave someone cold fail to interest someone. 1993 James Merrill A Different Person I might have waxed sentimental over the ruins of Catullus's garçonnière but places that 'breathe History' have always left me cold.

leave much (or a lot) to be desired be highly unsatisfactory.

take French leave: see FRENCH.

take leave of your senses: see SENSE.

leech

like a leech persistently or clingingly present.

This idiom refers to the way in which a leech attaches itself by suction to the person or animal from which it is drawing blood: the parasites are very difficult to remove once they are attached to the skin and feeding.

leeway

make up (the) leeway struggle out of a bad position, especially by recovering lost time. British Leeway, which dates from the mid 17th century, was the nautical term for the drift of a ship towards the side downwind of its course. The figurative use of this phrase dates from the early 19th century.

left

be left at the post fail to compete. informal

be left holding the baby: see HOLDING.

hang a left: see HANG.

have two left feet be clumsy or awkward.

left, right, and centre (also left and right or right and left) on all sides.

1996 Loaded She relocated to New York... quickly finding herself heralded left, right and centre as The Face Of The '80s.

leg

feel (or find) your legs become able to stand or walk.

get your leg over (of a man) have sexual intercourse. vulgar slang have the legs of be able to go faster or further than a rival. British keep your legs: see keep your feet at KEEP.

not have a leg to stand on have no facts or sound reasons to support your argument or justify your actions.

on your hind legs standing up to make a speech. British informal on your last legs near the end of life, usefulness, or strength.

1987 Eric Newby Round Ireland in Low Gear It is certainly difficult to imagine how anyone who is in any way infirm, and some of the pilgrims who make the climb are literally on their last legs, can reach the top.

take to your legs: see take to your heels at HEEL.

legend

a legend in their own lifetime a very famous or notorious person.

legit

go legit begin to behave honestly after a period of illegal activity. informal Legit was originally a late 19th-century theatrical abbreviation meaning ‘a legitimate actor’, that is, one who acts in ‘legitimate theatre’ (conventional or serious drama).

leisure

lady (or man or gentleman) of leisure a person who does not need to earn a living or whose time is free from obligations to others.

lemon

the answer’s a lemon the response or outcome is unsatisfactory, informal

A lemon here is used to represent a bad, unsatisfactory, or disappointing thing, possibly because the lemon is the least valuable symbol that can be achieved by playing a fruit machine.

hand someone a lemon pass off a substandard article as good; swindle someone.

lend

lend an ear (or your ears) listen to someone sympathetically or attentively.

lend your name to something allow yourself to be publicly associated with something.

Lenten

Lenten fare meagre rations that do not include meat.

Lenten fare is literally food appropriate to Lent, the Christian season of fasting between Ash Wednesday and Easter Saturday in commemoration of Jesus’s forty days of fasting in the wilderness.

leopard

a leopard can’t change his spots people can’t change their basic nature. proverb less

in less than no time very quickly or soon. informal lesser

the lesser evil (or the lesser of two evils) the less harmful or unpleasant of two bad choices or possibilities.

let

let someone down gently seek to give someone bad news in a way that avoids causing them too much distress or humiliation.

let it drop (or rest) say or do no more about a matter or problem.

let it go (or pass) choose not to react to an action or remark.

let off steam: see STEAM.

let yourself go act in an unrestrained or uninhibited way. neglect yourself or your appearance; become careless or untidy in your habits.

let or hindrance obstruction or impediment.

Let in its Middle English sense of ‘something that impedes’ is now archaic and rarely occurs outside this phrase, in which it duplicates the sense of hindrance. It is, however, used in sports such as badminton and tennis.

1999 Marion Shoard A Right to Roam Citizens can claim routes as new public paths on the grounds that they have been used without let or hindrance for at least twenty years.

let rip: see RIP.

let slip: see SLIP.

let something drop (or fall) casually reveal a piece of information.

letter

a dead letter: see DEAD.

a man (or woman) of letters a scholar or writer.

to the letter with adherence to every detail.

The French equivalent of this phrase is au pied de la lettre, which has been used in English since the late 18th century.
level
do your level best do your utmost; make all possible efforts.
a level playing field a situation in which everyone has a fair and equal chance of succeeding.

1998 Times Most damagingly, the Brussels-centred concept of 'the level playing field' had also proved a wonderfully convenient alibi for protectionist lobbies.
on the level honest and truthful. informal liberty

take liberties 1 behave in an unduly familiar manner towards a person. 2 treat something freely, without strict faithfulness to the facts or to an original.
take the liberty venture to do something without first asking permission.

licence licence to print money a very lucrative commercial activity, typically one perceived as requiring little effort.

lick
at a lick at a fast pace. informal a lick and a promise a hasty performance of a task, especially of cleaning something. informal 2001 Andrew O'Hare Green Eyes Trying to scrub my teeth was just as disastrous as before, washing the face was no more than a lick and a promise but it would have to do.

lick someone's boots be excessively obsequious towards someone, especially to gain favour.
lick someone or something into shape: see SHAPE.
lick your lips (or chops) look forward to something with eager anticipation.

1997 Guardian Headhunting agencies licked their chops at the prospect of the fat placement fees.
lick your wounds retire to recover your strength after a defeat or humiliating experience.

lid
blow the lid off remove means of restraint and allow something to get out of control. informal 1995 Daily Express Fleiss was taken to court on prostitution charges and threatened to blow the lid off Hollywood by revealing names of all her superstar clients.

flap your lid: see FLIP.
keep a (or the) lid on 1 keep an emotion or process from going out of control. 2 keep something secret. informal put the (or a) lid on put a stop to. informal 1996 Observer Nothing's final. I haven't put the lid on anything. put the (tin) lid on be the culmination of a series of acts or events that makes things unbearable. British informal 1999 Chris Dolan Ascension Day Mum found she was pregnant a month before the wedding, then Dad put the tin lid on it by getting himself laid off.

take (or lift) the lid off (or lift the lid on) reveal unwelcome secrets about. informal lie

give the lie to something serve to show that something previously stated or believed to be the case is not true.
I tell a lie (or that's a lie) an expression used to immediately correct yourself when you realize that you have made an incorrect remark. informal
let sleeping dogs lie: see SLEEPING.
let something lie take no action regarding a controversial or problematic matter.
lie in state (of the corpse of a person of national importance) be laid in a public place of honour before burial.
lie like a trooper tell lies constantly and flagrantly. Compare with swear like a trooper (at SWEAR). lie through your teeth (or in your throat) tell an outright lie without remorse. informal live a lie lead a life that conceals your true nature or circumstances.
nail a lie: see NAIL.

lies
as far as in me lies to the best of my power.

how the land lies: see LAND.

life
do anything for a quiet life make any concession to avoid being disturbed.
the facts of life: see FACT.

for dear (or your) life as if or in order to escape death.

1992 Independent I made for the life raft and hung on for dear life.

for the life of me however hard I try; even if my life depended on it. informal 1998 Robert Newman Manners I cannot for the life of me think what the name of the lead singer was.

frighten the life out of (to) terrify.

get a life (informal) start living a fuller or more interesting existence.

1997 J-17 All anybody seems to be talking about today is school. These people need to get a life.

large as life (of a person) conspicuously present.

large as life (of a thing) seeming disproportionately important.

larger than life (of a person) attracting attention because their appearance or behaviour is more flamboyant than that of ordinary people. (of a thing) seeming disproportionately important.

1996 Face I feel that Keith from The Prodigy has been your best cover this year—he is London, in your face, loud and larger than life.

life and limb life and all bodily faculties.

1993 Vanity Fair Castro is particularly irked by the bad press Cuba gets concerning... the rafters who risk life and limb to get to Florida.

the life and soul of the party a person whose vivacity and sociability makes a party enjoyable.

life in the fast lane an exciting and eventful lifestyle, especially a wealthy one.

a matter of life and death a matter of vital importance.

a new lease of life: see LEASE.

not on your life said to emphasize your refusal to comply with some request.

see life gain a wide experience of the world, especially its more pleasurable aspects.

take your life in your hands risk being killed.

this is the life an expression of contentment with your present circumstances.

1995 Nicholas Whittaker Platform Souls This is the life, nothing to do but read and look out of the window.

to the life exactly like the original.

to save your life even if your life were to depend on it.

walk of life: see WALK.

within an inch of your life: see INCH.

lifeline throw a lifeline to (or throw someone a lifeline) provide someone with a means of escaping from a difficult situation.

lifetime of a lifetime (of a chance or experience) such as does not occur more than once in a person's life; exceptional.

lift lift (or stir) a finger (or hand) make the slightest effort to do something, especially to help someone.

1992 Daily Telegraph If the public does not care much for the interests of the press, it will not lift a finger to save a politician from sexual embarrassment.

light be light on be rather short of.

be light on your feet be quick or nimble.

go out like a light fall asleep or lose consciousness suddenly.

hide your light under a bushel: see HIDE.

in (the) light of drawing knowledge or information from; with regard to.

1990 Times Education Supplement Proposals to build problem-solving into all A-level subjects may have to be re-examined in the light of new research commissioned by the Government.

light at the end of the tunnel a long-awaited indication that a period of hardship or adversity is nearing an end.

light a fire under someone: see FIRE.

light the (or a) fuse (or touchpaper) do something that creates a tense or exciting situation.

1 The image here is of lighting a fuse attached to gunpowder, fireworks, etc. in order to cause an explosion. A touchpaper, which is used in the same way as a fuse, is a twist of paper impregnated with saltpetre to make it burn slowly.

1998 Times The rejection of global capitalism may light a touchpaper in all those countries battered by the crisis.

the light of your life a much-loved person.

make light (or little) of treat as unimportant.
lightning

1990 Vanity Fair Ian says they still hope to marry someday, and tries to make light of their non-wedding.

make light work of accomplish a task quickly and easily.

punch someone’s lights out beat someone up.

lightning

lightning never strikes twice the same calamity never occurs twice.

1983 Penelope Lively Perfect Happiness It’s nasty, isn’t it?... Having to go to the same airport. Though in a way you can’t help thinking well lightning never strikes twice.

like lightning (or like greased lightning) very quickly.

like

like it or not used to indicate that someone has no choice in a matter. informal 1998 New Scientist Like it or not, people expect more honesty from those who claim to be on the side of the environment.

like —, like — as — is, so is —.

the likes of a similar type of person or thing. informal 1982 Anita Desai A Village by the Sea Did he teach you to tell me that—that rogue, your father? Like father, like daughter. A family full of liars, no-goods.

the bottom line the final reality; the important conclusion.

litlerly, the bottom line is the final total in an account or balance sheet.

1991 Sun The bottom line is that we would rather have Venables and Sugar than Gazza, Maxwell and Scholar.

come down to the line (of a race) be closely fought right until the end.

come (or bring someone or something) into line conform (or cause someone or something to conform).

do a line with someone have a regular romantic or sexual relationship with someone. Irish & New Zealand informal draw a line in the sand (state that you have reached) a point beyond which you will not go.

go out on a limb isolated or stranded.

out of line behaving in a way that breaks the rules or is considered disreputable or inappropriate.

toe the line: see TOE.

wash your dirty linen in public: see WASH.

a lion in the way a danger or obstacle, especially an imaginary one. literary live

live and breathe something be extremely interested in or enthusiastic about a particular subject or activity; spend a great deal of your time pursuing a particular interest.

live and learn used, especially in spoken English, to acknowledge that a fact is new to you.

live by your wits: see WIT.

live in the past 1 have old-fashioned or outdated ideas and attitudes. 2 dwell on or reminisce at length about past events.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live off the land: see LAND.

live in the past 1 have old-fashioned or outdated ideas and attitudes. 2 dwell on or reminisce at length about past events.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.

live it up spend your time in an extremely enjoyable or extravagant way. informal

live a lie: see LIE.

live off the fat of the land: see FAT.

live off the land: see LAND.
lively
look lively: see LOOK.
lively as a grig: see merry as a grig at GRIG.

living
be (the) living proof that (or of) show by your or something’s existence and qualities that something is the case.
live on borrowed time: see BORROWED.
in (or within) living memory within or during a time that is remembered by people still alive.
the living image of an exact copy or likeness of.

load
get a load of used to draw attention to someone or something. informal 1994 Quentin Tarantino Pulp Fiction It’s legal to carry it, but...get a load of this, alright—if the cops stop you, it’s illegal for them to search you. get (or have) a load on become drunk. US informal load the dice against (or in favour of) someone put someone at a disadvantage (or advantage).
1995 Maclean’s What global warming has done is load the dice in favor of warmer-than-normal seasons and extreme climatic events.
take a (or the) load off your feet sit or lie down.
take a load off someone’s mind bring someone relief from anxiety.

loaded
loaded for bear: see BEAR.

loaf
half a loaf: see HALF.
loaves and fishes personal profit as a motive for religious profession or public service.
1 This idiom developed from a biblical passage in John 6:26: ‘Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled’.

use your loaf use your common sense. British informal 1 This expression probably comes from loaf of bread, rhyming slang for ‘head’.

loath
nothing loath: see NOTHING.

lock
have a lock on have an unbreakable hold or total control over. North American informal 1 Lock is here used in the sense of a hold in wrestling that prevents an opponent from moving a limb.

1974 Paul Erdman Silver Bears He would sooner see the whole bank go down the drain...than get beaten by us. Unless we develop an even better lock on him—and that won’t be easy.

lock horns engage in conflict.
1 The image here is of two bulls fighting head-to-head with their horns. Both the literal and figurative senses of the phrase originated in the USA, in the mid 19th century.

lock, stock, and barrel including everything; completely.

under lock and key securely locked up.

locker
go to Davy Jones’s locker: see DAVY JONES’S LOCKER.
a shot in the locker: see SHOT.

log
easy as falling off a log: see EASY.

loggerheads
at loggerheads in violent dispute or disagreement.
1 This expression is possibly a use of loggerhead in the late 17th-century sense of ‘a long-handed iron instrument for heating liquids and tar’; the tool was perhaps also used as a weapon.

loins
gird your loins: see GIRD.

loiter
loiter with intent stand or wait around with the intention of committing an offence.
British
1 This is a legal phrase which derives from an 1891 Act of Parliament; it is also used figuratively and humorously of anyone who is waiting around for some unspecified purpose.
Lombard

_all Lombard Street to a China orange_ great wealth against one ordinary object; virtual certainty. dated _Lombard Street_ in London was originally occupied by bankers from Lombardy, and it still contains a number of London’s principal banks. This idiom dates from the early 19th century, but the use of a _China orange_ to mean ‘a worthless thing’ is recorded earlier.

London

_a London particular_ a dense fog formerly affecting London. dated

_This expression originated in Charles Dickens’s _Bleak House_ (1853)._.

lonesome

_by (or on) your lonesome_ all alone. informal long

_by a long chalk:_ see CHALK.

_by a long shot:_ see SHOT.

_in the long run (or term)_ over a long period of time; eventually.

_1997 New Scientist_ But as the economist Maynard Keynes pointed out, in the long run we are all dead.

_the long and the short of it_ all that can or need be said.

_1999 Tim Lott_ _White City Blue_ His mother takes a lot of looking after, his wage is worse than Nodge’s, and the long and short of it is he hasn’t got a pot to piss in.

_long in the tooth_ rather old.

_This phrase was originally used of horses, referring to the way their gums recede with age._

_long time no see_ it’s a long time since we last met (used as a greeting). informal

_This idiom developed as a humorous imitation of broken English spoken by a Native American._

_not be long for this world_ have only a short time to live.

_1996 Frank McCourt_ _Angela’s Ashes_ Mrs. Finucane... says she’s not long for this world and the more Masses said for her soul the better she’ll feel.

_not by a long chalk:_ see CHALK.

_not by a long shot:_ see SHOT.

_over the long haul_ over an extended period of time. chiefly North American

longbow

_draw the longbow_ make exaggerated claims or statements. dated

_The longbow was the national weapon of England from the 14th century until the introduction of firearms, and prowess in its use was highly prized. The phrase has been used in this metaphorical sense since the mid 17th century._

look

_look before you leap_ you shouldn’t act without first considering the possible consequences or dangers. proverb _look daggers:_ see DAGGER.

_look down your nose at_ despise. informal _look lively_ used to tell someone to be quick in doing something. informal

_A variant of this phrase is look alive, but this is now rather dated._

_look someone in the eye (or face)_ look directly at someone without showing embarrassment, fear, or shame.

_look someone up and down_ scrutinize someone carefully.

_look the other way_ deliberately ignore wrongdoing by others.

_1998 Economist_ The Greek government looked the other way as lorries... switched documents the minute they crossed the border.

_look sharp_ be quick.

_1953 Margaret Kennedy_ _Troy Chimneys_ I had... begun an idle flirtation with Maria... then, perceiving that I should be caught if I did not look sharp, I kept out of her way.

lookout

_be on the lookout_ keep searching for someone or something that is wanted. be alert to danger or trouble.

_This word lookout, which originated in naval and military contexts, was first applied, in the late 17th century, to sentries or other people employed to keep watch. The sense of ‘the action of keeping watch’, as used in this expression, dates from the mid 18th century._

loop

_in (or out of) the loop_ aware (or unaware) of information known to only a limited number of people. informal loose

1998 Times An insider suggests to a favoured, helpful journalist that the said minister is out of the loop and on the skids.

throw (or knock) someone for a loop surprise or astonish someone; catch someone off guard. North American

loose

hang (or stay) loose be relaxed; refrain from taking anything too seriously. informal a loose cannon a unpredictable person or thing likely to cause unintentional damage.

1 A loose cannon was originally a cannon that had broken loose from its fastening or mounting, an accident especially dangerous on wooden ships of war.

loose end

at a loose end having nothing to do; not knowing what to do.

1 A North American variant of this expression is at loose ends.

lord

Lord of the Flies the Devil.

1 This expression is often used with allusive reference to the title of the 1954 novel by William Golding (1911–93), in which a group of schoolboys marooned on an uninhabited tropical island revert to savagery and primitive ritualistic behaviour.

lorry

fall off a lorry: see FALL.

lose

lose face: see FACE.

lose sleep worry.

lose your mind (or your marbles) become insane or irrational. informal lose your rag: see RAG.

lose your shirt: see SHIRT.

lose your touch: see TOUCH.

lose your (or the) way no longer have a clear idea of your purpose or motivation in an activity or business.

loser

be on (or on to) a loser be involved in a course of action that is bound to fail.
not for love or money not in any circumstances. informal 1998 Spectator I am told that you cannot get a plasterer for love or money, but that the going rate is a big kiss and £1,000 a week.

there’s no (or little or not much) love lost between there is mutual dislike between two or more people mentioned.

lower lower the boom on 1 treat someone severely. 2 put a stop to an activity. informal

1 It has been suggested that this phrase originally meant ‘knocking out an adversary with one punch’ in a fight.

lower the tone diminish the spirit or moral character of a conversation, place, etc.

1 Tone here is used to mean the general character or attitude of a conversation, place, piece of writing, etc.

lower your sights: see raise your sights at sight.

lowest
the lowest of the low those regarded as the most immoral or socially inferior of all.

1995 Nicholas Whittaker Platform Souls And fare dodgers, well, they’re the lowest of the low, and should be strung up.

luck
as luck would have it used to indicate the fortuitousness of a situation.

1994 Beryl Gilroy Sunlight on Sweet Water As luck would have it, one day they met in the door of the rum shop.

the luck of the draw the outcome of chance rather than something you can control.

the luck of the Irish very good luck.

make your own luck be successful through your own efforts and opportunism.

ride your luck let favourable events take their course without taking undue risks.

try your luck (at something) do something that involves risk or luck, hoping to succeed.

1964 Mary Stewart This Rough Magic I finally decided, after three years of juvenile leads in provincial rep that it was time to try my luck in London.

your luck is in (or out) you are fortunate (or unfortunate) on a particular occasion.

lucky
you, he, etc. will be lucky (or should be so lucky) used to say that someone’s wishes or expectations are unlikely to be fulfilled.

lull
the lull before the storm: see storm.

lump
a lump in the throat a feeling of tightness or dryness in the throat caused by strong emotion, especially grief.

take (or get) your lumps suffer punishment; be attacked or defeated. informal, chiefly North American 1971 Bernard Malamud The Tenants Now I take my lumps, he thought. Maybe for not satisfying Mary.

lunch
do lunch meet for lunch. informal, chiefly North American ladies who lunch: see lady.

out to lunch: see out.

there’s no such thing as a free lunch you never get something for nothing; any benefit received has eventually to be paid for.

1996 Washington Times Europeans are now learning some hard facts of life about socialized medicine: there’s no such thing as a free lunch.

lurch
leave someone in the lurch leave an associate or friend abruptly and without assistance or support when they are in a difficult situation.

1 Lurch as a noun meaning ‘a state of discomfiture’ dates from the mid 16th century but it is now used only in this idiom.

1987 Eileen Dunlop The House on the Hill What have Gilmore ever done but leave her in the lurch? Poor Jane, she just can’t run the risk of being hurt again.

lying take something lying down accept an insult or injury without attempting retaliation.

1989 Shimmer Chinodya Harvest of Thorns She’s boasting in front of me, laughing at me for being weak. Today she’ll know I’m not going to take it lying down any longer.

lyrical
wax lyrical about (or over) talk in an effusive or enthusiastic way about something.

Wax (from Old English weaxan) was used to mean 'increase in size' right through until early modern English, but since then it has been superseded in all general contexts by grow. It now survives only in certain expressions, especially with reference to the moon's monthly increase and decrease (waxing and waning).

1998 New Scientist Even as they wax lyrical about the perils of a changing climate, Clinton and Gore are presiding over the most massive expansion of oil exploration and drilling since... the Trans-Alaska Pipeline twenty years ago.
mad
nad as a hatter (or a March hare) completely crazy, informal

In this expression, a hatter refers to Lewis Carroll’s character, the Mad Hatter, in Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland (1865). It is thought that hatters suffered from the effects of mercury poisoning because of the fumes arising from the use of mercurous nitrate in the manufacture of felt hats. The March hare version refers to the way hares leap about during the breeding season.

mad as a (cut) snake crazy or eccentric.
Australian informal

madding
far from the madding crowd secluded or removed from public notice.

The phrase was originally used in Thomas Gray’s ‘Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard’ (1751). It is now better known as the title of one of Thomas Hardy’s novels.

madness
that way madness lies it is ill-advised to pursue a particular course of action as it will cause distress or anxiety.

This phrase is a quotation from King Lear, taken from the speech in which Lear shies away from contemplating the ingratitude of his daughters Regan and Goneril.

maggot
act the maggot behave in a foolishly playful way. Irish informal magic

a magic carpet: see CARPET.

magnitude of the first magnitude: see of the first order at FIRST.

main
by main force through sheer strength.

Main derives from the Old English word mægen meaning ‘physical force’. As an adjective meaning ‘(of strength or force) exerted to the full’, it is a very ancient usage: mægenstrenga occurs in the Anglo-Saxon epic Beowulf.

majority
join the great majority: see JOIN.
the silent majority: see SILENT.

make make a beeline for: see BEELINE.
make the cut: see CUT.
make someone’s day make an otherwise ordinary or dull day pleasingly memorable for someone.
make a day (or night) of it devote a whole day (or night) to an activity, typically an enjoyable one.
make do manage with the limited or inadequate means available.

This phrase can be used alone or in make do and mend, a UK slogan from the 1940s.

make like pretend to be; imitate. North American informal 1939 John Steinbeck The Grapes of Wrath This rich fella… makes like he’s poor.

make or break be the factor which decides whether something will succeed or fail.

A variant of this phrase, found chiefly in British English, is make or mar. The use of make together with mar is recorded from the early 15th century, but since the mid 19th century break has become more common.

1998 Your Garden Neighbours can make or break a home and there’s certainly no keeping up with the Jones’s mentality here.

on the make 1 intent on gain, typically in a rather unscrupulous way. 2 looking for a sexual partner. informal put the make on make sexual advances to.

North American informal

1993 Anne River Siddons Hill Towns Put the make on you, did she, Joe? I should have warned you. Past a certain blood alcohol level Yolie gets snuggly. maker
meet your maker die. humorous or euphemistic

This expression alludes to the Christian belief that, after death, the soul goes to be judged by God, its creator.

making
be the making of someone ensure someone’s success or favourable development.

malice
malice aforethought the intention to kill or harm which is held to distinguish unlawful killing from murder.

mammon
the mammon of unrighteousness wealth ill-used or ill-gained.

This biblical expression comes from Luke 16:9: ‘And I say unto you, Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations’. Mammon ultimately comes from Hebrew mâmôn meaning ‘money or wealth’. In early use, it was used to refer to the devil of covetousness; it later was used as the personification of wealth regarded as an idol or an evil influence.

man
as — as the next man as — as the average person.

1998 Tom Clancy Rainbow Six I like red meat as much as the next man.

be your own man (or woman): see OWN.

every man for himself: see EVERY.

every man has his price: see PRICE.

man about town a fashionable male socialite.

man and boy throughout life from youth.

The Scottish poet William Dunbar used the phrase baith man and lad in the early 16th century, but the modern usage follows Shakespeare’s Hamlet: ‘I have been sexton here, man and boy, thirty years’.

a man for all seasons a man who is ready to cope with any contingency and whose behaviour is always appropriate to every occasion.

Robert Whittington applied this description to the English statesman and scholar Sir Thomas More (1478–1535), and it was used by Robert Bolt as the title of his 1960 play about More.

the man in the moon the imagined likeness of a face seen on the surface of a full moon. used, especially in comparisons, to refer to someone regarded as out of touch with real life.

1991 Sight & Sound You thought... you could mention even the most famous classic films as reference points in script meetings and not be looked at like the man in the moon.

the man in (or on) the street an ordinary person, usually with regard to their opinions, or as distinct from an expert.

A specifically British variation of this expression is the man on the Clapham omnibus (see below).

man of the cloth a clergyman.

Jonathan Swift used cloth as an informal term for the clerical profession in the early 18th century, but it was earlier applied to several other occupations for which distinctive clothing was worn, e.g. the legal or military professions.

man of God a clergyman. a holy man or saint.

a man of letters: see LETTER.

man of the moment a man of importance at a particular time.

man of straw (or straw man) a person compared to an effigy stuffed with straw; a sham. a sham argument set up to be defeated, usually as a means of avoiding having to tackle an opponent’s real arguments.

1991 Past & Present By making the representativeness of the case-studies into the crucial issue, Rubinstein is erecting a straw man which he can easily demolish without addressing the basic criticisms of his sources and methodology.

man of the world: see WORLD.

the man on the Clapham omnibus the average man, especially with regard to his opinions. British

This expression is attributed to the English judge Lord Bowen (1835–94), who used it as a metaphor for any ordinary reasonable person—such as a juror is expected to be. Clapham is a district in south London.

man’s best friend an affectionate or humorous way of referring to a dog.

a man’s man a man whose personality is such that he is more popular and at ease with other men than with women.
This expression was apparently first used in George Du Maurier's story The Martian (1897), where the man's man is defined as 'a good comrade par excellence, a rollicking boon-companion, a jolly pal'. A man's woman, which dates from the early 20th century, is a woman who is more at ease with men than with other women.

1991 Men's Health Masculinity used to be simple to define. If you had hair on your chest and a deep voice, and belonged to a club that excluded women, you were masculine, or, as was the phrase of the time, 'a man's man'.

man to man in a direct and frank way between two men: openly and honestly.

men in (grey) suits powerful men within an organization who exercise their influence or authority anonymously.

men in white coats psychiatrists or psychiatric workers (used to imply that someone is mad or mentally unbalanced).

1995 Economist Mrs Thatcher was removed from Ten Downing Street by men in grey suits. Judging by her hyperthyroidic performance this week, it would now take men in white coats.

separate (or sort out) the men from the boys show or prove which people in a group are truly competent, brave, or mature.

1968 House & Garden The Dry Martini... is a drink that will quickly separate the men from the boys and the girls from their principles.

twelve good men and true: see TWELVE.

mangle

put someone through the mangle: see put someone through the wringer at WRINGER.

manner

in a manner of speaking in some sense; so to speak.

to the manner born naturally at ease in a specified way of life, job, or situation.

183 March

manse

son (or daughter) of the manse the child of a minister, especially a Presbyterian.

many

be too (or one too) many for outwit or baffle.

have one too many become slightly drunk.

many's the — used to indicate that something happens often.

2000 Taxi News Many's the happy hour I've spent listening to cabbies thrash that one out.

map

all over the map see all over the place at ALL.

off the map (of a place) very distant or remote. Compare with off the beaten track (at BEATEN).

put something on the map make something prominent or important.

wipe something off the map obliterate something totally.

marble

lose your marbles go insane; become irrational or senile. informal

Marbles as a term for 'a person's mental faculties' probably originated as early 20th-century American slang. The underlying reference is apparently to the children's game played with multicoloured glass balls.

1998 Spectator At least, that is how I recall the event, but I am losing my marbles.

pick up your marbles and go home withdraw petulantly from an activity after having suffered a setback. informal, chiefly US

to the manner born naturally at ease in a specified way of life, job, or situation.

1968 House & Garden The Dry Martini... is a drink that will quickly separate the men from the boys and the girls from their principles.

twelve good men and true: see TWELVE.

mangle

put someone through the mangle: see put someone through the wringer at WRINGER.

manner

in a manner of speaking in some sense; so to speak.

to the manner born naturally at ease in a specified way of life, job, or situation.

183 March

manse

son (or daughter) of the manse the child of a minister, especially a Presbyterian.

many

be too (or one too) many for outwit or baffle.

have one too many become slightly drunk.

many's the — used to indicate that something happens often.

2000 Taxi News Many's the happy hour I've spent listening to cabbies thrash that one out.

map

all over the map see all over the place at ALL.

off the map (of a place) very distant or remote. Compare with off the beaten track (at BEATEN).

put something on the map make something prominent or important.

wipe something off the map obliterate something totally.

marble

lose your marbles go insane; become irrational or senile. informal

Marbles as a term for 'a person's mental faculties' probably originated as early 20th-century American slang. The underlying reference is apparently to the children's game played with multicoloured glass balls.

1998 Spectator At least, that is how I recall the event, but I am losing my marbles.

pick up your marbles and go home withdraw petulantly from an activity after having suffered a setback. informal, chiefly US

to the manner born naturally at ease in a specified way of life, job, or situation.

1968 House & Garden The Dry Martini... is a drink that will quickly separate the men from the boys and the girls from their principles.

twelve good men and true: see TWELVE.

mangle

put someone through the mangle: see put someone through the wringer at WRINGER.

manner

in a manner of speaking in some sense; so to speak.

to the manner born naturally at ease in a specified way of life, job, or situation.

183 March

manse

son (or daughter) of the manse the child of a minister, especially a Presbyterian.

many

be too (or one too) many for outwit or baffle.

have one too many become slightly drunk.

many's the — used to indicate that something happens often.

2000 Taxi News Many's the happy hour I've spent listening to cabbies thrash that one out.

map

all over the map see all over the place at ALL.

off the map (of a place) very distant or remote. Compare with off the beaten track (at BEATEN).

put something on the map make something prominent or important.

wipe something off the map obliterate something totally.

marble

lose your marbles go insane; become irrational or senile. informal

Marbles as a term for 'a person's mental faculties' probably originated as early 20th-century American slang. The underlying reference is apparently to the children's game played with multicoloured glass balls.

1998 Spectator At least, that is how I recall the event, but I am losing my marbles.

pick up your marbles and go home withdraw petulantly from an activity after having suffered a setback. informal, chiefly US

to the manner born naturally at ease in a specified way of life, job, or situation.

1968 House & Garden The Dry Martini... is a drink that will quickly separate the men from the boys and the girls from their principles.

twelve good men and true: see TWELVE.
In formulating his ideas about the composition of the fundamental building blocks of matter... Sternglass has marched to the beat of an entirely different drum.

mare

a mare's nest a wonderful discovery which proves or will prove to be illusory.

A mare's nest is here being used to symbolize something that does not exist, as horses do not make nests. The phrase is first recorded in the late 16th century, as is the variant a horse’s nest, although the latter is now no longer in use.

marines

tell that to the marines (or the horse marines) a scornful expression of incredulity.

This saying may have originated in a remark made by Charles II, recommending that unlikely tales should be referred to sailors who, from their knowledge of distant places, might be the people best qualified to judge their truthfulness. Horse marines, dating from the early 19th century, were an imaginary cavalry corps, soldiers mounted on horseback on board ship being a humorous image of ineptitude or of people out of their natural element. In 1823 Byron noted that That will do for the marines, but the sailors won’t believe it was an ‘old saying’, and the following year Walter Scott used Tell that to the marines—the sailors won’t believe it! in his novel Redgauntlet.

mark

be quick (or slow) off the mark be fast (or slow) in responding to a situation or understanding something.

The mark here is the line or marker from which a competitor starts a race, as is also the case in get off the mark and on your marks.

off (or wide of) the mark a long way away from an intended target. incorrect or inaccurate.

on the mark correct or accurate.

on your marks used to instruct competitors in a race to prepare themselves in the correct starting position.

up to the mark of the required standard. (of a person) as healthy or cheerful as usual.

market

be in the market for wish to buy.

a drug on the market: see DRUG.

marriage

marriage of convenience a marriage concluded to achieve a practical purpose.

This expression was used by Joseph Addison in the early 18th century, translating the French mariage de convenance, which has itself been current in English since the mid 19th century.

1949 George Bernard Shaw Buoyant Billions The proportion of happy love marriages to happy marriages of convenience has never been counted.

marrow

to the marrow to your innermost being.
Marrow is the soft, fatty substance found in the cavities of bones.

1994 Maurice Gee Crime Story Moral corruption, the lawyer said. Men who are greedy to the marrow of their bones.

marry marry money marry a rich person. informal mat

go to the mat vigorously engage in an argument or dispute, typically on behalf of a particular person or cause.

1924 P. G. Wodehouse Leave it to Psmith I... heard... you and Aunt Constance going to the mat about poor old Phyllis.

on the mat being reprimanded by someone in authority. informal match

meet your match encounter your equal in strength or ability.

the whole shooting match: see SHOOTING.

Matilda
waltz (or walk) Matilda carry a bundle of your personal possessions as you travel the roads. Australian mean

the golden mean: see GOLDEN.

mean business be in earnest.

mean to say really admit or intend to say.

the real McCoy the real thing; the genuine article. informal

The origin is of this phrase is unknown, but it appears in the form ‘the real Mackay’ in a letter by Robert Louis Stevenson in 1883. McCoy is glossed as ‘genuine liquor’ in a 1930 edition of the American Mercury.

1992 Jeff Torrington Swing Hammer Swing! ‘How d’you know the armour’s real?’ ‘Oh, I’m sure it’s the real McCoy.’

meal
make a meal of treat a task or occurrence with more attention or care than necessary, especially for effect. British informal 1961 Colin Willock Death in Covert Dyson... was making a meal of everything. He had carefully paced the distance... He had stuck sticks in the ground.

mean to say really admit or intend to say.

1977 Jennifer Johnston Shadows on our Skin I mean to say, Joe Logan, where are you if you can’t resist putting a small white tube of poison into your mouth every half an hour?

a means to an end a thing that is not valued or important in itself but is useful in achieving an aim.

no mean — a very good —.

End and means are compared or contrasted in several proverbial sayings, for example the end justifies the means (see end) and he who wills the end wills the means.

meaning not know the meaning of the word behave as if unaware of the concept referred to or implied. informal measure

for good measure in addition to what has already been done, said, or given.
get (or take or have) the measure of assess or have assessed the character, nature, or abilities of someone or something. measure your length (of a person) fall flat on the ground. dated meat

be meat and drink to be a source of great pleasure or encouragement to.
2002 Total Film Sex, conspiracy theories, top hats and 'orrible murder, the elements of the Jack The Ripper story are meat and drink to film-makers.
dead meat: see DEAD.
easy meat: see EASY.
meat and potatoes ordinary but fundamental things; basic ingredients.
1993 New York Times Mainstream rock acts like Van Halen and Bruce Springsteen are the meat and potatoes of A.O.R.

medal
the reverse of the medal (or shield) the opposite view of a matter.

Medes
the law of the Medes and Persians something which cannot be altered.

Medes and Persians
something which cannot be altered.
1 This expression refers to Daniel 6:12: 'The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not'.

medicine
a dose (or taste) of your own medicine the same bad treatment that you have given to others.
1 The idea of taking or receiving your own medicine has been in metaphorical use since the mid 19th century.
1994 Eoin McNamee Resurrection Man Every time you turn on the telly there's some politician talking the mouth off himself, dose of their own medicine's what they want.

meek
meek as Moses (or a lamb) very meek.
1 This expression is a biblical allusion to Numbers 12:3: 'Now the man Moses was very meek'.

meet
meet the case be adequate.
meet your eye (or ear) be visible (or audible).
meet someone's eye (or eyes or gaze) look directly at someone.
meet someone halfway make a compromise with someone.
meet your maker: see Maker.
meet your match: see Match.
meet your Waterloo: see Waterloo.
there's more to someone or something than meets the eye a person or situation is more complex or interesting than they appear.

meeting
a meeting of minds an understanding or agreement between people.

megillah
the whole megillah something in its entirety, especially a complicated set of arrangements or a long-winded story.

megillah
the whole megillah something in its entirety, especially a complicated set of arrangements or a long-winded story.
North American informal
1 Megillah is the Hebrew word for a 'scroll' and refers particularly to each of five books of the Jewish Scriptures (the Song of Solomon, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, and Esther) appointed to be read in the synagogue on certain important days.

Melba
do a Melba 1 return from retirement.
  2 make several farewell appearances.
Australian & New Zealand informal
1 The Australian operatic soprano Nellie Melba (the stage name of Helen Mitchell, 1861–1931) made repeated ‘farewell’ appearances.

melt
melt in the mouth (of food) be deliciously light or tender and need little or no chewing.

memory
take a trip (or walk) down memory lane deliberately recall pleasant or sentimental memories.

mend
mend (your) fences make peace with a person.
This expression originated in the late 19th century in the USA, with reference to a member of Congress returning to his home town to keep in touch with the voters and to look after his interests there. Similar notions are conjured up by the saying good fences make good neighbours.

1994 Louis de Bernières Captain Corelli’s Mandolin He knew assuredly he should go and mend his fences with the priest.

mend your pace go faster; alter your pace to match another’s.

on the mend improving in health or condition; recovering.

mentioned

be mentioned in dispatches be commended for your actions. British

In official military reports from the front line any soldiers who have been responsible for particular acts of bravery are commended by name.

mercy

be thankful (or grateful) for small mercies be relieved that an unpleasant situation is alleviated by minor advantages.

merry

lead someone a merry dance: see DANCE. merry as a grig: see GRIG.

mess

mess with someone’s head cause someone to feel frustrated, anxious, or upset. US informal sell something for a mess of pottage: see POTTAGE.

message

get the message infer an implication from a remark or action. informal 1993 Isidore Okpewho Tides I think he got the message, because he flashed me a look from the corner of his eye.

send the right (or wrong) message make a significant statement, either implicitly or by your actions.

messenger

shoot (or kill) the messenger treat the bearer of bad news as if they were to blame for it.

Using the bearer of bad tidings has been a traditionally thankless task, as indicated in Sophocles’ Antigone, ‘No man loves the messenger of ill’ and Shakespeare’s Antony and Cleopatra, ‘The nature of bad news infects the teller’.

method

there is method in someone’s madness there is a sensible foundation for what appears to be foolish or strange behaviour.

This expression comes from the scene in Hamlet in which Hamlet feigns madness, causing Polonius to remark: ‘Though this be madness, yet there is method in’t’.

mettle

be on your mettle be ready or forced to prove your ability to cope well with a demanding situation.

put someone on their mettle (of a demanding situation) test someone’s ability to face difficulties in a spirited and resilient way.

Originally the same word as metal, mettle was no more than a variant spelling that gradually became particularly associated with figurative uses of the word, meaning ‘quality of temperament’, and from that ‘natural spirit’ or ‘courage’. These senses eventually developed so far from the literal senses that it was no longer apparent that they were originally the same word. The distinctive spellings metal and mettle to distinguish the two were in use by the early 18th century, though not necessarily universally applied until the following century.

Mexican

Mexican overdrive the neutral gear position used when coasting downhill. US informal

This expression originated in the mid 20th century, especially in language used by long-distance truck drivers.

mickey

take the mickey tease or ridicule someone, especially in an unkind or persistent way. informal, chiefly British

The origin of this phrase is unknown; take (or extract) the Michael is a humorously formal variant.

Mickey Finn

slip someone a Mickey Finn give someone a drugged or otherwise adulterated drink.
Microscope

| Recorded from the 1920s, this expression is of unknown origin, but it is sometimes said to be the name of a notorious Chicago barkeeper (c. 1896–1906). |

Midas

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>the Midas touch the ability to make money out of anything that you undertake.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>In classical legend, Midas was a king of Phrygia (in Asia Minor) who had the power to turn everything he touched into gold.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Middle

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>the middle of nowhere somewhere very remote and isolated. informal</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>This is one example of several derogatory expressions concerning rural life as viewed from an urban perspective: compare with the back of beyond (at BACK) and in the sticks (at STICK).</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Midnight

| burn the midnight oil: see BURN. |

Midstream

| in midstream 1 in the middle of a stream or river. 2 (of an activity or process, especially one that is interrupted) part-way through its course; unfinished. |

Might

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>might is right those who are powerful can do what they wish unchallenged, even if their action is in fact unjustified.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>This was an observation made by both Greek and Latin writers and it was known in this form in English as far back as the early 14th century.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mile

| be miles away be lost in thought and so unaware of what is happening around you. informal |
| go the extra mile be especially assiduous in your attempt to achieve something. |
| This origins of this expression can be traced back to the New Testament injunction ‘And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain’ (Matthew 5:41). The revue song of 1957 by Joyce Grenfell, ‘Ready... To go the extra mile’, may have popularized its use. |

| a mile a minute very quickly. informal |
| run a mile used to show that someone is frightened by or very unwilling to do something. informal 1999 Chris Dolan Ascension Day She’ll run a mile if you contact her direct. I’ll do my go-between bit, for you and her, if you do the same for me. |
| see (or tell or spot) something a mile off recognize something very easily. informal |
| stand (or stick) out a mile be very obvious or incongruous. informal |

Milk

| cry over spilt (or spilled) milk lament or make a fuss about a misfortune that has happened and that cannot be changed or reversed. |
| milk and honey prosperity and abundance. |
| This expression alludes to the prosperity of the Promised Land of Israel in the Bible (Exodus 3:8). |
| milk and water feeble, insipid, or mawkish. |
| milk the bull (or ram) engage in an enterprise doomed to failure. |
| the milk in the coconut a puzzling fact or circumstance. |
| the milk of human kindness care and compassion for others. |
| This phrase comes from Macbeth. In Lady Macbeth’s soliloquy on the subject of her husband’s character, she remarks: ‘Yet I do fear thy nature; It is too full o’ the milk of human kindness To catch the nearest way’. |

Mike

| for the love of Mike: see LOVE. |

Mike

| for the love of Mike: see LOVE. |

Mile

| be miles away be lost in thought and so unaware of what is happening around you. informal |
| go the extra mile be especially assiduous in your attempt to achieve something. |
| This origins of this expression can be traced back to the New Testament injunction ‘And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain’ (Matthew 5:41). The revue song of 1957 by Joyce Grenfell, ‘Ready... To go the extra mile’, may have popularized its use. |

| a mile a minute very quickly. informal |
| run a mile used to show that someone is frightened by or very unwilling to do something. informal 1999 Chris Dolan Ascension Day She’ll run a mile if you contact her direct. I’ll do my go-between bit, for you and her, if you do the same for me. |
| see (or tell or spot) something a mile off recognize something very easily. informal |
| stand (or stick) out a mile be very obvious or incongruous. informal |

Milk

| cry over spilt (or spilled) milk lament or make a fuss about a misfortune that has happened and that cannot be changed or reversed. |
| milk and honey prosperity and abundance. |
| This expression alludes to the prosperity of the Promised Land of Israel in the Bible (Exodus 3:8). |
| milk and water feeble, insipid, or mawkish. |
| milk the bull (or ram) engage in an enterprise doomed to failure. |
| the milk in the coconut a puzzling fact or circumstance. |
| the milk of human kindness care and compassion for others. |
| This phrase comes from Macbeth. In Lady Macbeth’s soliloquy on the subject of her husband’s character, she remarks: ‘Yet I do fear thy nature; It is too full o’ the milk of human kindness To catch the nearest way’. | mill

go (or put someone) through the mill undergo (or cause someone to undergo) an unpleasant experience.

run of the mill: see RUN.

million

gone a million (of a person) completely defeated or finished. Australian informal 1976 Australian (Sydney) Gough’s gone. Gone a million. He’s had it.

look (or feel) (like) a million dollars (of a person) look (or feel) extremely good. informal millstone

hard as the nether millstone: see HARD.
a millstone round your neck a very severe impediment or disadvantage.

A millstone was a large circular stone used to grind corn. The phrase alludes to a method of executing people by throwing them into deep water with a heavy stone attached to them, a fate believed to have been suffered by several early Christian martyrs.

mince

not mince words (or matters) speak candidly and directly, especially when criticizing someone or something.

mincemeat

make mincemeat of defeat decisively or easily in a fight, contest, or argument. informal mind

be in (or of) two minds be unable to decide between alternatives.

cast your mind back think back; recall an earlier time.

close (or shut) your mind to (or against) refuse to consider or acknowledge.

come (or spring) to mind (of a thought or idea) occur to someone; be thought of.

give someone a piece of your mind: see PIECE.

have a mind of your own 1 be capable of independent opinion or action. 2 (of an inanimate object) seem capable of thought and desire, especially by behaving contrary to the will of the person using it.

have a (or a good or half a) mind to do something be very much inclined to do something.

have something on your mind be troubled by the thought of something.

in your mind’s eye in your imagination or mental view.

mind over matter the power of the mind asserted over the physical universe; the use of willpower to overcome physical problems.

mind your Ps and Qs be careful to behave well and avoid giving offence.

Various suggestions have been made concerning the significance of P and Q. One obvious one is that a child learning to read or write might have difficulty in distinguishing between the two tailed letters p and q. Another is that printers had to be very careful not to confuse the two letters when setting type.

mind the shop be temporarily in charge of affairs.

mind your back (or backs) used to warn inattentive bystanders that someone wants to get past. informal not pay someone any mind not pay someone any attention. North American on someone’s mind preoccupying someone, especially in a disquieting way.

open your mind to be prepared to consider or acknowledge; be receptive to.

out of your mind 1 having lost control of your mental faculties; insane. 2 used to express a belief in someone’s foolishness or mental turmoil. 3 suffering from the specified condition to a very high degree. informal put your mind to something start to concentrate on something.

minor

in a minor key (especially of a literary work) understated.

1995 Independent He was a moralist in a minor key.

mint

in mint condition (of an object) new or as if new; in pristine condition.

The image behind this phrase is of a newly minted coin.

minute

one minute to midnight the last moment or opportunity. informal mirror

all done with mirrors achieved with an element of trickery.

This phrase alludes to the fact that conjuring tricks are often explained as being achieved through the skilful use of mirrors; compare with smoke and mirrors (at smoke).

mischief

do someone (or yourself) a mischief injure someone or yourself, informal make mischief create trouble or discord.

misery

put someone out of their misery release someone from suspense or anxiety, especially by telling them something they are anxious to know, informal put something out of its misery end the suffering of a creature in pain by killing it.

mix

give something a miss decide not to do or have something. British informal miss the cut: see make the cut at CUT.

miss a beat hesitate or falter, especially in demanding circumstances or when making a transition from one activity to another.

miss the boat (or bus) be too slow to take advantage of an opportunity. informal 1987 Kathy Lette Girls’ Night Out He’ll never get divorced and marry her. She’ll miss the boat.

not miss much be alert to or aware of everything that is happening around you. informal not miss a trick never fail to take advantage of a situation. informal 1965 Harper’s Bazaar Fenwicks... never misses a trick when it comes to picking up a new accessory idea.

mistake

and no mistake without any doubt. informal 1993 Sam McAughtry Touch & Go He was a headcase and no mistake.

make no mistake (about it) do not be deceived into thinking otherwise. informal 1974 Times Make no mistake. We had a major work of television last night.

mistaking

there is no mistaking someone or something it is impossible not to recognize someone or something.

mite

a widow’s mite: see WIDOW.

mitt

get your mitts on obtain possession of. informal

Mitt, an abbreviation of mitten, is an informal term for a person’s hand that dates back to the late 19th century.

mix and match select and combine different but complementary items, such as clothing or pieces of equipment, to form a coordinated set.

mixed

a mixed blessing something good which nevertheless has some disadvantages.

mixture

the mixture as before the same treatment repeated. British

The mixture as before was an instruction which was formerly written on medicine bottles.

mobile

downwardly (or upwardly) mobile moving to a lower (or higher) social position; losing (or gaining) wealth and status.

mocker

put the mockers on put an end to; thwart, bring bad luck to.

1966 Lionel Davidson A Long Way to Shiloh Shimshon and the judo both seemed to have put the mockers on this particular idyll. We left soon after. 1970 Joyce Porter Dover Strikes Again This investigation had got the mockers on it from the start.

mockery

make a mockery of something make something seem foolish or absurd.

1998 New Scientist In some fisheries, waste makes up about half of the landed catch, which makes a mockery of most population models.

molehill

make a mountain out of a molehill: see MOUNTAIN.

moment

have your (or its) moments have short periods that are better or more impressive than others.

moment of truth a crisis; a turning point when a decision has to be made or a crisis faced.

1 This expression is a translation of the Spanish el momento de la verdad, which refers to the final sword thrust in a bullfight.

Monday

Monday morning quarterback a person who is wise after the event. North American

1 In American football, a quarterback is the player stationed behind the centre who directs the team’s attacking play. In North American English the word has also developed the sense of ‘a person who directs or coordinates an operation or project’. A Monday morning quarterback is someone who passes judgement on something or criticizes it when it is too late for their comments to be of any use, since the particular game or project in question has finished or been completed.

money

be in the money have or win a lot of money.

informal

for my money 1 in my opinion or judgement. 2 have confidence in the truth or success of something.

have money to burn have so much money that you can spend as lavishly as you want.

money burns a hole in your pocket (or purse) you have an irresistible urge to spend money as soon as you have it.

money for jam (or old rope) 1 money earned for little or no effort. 2 an easy task.

British informal

1 These expressions, which date back to the early 20th century, may have originated as military slang. In 1919, the Athenaeum stated that money for jam arose as the result of the ‘great use of jam in the Army’.

money talks wealth gives power and influence to those who possess it. proverb

on the money accurate; correct. chiefly North American put money (or put your money) on 1 place a bet on something. 2 have confidence in the truth or success of something.

put your money where your mouth is take action to support your statements or opinions.

informal

see the colour of someone’s money: see COLOUR.

throw good money after bad incur further loss in a hopeless attempt to recoup a previous loss.

throw money at something try to solve a problem by recklessly spending more money on it, without due consideration of what is required.

money

as artful (or clever) as a wagonload (or cartload) of monkeys extremely clever or mischievous. British informal have a monkey on your back a burdensome problem. be dependent on drugs.

informal

1 Sense 2 originated as mid 20th-century US slang; it can also mean ‘experience withdrawal symptoms after ceasing to take a drug’.

have (or get) your monkey up be angry.

like a monkey on a stick restless and agitated.

1 The image here is of a child’s toy which consists of a figure of a monkey attached to a stick up and down which it can be moved.

make a monkey of (or out of) someone humiliate someone by making them appear ridiculous.

not give a monkey’s be completely indifferent or unconcerned.

informal

put a person’s monkey up make someone angry.

monster

Frankenstein’s monster: see FRANKENSTEIN.

the green-eyed monster: see GREEN-EYED.

month

a month of Sundays a very long, seemingly endless period of time.

1 This expression may be a reference to the traditionally slow passage of Sundays as a result of religious restrictions on activity or entertainment. In a letter written in 1849,
G. E. Jewsbury talked of the absence of mail deliveries on Sundays, remarking: ‘If I don’t get a better letter from you… you may pass “a month of Sundays” at breakfast without any letter from me’.

1998 Country Life All in all, the Ministry of Agriculture is gaining the no-nonsense, get-your-coats-off atmosphere that Jack Cunningham could not have managed in a month of Sundays.

monty

the full monty the full amount expected, desired, or possible. informal

The origin of this expression is unclear. Among various, though unsubstantiated theories, one cites as the source the phrase the full Montague Burton, apparently meaning ‘a complete three-piece suit’ (from the name of a tailor of made-to-measure clothing in the early 20th century). Another theory recounts the possibility of a military origin, with the full monty being ‘the full cooked English breakfast’ insisted upon by Field Marshal Montgomery.

moon

bark at the moon clamour or make an outcry to no effect.

The barking of dogs at a full moon has been a metaphor for futile activity since the mid 17th century.

cry (or ask) for the moon ask for what is unattainable or impossible. British

The moon in this expression, which dates from the mid 16th century, stands for something distant and unattainable, as it does in promise someone the moon below.

many moons ago a long time ago. informal

The reference here is to the phases of the moon marking out the months.

once in a blue moon: see BLUE.

over the moon extremely happy; delighted. informal

This phrase comes from an old nursery rhyme which includes the lines Heigh diddle diddle, the cat and the fiddle, the cow jumped over the moon.

promise someone the moon (or earth) promise something that is unattainable.

British

1998 New Scientist Scientists tend to promise taxpayers the moon, and then not deliver.

moonlight
do a moonlight flit make a hurried, usually nocturnal, removal or change of abode, especially in order to avoid paying your rent. informal

Make a moonlight flitting is recorded from the early 19th century and appears to have originated in northern England or Scotland. The expression is now often shortened to do a moonlight.

morning

morning, noon, and night all of the time; constantly.

1993 Tony Parker May the Lord in His Mercy be Kind to Belfast It was the sort [of relationship] where nothing else matters for you except to be with that other person morning, noon and night.

mortal

shuffle off this mortal coil: see COIL.

Morton

Morton’s fork a situation in which there are two choices or alternatives whose consequences are equally unpleasant.

John Morton (c. 1420–1500) was Archbishop of Canterbury and chief minister of Henry VII. Morton’s fork was the argument used by him to extract contributions to the royal treasury: the obviously rich must have money and the frugal must have savings, so neither could evade his demands.

mote

a mote in someone’s eye a trivial fault in someone which is less serious than one in someone else who is being critical.

A mote is a tiny speck of dust or a similar substance. The phrase comes from Matthew 7:3–5: ‘Why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother’s eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?’: the implication is that someone is ignoring a glaring fault of their own while criticizing a smaller one in someone else.

moth

like a moth to the flame irresistibly attracted to someone or something.

mothball

in mothballs unused but kept in good condition for future use.
motion
go through the motions ① do something perfunctorily, without any enthusiasm or commitment. ② simulate an action; act out something.

motley
wear motley play the fool.

mould
break the mould put an end to a pattern of events or behaviour, especially one that has become rigid and restrictive, by doing things in a markedly different way.

mountain
have a mountain to climb be facing a very difficult task.

mousetrap
a better mousetrap an improved version of a well-known article.

mouth
be all mouth (and no trousers) tend to talk boastfully without any intention of acting on your words. informal

mountain
have a mountain to climb be facing a very difficult task.

mousetrap
a better mousetrap an improved version of a well-known article.

mouth
be all mouth (and no trousers) tend to talk boastfully without any intention of acting on your words. informal

mountain
have a mountain to climb be facing a very difficult task.

mousetrap
a better mousetrap an improved version of a well-known article.

mouth
be all mouth (and no trousers) tend to talk boastfully without any intention of acting on your words. informal

mountain
have a mountain to climb be facing a very difficult task.

mousetrap
a better mousetrap an improved version of a well-known article.

mouth
be all mouth (and no trousers) tend to talk boastfully without any intention of acting on your words. informal

mountain
have a mountain to climb be facing a very difficult task.

mousetrap
a better mousetrap an improved version of a well-known article.
mover

get a move on hurry up, informal 1992 Lisa Tuttle Lost Futures So stop worrying, sweetheart, and let's get a move on... I don't want to be late.

make a move ① take action. ② start on a journey; leave somewhere. British make a move on (or put the moves on) make a proposition to someone, especially of a sexual nature. informal move the goalposts: see GOALPOST.

move heaven and earth: see HEAVEN.

move mountains: see MOUNTAIN.

move with the times keep abreast of current thinking or developments.

the spirit moves someone: see SPIRIT.

mover

a mover and shaker someone at the centre of events who makes things happen; a powerful person.

① Movers and shakers is first recorded in Arthur O'Shaughnessy's 1874 poem 'Ode'.

1998 Times Ten years from now his name will again be high on the list of movers and shakers to watch in the decade.

much

not much in it little difference between things being compared.

so much the better (or worse) it is better (or worse) for that reason.

1995 Guardian If you can get a tropical fruit juice... so much the better.

muchness

much of a muchness very similar; nearly the same. informal

① Muchness, used in Middle English in the sense 'large size, bigness', is now very seldom used outside this expression, which dates from the early 18th century.

muck

as common as muck of low social status. British informal make a muck of handle incompetently; bungle. British informal where there's muck there's brass dirty or unpleasant activities are also lucrative. proverb mud

clear as mud: see CLEAR.

drag someone through the mud: see drag someone through the dirt at DRAG.

fling (or sling or throw) mud make disparaging or scandalous remarks or accusations. informal ① The proverb throw dirt (or mud) enough, and some will stick, to which this phrase alludes, is attributed to the Florentine statesman Niccolò Machiavelli (1469–1527).

someone's name is mud someone is in disgrace or unpopular. informal ① Mud was a colloquial term for a fool from the early 18th century to the late 19th century.

1998 Times Just because I smoked a few lousy cigarettes every hour for 25 years, my name is mud in the insurance business.

muddy

muddy the waters make an issue or a situation more confusing and harder to understand by introducing complications.

① The figurative use of muddy to mean 'make something hard to perceive or understand' occurs in Shakespeare; muddy the waters dates from the mid 19th century.

mug

a mug's game an activity which it is stupid to engage in because it is likely to be unsuccessful or dangerous. informal

① Mug was mid 19th-century slang for a fool, in particular someone who has been duped by a card sharper or criminal. Mug's game appeared in the early 20th century and has been applied to a wide variety of activities, especially horse racing and betting on horses.

1992 Economist From the way many western businessmen talk, you would think investing in eastern Germany was a mug's game.

mullock

poke mullock at ridicule someone. Australian & New Zealand informal ① In Middle English, mullock meant 'refuse or rubbish', a sense which only survives in dialect use. In Australian English it came to be used of rock that either did not contain gold or from which the gold had been extracted, and it then developed the extended sense of 'worthless information or nonsense'. This phrase dates from the early 20th century; compare with poke borak at (at BORAK).

mutton
cover a multitude of sins conceal or gloss over a lot of problems or defects.

This phrase refers to 1 Peter 4:8: ‘For charity shall cover the multitude of sins’.

mum
keep mum remain silent about something; not reveal a secret. informal mum’s the word say nothing; don’t reveal a secret. informal

In both of these idioms, mum stands for an inarticulate sound made with pursed lips indicating either unwillingness or inability to speak.

1991 Atlantic City Mum’s the word on who will play the major figures in this tale of woe.

mummer
get away with murder succeed in doing whatever you choose without being punished or suffering any disadvantage. informal murder will out murder cannot remain undetected.

This expression was used by Chaucer in The Prioress’s Tale: ‘Mordre wol out, certeyn, it wol nat faille’.

scream (or yell) blue murder make an extravagant and noisy protest. informal

A North American variant of this phrase is scream bloody murder.

1995 Iain Banks Whit I was now left with the ticklish problem of how to let my great-aunt know there was somebody there in the room with her without ... causing her to scream blue murder.

Murphy
Murphy’s law if anything can go wrong it will.

Murphy’s law is said to have been the inspiration of a Californian project manager for the firm Northrop, referring to a remark made in 1949 by a colleague, Captain Edward Murphy of the Wright Field-Aircraft Laboratory. In 1955, Aviation Mechanics Bulletin explained Murphy’s Law as ‘If an aircraft part can be installed incorrectly, someone will install it that way’.

muscle
flex your muscles: see FLEX.

mushroom
like mushrooms suddenly and in great numbers.

music
music to your ears something that is very pleasant or gratifying to hear or discover.

mustard
cut the mustard: see CUT.
a grain of mustard seed: see GRAIN.

muster
pass muster be accepted as adequate or satisfactory.

This was originally a military expression, meaning ‘come through a review or inspection without censure’. It is found earlier (late 16th century to late 17th century) in the now obsolete form pass (the) musters and has been in figurative use since the late 16th century.

mutton
dead as mutton: see dead as a doornail at DEAD.

mutton dressed as lamb a middle-aged or old woman dressed in a style suitable for a much younger woman. British informal

Mutton occurs in various derogatory contexts relating to women. It has been used as a slang term for prostitutes from the early 16th century, for example, while the phrase hawk your mutton means ‘flaunt your sexual attractiveness’ or (of a prostitute) ‘solicit for clients’.

nail
hard as nails: see HARD.
hit the nail on the head: see HIT.
nail your colours to the mast: see COLOURS.
a nail in the coffin an action or event regarded as likely to have a detrimental or destructive effect on a situation, enterprise, or person.
1981 R. Lancaster Plant Hunting in Nepal A major nail in the coffin of the plant hunter, so some people believe, is the growing importance placed on plant conservation in the wild.
nail a lie expose something as a falsehood or deception.
1 The reference here is to shopkeepers nailing forged coins to their shop counter to expose them and put them out of circulation, or to farmers pinning dead vermin to a barn door as a deterrent to others.
on the nail (of payment) without delay.
1 The origins of this expression are uncertain. It may be related to the obsolete phrase to the nail, meaning ‘to perfection’ or ‘to the utmost’, which derived from the habit of sculptors giving a finishing touch to their work with a fingernail, or to joiners testing the accuracy of a joint in the same way. A North American equivalent is on the barrelhead.
1993 Jonathan Gash Paid and Loving Eyes Illegal syndicates pay cash on the nail.
right on the nail with complete accuracy.
naked
the naked truth the plain truth, without concealment or embellishment.
1 This phrase may originally have developed as a translation of the Latin phrase nudaque veritas, found in Horace’s Odes, or to any of various fables that personify Truth as a naked woman in contrast to the elaborate dress and artifice of Falsehood.
name
call someone names insult someone verbally.
drop names refer frequently to well-known people in such a way as to imply that they are close acquaintances.
give your name to invent, discover, or found something which then becomes known by your name.
have to your name have in your possession.
have your name in lights (of an actor or performer) have their name displayed in lights outside a theatre, concert hall, etc.
be famous.
in all but name existing in a particular state but not formally recognized as such.
1999 Chris Hulme Manslaughter United He had spent twenty-one out of twenty-five years in segregation (solitary confinement in all but name).
in name only by description but not in reality.
1993 Harper’s Magazine In Western Europe the Communist parties shrank year after year... they had become small-bourgeois capitalist parties, Communist in name only.
make a name for yourself become famous.
name and shame identify wrongdoers by name with the intention of embarrassing them into improving their behaviour.
1998 New Scientist I’m all for naming and shaming, as this is worth many times more than fines.
name names mention specific names, especially of people involved in something wrong or illegal.
name no names refrain from mentioning the names of people involved in an incident.
1999 New York Times Naming no names, two familiar Presidential candidates... recently sought to get at the son by condemning the father’s promise of a ‘kinder and gentler’ nation.
the name of the game the main purpose or most important aspect of a situation.
informal
no names, no pack drill punishment or blame cannot be meted out if names and details are not mentioned.
1 Pack drill is a form of military punishment in which an offender has to perform parade-ground exercises while carrying a heavy pack. This early 20th-century expression is often used as an aside to recommend reticence about a particular subject.

put a name to know or manage to remember what someone or something is called.

someone's name is mud: see MUD.

something has your name on it you are destined or particularly suited to receive or experience a specified thing.

take someone's name in vain: see VAIN.

to name (but) a few giving only these as examples, even though more could be cited.

1996 Mail on Sunday A choice of sundried tomato bread, honey and walnut knots, dill and sesame knots, peppercorn rolls and croissants to name but a few.

what's in a name? names are arbitrary labels.

This phrase comes from Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet: 'What's in a name? that which we call a rose By any other name would it smell as sweet'.

you name it whatever you can think of (used to express the extent or variety of something), informal 1991 Angela Carter Wise Children The streets of tall, narrow houses were stuffed to the brim with stand-up comics; adagio dancers; soubrettes; conjurers; fiddlers; speciality acts with dogs, doves, goats, you name it.

nana

do (or lose) your nana lose your temper. Australian off your nana mentally deranged. Australian

Nana in these idioms is probably short for banana; compare with go bananas at BANANA.

nap

go nap 1 win all the matches or games in a series. 2 risk everything in one attempt.

not go nap on not be too keen on; not care much for. Australian informal

Nap is the name of a card game resembling whist in which a player attempts to take all five tricks. Its original name was Napoleon.

napping

catch someone napping (of an action or event) find someone off guard and unprepared to respond. informal nasty

a nasty taste in the mouth: see a bad taste in the mouth at TASTE.

a nasty piece (or bit) of work an unpleasant or untrustworthy person. informal something nasty in the woodshed: see WOODSHEDE.

nation

one nation a nation not divided by social inequality.

One nation was a political slogan of the 1990s, associated especially with the debate between the right and left wings of the British Conservative Party.

native

go native (of a person living away from their own country or region) abandon their own culture, customs, or way of life and adopt those of the country or region they are living in.

nature

call of nature used euphemistically to refer to a need to urinate or defecate.

get (or go) back to nature return to the type of life (regarded as being more in tune with nature) that existed before the development of complex industrial societies.

in the nature of things inevitable or inevitably.

2002 Economist The IMF sometimes makes mistakes. It is in the nature of things: the Fund practises battlefield medicine.

in a state of nature 1 in an uncivilized or uncultivated state. 2 totally naked. 3 (in Christian theology) in a morally unregenerate condition, unredeemed by divine grace.

nature red in tooth and claw: see RED.

the nature of the beast the inherent or essential quality or character of something, which cannot be changed and must be accepted. informal your better nature the good side of your character; your capacity for tolerance, generosity, or sympathy.

1995 Daily Mail Pollard is thrown out of the Woolpack and tries to weasel his way back in by appealing to Caroline's better nature.

navel

contemplate your navel spend time complacently considering yourself or your own interests; concentrate on one issue at the expense of a wider view.

near
so near and yet so far a rueful comment on a situation in which you have narrowly failed to achieve an aim.

nearest your nearest and dearest your close friends and relatives.

necessary
a necessary evil something that is undesirable but must be accepted.

1997 Internet World Advertising may be a necessary evil. After all, someone has to support Internet ventures.

neck
break your neck to do something exert yourself to the utmost to achieve something: informal get (or catch) it in the neck be severely criticized or punished. informal have the (brass) neck to do something have the impudence or nerve to do something. informal neck and neck level in a race, competition, or comparison.

1 This phrase, together with win by a neck below, originally developed with reference to horse racing. A neck is the length of the head and neck of a horse as a measure of its lead in a race.

1997 Internet World Advertising may be a necessary evil. After all, someone has to support Internet ventures.

1998 Spectator The Republicans had a 30-point lead over the Democrats; today, the Democrats are neck and neck on what’s supposed to be a bedrock conservative issue.

neck or nothing risking everything on success.

1934 Leslie Charteris The Saint Intervenes In broad daylight, there was no chance of further concealment; and it was neck or nothing at that point.

the same neck of the woods the same small geographical area or community.

1 Neck in the sense of ‘narrow strip of woodland’ is recorded from the late 18th century.

1998 Spectator Both [letters] come from the same neck of the woods, both are on the same subject and both are cries for help which are being ignored.

stick your neck out: see STICK.

up to your neck in heavily involved in something onerous or unpleasant. very busy with. informal win by a neck succeed by a small margin.

Ned Kelly
game as Ned Kelly: see GAME.

needle
a needle in a haystack something that is almost impossible to find because it is concealed by so many other similar things.

2002 New York Times Magazine Terrorists don’t fit a consistent profile: you’re looking for a needle in a haystack, but the color and shape of the needle keep changing.

sharp as a needle: see SHARP.

needs
must needs do something cannot avoid or help doing something. foolishly insist on doing something.

needs must sometimes you are forced to take a course of action that you would have preferred to avoid.

1 This is a shortened form of the proverb needs must when the Devil drives, which is first found in a work by the medieval author John Lydgate.

nelly
nenot on your nelly certainly not.

1 This expression, modelled on the phrase not on your life, originated as not on your Nelly Duff, which is British rhyming slang for puff, meaning ‘breath of life’.

nerve
a bag of nerves: see BAG.

get on someone’s nerves irritate or annoy someone. informal have nerves of steel not be easily upset or frightened.

live on your nerves (or your nerve ends) be extremely anxious or tense.

strain every nerve make every possible effort.

1 Nerve is used here in an earlier sense of tendon or sinew.

touch (or hit) a (raw) nerve provoke a reaction by referring to a sensitive topic.

a war of nerves: see WAR.
Nessus
the shirt of Nessus used to refer to a destructive force or influence, literary

In Greek mythology, Nessus was a centaur killed by Hercules. While dying, Nessus told Deianira, Hercules' wife, that if she ever had cause to doubt his husband's love, she should wrap him in a shirt soaked in Nessus' blood as this would ensure his constancy. Deianira followed these instructions, but the centaur's blood was in fact a powerful poison that corroded Hercules' body and as he tried to remove the shirt chunks of his flesh were ripped away.

1922 Edith Wharton The Glimpses of the Moon It was as if a sickness long smouldering in him had broken out and become acute, enveloping him in the Nessus shirt of his memories.

nest
a mare's nest: see MARE.

nester
empty nester: see EMPTY.

net
slip (or fall) through the net escape from or be missed by something organized to catch or deal with you.

1977 Margaret Drabble The Ice Age Britain is, after all, a welfare state, and not many slip through its net.

surf the net: see SURF.

nettle
grasp the nettle: see GRASP.

network
the old boy network: see OLD.

never never-never land an imaginary utopian place or situation.

This expression is often used with allusion to the imaginary country in J. M. Barrie's Peter Pan (1904). The term was used earlier to denote the remote and unpopulated northern part of the Northern Territory and Queensland in Australia (from which, it is implied, a person might never return).

never say die: see DIE.

new
a new broom: see BROOM.
a new kid on the block: see BLOCK.
new off the irons: see IRON.
a new one on (me, him, etc.) an account, idea, or joke not previously encountered by me, him, etc. informal turn over a new leaf: see LEAF.

a whole new ball game: see BALL.

news
be bad news be a problem or handicap. informal

1996 City Paper (Baltimore) From the moment we see Mark Wahlberg... surrounded by pool-hall scumbags, we know he's bad news.

be good news be an asset; be commendable or admirable. informal no news is good news without information to the contrary you can assume that all is well. proverb

New York
a New York minute a very short time; a moment. US informal next next in line immediately below the present holder of a position in order of succession.

next door
the boy (or girl) next door a person or the type of a person perceived as familiar, approachable, and dependable, typically in the context of a romantic partnership.

nibs
his nibs a mock title used to refer to a self-important man, especially one who is in authority. informal 1989 Guy Vanderhaeghe Homesick Whatever his nibs prefers. I see that hasn’t changed either. He still expects things to be organized to suit him and only him.

nice
make nice (or nice-nice) be pleasant or polite to someone, typically in a hypocritical way. North American informal nice one used to express approval. British informal 2001 Searcher Waving it aloft with delight, I shouted a 'Howzat!' that merely elicited grudging grunts of 'Nice one' from the Mexborough duo.

nice work if you can get it used to express envy of what is perceived to be another person's more favourable situation, especially if they seem to have reached it with little effort. informal

Nice work if you can get it was the title of an Ira Gershwin song from 1937.

nicety
to a nicety precisely.

nick
in — nick in a specified condition. British informal 1997 Ian Rankin Black & Blue Don’t be fooled by the wheezing old pensioner routine. Eve’s around fifty, still in good nick.

in the nick of time only just in time; just at the critical moment.

Nick is used here in the sense of ‘the precise moment of an occurrence or an event’. This form of the phrase dates from the mid 17th century, but in the (very) nick is recorded from the late 16th century.

1985 Nini Herman My Kleiman Home Time and again, when all seemed lost, I somehow won through in the nick of time.

nick someone for cheat someone out of something, typically a sum of money. North American informal 1962 Washington Daily News Taxpayers . . . have heard rumblings that they might be nicked for about a million dollars each year to subsidize professional sports here.

nickel
accept a wooden nickel be fooled or swindled. US

A wooden nickel is a worthless or counterfeit coin.

not worth a plugged nickel of no value. US

A plugged coin has had a part removed and the space filled with base material.

1991 R. Hawkey & R. Bingham Wild Card If as much as a whisper gets out . . . none of our lives are going to be worth a plugged nickel.

night
make a night of it: see make a day of it at MAKE.

night and day all the time; constantly.

night of the long knives a treacherous betrayal or ruthless action.

Night of the long knives is especially associated with the massacre of the Brownshirts on Hitler’s orders in 1934. Traditionally, the phrase referred to the legendary massacre of the Britons by Hengist in 472, described by Geoffrey of Monmouth in his Historia Regum Britanniae. In Britain it has been particularly used of the occasion in 1962 on which Harold Macmillan dismissed a third of his cabinet at the same time, of which the Liberal politician Jeremy Thorpe remarked ‘Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his friends for his life’.

nine
dressed (up) to the nines dressed very smartly or elaborately.

This expression may come from the 99th Wiltshire Regiment, a military unit who were noted for their smart appearance.

a nine days’ wonder: see WONDER.
nine to five typical office hours.
nine times out of ten on nearly every occasion.
on cloud nine: see CLOUD.

ninepence
no more than ninepence in the shilling of low intelligence. dated

Since the decimalization of the British coinage, this phrase has gradually fallen out of use, but there are numerous other humorous variations on the theme of someone not possessing their proper share of brains or intelligence, for example a sandwich short of a picnic (see SANDWICH).

ninepin
go down (or drop or fall) like ninepins topple or succumb in large numbers.

1994 Beryl Gilroy Sunlight on Sweet Water They were falling like ninepins to the wizardry of our fast bowler, Bachan.

nineteen
talk nineteen to the dozen: see TALK.

nip
in the nip naked. Irish informal nip something in the bud suppress or destroy something at an early stage.

This phrase refers to the horticultural practice of pinching out plant buds to prevent the development of shoots or flowers.

noble

The noble art boxing, chiefly archaic

A fuller version of this phrase is the noble art (or science) of self-defence.
none
be none the wiser: see WISER.
none the worse: see WORSE.
will have (or want) none of something refuse to accept something (especially with reference to behaviour).

2000 Joe Pemberton Forever & Ever Amen It wasn’t James’s idea to board the Christina. He’d told Aunty Mary that it had sunk on the telly but she would have none of it.

non-linear go non-linear become very excited or angry, especially about a particular obsession. informal

[1] This expression may have originated as a humorous play on the phrase go off the rails (see RAIL).

nonsense
make nonsense (or a nonsense) of reduce the value of something to a ridiculous degree.

nook
every nook and cranny every part or aspect of something.

noose
put your head in a noose bring about your own downfall.

north
up north to or in the north of a country. informal nose

by a nose (of a victory) by a very narrow margin.

[1] In horse racing, by a nose is the narrowest margin by which a horse can win.

cannot see further than your nose be unwilling or fail to consider different possibilities or to foresee the consequences of your actions.
count noses count people, typically in order to determine the numbers in a vote.
cut off your nose to spite your face disadvantage yourself in the course of trying to disadvantage another.

[1] This idea was proverbial for self-defeating malice in both medieval Latin and medieval French, and has been found in English since the mid 16th century.

get up someone’s nose irritate or annoy someone. informal give someone a bloody nose inflict a resounding defeat on someone.
keep your nose clean stay out of trouble. informal keep your nose out of refrain from interfering in someone else’s affairs.
keep your nose to the grindstone: see GRINDSTONE.
lead someone by the nose: see LEAD.
on the nose to a person’s sense of smell.
precisely, informal, chiefly North American distasteful; offensive. Australian informal put someone’s nose out of joint upset or annoy someone. informal turn up your nose at show distaste or contempt for something. informal under someone’s nose (of an action) committed openly and boldly, but without someone noticing or noticing in time to prevent it. informal with your nose in the air haughtily.

1994 Time Charles de Gaulle arrived in the U.S. with his nose in the air; he considered Jackie empty and much too beau monde.

not
not half: see HALF.
not in my back yard expressing an objection to the siting of something regarded as undesirable in your own neighbourhood, with the implication that it would be acceptable elsewhere.

[1] This expression originated in the USA in derogatory references to anti-nuclear campaigners. In Britain it is particularly associated with reports of the then Environment Secretary Nicholas Ridley’s opposition in 1988 to housing developments near his own home. More recently, it has been used in association with the siting of housing for refugees and asylum seekers. The phrase has given rise to the acronym nimby as a term for someone with these attitudes.

not least: see LEAST.

note
hit (or strike) the right (or wrong) note say or do something in exactly the right (or wrong) way.
strike (or sound) a — note express a feeling or view of a particular kind.
2000 Times John McCain... was expected to strike a hawkish note last night, calling for the upgrading of the Armed Forces.

nothing

be as nothing (compared) to be insignificant in comparison with.

1998 Oldie Believe me, being pronounced anathema is as nothing compared to the earful you get from a liberal who considers himself insufficiently appreciated.

have nothing on someone or something 1 have much less of a particular quality or ability than someone or something; be inferior to someone or something in a particular respect. 2 (especially of the police) have no incriminating information about someone. informal nothing daunted without having been made fearful or apprehensive.

nothing doing 1 there is no prospect of success or agreement. 2 nothing is happening. informal there’s nothing (or nothing else) for it there’s no alternative. British nothing less than used to express how extreme something is.

1990 Katherine Frank Emily Brontë Nothing less than the ultimate feminine destiny of marriage had been within her reach, and Charlotte had almost immediately spurned it.

nothing loath quite willing.

nothing much in it: see MUCH.

nothing to it very simple to do. informal stop at nothing: see STOP.

sweet nothings words of affection exchanged by lovers.

think nothing of it do not apologize or feel bound to show gratitude (used as a polite response).

you ain’t seen nothing yet there is something even more extreme or impressive in store. informal

This expression was popularized by Al Jolson’s aside in the 1927 film The Jazz Singer, ‘you ain’t heard nuttin’ yet’.

notice

at short (or a moment’s) notice with little warning or time for preparation.

put someone on notice (or serve notice) warn someone of something about or likely to occur, often in a formal or threatening way.

now

now or never used to convey urgency.

1994 James Kelman How Late It Was, How Late It’s now or never, know what I’m saying; he’s out this once, there’s no gong be a second time.

now you’re talking an expression of enthusiastic agreement or approval.

nowhere

in the middle of nowhere: see MIDDLE.

a road to nowhere: see ROAD.

nth

to the nth degree to any extent; to the utmost.

In mathematics, nth denotes an unspecified member of a series of numbers or enumerated items.

1994 i-D Along the way they argue, get harassed by ignorant locals, sing along to their favourite tunes and camp it up to the nth degree.

nudge

a nudge and a wink encouragement given secretly or implicitly; covert support.

Both a nudge and a wink are covert signs of complicity, with wink also having the implication of ‘shutting your eyes’ to something.

1998 Times There was a nudge and a wink at some mercenary help that in the end proved unnecessary.

nudge nudge (wink wink) used to draw attention to an innuendo, especially a sexual one, in the previous statement. informal nuff

nuff said there is no need to say any more.

1. This expression is a catchphrase from Monty Python's Flying Circus, a British television comedy programme.

nuff is an informal or dialect shortening of enough.

nuisance

make a nuisance of yourself cause trouble and annoyance, usually deliberately or avoidably.

number

- a back number: see BACK.
- by numbers following simple instructions identified by numbers; mechanically.

1. This phrase alludes to painting by numbers, a painting kit with a canvas on which numbers have been marked to indicate which colour of paint should be applied at which place.

1992 Canadian Yachting We discovered navigation by numbers as our beamy flotilla floated from buoy to buoy reading off the charts like a road map.

do a number on treat someone badly, typically by deceiving, humiliating, or criticizing them in a calculated and thorough way. North American informal have someone's number understand a person's real motives or character and thereby gain some advantage. informal

have someone's (name and) number on it (of a bomb, bullet, or other missile) be destined to hit a specified person. informal make your number report your arrival, pay a courtesy call, or report for duty.

1. This expression has nautical origins: when ships made their number, they signalled to others the number by which they were registered. The literal sense was first recorded in the mid 19th-century, with the figurative extension developing soon afterwards.

public enemy number one: see PUBLIC.

someone's number is up the time has come when someone is doomed to die or suffer some other disaster or setback. informal

1. This phrase may allude to a lottery number or to the various biblical passages referring to the 'number of your days', i.e. the length of your life, for example in Job 38:21: 'Knowest thou it, because thou wast then born? or because the number of thy days is great?'

take care of (or look after) number one be selfishly absorbed in protecting your own person and interests. informal without number too many to count.

1990 Bill Bryson Mother Tongue The varieties of wordplay available in English are almost without number—puns, tongue-twisters, anagrams, riddles, cryptograms.

numbered someone's or something's days are numbered someone or something will not survive or remain in a particular position for much longer.

nut

be nuts about (or on) be very enthusiastic about or fond of. informal 1934 Dashiell Hammett The Thin Man She told me she had this job with Wynant and he was nuts about her and she was sitting pretty.

do your nut be extremely angry or agitated. British informal

1. In this phrase and in off your nut below, nut means 'head'.

for nuts even tolerably well. British informal 1934 Angela Thirkell Wild Strawberries That Miss Stevenson can't play for nuts.

nuts and bolts the basic practical details of something. informal off your nut out of your mind; crazy. informal take (or use) a sledgehammer to crack a nut: see SLEDGEHAMMER.

a tough (or hard) nut (to crack) someone who is difficult to deal with or hard to beat; a formidable person. informal

nutmeg

a wooden nutmeg a false or fraudulent thing. US

1. A wooden nutmeg was a piece of wood shaped to resemble a nutmeg and fraudulently sold as the real thing. This deception was particularly associated with the inhabitants of Connecticut, giving rise to the nickname 'the Nutmeg State'.

nutshell

in a nutshell in the fewest possible words.
A nutshell is a traditional metaphor for a very small space. It is used by Shakespeare in Hamlet: ‘I could be bounded in a nutshell, and count myself a king of infinite space, were it not that I have bad dreams’.

be nutty about  like very much. informal nutty as a fruitcake  completely crazy. informal

Nutty meaning ‘mad or crazy’ dates from the late 19th century, and this phrase, punning on the sense of ‘full of nuts’, from the 1930s. Fruitcake is also used on its own to mean ‘a crazy or eccentric person’.

nutty
oar

rest on your oars 1 cease rowing by leaning on the handles of your oars, thereby lifting them horizontally out of the water. 2 relax your efforts.

1 A US variant of this phrase is lay on your oars.

stick (or poke or put) your oar in give an opinion or advice without being asked. informal 1992 Daily Telegraph My only minor fault is I sometimes like putting my oar in... and my advice can be a little brutal.

oat

feel your oats feel lively and buoyant. US informal

1 Oats are used as feed for horses, making them friskier and more energetic.

get your oats have sexual intercourse. informal 1965 William Dick A Bunch of Ratbags I was kissing her excitedly and passionately ... Cookie, you're gonna get your oats tonight for sure, I thought to myself.

off your oats lacking an appetite. informal

sow your wild oats go through a period of wild or promiscuous behaviour while young.

1 Wild oats are weeds found in cornfields which resemble cultivated oats: spending time sowing them would be a foolish or useless activity. The expression has been current since the late 16th century; from the mid 16th to the early 17th century, wild oat was also used as a term for a dissolute young man.

object

no object not influencing or restricting choices or decisions.

1998 Independent I'm a very impulsive buyer, if I see something I buy it, money no object.

Occam

Occam's razor the principle that in explain-off
off and on intermittently; now and then.
off and running making good progress.

offence
a hanging offence: see HANGING.

office
good offices help and support, often given by exercising your influence.
2002 Daily Telegraph Mr Blair will demonstratively use his good offices to bring round the German and French leaders, thereby gaining prestige in Washington.

just another day at the office boring routine.
1997 Times Professional cricket has been reduced to just another day at the 'office'.

offing
in the offing nearby; likely to happen or appear soon.

offing
in the offing nearby; likely to happen or appear soon.

oil
burn the midnight oil: see BURN.
oil someone's palm: see grease someone's palm at GREASE.
no oil painting not very attractive. British informal oil and water two elements, factors, or people that do not agree or blend together.
oil the wheels help something go smoothly.
pour oil on troubled waters: see POUR.

old
any old how in no particular order.
come the old soldier: see SOLDIER.
make old bones: see BONE.
of the old school traditional or old-fashioned.
1998 Imogen de la Bere The Last Deception of Palliser Wentwood He came of the old school, in which men did not weep in front of other men.
the old Adam: see ADAM.
old as the hills: see ancient as the hills at HILL.

on be on about talk about tediously and at length. British informal be on at someone nag or grumble at someone. British informal be on to someone be close to discovering the truth about an illegal or undesirable activity that someone is engaging in. informal be on to something have an idea or information that is likely to lead to an important discovery. informal it's not on it's impractical or unacceptable. informal on and off intermittently; now and then.
on it drinking heavily. Australian informal on side supporting or part of the same team as someone else.

1997 Spectator And while clearly 'on side' with New Labour, he has never been a closely quartered insider.

you’re on said by way of accepting a challenge or bet. informal once once a —, always a — a person cannot change their fundamental nature.

1993 Margaret Atwood The Robber Bride She was once a Catholic... and once a Catholic, always a Catholic, according to her mother.

once and for all (or once for all) now and for the last time; finally.

once and future denoting someone or something that is eternal, enduring, or constant.

Once this expression comes from T. H. White’s The Once and Future King (1958), a series of novels about the Arthurian legends.

once bitten, twice shy a bad experience makes you wary of the same thing happening again.

Once this expression dates from the late 19th century. A variant common in the USA is once burned, twice shy.

once (or every once) in a while from time to time; occasionally.

1989 Annie Dillard The Writing Life Every once in a while Rahm saw a peephole in the clouds and buzzed over for a look.

one get something in one understand or succeed in guessing something immediately.

informal

one on one (or one to one) denoting or referring to a situation in which two parties come into direct contact, opposition, or correspondence.

1995 Represent I wanna speak to God one on one me and him.

the one that got away something desirable that has eluded capture.

Once this phrase comes from the angler’s traditional way of relating the story of a large fish that has managed to escape after almost being caught: ‘you should have seen the one that got away’.

public enemy number one: see PUBLIC.

rolled into one: see ROLLED.

take care of number one: see NUMBER.

one-horse one-horse race a contest in which one candidate or competitor is clearly superior to all the others and seems certain to win.

1995 Sun (Baltimore) The Rangers, who have won six of their last seven, could make it a one-horse race in a hurry.

one-horse town a small town with few and poor facilities. informal onion know your onions be fully knowledgeable about something.

informal

Onions is perhaps short for rhyming slang onion rings, meaning ‘things’. The phrase dates from the 1920s.

open be open with speak frankly to; conceal nothing from.

an open book: see a closed book at CLOSED.

in (or into) the open 1 out of doors; not under cover. 2 not subject to concealment or obfuscation; made public.

open-and-shut (of a case or argument) admitting no doubt or dispute; straightforward and conclusive.

open sesame a marvellous or irresistible means of achieving access to what would normally be inaccessible.

Once in the tale of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves in the Arabian Nights, the door of the robbers’ cave was made to open by uttering this magic formula.

with your eyes open (or with open eyes) fully aware of the risks and other implications of an action or situation.

opener for openers to start with; first of all.

informal

opium the opium of the people (or masses) something regarded as inducing a false and unrealistic sense of contentment among people.
opportunity

opportunity knocks a chance of success occurs.

This expression comes from the proverb opportunity never knocks twice at any man’s door or opportunity knocks but once. The form of the saying with opportunity dates from the late 19th century, but fortune was used in the early 19th century and a version of the saying is recorded in medieval French.

out and about (of a person, especially after an illness) engaging in normal activity.

out and away by far.

out at elbows:

out at outs at variance or enmity.

A North American variant of this expression is on the outs.

out at lunch crazy; insane.

out with someone or something an exhortation to expel or dismiss someone or something unwanted.

out of order:

out of pocket:

out to lunch crazy; insane.

out with it say what you are thinking.

outs

outs at variance or enmity.

outs a tall order:

outs at variance or enmity.
over-egg

over-egg the pudding (or cake) go too far in embellishing, exaggerating, or doing something.

Excessive quantities of egg in a pudding could either make it too rich or cause it not to set or cook correctly.

1998 Spectator This is a noble end, but in her eagerness to reach it Duffy somewhat over-eggs the cake.

overplay

overplay your hand spoil your chance of success through excessive confidence in your position.

In a card game, if you overplay your hand, you play a hand on the basis of an overestimate of your likelihood of winning.

overshoot

overshoot (or overstep) the mark go beyond what is intended or proper; go too far.

owe

owe someone one feel indebted to someone.

informal

1990 Paul Auster The Music of Chance 'I guess I owe you one,' Floyd said, patting Nashe's back in an awkward show of gratitude.

OWN

as if you own the place in an overbearing or self-important manner.

informal

be your own man (or woman or person) act independently and with confidence.

come into its (or your) own become fully effective, used, or recognized.

get your own back take action in retaliation for a wrongdoing or insult.

informal

hold your own retain a position of strength in a challenging situation; not be defeated or weakened.

1953 Margaret Kennedy Troy Chimneys A young man so gifted may hold his own very well.

oyster

the world is your oyster: see WORLD.
mind your Ps and Qs: see MIND.

change of pace a change from what you are used to, chiefly North American off the pace behind the leader or leading group in a race or contest.

put someone or something through their paces make someone or something demonstrate their qualities or abilities.

set the pace ① start a race as the fastest. ② lead the way in doing or achieving something.

stand (or stay) the pace be able to keep up with another or others.

go to the pack deteriorate; go to pieces.
Australian & New Zealand informal

1980 Frank Moorhouse Days of Wine and Rage
All the places overseas where the British have pulled out are going to the pack.

pack your bag (or bags) put your belongings in a bag or suitcase in preparation for your imminent departure.

pack heat carry a gun. North American informal pack it in stop what you are doing. informal pack a punch ① be capable of hitting with skill or force. ② have a powerful effect.

send someone packing make someone leave in an abrupt or peremptory way. informal paddle your own canoe be independent and self-sufficient. informal

This expression has been in figurative use from the early 19th century: it was the title of a popular song by Sarah T. Bolton in 1854.

paddle your own canoe be independent and self-sufficient. informal

paddle your own canoe be independent and self-sufficient. informal

like watching paint dry (of an activity or experience) extremely boring.

paint the Forth Bridge used to indicate that a task can never be completed.

Paint the steel structure of the Forth Railway Bridge in Scotland has required continuous repainting: it is so long that once the painters reach one end, they have to begin again at the other.

paint the town red go out and enjoy yourself flamboyantly. informal paint yourself into a corner leave yourself no means of escape or room to manoeuvre.

on the same page (of two or more people) in agreement. US page three girl a model whose nude or semi-nude photograph appears as part of a regular series in a tabloid newspaper.

This sort of photograph is featured on page three of the British tabloid newspaper The Sun.

put paid to stop abruptly; destroy. informal no pain, no gain suffering is necessary in order to achieve something.

There has been a proverbial association between pain and gain since at least the late 16th century, and ‘No Pains, no Gains’ was the title of a 1648 poem by Robert Herrick. The modern form, which dates from the 1980s, probably originated as a slogan used in fitness classes.

In our confessional age, you can make quite a lot of gains for very little pain.

a pain in the neck an annoying or tedious person or thing. informal

There are a number of vulgar slang alternatives to neck in this idiom, such as a pain in the arse or, in the USA, ass.

like watching paint dry (of an activity or experience) extremely boring.

paint the Forth Bridge used to indicate that a task can never be completed.

The steel structure of the Forth Railway Bridge in Scotland has required continuous repainting: it is so long that once the painters reach one end, they have to begin again at the other.

paint the town red go out and enjoy yourself flamboyantly. informal

paint yourself into a corner leave yourself no means of escape or room to manoeuvre.

no oil painting: see OIL. pair
another pair of shoes: see SHOE. pair of hands a person seen in terms of their participation in a task.

pale beyond the pale outside the bounds of acceptable behaviour.

palm
cross someone's palm with silver: see CROSS.
gease someone's palm: see GREASE.

have (or hold) someone in the palm of your hand have someone under your control or influence.

read someone's palm tell someone's fortune by looking at the lines on their palm.

pan
go down the pan reach a stage of abject failure or uselessness.

Pandora
a Pandora's box a process that once begun generates many complicated problems.

paper
remain to ease the lot of humankind. In another account, the box contained all the blessings of the gods which, with the exception of hope, escaped and were lost when the box was opened.

1997 Spectator Drummond's series... has opened a Pandora's box of complaints... about the tide of mediocrity engulfing the art.

panic button press (or push or hit) the panic button respond to a situation by panicking or taking emergency measures. informal pants beat the pants off: see BEAT.

by the seat of your pants: see SEAT.
catch someone with their pants down catch someone in an unprepared state or sexually compromising situation, informal scare (or bore etc.) the pants off someone make someone extremely scared, bored, etc. informal ewearing (or in) short pants very young. informal

paper
make the papers be written about or given attention as news.
not worth the paper it is written on (of an agreement, promise, etc.) of no value or validity whatsoever.
on paper 1 in writing. 2 in theory rather than in reality.
paper over the cracks disguise problems or divisions rather than trying to solve them.

a paper tiger an apparently dangerous but actually ineffectual person or thing.
1998 Oldie We fear that the Rail Regulator and the Consultative Committee are paper tigers and a waste of time.

paper bag
someone couldn't — their way out of a paper bag a person is completely unable to do something, either through ineptitude or weakness, informal 1999 Time Out N.Y. The problem is, he also, at the time, loved Victoria Tennant, and she can't act her way out of a paper bag even if you soak it with a hose first.

par
above par 1 at a premium. 2 better than average.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Above par is a stock exchange idiom. In this and the following idioms, par is the Latin for 'equal'.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

at par at face value.

below (or under) par 1 at a discount. 2 worse than usual, often in relation to a person's health.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>As a golfing term, under par means 'better than usual': see par for the course below.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

on a par with equal in importance or quality to; on an equal level with.

1998 Spectator Imagine learning that the MCC had been used for 200 years as a front for procuring under-age boys... The scandal of the Tour de France is roughly on a par with such a revelation.

par for the course what is normal or expected in any given circumstances.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>In golf, par is the number of strokes that a first-class player would normally require to get round a particular course.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

up to par at an expected or usual level or quality.

1989 Randall Kenan A Visitation of Spirits Why not him? Did he not look okay? Did he smell bad? Have bad breath? Were his clothes not up to par?

parcel
pass the parcel a situation in which movement or exchange takes place, but no one gains any advantage.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pass the parcel is the name of a children's game in which a parcel is passed round to the accompaniment of music. When the music stops, the child holding the parcel is allowed to open it.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

1998 Times People who won the initial franchises have made the money... Any movement from now on is just a game of pass the parcel, really.

pare
pare something to the bone: see cut something to the bone at BONE.

parenthesis
in parenthesis as a digression or afterthought.

part
be part and parcel of be an essential feature or element of.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Both part and parcel ultimately come from Latin pars meaning 'part' and in this phrase they have virtually identical senses. The phrase is first recorded in mid 16th-century legal parlance; it is now used in general contexts to emphasize that the item mentioned is absolutely integral to the whole.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

1998 Spectator It's not enough for people just to shrug their shoulders and say, 'Well, that is part and parcel of being in public life'.

a man of (many) parts a man showing great ability in many different areas.

part brass rags with: see RAG.

part company 1 (of two or more people) cease to be together; go in different directions. 2 (of two or more parties) cease to associate with each other, usually as the result of a disagreement.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Take something in good part: see GOOD.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

particular
a London particular: see LONDON.

parting
a (or the) parting of the ways a point at which two people must separate or at which a decision must be taken.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>This phrase has its origins in Ezekiel 21:21: 'the king of Babylon stood at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways'.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

1989 Randall Kenan A Visitation of Spirits Why not him? Did he not look okay? Did he smell bad? Have bad breath? Were his clothes not up to par?

party
the party's over a period of success, good fortune, or happiness has come to an end. informal

1998 Independent Until the Government decided yesterday that the party's over, it was seemingly routine procedure for our hospital consultants to have... the Committee on Distinction Awards, which is dominated by the consultants, look after their interests.

pass
come to a pretty pass: see PRETTY.

head (or cut) someone or something off at the pass forestall someone or something, especially at a critical moment or at the last possible moment.

head (or cut) someone or something off at the pass: see PRETTY.

Pass is used here in the sense of a narrow route through mountains.

pass the baton: see BATON.

pass the buck: see BUCK.

pass by on the other side avoid having anything to do with something that should demand your attention or concern.

pass by on the other side: see PRETTY.

This expression refers to the parable of the good Samaritan, recounted in Luke 10. A man travelling from Jerusalem to Jericho was attacked and robbed during the course of his journey. He was left lying by the road and the first two people who saw him ‘passed by on the other side’ of the road. It was the third traveller, the Samaritan (a man from Samaria) who helped him.

pass the hat round: see HAT.

pass in a crowd be not conspicuously below the average, especially in terms of appearance.

pass in your ally die. Australian informal pass in your ally: see LIP.

pass muster: see MUSTER.

pass someone’s lips: see LIP.

pass the parcel: see PARCEL.

pass the time of day: see TIME.

pass your sell-by date reach a point where you are useless or worn out. informal pass your sell-by date: see METER.

A sell-by date is that stamped on perishable goods indicating the latest date on which they may be sold.

1998 Spectator He would probably have to turn on them [his colleagues] when, in his view, they had passed their sell-by date.

sell the pass betray a cause. British sell the pass: see LIP.

As in head someone off at the pass above, pass is here used in the sense of a narrow route through mountains, viewed as a strategic point in time of war. Selling the pass was supplying information to the enemy that would enable them to circumvent or otherwise get through the obstacle (turn the pass). In the mid 19th century it was considered to be an Irish expression meaning ‘betray your fellow countrymen by selling information to the authorities’.

1996 Economist Having sold the pass on the referendum, will he really be able to hold the pass on responsible economics?

passage

passage of (or at) arms a fight or dispute.

work your passage work in return for a free place on a voyage.

past

not put it past someone believe someone to be psychologically capable of doing something, especially something you consider wrong or rash.

not put it past someone: see PRETTY.

past it too old to be of any use or any good at anything. informal pasture

put someone out to pasture force someone to retire.

pat

have something off (or down) pat have something memorized perfectly.

on your pat on your own. Australian informal on your pat: see MUSTER.

This expression is from rhyming slang, Pat Malone meaning ‘alone’.

pat someone on the back express approval of or admiration for someone.

stand pat stick stubbornly to your opinion or decision. chiefly North American stand pat: see TIME.

In the card games poker and blackjack, standing pat involves retaining your hand as dealt, without drawing other cards.

patch

not a patch on greatly inferior to. British informal 1991 Mavis Nicholson Martha Jane & Me We thought the uniform of our soldiers was ‘pathetic’, not a patch on the American soldiers’ uniform.

a purple patch: see PURPLE.

path

lead someone up the garden path: see GARDEN.

the path of least resistance: see the line of least resistance at RESISTANCE.
patter
the patter of tiny feet used to refer to the expectation of the birth of a baby.

2002 Pride If, like me, you find yourself single in the penultimate year of your twenties and the only patter of tiny feet is your neighbour's cat, then chop, chop ladies—so much to do so little time.

pause
give pause to someone (or give someone pause for thought) cause someone to think carefully or hesitate before doing something.

pave
pave the way for create the circumstances to enable something to happen or be done.

pay
it (always) pays to — it produces good results to do a particular thing.

1994 Guns & Shooting A custom handgun can be a big investment so it always pays to choose the right pistolsmith.

pay its (or their) way (of an enterprise or person) earn enough to cover its or their costs.

pay the piper pay the cost of an enterprise.
informal

1 This expression comes from the proverb he who pays the piper calls the tune, and is used with the implication that the person who has paid expects to be in control of whatever happens.

pay your respects make a polite visit to someone.

1 A similar expression is pay your last respects, meaning 'show respect towards a dead person by attending their funeral'.

pay through the nose pay much more than a fair price. informal 1998 Country Life We pay a lot of money for a fairly ordinary garment in order to advertise a name that is only well-known because we pay through the nose for the huge advertising budget.

you pays your money and you takes your choice used to convey that there is little to choose between one alternative and another.

1 Both pays and takes are non-standard, colloquial forms, retained from the original version of the saying in a Punch joke of 1846.

pea
like peas (or like as two peas) in a pod so similar as to be indistinguishable or nearly so.

peace
hold your peace remain silent about something.

keep the peace refrain or prevent others from disturbing civil order.

no peace for the wicked: see WICKED.

peach
a peach of a — a particularly excellent or desirable thing of the kind specified. informal

1 Peach has been used since the mid 18th century as a colloquial term for an attractive young woman and more generally since the mid 19th century for anything of exceptional quality.

1998 Spectator Neil Pollard... rode a peach of a race... to win the two-mile marathon.

peaches and cream (of a girl's complexion) of a cream colour with downy pink cheeks.

pearl
cast (or throw) pearls before swine give or offer valuable things to people who do not appreciate them.

1 This expression is a quotation from Matthew 7:6: 'Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you'.

pearly
pearly whites a person's teeth. British informal pear-shaped go pear-shaped go wrong. informal

1 This phrase originated as RAF slang, as a humorously exaggerated allusion to the shape of an aircraft that has crashed nose first. Today, however, people probably assume it derives from the idea of a woman gaining weight on her hips.

1998 Spectator Unfortunately it all went pear-shaped because the programme to which I was going to peg my babblings... just wasn’t interesting enough to sustain a whole review.

pebble
not the only pebble on the beach not the only person to be considered in a particular situation; (of a former lover) not unique or irreplaceable.

This expression is from an 1897 song title: You're Not The Only Pebble On The Beach. The original context was that of courtship: the way to advance your suit was to make it plain to the lady that 'she's not the only pebble on the beach'. It is now often used more generally as a warning against selfish egocentricity.

pecker

keep your pecker up remain cheerful. British informal

Pecker is probably being used here in the sense of 'a bird's beak or bill', and by extension 'a person's face or expression'. The phrase has been current in British English since the mid 19th century, but it has rather different connotations in the US, where pecker is an informal term for penis.

pelion

pile (or heap) Pelion on Ossa add an extra difficulty or task to an already difficult situation or undertaking. literary

In Greek mythology, the mountain Pelion was held to be the home of the centaurs, and the giants were said to have piled Mounts Olympus and Ossa on its summit in their attempt to reach the heavens and destroy the gods.

pelt

at full pelt with great speed; as fast as possible.

in your pelt naked. Irish informal pen

dip your pen in gall: see DIP.

the pen is mightier than the sword writing is more effective than military power or violence. proverb

penny

count the (or your) pennies be careful about how much you spend.

Variants of this expression are watch the pennies and, in the USA, pinch the pennies.

earn an honest penny: see HONEST.

in for a penny, in for a pound used to express someone's intention to see an undertaking through, however much time, effort, or money this entails.

not have a penny to bless yourself with be completely impoverished. dated

This expression refers either to the cross on the silver pennies which circulated in England before the reign of Charles II or to the practice of crossing a person's palm with silver for luck.

the penny drops someone finally realizes or understands something. informal, chiefly British

The image here is of the operation of a coin-operated slot machine.

not have two pennies to rub together lack money; be very poor.

a penny for your thoughts used to ask someone what they are thinking about. informal pennies from heaven unexpected benefits, especially financial ones.

Pennies from Heaven was the title of a 1936 song by the American songwriter Johnny Burke (1908–64). The expression is also well known as the title of a BBC drama series by Dennis Potter in the late 1970s.

penny wise and pound foolish careful and economical in small matters while being wasteful or extravagant in large ones.

a pretty penny: see PRETTY.

spend a penny urinate. British informal

At one time coin-operated locks were commonly found on the doors of public lavatories. The phrase is now rather dated.

turn up like a bad penny (of someone or something unwelcome) inevitably reappear or return.

A bad penny is a counterfeit coin which circulates rapidly as people try to pass it on to someone else.

two (or ten) a penny plentiful or easily obtained and consequently of little value. chiefly British percentage

play the percentages (or the percentage game) choose a safe and methodical course of action when calculating the odds in favour of success. informal perch

knock someone off their perch cause someone to lose a position of superiority or pre-eminence. informal perish

perish the thought used, often ironically, to show that you find a suggestion or idea completely ridiculous or unwelcome. informal 1993 Tablet Is he one of those people who file their own press cuttings and who even, perish the thought, write down their own witticisms?

physical

get physical 1 become aggressive or violent. 2 become sexually intimate with someone. 3 take exercise. informal physician

physician, heal thyself before attempting to correct others, make sure that you aren’t guilty of the same faults yourself.

This expression alludes to Luke 4:23: ‘And he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country’.

pick

pick and choose select only the best or most desirable or appropriate from among a number of alternatives.

pick someone’s brains (or brain) question someone who is better informed about a subject than yourself in order to obtain information. informal pick something clean completely remove the flesh from a bone or carcass.

pick up the pieces restore your life or a situation to a more normal state, typically after a shock or disaster.

pick up the threads resume something that has been interrupted.

picnic
be no picnic be difficult or unpleasant. informal 2001 Rant While Cheung looks elegant... in the 25 different versions of the cheongsam dress she wears in the film, moving in the garments was no picnic.

picture
be (or look) a picture (of a person or thing) be beautiful.

get the picture understand a situation. informal in the picture fully informed about something.

out of the picture no longer involved; irrelevant.

a (or the) picture of — the embodiment of a specified state or emotion.

1989 Woman’s Realm The... little girl looks a picture of health in her blue dungarees and red boots.

pretty as a picture: see PRETTY.

pie
easy as pie: see EASY.

eat humble pie: see HUMBLE.

nice (or sweet) as pie extremely nice or agreeable.

a piece (or slice) of the pie a share in an amount of money or business regarded as something to be divided up.

pie in the sky something that is agreeable to contemplate but very unlikely to be realized. informal

1 This phrase comes from a 1911 song by the American labour leader Joe Hill (1879–1915), in which a preacher tells a slave: 'Work and pray, live on hay. You’ll get pie in the sky when you die.'

piece
all of a piece with something entirely consistent with something.

1997 Edmund White The Farewell Symphony
This new disease seemed all of a piece with the hate promulgated by know-nothing American fundamentalists.

give someone a piece of your mind tell someone what you think, especially when you are angry about their behaviour.

go to pieces become so nervous or upset that you are unable to behave or perform normally.

in one piece unharmed or undamaged, especially after a dangerous journey or experience.

pick (or pull or tear) someone or something to pieces criticize someone or something in a severe or detailed way.

a piece (or slice) of the action a share in the excitement of something.

a piece of ass (or tail) a woman regarded in sexual terms. vulgar slang a piece of cake: see CAKE.

say your piece give your opinion or a prepared statement.

pierce
pierce someone’s heart affect someone keenly or deeply.

pig
bleed like a (stuck) pig bleed copiously.

bring (or drive) your pigs to market succeed in realizing your potential.

in a pig’s eye expressing scornful disbelief at a statement. informal, chiefly North American 1987 Evelyn E. Smith Miss Melville Returns Under other circumstances I think we could have been friends. ‘In a pig’s eye,’ Susan thought.

make a pig of yourself overeat. informal 1991 Francis King The Ant Colony I do love chocolates. Always make a pig of myself over them.

make a pig’s ear of bungle; make a mess of. British informal

1 This probably developed with humorous reference to the phrase make a silk purse out of a sow’s ear (see SILK).

on the pig’s back living a life of ease and luxury; in a very fortunate situation. Irish informal pig (or piggy) in the middle a person who is placed in an awkward situation between two others. chiefly British

1 This expression comes from the name of a game in which two people attempt to throw a ball to each other without a third person in the middle catching it.
a pig in a poke something that is bought or accepted without knowing its value or seeing it first.

In this expression, a poke is a small sack or bag, a sense which is now found chiefly in Scottish use.

1996 John Doran Red Doran I didn’t want to sell the fellow a pig in a poke, so I explained that the ducks were bred only for laying.

pigs might (or can) fly used ironically to express disbelief, chiefly British

Pigs fly in the air with their tails forward was a proverbial saying in the 17th century; the current version dates back to the late 19th century, and the first recorded use is by Lewis Carroll.

1973 Jack Higgins A Prayer for the Dying ‘Something could come out of that line of enquiry.’ ‘I know... Pigs might also fly.’

squeal (or yell) like a stuck pig squeal or yell loudly and shrilly.

A stuck pig is one that is being butchered by having its throat cut; compare with bleed like a stuck pig above.

sweat like a pig sweat profusely, informal pigeon

be someone’s pigeon be someone’s concern or affair.

In this phrase, the word pigeon derives from pidgin, as in pidgin English, the term for a grammatically simplified form of a language used for communication between people not sharing a common language. Pidgin itself represents a Chinese alteration of the English word ‘business’: it entered the English language with the meaning ‘occupation’ or ‘affair(s)’ in the early 19th century, emerging from the hybrid of English and other languages used at that time between Europeans and the Chinese for trading purposes.

pillar

from pillar to post from one place to another in an unceremonious or fruitless manner.

This expression may have developed with reference to the rebounding of a ball in a real-tennis court. It has been in use in this form since the mid 16th century, though its earlier form, from post to pillar, dates back to the early 15th century.

2002 Independent There will be ‘a single door to knock on’ so people with a point to make are not passed endlessly from pillar to post.

a pillar of society a person regarded as a particularly responsible citizen.

The use of pillar to mean ‘a person regarded as a mainstay or support for something’ is recorded from medieval times; Pillars of Society was the English title of an 1888 play by the Norwegian dramatist Henrik Ibsen.

pilot

drop the pilot abandon a trustworthy adviser.

Dropping the Pilot was the caption of a famous cartoon by John Tenniel, published in Punch in 1890. It depicted Bismarck’s dismissal as German Chancellor by the young Kaiser Wilhelm II.

pin

a bitter pill (to swallow) an unpleasant or painful necessity (to accept).

1996 European The move, while not entirely unexpected, has been a bitter pill to swallow.

sugar (or sweeten) the pill make an unpleasant or painful necessity more acceptable.

The image here is of making bitter-tasting medicine more palatable by adding sugar.

pile

at the top of the pile: see at the top of the heap at HEAP.

make a (or your) pile become rich, informal

Pile here means ‘a pile of money’.

pile it on exaggerate for effect, informal pile on the agony exaggerate or aggravate a bad situation, informal pill

a bitter pill (to swallow) an unpleasant or painful necessity (to accept).

sugar (or sweeten) the pill make an unpleasant or painful necessity more acceptable.

pine

clean (or neat) as a new pin extremely clean or neat.
for two pins I'd, she'd, etc. — used to indicate that you are very tempted to do something, especially out of annoyance.

1997 Spectator Certainly it is a fierce dog... What is more, for two pins it would bite us again.

pinch

220 pin your colours to the mast: see COLOURS.

on pins and needles in an agitated state of suspense.

you could hear a pin drop there was absolute silence or stillness.

pin your ears back listen carefully.

pinch

at a pinch if necessary; in an emergency.

A North American variant of this expression is in a pinch.

feel the pinch experience hardship, especially financial.

take something with a pinch of salt: see SALT.

pineapple

the rough end of the pineapple bad treatment. Australian & New Zealand informal 1981 Peter Barton Bastards I Have Known There was no way that I was going to get 'the rough end of the pineapple' from Wally, so I kept out of his way.

pink

in the pink in extremely good health and spirits. informal

Literally, a pink is a plant with sweet-smelling pink or white flowers and slender leaves. In figurative use, the pink came to mean 'a supreme example of something', as in Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet: 'I am the very pink of courtesy'. This led to the development of the phrase in the pink of condition, of which in the pink is a shortened version.

pip

give someone the pip make someone irritated or depressed. informal, dated

Pip is a disease of poultry or other birds. In the late 15th century the word came to be used, often humorously, of various ill-defined or minor ailsments suffered by people and so the informal sense of 'ill humour' developed.

1976 Scotsman I feel it's my duty but I'm not keen. My grandchildren give me the pip.

pip someone at (or to) the post defeat someone at the last moment.

Pip was an informal late 19th-century term for 'defeat', but it is uncertain from which sense of the noun pip it derives. Post here is the winning post in a race.

squeeze someone until the pips squeak extract the maximum amount of money from someone. British

This expression alludes to a speech made in 1918 by the British politician Sir Eric Geddes on the subject of Germany's payment of indemnities after World War I: 'The Germans... are going to pay every penny; they are going to be squeezed as a lemon is squeezed—until the pips squeak'. More recently, in the 1970s, the Labour Chancellor Denis Healey declared his intention to squeeze the rich until the pips squeaked.

pipe

put that in your pipe and smoke it used to indicate that someone should accept what has been said, even if it is unwelcome. informal 1947 W. Somerset Maugham Creatures of Circumstance I'm engaged to her, so put that in your pipe and smoke it.

pipeline

in the pipeline being planned or developed; about to happen.

1992 Sunday Times of India In effect, this means that two bio-pics on Buddha are in the pipeline for release in 1993.

piping

piping hot very hot.

Piping describes the hissing or sizzling noise made by food taken very hot from the oven. The phrase was earliest used by Chaucer in The Miller’s Tale: 'And wafres, pipyn hoot out of the gleede' ('gleede' is an obsolete word for a fire).

1997 Sunday Times Try the chilli cakes... served piping hot from food stalls on the beach.

piss

vulgar slang

not have a pot to piss in be very poor. North American a piece of piss a very easy thing to do. British piss in the wind do something that is ineffective or a waste of time.

take the piss (out of) mock someone or something. British 1998 Spectator It must be admitted, however, that any child who tried nowadays to follow my priggish example would, probably rightly, be accused at once of taking the piss.

pissed vulgar slang pissed as a newt (or fart) very drunk.
pissed off annoyed; irritated.

pit
be the pits be extremely bad or the worst of its kind. informal

1 Pits is a mid 20th-century informal term for 'armpits' and has connotations of body odour; from this it came to refer generally to something regarded as bad or unpleasant.

dig a pit for: see DIG.

the pit of your (or the) stomach an ill-defined region of the lower abdomen seen as the seat of strong feelings, especially anxiety.

pitch
make a pitch make a bid to obtain a contract or other benefit.

1 Pitch is used here in the late 19th-century colloquial sense of a sales pitch.

pitched
a pitched battle a fierce fight.

1 Literally, a pitched battle is one fought on a predetermined ground (the pitch), as opposed to either a casual skirmish or a running battle (see RUNNING).

pitchfork
rain pitchforks: see rain cats and dogs at RAIN.

pity
more's the pity used to express regret about a fact that has just been stated. informal 1994 Amstrad Action The full version of this game never got released. More's the pity, as if the demo's anything to go by, it would have been a stormer.

place
go places 1 travel. 2 be increasingly successful. informal 1991 Francis King The Ant Colony Guido is going to go places. I'm sure of it. He's not going to be a labourer forever.

place in the sun a position of favour or advantage.

1 In 1897 the German Chancellor, Prince Bernhard Von Bülow, made a speech in the Reichstag in which he declared: 'we desire to throw no one into the shade [in East Asia], but we also demand our place in the sun'. As a result, the expression has become associated with German nationalism; it is in fact recorded much earlier and is traceable to the writings of the French mathematician and philosopher Blaise Pascal (1623–62).

2002 India Weekly I think it is a great feeling, to know that after years of derision from the world, the Hindi film industry is achieving its place in the sun.

plain
plain as day (or the nose on your face) very obvious. informal plain as a pikestaff 1 very obvious.

2 ordinary or unattractive in appearance.

1 This phrase is an alteration of plain as a packstaff, which dates from the mid 16th century, the staff being that of a pedlar, on which he rested his pack of goods for sale. The version with pikestaff had developed by the end of the 16th century.

plan
plan B: see B.

planet
what planet are you on? used to indicate that someone is out of touch with reality. British informal plank thick as two planks: see THICK.

walk the plank lose your job or position.

1 The image here is of the traditional fate of the victims of pirates: being forced to walk blindfold along a plank over the side of a ship to your death in the sea.

plate
on a plate with little or no effort from the person concerned. informal 1986 Max Egremont Dear Shadows They were handed an asset on a plate and treated it in a totally uncreative way.

on your plate occupying your time or energy. chiefly British 1999 Vikram Seth Equal Music At the moment, I may as well tell you, it'll be a relief not to do it. I've got a lot on my plate—too much.

platinum

go platinum (of a recording) achieve sales meriting a platinum disc.

play

play your cards close to your chest: see keep your cards close to your chest at CARD.

make a play for attempt to attract or attain.

informal 1999 Independent Tracie was seen... heading out for a club to make a play for a cute barman.

make (great) play of (or with) draw attention to in an ostentatious manner, typically to gain prestige or advantage.

2002 Daily Telegraph With the tabloids leading the way, reporters digging into their backgrounds made great play of their unorthodox pasts.

play your ace: see ACE.

play ball: see BALL.

play a blinder perform very well, informal

Dating from the 1950s, blinder is a colloquial term for 'a dazzlingly good piece of play' in sport, especially in rugby or cricket.

2001 Sun Gilles will start and I would just love him to play a blinder and score a couple of goals to knock Southampton out of the cup.

play both ends against the middle keep your options open by supporting or favouring opposing sides.

play by the rules follow what is generally held to be the correct line of behaviour.

play your cards right: see CARD.

play the devil with: see DEVIL.

play ducks and drakes with: see DUCK.

play fair observe principles of justice; avoid cheating.

play someone false prove treacherous or deceitful towards someone; let someone down.

play fast and loose behave irresponsibly or immorally.

1998 Spectator Fingers may point at those custodians playing fast and loose with the national treasure.

play favourites show favouritism towards someone or something, chiefly North American play the field: see FIELD.

play for time use specious excuses or unnecessary manoeuvres to gain time.

play the game: see GAME.

play the goat: see GOAT.

play God: see GOD.

play havoc with: see HAVOC.

play hell with: see HELL.

play hookey: see HOOKEY.

play a (or your) hunch make an instinctive choice.

play into someone's hands act in such a way as unintentionally to give someone an advantage.

play it cool make an effort to be or appear to be calm and unemotional. informal play the market speculate in stocks.

play possum: see POSSUM.

play (or play it) safe (or for safety) take precautions; avoid risks.

play something by ear perform music without having to read from a score.

proceed instinctively according to results and circumstances rather than according to rules or a plan. informal 1992 Paul Auster Leviathan The only condition was that Sachs arrive at Maria's house promptly at ten o'clock, and from then on they would play it by ear.

play to the gallery: see GALLERY.

play with fire take foolish risks.

play yourself in become accustomed to the circumstances and conditions of a game or activity; get into a rhythm or pattern of working or performing. British playing

a level playing field: see LEVEL.

not playing with a full deck: see DECK.

please

as — as you please used to emphasize the degree to which someone or something possesses the specified quality, especially when this is seen as surprising. informal 1989 Marilynne Robinson Mother Country Hearing themselves expound as slick as you please on every great question of the age... they must feel that their gift to the world of enlightenment exculpates the racism.

pleased

pleased as punch: see PUNCH. pleasure
at Her (or His) Majesty's pleasure detained in a British prison.

pledge
sign (or take) the pledge make a solemn undertaking to abstain from alcohol.

plight
plight your troth pledge your word in marriage or betrothal.

plot
lose the plot lose your ability to understand what is happening; lose touch with reality.
informal
1997 Spectator The truth is that we've lost the plot of great painting and have entered a new phase in which the criteria for judging work are ... demonstrably shallow and trivial.

the plot thickens the situation becomes more difficult and complex.

plough
plough a lonely (or your own) furrow follow a course of action in which you are isolated or in which you can act independently.

plough the sand labour uselessly.

plunge
take the plunge commit yourself to a course of action about which you are nervous.
informal

plus plus-minus more or less; roughly. South African 1992 Weekend Post He expected 'plus-minus' 1000 files would eventually be forwarded for 'possible prosecution'.

poach
poach on someone's territory encroach on someone else's rights.

poacher
poacher turned gamekeeper someone who now protects the interests which they previously attacked.

pocket
have deep pockets have large financial resources. informal 1998 Spectator In any case, it was never in any danger of going out of business ... there were several other putative proprietors with deep pockets waiting in the wings.

in pocket (1) having enough money or money to spare; having gained in a transaction. (2) (of money) gained by someone from a transaction.

in someone's pocket dependent on someone financially and therefore under their influence; closely involved with someone.

out of pocket having lost money in a transaction.
pay out of pocket pay for something with your own money. US put your hand in your pocket spend or provide your own money.

poetic poetic justice the fact of experiencing a fitting or deserved retribution for your actions.

point
the finer points of: see FINER.
point the bone at: see BONE.
point of no return the point in a journey or enterprise at which it becomes essential or more practical to continue to the end.

score points (off) deliberately make yourself appear superior to someone else by making clever remarks.

take someone’s point accept the validity of someone’s idea or argument, chiefly British win on points win by accumulating a series of minor gains rather than by a single dramatic feat.

politics
play politics act for political or personal gain rather than from principle.
derogatory

pomp
pomp and circumstance the ceremonial formality surrounding a public event.

pony
on Shanks’s pony: see SHANKS’S PONY.

poor
poor as a church mouse (or as church mice) extremely poor.

poor little rich girl (or boy) a wealthy young person whose money brings them no contentment (often used as an expression of mock sympathy).

poisoned
a poisoned chalice something that is apparently desirable but likely to be damaging to the person to whom it is given.

poisoned chalice a chalice that is poisonous.

poisoned chalice something that is apparently desirable but likely to be damaging to the person to whom it is given.

poisoned chalice a chalice that is poisonous.

poisoned chalice something that is apparently desirable but likely to be damaging to the person to whom it is given.

poisoned chalice a chalice that is poisonous.

poisoned chalice something that is apparently desirable but likely to be damaging to the person to whom it is given.

poisoned chalice a chalice that is poisonous.
poor relation a person or thing that is considered inferior or subordinate to others of the same type or group.

1997 Independent on Sunday Many downhillers think of Nordic skiing as a poor relation—fit only for wimps who can’t take speed.

take a poor view of: see take a dim view of at view.

pop
— a pop costing a specified amount per item.
North American informal

1999 Tim Lott White City Blue I never thought I’d see the day when a curry house would do Margaritas. The waiter looks delighted. I’m not surprised at six pounds a pop.

have (or take) a pop at 1 physically attack. 2 criticize. informal 1995 Musik Two of the girls we rumbled were so outraged that they put up flyers all over the country taking a pop at us.

in pop in pawn. British informal pop the question propose marriage. British informal pop your clogs die. informal 1998 Oldie We cannot claim any credit for foreseeing that Enoch was about to pop his clogs.

pope
Is the Pope (a) Catholic? used to indicate that something is blatantly obvious. informal poppy

a tall poppy: see TALL.

port
any port in a storm in adverse circumstances any source of relief or escape is welcome.

Although this expression applies to a ship seeking shelter from rough weather, it has been in use as a proverb from at least the mid 18th century.

pose strike a pose: see STRIKE.

possessed
like someone possessed very violently or wildly, as if under the control of an evil spirit.

possum
play possum 1 pretend to be asleep or unconscious when threatened. 2 feign ignorance.

stir the possum stir up controversy; liven things up. Australian informal post beaten at the post: see BEATEN.

be left at the post: see LEFT.
deaf as a post: see deaf as an adder at DEAF.
first past the post: see FIRST.
from pillar to post: see PILLAR.

pip someone at the post: see PIP.

postal go postal go mad, especially from stress. US informal 1999 New Yorker A man two seats away ‘went postal’ when the battery on his cell phone gave out. A heavyset passenger had to sit on the man until the train finally pulled into Grand Central.

posted
keep someone posted keep someone informed of the latest developments.

1999 Post-ed-up was a mid 19th-century Americanism meaning ‘well informed’.

pot
for the pot for food or cooking.

1992 Doris Lessing African Laughter That was when we shot for the pot, just shooting what we needed.

go to pot deteriorate through neglect. informal

The idea here is of chopping ingredients up into small pieces before putting them in the pot for cooking, and from this comes the sense ‘be ruined or destroyed’.

keep the pot boiling: see BOILING.

the pot calling the kettle black someone making criticisms about someone else which could equally well apply to themselves.

1998 Times Yet as Guardian insiders point out, the pot can’t call the kettle black. She can’t cry foul when subjected to fair and standard competition.
pot of gold: see GOLD.
put someone’s pot on inform on a person.
Australian & New Zealand informal shit (or piss) or get off the pot used to convey that someone should stop wasting time and get on with something. vulgar slang potato

couch potato: see COUCH.
drop someone or something like a hot potato: see HOT.
small potatoes: see SMALL.

Potemkin
a Potemkin village a sham or unreal thing.

1 Count Potemkin (1739–91), a favourite of Empress Catherine II of Russia, reputedly ordered a number of fake villages to be built for the empress’s tour of the Crimea in 1787.

pot luck
take pot luck take a chance that whatever is available will be good or acceptable.

pottage
sell something for a mess of pottage sell something for a ridiculously small amount.

1 This expression comes from the biblical story of Esau, who sold his birthright to his brother Jacob in return for a dish of lentil broth (Genesis 25:29–34). Mess is a term for a serving of semi-liquid food and pottage is an archaic word for soup or stew. Although the phrase is recorded from 1526 it does not occur in the Authorized Version of the Bible (1611); it does, however, appear in chapter headings in the Bibes of 1537 and 1539 and in the Geneva Bible of 1560.

pound
your pound of flesh an amount you are legally entitled to, but which it is morally offensive to demand.

1 The allusion here is to Shylock’s bond with the merchant Antonio in Shakespeare’s The Merchant of Venice and to the former’s insistence that he should receive it, even at the cost of Antonio’s life.

pound the pavement move about on foot at a steady, regular pace in a town or city.
1992 New York Times Put yourself in the shoes of someone who . . . is now out pounding the pavement wondering what to settle for in a low-wage job.

pour
it never rains but it pours: see RAIN.
pour cold water on: see COLD.
pour it on progress or work quickly or with all your energy. North American informal pour oil on troubled waters try to settle a disagreement or dispute with words intended to placate or pacify those involved.

powder
keep your powder dry be ready for action; remain alert for a possible emergency.

1 When his troops were about to cross a river, the English statesman and general Oliver Cromwell (1599–1658) is said to have exorted them: ‘Put your trust in God; but mind to keep your powder dry’. The powder referred to is gunpowder.

1998 Independent Instead of keeping its powder dry for the important things, New Labour’s political fate is being inextricably bound up with events over which mere politicians can have no control.

powder your nose (of a woman) go to the lavatory.

1 This is an early 20th-century euphemism, which is now rather dated. The term powder room has been used since the 1940s to refer to a ladies’ toilet in a hotel, restaurant, or similar public building.

1972 L. P. Davies What Did I Do Tomorrow? I’ll use your bathroom. To powder my nose, as nice girls say.

take a powder depart quickly, especially in order to avoid a difficult situation. North American informal 2002 New York Times Why don’t you take a powder, jerk, or how’d you like a knuckle sandwich?

power
do someone or something a power of good be very beneficial to someone or something, informal more power to your elbow! said to encourage someone or express approval of their actions. British power behind the throne a person who exerts authority or influence without having formal status.

the powers that be the authorities.

1 This phrase comes from Romans 13:1: ‘the powers that be are ordained of God’.
practice
old Spanish practices: see old Spanish customs at Spanish. practice makes perfect regular exercise of an activity or skill is the way to become proficient in it.
practise practise what you preach do what you advise others to do.
prawn
come the raw prawn: see RAW.
prayer
not have a prayer have no chance at all of succeeding at something. informal 1998 Oldie Show them you can re-programme the computer to eliminate the Millennium Problem and you are in. Confess that you don’t even know how to turn it on, and you haven’t a prayer.
preach
preach to the converted advocate something to people who already share your convictions about its merits or importance.
precious
precious little (or few) extremely little (or few).
pregnant
a pregnant pause (or silence) a pause or silence that is laden with meaning or significance.
premium
put (or place) a premium on regard as or make particularly valuable or important.
1998 New Scientist Enormous forces would have acted upon the skull and neck, putting a premium on size and strength.
presence
presence of mind the ability to remain calm and take quick, sensible action when faced with difficulty or danger.
present
all present and correct used to indicate that not a single thing or person is missing.
1982 Bernard MacLaverty A Time to Dance She began to check it, scraping the coins towards her quickly and building them into piles. 'All present and correct,' she said.
(t here is) no time like the present used to suggest that something should be done now rather than later.
present company excepted excluding those who are here now.
press
press something home: see drive something home at HOME.
press (the) flesh (of a celebrity or politician) greet people by shaking hands. informal, chiefly North American 2000 New Yorker Clinton seemed... a figure from the past—a politician made to press the flesh, to give speeches in large halls and negotiate with his opponents in small rooms.
pretty come to a pretty pass reach a bad or regrettable state of affairs.
not just a pretty face intelligent as well as attractive.
a pretty penny a large sum of money. informal 1989 Russell Banks Affliction You can probably get a pretty penny for that place in a year or two.
pretty as a picture very pretty.
sitting pretty in an advantageous position or situation. informal prey
fall prey to ① be hunted and killed by. ② be vulnerable to or overcome by.
price
everyone has their price everyone can be won over by money.
a price on someone’s head a reward offered for someone’s capture or death.
price yourself out of the market be unable to compete commercially.
what price —? ① used to ask what has become of something or to suggest that something has or would become worthless. ② used to state that something seems unlikely.
① 1991 New Scientist What price modern medicine with its reliance on the prescription pad, and the slavish devotion to pills?
prick
kick against the pricks: see KICK.
prick up your ears ① (especially of a horse or dog) make the ears stand erect when on the alert. ② (of a person) become suddenly attentive.
a spare prick at a wedding a person who is out of place or has no role in a particular situation. British vulgar slang.

pricking

a pricking in your thumbs a premonition or foreboding.

This expression comes from a speech by the Second Witch in Shakespeare’s Macbeth: ‘By the pricking of my thumbs, Something wicked this way comes’.

pride

pride goes (or comes) before a fall if you’re too conceited or self-important, something will happen to make you look foolish.

This phrase is adapted from Proverbs 16:18: ‘Pride goeth before destruction, and an haughty spirit before a fall’. Goes before here means ‘precedes’.

pride of place the most prominent or important position amongst a group of things.

1995 Abdulrazak Gurnah Paradise He was brought up in a devout Sikh household in which the writings of the great Gurus had pride of place in the family shrine.

your pride and joy someone or something of which you are very proud and which is a source of great pleasure.

prime

prime the pump stimulate or support the growth or success of something, especially by supplying it with money.

This phrase is used literally of a mechanical pump into which a small quantity of water needs to be poured before it can begin to function.

1977 Tom Sharpe The Great Pursuit Significance is all... Prime the pump with meaningful hogwash.

primrose

the primrose path the pursuit of pleasure, especially when it is seen to bring disastrous consequences.

The allusion here is to ‘the primrose path of dalliance’ to which Ophelia refers in Hamlet.

prince

prince (or princess) of the blood a man (or woman) who is a prince (or princess) by right of their royal descent.

prisoner

prisoner of conscience a person detained or imprisoned because of their religious or political beliefs.

This phrase is particularly associated with the campaigns of Amnesty International, a human-rights organization.

take no prisoners be ruthlessly aggressive or uncompromising in the pursuit of your objectives.

1998 Times The transition from Formula One to front-wheel drive saloon cars was never going to be easy... especially in a series where drivers are not known for taking prisoners.

pro

the pros and cons the arguments for and against something; the advantages and disadvantages of something.

Pro is Latin for ‘for’; con is an abbreviation of Latin contra, meaning ‘against’.

Procrustean

a Procrustean bed something designed to produce conformity by unnatural or violent means.

In Greek mythology, Procrustes was a robber who tied his victims to a bed, either stretching or cutting off their legs in order to make them fit it.

1998 Spectator Intellectuals often employ their intellects for foolish purposes, forcing facts onto a Procrustean bed of theory.

prod

on the prod looking for trouble. North American informal prodigal

prodigal son a person who leaves home to lead a spendthrift and extravagant way of life but later makes a repentant return.

The biblical parable of the prodigal son in Luke 15: 11–32 tells the story of the spendthrift younger son of a wealthy man who leaves home and wastes all his money. When he repents of his extravagant ways and returns home, he is joyfully welcomed back by his father. See also kill the fatted calf (at FATTED).
production
make a production of do something in an unnecessarily elaborate or complicated way.

profession
the oldest profession the practice of working as a prostitute. humorous pull like pulling teeth extremely difficult or laborious to do. informal prolong prolong the agony cause a difficult or unpleasant situation to last longer than necessary.

promise
on a promise (of a person) confidently assured of something, especially of having sexual intercourse with someone. informal providence

tempt providence: see tempt fate at TEMPT.

prune prunes and prisms used to denote a prim and affected speech, look, or manner.

proof
above proof (of alcohol) having a stronger than standard strength.

public
go public ① become a public company. ② reveal details about a previously private concern.

publish publish or perish used to refer to an attitude or practice existing within academic institutions, whereby researchers are under pressure to publish material in order to retain their positions or to be deemed successful.

prop
prop up the bar spend a considerable time drinking in a pub. informal proud do someone proud ① act in a way that gives someone cause to feel pleased or satisfied. ② treat someone with lavish generosity or honour. informal puff

in all your puff in your whole life. informal, chiefly British

pug pull a face: see make a face at FACE.
pull a fast one: see FAST.
pull in your horns: see draw in your horns at HORN.
pull someone’s leg deceive someone playfully; tease someone. pull the other one used to express a suspicion that you are being deceived or teased. British informal

A fuller form of this expression is pull the other one, it’s got bells on.

1994 Sunday Times Michael Foot receive a warm ovation from the CBI? Norman Tebbit address a TUC conference? Pull the other one. pull out all the stops: see STOP.
pull the plug prevent something from happening or continuing; put a stop to something, informal

This phrase alludes to an older type of lavatory flush which operated by the pulling out of a plug to empty the contents of the pan into the soil pipe.

1997 New Scientist And with the first elements of the ISS set for launch next year, it’s hardly likely Congress will pull the plug on the project.
pull rank: see RANK.
pull strings make use of your influence and contacts to gain an advantage unofficially or unfairly.

An American variant of this expression is pull wires: the image here and in the next idiom is of a puppeteer manipulating a marionette by means of its strings.

1998 New Scientist Behind the scenes, there is invariably a democratic government or two pulling strings to keep the cigarette barons in power.
pull the strings be in control of events or of other people’s actions.
pull together cooperate in a task or undertaking.
pull the wool over someone’s eyes: see WOOL.
pull your punches be less forceful, severe, or violent than you could be.
pull your socks up: see SOCK.
pull your weight do your fair share of work.
pull yourself together recover control of your emotions.
pulp beat (or smash) someone to a pulp beat someone severely.
pulse feel (or take) the pulse of ascertain the general mood or opinion of.

The image here is of literally determining someone’s heart rate by feeling and timing the pulsation of an artery.

1994 Daily Mirror Our new Housing Monitor . . . will take the pulse of the housing market to keep you informed about the value of your most precious asset—your home.
pump pump iron exercise with weights. informal punch
beat someone to the punch anticipate or forestall someone’s actions.
pleased (or proud) as Punch feeling great delight or pride.

This expression alludes to the self-congratulatory glee displayed by the grotesque, hook-nosed Punch, anti-hero of the Punch and Judy puppet show.
pull punches: see PULL.
punch above your weight engage in an activity or contest perceived as being beyond your capacity or abilities.

This is a metaphor from boxing, in which contests are arranged between opponents of nearly equal weight.

1998 Spectator Post-imperial Britain retains an imperial habit of mind . . . we entertain . . . an ambition to 'punch above our weight'.
punch the (time) clock (of an employee) clock in or out. 2 be employed in a conventional job with regular hours. North American punch someone’s lights out: see LIGHT.
punch your ticket: see TICKET.
roll with the punches: see ROLL.
punt
take (or have) a punt at have a go at; attempt.
Australian & New Zealand informal

1998 Times: Magazine However cheerfully positive I can be about the future, the man from the Pru isn’t going to take a punt on me living the full term.
pup sell someone a pup swindle someone, especially by selling them something that is worthless. British informal
This phrase originated in the early 20th century; the idea behind it is presumably that of dishonestly selling someone a young and inexperienced dog when an older, trained animal had been expected.

1930 W. Somerset Maugham Cakes and Ale The public has been sold a pup too often to take unnecessary chances.

purdah

in purdah in seclusion.

Purdah comes from the curtain (parda) used in traditional Hindu and Muslim households, especially in the Indian subcontinent, to conceal women from the eyes of strangers. The transferred use of this expression to refer to seclusion generally dates from the 1920s.

1998 Times Treasury ministers are, of course, in purdah.

pure

pure and simple and nothing else.

1991 Alabama Game & Fish They are bred for waterfowling, pure and simple.

pure as the driven snow completely pure.

When used of snow, driven means that it has been piled into drifts or made smooth by the wind. The phrase was famously parodied by the actress Tallulah Bankhead in 1947: ‘I’m as pure as the driven slush’.

the real Simon Pure: see Simon Pure.

purler

come (or go) a purler fall heavily, especially head first.

The verb purl was in dialect or colloquial use in the mid 19th century in the senses ‘turn upside down’, ‘capsize’, or ‘go head over heels’.

purple

born in (or to) the purple born into a reigning family or privileged class.

In ancient times, purple garments were worn only by royal and imperial families because of the rarity and costliness of the dye. Born in the purple (rather than to) may have specific reference to the fact that Byzantine empresses gave birth in a room in the palace at Constantinople whose walls were lined with the purple stone porphyry. The title ‘the Porphyrogenitos’ or ‘Porphyrogenita’ was used for a prince or princess born in this room.

a purple patch an ornate or elaborate passage in a literary composition.

This term is a translation of Latin purpureus pannus, and comes from the Roman poet Horace’s Ars Poetica: ‘Works of serious purpose and grand promises often have a purple patch or two stitched on, to shine far and wide’.

purpose

accidentally on purpose apparently by accident but in fact intentionally.

purse

hold the purse strings have control of expenditure.

make a silk purse out of a sow’s ear: see SILK.

push

at a push if necessary; in an emergency. British 1997 Trail It’s roomy for one person, but can take two at a push.

give someone (or get) the push (or shove) dismiss someone (or be dismissed) from a job; reject someone (or be rejected) in a relationship. British informal push at (or against) an open door have no difficulty in accomplishing a task; fail to realize how easy something is.

push the boat out: see BOAT.

push someone’s buttons: see BUTTON.

push your luck act rashly or presumptuously on the assumption that you will continue to be successful or in favour. informal when push comes to shove when action must be taken; if the worst comes to the worst. informal 2001 Financial Director When push comes to shove, investors are not always impressed with promises of jam tomorrow.

pushing

pushing up the daisies: see DAISY.

put

not know where to put yourself feel deeply embarrassed. informal 1986 Robert Sproat Stunning the Punters He was begging and pleading with me... with tears rolling down his cheeks so I didn’t know where to put myself.

put backbone into someone: see BACKBONE.

put the boot in: see BOOT.
putty

be like putty (or wax) in someone’s hands be easily manipulated or dominated by someone.

1975 Sam Selvon Moses Ascending Bob was there, and I gave him a little bit of crumpet, and afterwards he was like putty in my hands.

Pyrrhic

Pyrrhic victory a victory gained at too great a cost.

1 Pyrrhus was a king of Epirus, who defeated the Romans at Asculum in 279 BC, but in doing so sustained heavy losses and lost his finest troops.
q.t.
on the q.t. secretly or secret; without anyone noticing. informal newfound abbreviation of quiet.

quake
quake in your shoes: see shake in your shoes at SHAKE.

quart
get (or fit) a quart into a pint pot attempt to do the impossible, especially when this takes the form of trying to fit something into a space that is too small. British quarter

a bad quarter of an hour: see BAD.

queen
take the Queen’s shilling: see take the King’s shilling at SHILLING.

Queensberry
the Queensberry Rules standard rules of polite or acceptable behaviour.

Quick means an area of flesh that is well sensitive to touch or injury.

quick and dirty makeshift; done or produced hastily. informal, chiefly US quick as a flash: see FLASH. quick on the draw very fast in acting or reacting.

quick
be quick off the mark: see MARK.
cut someone to the quick cause someone deep distress by a hurtful remark or action.

queen
in Queer Street in difficulty, especially by being in debt. British informal, dated.

Quer Street was an imaginary street where people in difficulties were supposed to live. The phrase has been used since the early 19th century to indicate various kinds of misfortune, but its predominant use has been to refer to financial difficulty. The use of ‘queer’ to mean ‘a male homosexual’ is a separate development.

queer
queer someone’s pitch spoil someone’s chances of doing something, especially secretly or maliciously. British

This phrase originated as 19th-century slang; early examples of its use suggest that the pitch referred to is the spot where a street performer stationed themselves or the site of a market trader’s stall.

1973 Elizabeth Lemarchand Let or Hindrance
He’s a decent lad . . . he would never have risked queering Wendy’s pitch with Eddy.

question
be a question of time be certain to happen sooner or later.
the sixty-four thousand dollar question: see SIXTY-FOUR.

quick
be quids in be in a position where you have profited or are likely to profit from something. British informal Quids is only found in this phrase, the normal plural being quid.

not the full quid not very intelligent. Australian & New Zealand informal

As an informal term for a pound sterling (or, in former times, a sovereign or guinea) quid dates from the late 17th century: its quiet

anything for a quiet life: see life.
quiet as a mouse (or lamb) (of a person or animal) extremely quiet or docile.

1982 Robertson Davies The Rebel Angels I shall be as quiet as a mouse. I’ll just tuck my box... in this corner, right out of your way.

quiet as the grave: see silent as the grave at GRAVE.

quince
get on someone’s quince irritate or exasperate someone. Australian informal quits

call it quits 1 agree or acknowledge that terms are now equal, especially on the settlement of a debt. 2 decide to abandon an activity or venture, especially so as to cut your losses.

The origin of the -s in quits is uncertain: the word may be an abbreviation of the medieval Latin quittus, meaning ‘discharged’, which was used on receipts to indicate that something had been paid for.

The phrase is recorded from the late 19th century, but an earlier form, cry quits, dates back to the mid 17th century.

quiver
an arrow in the quiver: see ARROW.

qui vive
on the qui vive on the alert or lookout.

1 The French expression qui vive? (used in English since the late 16th century) means literally ‘(long) live who?’ In former times a sentry would issue this challenge to someone approaching his post so as to ascertain where their allegiance lay.

1976 J. E. Weems Death Song They came in groups of four, five, or six—'all on the qui vive, apprehensive of treachery, and ready to meet it'.

quote
quote — unquote used parenthetically when speaking to indicate the beginning and end (or just the beginning) of a statement or passage that you are repeating, especially to emphasize the speaker’s detachment from or disagreement with the original. informal Rr

R
the three Rs reading, (w)riting, and (a)rithmetic, regarded as the fundamentals of elementary education.

rabbit
breed like rabbits reproduce prolifically.
informal

buy the rabbit fare badly; come off worse.
informal

pull (or bring) a rabbit out of the (or a) hat used to describe an action that is fortuitous, and may involve sleight of hand or deception.

work the rabbit's foot on cheat or trick. US

A rabbit's foot is traditionally carried as a good-luck charm.

race
be in the race have a chance of success.
Australian & New Zealand informal

1953 T. A. G. Hungerford Riverslake 'See that bloke?' He pointed down the road after the vanished car. 'A few years ago he wouldn't have been in the race to own a car like that.'

a race against time a situation in which someone attempts to do or complete something before a particular time or before something else happens.

rack
at rack and manger amid abundance or plenty.

A rack is a frame in which hay is placed, and a manger also holds food for horses. The use of rack and manger together dates from the late 14th century in both literal and figurative senses.

go to rack and ruin gradually deteriorate in condition because of neglect; fall into disrepair.

A rack is a variant spelling of the word wrack, meaning ‘destruction’, but it is the standard one in this expression, which has been in use since the late 16th century.

1998 Oldie The allotment below mine looks set to go to rack and ruin from its previous well-tended state.

off the rack: see off the peg at PEG.

on the rack suffering intense distress or strain.

rack your brains (or brain) make a great effort to think of or remember something.

A rack was a medieval instrument of torture consisting of a frame on which a victim was stretched by turning rollers to which their wrists and ankles were tied. To rack someone was to torture them on this device and the image in this idiom is of subjecting one's brains to a similar ordeal in the effort to remember something.

1998 Spectator If I rack my brains for something nice to say about our weather, I suppose it does at least enable us to grow better grass than they do in California.

raft
a (whole) raft of — a large collection of something.

Raft here is an alteration of a dialect word raff, meaning ‘a great quantity’.

1998 Housing Agenda Since the election of Labour last May, the social inclusion agenda has come to span a whole raft of Government initiatives.

rag
chew the rag: see chew the fat at CHEW.

(from) rags to riches used to describe a person's rise from a state of extreme poverty to one of great wealth.

2000 Imogen Edwards-Jones My Canapé Hell Much was made of his East End roots, his chance discovery on Oxford Street. He was truly a modern day tale of rags to riches.

in your glad rags: see GLAD.

lose your rag lose your temper. informal 1998 New Scientist In boxing as in medieval theology, anger is a sin. Lose your rag and you are likely to lose the match.

part brass rags with quarrel and break off a friendship with.
This expression is explained in W. P. Drury’s short story The Tadpole of an Archangel (1898): ‘When [sailors] desire to prove the brotherly love ... with which each inspires the other, it is their ... custom to keep their brasswork cleaning rags in a joint ragbag. But should relations ... become strained between them, the bag owner casts forth upon the deck ... his sometime brother’s rags; and with the parting of the brassrags hostilities begin’. The phrase originated as late 19th-century nautical slang.

rag, tag, and bobtail a group of people perceived as disreputable or undesirable.

A bobtail is a horse or dog with a docked tail, while rag and tag both express the idea of ‘tattered clothes’: the phrase literally means ‘people in ragged clothes together with their dogs and horses’. The forms tag, rag, and bobtail, ragtag and bobtail, and tagrag and bobtail are also found.

a red rag to a bull: see RED.

take the rag off the bush (or hedge) surpass everything or everyone. chiefly US rage

all the rage very popular or fashionable.

Rage is used here in the sense of a widespread (and often temporary) enthusiasm or fashion.

1998 New Scientist The weather people call this repetition ‘ensemble forecasting’, and it has been all the rage since an unexpected storm blew in late one evening and ripped through southern Britain in October 1987.

ragged

run someone ragged exhaust someone by making them undertake a lot of physical activity.

rail

go off the rails begin behaving in a strange, abnormal, or wildly uncontrolled way. informal 1998 New Scientist If you had ... asked him what he was doing, you might have thought he’d gone off the rails.

on the rails behaving or functioning in a normal or regulated way. informal 2(of a racehorse or jockey) in a position on the racetrack nearest the inside fence.

ride the rails: see RIDE.

rain

it never rains but it pours misfortunes or difficult situations tend to follow each other in rapid succession or to arrive all at the same time.

rain cats and dogs rain very hard.

Despite much speculation, there is no consensus as to the origin of rain cats and dogs. Suggestions range from the supernatural (cats being associated with witches who were credited with raising storms, dogs being attendants upon Odin, the Scandinavian storm god) to the down-to-earth (animals in medieval times drowning in flooded streets in times of heavy rain and their bodies being assumed by the credulous to have fallen from the skies). Other versions of the saying are rain pitchforks and, in Britain, rain stair rods, which date from the early 19th century and mid 20th century respectively, and reflect the shaft-like appearance of heavy rain. Rain cats and dogs is first recorded in Jonathan Swift’s Polite Conversation (1738).

rain on someone’s parade prevent someone from enjoying an occasion or event; spoil someone’s plans. informal, chiefly North American (come) rain or shine whether it rains or not; whatever the circumstances.

1994 BBC Top Gear Magazine But come rain or shine, there is a torrent of new convertibles about to reach the UK.

right as rain (of a person) perfectly fit and well, especially after a minor illness or accident. informal 1995 Patrick McCabe The Dead School You just make sure to give him this medicine and come tomorrow night he’ll be right as rain.

rainbow

at the end of the rainbow used to refer to something much sought after but impossible to attain.

This phrase refers to the story of a crock of gold supposedly to be found by anyone who succeeds in reaching the end of a rainbow.

chase rainbows (or a rainbow) pursue an illusory goal.

rain check

take a rain check said when politely refusing an offer, with the implication that you may take it up at a later date. North American
A rain check is a ticket given to spectators at US sporting events enabling them to claim a refund of their entrance money or gain admission on another occasion if the event is cancelled because of rain. The rain-check system is mentioned as operating in US sports grounds in the late 19th century; the figurative use of the word dates from the early 20th century.

Rainy

A rainy day a possible time of need, usually financial need, in the future.

The expression may originate from the days when casual farm labourers needed to save a proportion of their wages ‘for a rainy day’, i.e. for occasions when bad weather might prevent them from working and earning money.

2002 New York Times Book Review

The Russian walked out of K.G.B. headquarters with ‘insurance against a rainy day’—the K.G.B.’s file on its secret mole inside the F.B.I.

Raise

Raise Cain see CAIN.

Raise the devil see DEVIL.

Raise a dust 1 cause turmoil. 2 obscure the truth. British

Raise your eyebrows see EYEBROW.

Raise your hat to someone admire or applaud someone.

The image here is of the gesture of briefly removing your hat as a mark of courtesy or respect to someone.

Raise hell see HELL.

Raise the roof make or cause someone to make a lot of noise inside a building, for example through cheering.

1995 Daily Mail

The fans were patient and understanding and when I finally scored against Swansea they raised the roof.

Raise the wind obtain money for a purpose. British

When it first entered the language in medieval times, this phrase referred to the belief that spirits or witches were able to cause the winds to blow in order to help or hinder ships; the figurative use dates from the late 18th century.

Rake

Rake over (old) coals (or rake over the ashes) revive the memory of a past event which is best forgotten. chiefly British

A rake’s progress a progressive deterioration, especially through self-indulgence.

The late 18th-century use of rake to mean ‘criticism’ or ‘rebuke’ was extended in early raspberry

blow a raspberry make a derisive or contemptuous sound with your lips.

This expression is from rhyming slang, where raspberry tart means a fart.

1996 Observer It is unthinkable that, this close to a general election, the party is going to blow a raspberry at its leader.

rat

rats deserting a sinking ship people hurrying to get away from an enterprise or organization that is failing. informal ration

come up (or be given) with the rations (of a medal) be awarded automatically and without regard to merit. military slang rattle

rattle someone’s cage make someone feel angry or annoyed, usually deliberately. informal

A humorous comparison is implied between the person annoyed in this way and a dangerous animal taunted by spectators outside its cage.

rattle sabres threaten to take aggressive action.

raw

come the raw prawn attempt to deceive someone. Australian informal

In Australian English, a stupid person can be referred to as a prawn.

1959 Eric Lambert Glory Thrown In Don’t ever come the raw prawn with Doc, mate. He knows all the lurks.

in the raw 1 in its true state; not made to seem better or more palatable than it actually is. 2 (of a person) naked. informal touch someone on the raw upset someone by referring to a subject about which they are extremely sensitive.

ray

ray of sunshine someone or something that brings happiness into the lives of others.

1997 Trail Don’t worry … let our Knowledge experts bring a ray of sunshine into your lives with their radiant personalities and shining answers.

razor

Occam’s razor: see Occam.

on a razor’s edge: see on a knife-edge at KNIIFE-EDGE.

read

read between the lines look for or discover a meaning that is hidden or implied rather than explicitly stated.

1994 American Spectator Those familiar with the virulent animosity in this element of black racism can read between the lines to get a fuller picture.

read someone like a book be able to understand someone’s thoughts and motives clearly or easily.

read my lips listen carefully (used to emphasize the importance of the speaker’s words or the earnestness of their intent). North American informal

This expression was most famously used by the US Republican president George Bush in an election campaign pledge in 1988: ‘Read my lips: no new taxes’.

read the riot act give someone a strong warning that they must improve their behaviour.

The Riot Act was passed by the British government in 1715 in the wake of the Jacobite rebellion of that year and was designed to prevent civil disorder. The Act made it a felony for a group of twelve or more people to refuse to disperse after being ordered to do so and having been read a certain part of the Act by a person in authority. It was not repealed until 1967.

take something as read assume something without the need for further discussion.

you wouldn’t read about it used to express incredulity, disgust, or ruefulness. Australian & New Zealand informal ready ready for the off (of a person or vehicle) fully prepared to leave. informal ready to roll (of a person or machine) fully prepared to start functioning or moving. informal real

for real used to assert that something is genuine or is actually the case. North American informal

1992 Michael Bishop Count Geiger’s Blues
The man… radiated only bluster and uncertainty. If challenged, he’d run. The other man facing Xavier was for real. He’d fight.

get real! used to convey that an idea or statement is foolish or overly idealistic. informal, chiefly North American 1995 Jayne Miller Voxpop You might think living in a garret and starving for your art is wonderful, but get real!

the real McCoy: see McCoy.

the real Simon Pure: see Simon Pure.

the real thing a thing that is absolutely genuine or authentic. informal ream

ream someone’s ass (or butt) criticize or rebuke someone. North American vulgar slang reap

reap the harvest (or fruits) of suffer the results or consequences of.

you reap what you sow you eventually have to face up to the consequences of your actions.

This proverbial saying exists in various forms. Its biblical source is Galatians 6:7: ‘Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap’.

rear
rear its head (of an unpleasant matter) emerge; present itself.

reason
for reasons best known to himself (or herself, etc.) used when recounting someone’s behaviour to suggest that it is puzzling or perverse. chiefly humorous see reason (or sense) realize that you have been wrong and adopt a sensible attitude.

(it) stands to reason it is obvious or logical.

theirs (or ours) not to reason why it is not someone’s place to question a situation, order, or system.

This phrase comes from Tennyson’s poem ‘The Charge of the Light Brigade’ (1854), which describes how, in a notorious incident in the Crimean War, the British cavalry unquestioningly obeyed a suicidal order to ride straight at the Russian guns.

rebel
a rebel without a cause a person who is deeply dissatisfied with society in general but does not have a specific aim to fight for.

1 Rebel Without A Cause was the title of a US film starring James Dean, released in 1955.

rebound
on the rebound while still affected by the emotional distress caused by the ending of a romantic or sexual relationship.

receiving be at (or on) the receiving end be subjected to something unpleasant. informal recharge recharge your batteries regain your strength and energy by resting and relaxing for a time.

reckoned
a — to be reckoned with (or to reckon with) a thing or person of considerable importance or ability that is not to be ignored or underestimated.

2002 New Internationalist Now nearly 80, the ex-Harvard Pro is still full of brio and a force to be reckoned with.

record
for the record so that the true facts are recorded or known.

1992 Sun There was no need to ask if I had gone to the flat. For the record I have never been to the flat. The questions were calculated to make me look bad.

a matter of record something that is established as a fact through being officially recorded.

off the record not made as an official or attributable statement.

1990 Charles Allen The Savage Wars of Peace I went to see him very much as somebody going in just to have a chat with him off the record after the interrogation.

on (the) record used in reference to the making of an official or public statement.

officially measured and noted.

recorded on tape and reproduced on a record or another sound medium.

put (or set) the record straight give the true version of events that have been reported incorrectly; correct a misapprehension.
red

better dead than red the prospect of nuclear war is preferable to that of a Communist society.

- This expression was a cold-war slogan; it was reversed by the nuclear disarmament campaigners of the late 1950s as better red than dead.

in the red in debt, overdrawn, or losing money.

- Red ink was traditionally used to indicate debit items and balances in accounts. Compare with in the black (at BLACK).

paint the town red: see PAINT.

red as a beetroot (of a person) red-faced, typically through embarrassment.

a red herring something, especially a clue, which is or is intended to be misleading or distracting.

- This expression derives from the former practice of using the pungent scent of a dried smoked herring to teach hounds to follow a trail (smoked herrings were red in colour as a result of the curing process).

red in tooth and claw involving savage or merciless conflict or competition.

- This phrase originated as a quotation from Tennyson's 'In Memoriam' (1850): 'Nature, red in tooth and claw'.

1998 Spectator Life is sharper on the shop floor, too; and for small business it is red in tooth and claw.

a red letter day a pleasantly memorable, fortunate, or happy day.

- In Church calendars, a saint's day or church festival was traditionally distinguished by being written in red letters.

(like) a red rag to a bull an object, utterance, or act which is certain to provoke or anger someone.

- The colour red was traditionally supposed to provoke a bull, and is the colour of the cape used by matadors in bullfighting.

1998 Times Such talk is like a red rag to a bull at the Soil Association.

reds under the bed used during the cold war with reference to the feared presence and influence of Communist sympathizers in a society.

see red become very angry suddenly. informal red-light red-light district an area of a city or town containing many brothels, strip clubs, and other sex businesses.

redress redress the balance take action to restore equality in a situation.

reduced in reduced circumstances used euphemistically to refer to the state of being poor after being relatively wealthy.

reed a broken reed a weak or ineffectual person, especially one on whose support it is foolish to rely.

- This expression refers to Isaiah 36:6, in which the Assyrian general taunts King Hezekiah of Jerusalem about the latter's supposed ally, the Egyptian pharaoh: 'Lo, thou trustest in the staff of this broken reed, on Egypt'.

rein (a) free rein complete freedom of action or expression.

- The image here is of loosening grip on the reins of a horse, allowing it to choose its own course and pace, in contrast to the greater control implied by the next idiom.

keep a tight rein on exercise strict control over; allow little freedom to.

reinvent reinvent the wheel waste a great deal of time or effort in creating something that already exists or doing something that has already been done.

relieve relieve your feelings use strong language or vigorous behaviour when annoyed.

religion get religion be converted to religious belief and practices. informal remain it remains to be seen something is not yet known or certain.

1996 Scientific American It remains to be seen how well Russian and U.S. spacefarers will work together... in the more demanding environment of a space station under construction.

residence
— in residence a person with a specified occupation (especially an artist or writer) paid to work for a time in a college or other institution.

2002 Ashmolean Annual Report Artist in Residence, Sarah Mulhall, demonstrates print-making techniques.

resistance
the line (or path) of least resistance an option which avoids difficulty or unpleasantness; the easiest course of action.

resort
in the last resort whatever else happens or is the case; ultimately.

1991 John Caldwell Oxford History of English Music In the last resort it was only Italian singers who could command the attention of the public in a large theatre.

respect
pay your respects: see PAY.

respec ter
be no respecter of persons treat everyone the same, without being influenced by their status or wealth.

1 This expression refers to Acts 10:34: ‘God is no respecter of persons’.

rest
give it a rest used to ask someone to stop doing or talking about something that the speaker finds irritating or tedious. informal no rest for the wicked: see no peace for the wicked at WICKED. rest your case ①conclude your presentation of evidence and arguments in a lawsuit. ②used humorously to show that you believe you have presented sufficient evidence for your views.
the rest is history: see HISTORY.
rest on your laurels: see LAURELS.

retreat
beat a retreat: see BEAT.

revenge
revenge is a dish best served (or eaten) cold vengeance is often more satisfying if it is not exacted immediately. proverb reverse

the reverse of the medal: see MEDAL.

reward
go to your reward die.

1 This euphemistic expression is based on the idea that people receive their just deserts after death.

rewrite
rewrite history select or interpret events from the past in a way that suits your own particular purposes.
rewrite the record books (of a sports player) break a record or several records.

rhyme
rhyme or reason logical explanation or reason.

ribbon
cut a (or the) ribbon perform an opening ceremony, usually by formally cutting a ribbon strung across the entrance to a building, road, etc.
cut (or tear) something to ribbons ① cut (or tear) something so badly that only ragged strips remain. ② damage something severely.

rich
a bit rich used to refer to something that causes ironic amusement or indignation.
1998 Times It is also a bit rich for Mr Hames to reprove Buckingham Palace for its ‘new, slick, emphasis on presentation’, while speaking for the organisation that invented ‘rebranding Britain’.

Richard
have had the Richard be irreparably damaged. Australian

1 This expression comes from rhyming slang Richard the Third, meaning ‘bird’. In the theatre, get the bird means ‘be booed and hissed at’.

rid
be well rid of be in a better state for having removed or disposed of a troublesome or unwanted person or thing.
riddance

good riddance said to express relief at having got free of a troublesome or unwanted person or thing.

- Sometimes a fuller form is used: good riddance to bad rubbish!

riddle

talk (or speak) in riddles express yourself in an ambiguous or puzzling manner.

ride

for the ride for pleasure or interest, rather than any serious purpose.

- 2002 New York Times Women are now the primary force behind an explosion in new cocktail concoctions, and men are simply going along for the ride, say bartenders and liquor marketing executives.

let something ride take no immediate action over something.

ride bodkin: see BODKIN.

ride for a fall act in a reckless or arrogant way that invites defeat or failure. informal

- This phrase originated as a late 19th-century horse-riding expression, meaning to ride a horse, especially in the hunting field, in such a way as to make an accident likely.

ride herd on keep watch over.

- Literally, this North American expression means ‘guard or control a herd of cattle by riding round its edge’.

- 1999 Coloradoan (Fort Collins) That, in turn, would detract from his ability to ride herd on Washington special interests, allowing deficits to grow like mushrooms under a rotten log.

ride high be successful.

ride off into the sunset achieve a happy conclusion to something.

- In the closing scenes of westerns, the characters are often seen riding off into the sunset after everything has been resolved satisfactorily.

ride on someone’s coat-tails: see COAT-TAIL.

ride the pine (or bench) (of an athlete) not participate in a game or event, typically because of poor form. North American informal ride the rails travel by rail, especially without a ticket. North American ride roughshod over: see ROUGHSHOD.

someone or something rides again used to indicate that someone or something has reappeared unexpectedly and with new vigour.

ride shotgun travel as a guard in the seat next to the driver of a vehicle.

- ride in the passenger seat of a vehicle.

a rough (or easy) ride a difficult (or easy) time doing something.

take someone for a ride deceive or cheat someone. informal

rig

(in) full rig (wearing) smart or ceremonial clothes. informal right

bang to rights (of a criminal) with positive proof of guilt. informal

- A North American variant of this expression is dead to rights.

put (or set) someone right restore someone to health. make someone understand the true facts of a situation.

right as a trivet: see TRIVET.

right enough certainly; undeniably. informal a right one a silly or foolish person. British informal somewhere to the right of Genghis Khan holding right-wing views of the most extreme kind.

- Genghis Khan (1162–1227), the founder of the Mongol empire, is used here as a supreme example of a repressive and tyrannical ruler. The name of the early 5th-century warlord Attila the Hun is sometimes substituted for that of Ghengis Khan in this expression.

Riley

the life of Riley (or Reilly) a luxurious or carefree existence. informal

- Reilly or Riley is a common Irish surname. A popular song of the early 20th century entitled ‘My Name is Kelly’ included the lines...
‘Faith and my name is Kelly Michael Kelly, But I’m living the life of Reilly just the same’. This may be the source of the expression but it is possible that the songwriter, H. Pease, was drawing on an already existing catchphrase.

1978 Daily Telegraph It is simply not true that we don’t pay tax and are living the life of Riley.

Rimmon

bow down in the house of Rimmon: see BOW.

rinderpest

before (or since) the rinderpest a long time ago (or for a very long time). South African Rinderpest is a contagious viral disease of cattle that periodically caused heavy losses in much of Africa. The 1896 epidemic was so devastating that it was treated as a historical landmark, so giving rise to this expression.

ring

hold the ring monitor a dispute or conflict without becoming involved in it.

1991 Mark Tully No Full Stops in India The police no longer attempt to hold the ring between the farmers and landless labourers fighting for just the paltry minimum wage.

ring a bell: see BELL.

ring the changes: see CHANGE.

ring down (or up) the curtain mark the end (or the beginning) of an enterprise or event.

The reference here is to the ringing of a bell in a theatre as the signal to raise or lower the stage curtain at the beginning or end of a performance. Compare with bring down the curtain on (at CURTAIN).

ring in your ears (or head) linger in the memory.

ring the knell of: see KNELL.

ring off the hook (of a telephone) be constantly ringing due to a large number of incoming calls. North American run (or make) rings round someone outclass or outwit someone very easily. informal throw your hat in the ring: see HAT.

riot

read the riot act: see READ.

Ritz

put on the Ritz make a show of luxury or extravagance.

let something rip ① allow something, especially a vehicle, to go at full speed. ② allow something to happen forcefully or without interference. ③ express something forcefully and noisily. informal rise

get (or take) a rise out of provoke an angry or irritated response from someone, especially by teasing them. informal rise and shine get out of bed smartly; wake up. informal rise from the ashes be renewed after destruction.

In classical mythology, the phoenix was a unique bird resembling an eagle that lived for five or six centuries in the Arabian desert. After this time it burned itself on a funeral pyre ignited by the sun and fanned by its own wings and was then born again from the ashes with renewed youth to live through another cycle of life. The simile like a phoenix from the ashes is used of someone or something that has made a fresh start after apparently experiencing total destruction.

rise to the bait react to a provocation or temptation exactly as intended.

The image here is of a fish coming to the surface to take a bait or fly.

1966 Listener I should perhaps apologise for having risen to the bait of Mr Wilkinson’s provocative letter.

rise with the sun (or lark) get up early in the morning.

rising

someone’s star is rising: see STAR.

rite

rite of passage a ceremony or event marking an important stage in someone’s life, especially birth, initiation, marriage, and death.

Ritz

The hotels in Paris, London, and New York founded by the Swiss-born hotelier César Ritz (1850–1918) became synonymous with great luxury. This expression dates from the heyday of these grand hotels in the early 20th century.
river

sell someone down the river betray someone, especially so as to benefit yourself. informal

1 This expression originated in the USA, with reference to the practice in the slave-owning states of selling troublesome slaves to owners of sugar-cane plantations on the lower Mississippi, where conditions were harsher than those in the more northerly states.

1998 Bookseller Once you have lost it with the first three the last lot will sell you down the river so fast it isn’t true.

up the river to or in prison. informal, chiefly North American

1 This phrase originated with reference to Sing Sing prison, which is situated up the Hudson River from the city of New York.

road

all roads lead to Rome: see Rome.
down the road in the future. informal the end of the road: see End.
hit the road: see Hit.
in (or out of) the (or your) road in (or out of) someone’s way. informal one for the road a final drink, especially an alcoholic one, before leaving for home. informal a road to nowhere a situation or course of action offering no prospects of progress or advancement.
take to the road (or take the road) set out on a journey or series of journeys.

roaring

do a roaring trade (or business) sell large amounts of something; do very good business. informal rob

rob Peter to pay Paul take something away from one person to pay another, leaving the former at a disadvantage; discharge one debt only to incur another.

1 This expression probably arose in reference to the saints and apostles Peter and Paul, who are often shown together as equals in Christian art and who therefore may be presumed to be equally deserving of honour and devotion. It is uncertain whether a specific allusion is intended; variants of the phrase include unclothe Peter and clothe Paul and borrow from Peter to pay Paul.

1997 New Scientist So far, NASA has been able to rob Peter to pay Paul, taking money from the shuttle and science programmes to keep the ISS on track.

rob someone blind get a lot of money from someone by deception or extortion. informal round Robin Hood’s barn by a circuitous route.

Robin Hood

1 Robin Hood is the semi-legendary English medieval outlaw reputed to have robbed the rich and helped the poor. In this expression, Robin Hood’s barn represents an out-of-the-way place of a kind that might be used by an outlaw or fugitive such as Robin Hood. Recorded from the mid 19th century, the phrase seems to have originated in the dialect speech of the English Midlands, the area in which Robin Hood is said to have operated.

1998 Times They are saying now, as they once said of Richard Nixon, that Bill Clinton is ‘between a rock and a hard place’.

get your rocks off 1 have an orgasm. 2 obtain pleasure or satisfaction. vulgar slang on the rocks 1 (of a relationship or enterprise) experiencing difficulties and likely to fail. 2 (of a drink) served undiluted and with ice cubes. informal rock the boat: see Boat.

rocker

off your rocker crazy. informal

1 A rocker in this expression is a concave piece of wood or metal placed under a chair or cradle enabling it to rock back and forth.

1932 Evelyn Waugh Black Mischief It’s going to be awkward for us if the Emperor goes off his rocker.

rocket

not rocket science used to indicate that something is not very difficult to understand. humorous rise like a rocket (and fall like a stick) rise suddenly and dramatically (and subsequently fall in a similar manner).

The origin of this phrase is a jibe made by Thomas Paine about Edmund Burke’s oratory in a 1792 House of Commons debate on the subject of the French Revolution. Paine remarked: ‘As he rose like a rocket, he fell like the stick’.

rocky

development to — a difficult progression to something.

rod

kiss the rod: see KISS.

make a rod for your own back do something likely to cause difficulties for yourself later.

a rod in pickle a punishment in store.

In pickle means ‘preserved ready for future use’. This form, which dates from the mid 17th century, has superseded an earlier mid 16th-century variant a rod in piss.

rule someone or something with a rod of iron control or govern someone or something very strictly or harshly.

This expression comes from Psalm 2:9: ‘Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter’s vessel’.

spare the rod and spoil the child if children are not physically punished when they do wrong their personal development will suffer. proverb

Roland

a Roland for an Oliver an effective or appropriate retort or response: tit for tat. archaic

The phrase alludes to the evenly matched single combat between Roland, the legendary nephew of Charlemagne, and Oliver, another of Charlemagne’s knights (paladins). Neither man was victorious and a strong friendship subsequently developed between them. According to the French medieval epic the Chanson de Roland, Roland was in command of the rearguard of Charlemagne’s army when it was ambushed at Roncesvalles (now Roncevaux) in the Pyrenees in 778; despite the urging of Oliver that he should blow his horn to summon aid, Roland refused to do so until too late, and they were slain along with the rest of the rearguard.

1998 Oldie Western economists cottoned on to basic ‘flaws’ in the [Indonesian] economy which they hadn’t noticed (or didn’t want to notice) while it was on a roll.

a roll in the hay (or the sack) an act of sexual intercourse. informal 1998 Barbara Kingsolver The Poisonwood Bible He just treats me like his slave-girlfriend-housemaid, having a roll in the hay when he feels like it and then running off doing God knows what for months at a time.

a roll Jack Rice couldn’t jump over a large quantity of money. Australian informal roll of honour 1 a list of those who have died in battle. 2 a list of people whose deeds or achievements, typically in sport, are honoured.

roll up your sleeves prepare to fight or work.

roll with the punches (of a boxer) move their body away from an opponent’s blows so as to lessen the impact. 2 adapt yourself to difficult or adverse circumstances.

strike someone off the rolls (or roll) debar a solicitor from practising after dishonesty or other misconduct.

In the rolls here are the official lists or records, so called from the time when such records were kept on parchment or paper scrolls.

rolled

(all) rolled into one (of characteristics drawn from different people or things) combined in one person or thing.

1907 George Bernard Shaw Major Barbara My methods... would be no use if I were Voltaire, Rousseau, Bentham, Mill, Dickens, Carlyle, Ruskin, George, Butler, and Morris all rolled into one.

rolling

be rolling (in it or in money) be very rich. informal

Rolling in (i.e. ‘turning over and over in’) here has the sense of ‘luxuriating in’. The idea of wallowing in riches has been current since the late 16th century.

have people rolling in the aisles: see AISLE.

a rolling stone a person who does not settle in one place for long.

This expression comes from the proverb a rolling stone gathers no moss, meaning that a person who is always moving on will not...
accumulate wealth or status, or responsibilities or commitments.

rolling drunk so drunk as to be swaying or staggering.

Roman

A Roman holiday an occasion on which enjoyment or profit is derived from the suffering or discomfort of others.

1 This expression comes from the poet Byron’s description of the dying gladiator in Childe Harold’s Pilgrimage as having been ‘ butchered to make a Roman holiday’.

Rome

all roads lead to Rome there are many different ways of reaching the same goal or conclusion.

1 This is an ancient saying which was based on the fact that Rome was the point of convergence of all the main roads of the Roman empire, and after that of the medieval pilgrimage routes through Europe. It can be compared with the medieval Latin phrase mille vie ducunt hominem per secula Romam, meaning ‘a thousand roads lead a man forever towards Rome’.

Rome was not built in a day a complex or ambitious task is bound to take a long time and should not be rushed.

1 This warning against rashness and impatience has been current in English since the mid 16th century.

when in Rome (do as the Romans do) when abroad or in an unfamiliar environment you should adopt the customs or behaviour of those around you.

1 This proverbial expression may ultimately derive from St Ambrose of Milan (d. 397), who is quoted in one of St Augustine’s letters as saying that when he was in Rome he fasted as they did there, on a Saturday, although when he was in Milan he did not do this. A medieval Latin saying expresses the idea as si fueris Romae, Romano vivito more; si fueris alibi, vivito sicut ibi, ‘if you are at Rome, live in the Roman manner; if elsewhere, live as they do there’.

Cutlery is still for wimps (though you no longer have to ask for it). But when in Rome, eat the correct way, please, using a piece of Roti to scoop up your curry, in your right hand only.

roof

go through (or hit) the roof (of prices or figures) reach extreme or unexpected heights; become exorbitant. suddenly become very angry, informal raise the roof: see raise.

the roof falls in a disaster occurs; everything goes wrong.

rooftop

Shout something from the rooftops talk about something openly and jubilantly, especially something previously kept secret.

1 This phrase is adapted from Luke 12:3: ‘that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops’.

room

in a smoke-filled room (of political bargaining or decision-making) conducted privately by a small group of influential people rather than more openly or democratically.

1 This expression comes from a 1920 news report about the selection of the Republican presidential candidate: ‘[Warren] Harding of Ohio was chosen by a group of men in a smoke-filled room’.

no (or not) room to swing a cat used in reference to a very confined space.

1 The cat in this expression is probably a ‘cat-o-nine-tails’, a form of whip with nine knotted cords. In former times these whips were used to flog wrongdoers, especially at sea.

room at the top opportunity to join an elite or the top ranks of a profession.

1 The expression is attributed to the American politician Daniel Webster (1782–1852), who was cautioned against attempting to enter the overcrowded legal profession and is said to have replied: ‘There is always room at the top’.

root

put down roots begin to lead a settled life in a particular place.

root and branch used to express the thorough or radical nature of a process or operation.
Which? Last year, the government undertook a root and branch examination of the home-buying process in England and Wales.

strike at the root (or roots) of have a potentially destructive effect on.

take root become fixed or established.

rope
give someone enough rope (or plenty of rope) give a person enough freedom of action to bring about their own downfall.

know the ropes: see KNOW.

money for old rope: see money for jam at MONEY.

on the ropes in a desperate position; in a state of near collapse or defeat.

a rope of sand used in allusion to something that provides only illusory security or coherence. literary rose defined: see BED.

come up roses (of a situation) develop in a very favourable way. informal

come up smelling of roses: see SMELLING.

everything’s (or it’s all) roses everything is going well. informal there is no rose without a thorn every apparently desirable situation has its share of trouble or difficulty.

not all roses not entirely perfect or agreeable. informal 1938 Graham Greene Brighton Rock Sometimes he’s bad to me... it’s not all roses.

roses, roses, all the way very successful or pleasant.
punishment, that is approximately fair. ② treatment that is not at all fair or not in accordance with the law.
a rough passage (or ride) a difficult time or experience. sleep rough sleep in uncomfortable conditions, usually out of doors. British take the rough with the smooth accept the difficult or unpleasant aspects of life as well as the good.
roughshod
ride roughshod over carry out your own plans or wishes with arrogant disregard for others.
1977 Times Literary Supplement Sociologists are notorious for their use of generalizing terms that ride roughshod over the particularities of history.
round
go the round (or rounds) (of a story or joke) be passed on from person to person.
in the round (of sculpture) standing free with all sides shown, rather than carved in relief against a ground. ② treated fully and thoroughly; with all aspects shown or considered. ⑧ (of a theatrical performance) with the audience placed on at least three sides of the stage.
round the bend: see BEND.
a square peg in a round hole: see PEG.
row
a hard (or tough) row to hoe a difficult task.
① Hoeing a row of plants is used here as a metaphor for very arduous work.
royal
royal road to a way of attaining or reaching something without trouble.
① This expression alludes to a remark attributed to the Greek mathematician Euclid (c.300 BC). When the Egyptian ruler Ptolemy I asked whether geometry could not be made easier, Euclid is said to have replied: ‘There is no royal road to geometry’.
rub
not have two — to rub together have none or hardly any of the specified items, especially coins. informal 1999 Independent Soon you realise you have as many troubles when you are rich as when you haven’t two pennies to rub together.
rub your hands show keen satisfaction or expectation.
rub someone’s nose in something (or rub it in) emphatically or repeatedly draw someone’s attention to an embarrassing or painful fact. informal ① This expression comes from the mistaken belief that the way to house-train a puppy or kitten is to rub their noses in their faeces or urine if they have made a mess indoors.
1963 P. M. Hubbard Flush as May I’m sorry. I’ve said I’m sorry . . . Don’t rub my nose in it.
rub shoulders associate or come into contact with another person.
① A US variant of this expression is rub elbows.
1943 Graham Greene The Ministry of Fear It wasn’t exactly a criminal world, though eddying along its dim and muted corridors you might possibly rub shoulders with genteel forgers.
rub someone (up) the wrong way irritate or repel someone.
① The image here is of stroking an animal against the lie of its fur. there’s (or here’s) the rub that is the crucial difficulty or problem. literary ① This expression comes from Shakespeare’s Hamlet: ‘To sleep: perchance to dream: ay, there’s the rub; For in that sleep of death what dreams may come When we have shuffled off this mortal coil, Must give us pause’. In the game of bowls, a rub is an impediment that prevents a bowl from running smoothly.
1998 Times Even worse, and here is the rub, nobody could say who put what paper in which tier of whose red box.
rubber
burn rubber drive very quickly. informal 1998 Times Monsanto is burning rubber on a racetrack to become world leader in life sciences.
Rubicon
cross the Rubicon take an irrevocable step.
① The Rubicon was a small river in north-east Italy which in the first century BC marked the boundary of Italy proper with the province of Cisalpine Gaul. By taking his army across the Rubicon into Italy in 49 BC, Julius Caesar broke the law forbidding a general to lead an army out of his own province, and so committed himself to war against the Senate and Pompey.
Ruffle

Ruffle someone’s feathers cause someone to become annoyed or upset.

Ruffled

Smooth someone’s ruffled feathers make someone less angry or irritated by using soothing words.

Run

Run a rug: see Cut.

Pull the rug (from under someone) abruptly withdraw support from someone.

Rule

Rule of thumb a broadly accurate guide or principle, based on experience or practice rather than theory.

1998 New Scientist The best forecast of tomorrow’s weather in any one place often comes not from a supercomputer, but from the rule of thumb that says: tomorrow it will be similar to today.

— Rules, OK? used to express your enthusiasm for a particular person or thing. informal, humorous

2000 Elle Here at ELLE we’ve always been big fans of Kerrigan’s urban babewear, and this season… she really rocked. Daryl K rules, OK?

Rule the roost be in complete control.

1998 Spectator A committee of directors will run the rule over would-be bidders.

Run

Be run off your feet be kept extremely busy. informal

Run it fine: see Cut it fine at Fine.

Give someone or something a (good) run for their money provide someone or something with challenging competition or opposition.

1997 Rugby World Beaten Welsh Cup finalists Swansea gave them a good run for their money for much of the campaign before fading away.

Run to seed: see go to seed at Seed.

Have a (good) run for your money derive reward or enjoyment in return for your outlay or efforts.

(Try to) Run before you can walk attempt something difficult before you have grasped the basic skills required.

Run someone close almost defeat a person or team in a contest.

Run dry (especially of a source of money or information) be completely used up.

(Make a) Run for it attempt to escape someone or something by running away.

Run foul of come into conflict with; go against.

1993 Wall Street Journal Europe Everybody knows it is an exercise, but emotions nevertheless run high as the Army ‘augmentees’ warm to their roles.

Run into the sand come to nothing.

1994 Sunday Times The Ulster Unionists... are angry because they gave reluctant support to December’s initiative and it now seems to be running into the sand.

Run a mile: see Mile.

Run off at the mouth talk excessively or indiscreetly. North American informal

Run of the mill the ordinary or undistinguished type.

*In this expression, the run is literally the material produced from a mill before it has been sorted or inspected for quality.*

Run someone out of town force someone to leave a place. chiefly North American

---

*1 The original expression was rule the roast, which was common from the mid 16th century onwards. Although none of the early examples of its use shed any light on its source, we can surmise that it originally referred to someone being the most important person at a banquet or feast. Rule the roost, found from the mid 18th century, has now replaced the earlier version.*

2 The image here is of waves or tides rising above their normal height, especially in stormy conditions.
runaround
un rings round: see RING.
run someone or something to earth (or ground) find someone or something, usually after a long search.

This is an idiom from hunting, especially foxhunting, its literal meaning being 'chase a hunted animal to its lair and corner it there'.

run with the hare and hunt with the hounds: see HARE. run yourself into the ground: see work yourself into the ground at GROUND.

runaround
give someone the runaround deceive and confuse someone; avoid answering someone's questions directly. informal rune

read the runes try to forecast the outcome of a situation by analysing all the significant factors involved. British

The runes were an ancient Germanic alphabet once used in northern Europe, each character of which was supposed to have a secret magical significance. Small stones and pieces of bone engraved with these characters were used to try to foretell the future.

runner
do a runner leave hastily, especially to avoid paying for something or to escape from somewhere. British informal 1997 Iain Sinclair Lights Out For The Territory Nobody seemed to know if the absentee landlord had done a runner.

running
in (or out of) the running in (or no longer in) contention for an award, victory, or a place in a team.

make the running set the pace in a race or activity.

a running battle a confrontation that has gone on for a long time.

1 Literally, a running battle is one that is constantly changing its location, the opposite of a pitched battle (see PITCHED). The expression running fight was used in the late 17th century to describe a naval engagement in which the fight was continued as one party retreated or fled. Running battle appears to have originated in the mid 20th century.

take a running jump used when angrily rejecting or disagreeing with someone.

1998 Oldie Get back to the studio and tell the focus groups to take a running jump!

take up the running take over as pacemaker in a race.

rush
give someone the bum's rush: see BUM.
rush your fences act with undue haste. British

1 This is a metaphor from horse riding: in the hunting field if you rush your fences, rather than tackling the obstacles steadily, you risk a fall.

a rush of blood (to the head) a sudden attack of wild irrationality in your thinking or actions.

rut
in a rut following a fixed (especially tedious or dreary) pattern of behaviour that is difficult to change.

The rut in this expression is the deep groove worn by a wheel travelling many times along the same track.

1995 Nick Hornby High Fidelity I should have spotted that we were in a rut, that I had allowed things to fester to such an extent that she was on the lookout for someone else.
sabbath

A sabbath day’s journey a short and easy journey.

Rabbinical law allowed a Jew to travel a certain distance on the Sabbath (about a kilometre); in the Bible, Mount Olivet is described as being ‘from Jerusalem a sabbath day’s journey’ (Acts 1:12).

sail

Sail close to (or near) the wind 1 sail as nearly against the wind as possible.

2 come close to breaking a rule or the law; behave or operate in a risky way.

Take the wind out of someone’s sails: see wind.

sack

Hit the sack go to bed. informal

Hold the sack bear an unwelcome responsibility. North American

A roll in the sack: see a roll in the hay at roll.

sackcloth

In sackcloth and ashes manifesting grief or repentance.

In the Bible, the wearing of sackcloth and the sprinkling ashes on your head were signs of penitence or mourning.

1999 Athletics Weekly It was their first focal point, the moment of truth when their season could blossom further in Seville or end in sackcloth and ashes.

sacred

A sacred cow: see cow.

saddle

In the saddle 1 on horseback. 2 in a position of control or responsibility.

Safe

Better safe than sorry: see better.

Safe as houses: see house.

A safe bet: see bet.

A safe pair of hands: see hand.

To be on the safe side in order to have a margin of security against risks.

2000 Tom Clancy The Bear and the Dragon To be on the safe side, the messages were super-encrypted with a 256-bit system specially made at the National Security Agency.

Safety

There’s safety in numbers being in a group of people makes you feel more confident or secure about taking action. proverb

Salad

Your salad days 1 the period when you are young and inexperienced. 2 the peak or heyday of something.

1 This is a quotation from Shakespeare’s Anthony and Cleopatra. Cleopatra is commenting on her previous relationship with Julius Caesar: ‘My salad days, When I was green in judgement, cold in blood To say as I said then!’

Saloon

In the last chance saloon: see last.

Salt

Eat salt with be a guest of. British dated

Like a dose of salts: see dose.

Put salt on the tail of capture.

Rub salt into the (or someone’s) wound make a painful experience even more painful for someone.

Salt the books fraudulently increase the apparent value of an invoice or account.

Informal

Salt a mine fraudulently make a mine appear to be a paying one by placing rich ore into it.

Informal

The salt of the earth a person or group of people of great kindness, reliability, or honesty.

1 This phrase comes from Matthew 5:13: ‘Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted?’
samaritan 252
sit below the salt be of lower social standing or worth.

This expression derives from the formercustom of placing a large salt cellar midway down a long dining table at which people were seated in order of rank.

take something with a pinch (or grain) of salt regard something as exaggerated; believe only part of something.

1998 Bookseller Meanwhile ... readers should take the quotes they see with a pinch of salt.

worth your salt good or competent at the job or profession specified.

2000 Saga Magazine Every place setting is measured with a ruler because no butler worth his salt wants to get to the end of a table with say, four settings left, and nowhere to put them.

Samaritan

good Samaritan a charitable or helpful person.

In the Bible, Jesus tells the parable of a man who 'went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves' (Luke 10). The first two people who came across him lying stripped and wounded by the side of the road 'passed by on the other side'. It was the third man, a Samaritan (i.e. a man from Samaria) who took pity on him and helped him.

same

by the same token: see TOKEN.

one and the same the same person or thing (used for emphasis).

1999 David Mitchell Ghostwritten Everybody both in heaven and hell wanted one and the same thing: meat in their bellies.

same difference used to express the speaker's belief that two or more things are essentially the same, in spite of apparent differences.

informal

same here the same applies to me.

1993 Andy McNab Bravo Two Zero 'I've still got my map and compass,' I said. 'Yeah, same here.'

sand

built on sand: see BUILT.

bury your head in the sand: see BURY.

rope of sand: see ROPE.

run into the sand: see RUN.

the sands (of time) are running out the allotted time is nearly at an end.

sandboy

happy as a sandboy: see HAPPY.

sandwich

the meat (or filling) in the sandwich a person who is awkwardly caught between two opposing factions.

a sandwich (or two sandwiches) short of a picnic (of a person) stupid or crazy.

informal

sardine packed like sardines crowded very close together.

sauce

what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander what is appropriate in one case is also appropriate in the other case in question. proverb

This expression is often used as a statement that what is right or wrong for one sex is right or wrong for the other as well.

John Ray, who was the first to record this saying (in his English Proverbs of 1670), remarked 'This is a woman's Proverb'.

1998 New Scientist What is sauce for the US goose is sauce for the Iraqi gander!

saucer

have eyes like saucers have your eyes opened wide in amazement.

sausage

not a sausage nothing at all. British informal save

be unable to do something to save your life used to indicate that the person in question is very incompetent at doing something.

The first recorded use of this expression is by Anthony Trollope in The Kellys and O'Kellys (1848): 'If it was to save my life and theirs, I can't get up small talk for the rector and his curate'.

1990 Richard Critchfield Among the British When the postwar social fabric started to tear, amid a stagnant economy and global decline... Edward Heath... was supposed to save the day. He failed to deliver.

save face: see face.
save someone’s skin (or neck or bacon) rescue someone from danger or difficulty.

saved
saved by the bell preserved from danger narrowly or by an unexpected intervention.

say
have something (or nothing) to say for yourself contribute (or fail to contribute) to a conversation or discussion.
say the word give permission or instructions to do something.

saying
go without saying be too well known or obvious to need to be mentioned.
there is no saying it is impossible to know.

scabbard
throw away the scabbard abandon all thought of making peace.

scalded
like a scalded cat at a very fast speed.

scale
the scales fall from someone’s eyes someone is no longer deceived.

scarcity
make yourself scarce surreptitiously disappear; keep out of the way. informal scare scare the daylights out of: see frighten the daylights out of at DAYLIGHT.

scene
behind the scenes in private; secretly.

scenery
behind the scenes in private; secretly.

scents
on the scent (of an animal) following the scent of its quarry, in possession of a useful clue in a search or investigation.

scheme
the scheme of things the organization of things in general; the way the world is.

schmear
the whole schmear everything possible or available; every aspect of something. North American informal school of the old school: see OLD.

the old school tie: see OLD.
the school of hard knocks painful or difficult experiences that are seen to be useful in teaching someone about life.

school of thought a particular way of thinking, especially one not followed by the speaker.

science blind someone with science: see BLIND.

score know the score be aware of the essential facts about a situation. informal on that (or this) score so far as that (or this) is concerned.

score an own goal: see GOAL.

settle (or pay) a (or the) score take revenge on someone for something damaging that they have done in the past.

Scout Scout's honour used to indicate that you have the honourable standards associated with Scouts, and so will stand by a promise or tell the truth. informal

A Scout is a member of the Scout Association, an organization for boys founded in 1908 by Lord Baden-Powell with the aim of developing their character by training them in self-sufficiency and survival techniques in the outdoors.

scrape scrape acquaintance with contrive to get to know. dated 1992 Atlantic I thought how lucky the Crimms were to have scraped acquaintance with me, for I seldom reveal my identity to ordinary people on my jaunts around the world.

scrape the barrel (or the bottom of the barrel) be reduced to using things or people of the poorest quality because there is nothing else available. informal scratch from scratch from the very beginning, especially without utilizing or relying on any previous work for assistance.

In certain sports, the scratch was originally the line or mark drawn to indicate the point from which competitors had to start a race unless they had been awarded an advantage and were able to start ahead of this line. So, a competitor starting from scratch would start from a position without any advantage. The expression up to scratch (see below) also comes from this sense of the noun scratch: a competitor who was up to scratch was of a good enough standard to start a race.

scratch a — and find a — an investigation of someone or something will soon reveal their true nature.

1 The first version of this expression used in English, in the early 19th century, was a translation of a remark attributed to Napoleon: grattez le Russe et vous trouverez le Tartare, 'scratch the Russian and you will find the Tartar'.

1924 George Bernard Shaw St Joan Scratch an Englishman and find a Protestant.

scratch your head think hard in order to find a solution to something. feel or express bewilderment. informal scratch the surface deal with a matter only in the most superficial way. initiate the briefest investigation to discover something concealed.

up to scratch up to the required standard; satisfactory.

you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours if you do me a favour, I will return it. proverb screw have a screw loose be slightly eccentric or mentally disturbed. informal put the screws on exert strong psychological pressure on someone so as to intimidate them into doing something. informal tighten (or turn) the screw (or screws) exert strong pressure on someone. informal a (final or last) turn of the screw an additional amount of pressure or hardship applied to a situation that is already extremely difficult to bear. informal screwed have your head screwed on (the right way) have common sense. informal

Scylla Scylla and Charybdis used to refer to a situation involving two dangers in which an attempt to avoid one increases the risk from the other. literary

In classical mythology, Scylla was a female sea monster who devoured sailors when they tried to navigate the narrow channel. between her and the whirlpool Charybdis. In later legends, Scylla was a dangerous rock, located on the Italian side of the Strait of Messina, a channel which separates the island of Sicily from the 'toe' of Italy.

sea
(all) at sea confused or unable to decide what to do.

1993 Sheila Stewart Ramlin Rose She had a lot of bodily sufferin. Mr Statham and the Girls couldn’t stand it; they was all at sea.

seal
put (or set) the seal on put the finishing touch to.

set (or put) your seal to (or on) mark with your own distinctive character.

The reference in both of these idioms is to the former practice of stamping your personal seal on a completed letter or other document.

sealed
someone’s lips are sealed: see LIP.

seam
bursting (or bulging) at the seams (of a place or building) full to overflowing, informal come (or fall) apart at the seams 1(of a thing) fall to pieces. 2(of a person); have an emotional breakdown; collapse. informal Seams are the lines along which pieces of fabric or the planks of a boat are joined, perceived as the points most likely to be damaged or weakened.

season
a man for all seasons: see MAN.

seat
by the seat of your pants by instinct rather than logic or knowledge. informal

This expression was first used by pilots in the mid 20th century, in the form fly by the seat of your pants, meaning 'fly a plane by relying on human judgement rather than navigational instruments'.

1977 Martin Walker National Front Mussolini had governed by the seat of his pants, guided in part by his early Socialism, in part by his... bombastic nationalism.

second
play second fiddle to: see FIDDLE.

second childhood a state of childishness that sometimes occurs in old age.

second to none surpassed by no other. 1961 Joseph Heller Catch-22 He would stand second to none in his devotion to country.

section
the golden section: see GOLDEN.

see
see the back of: see BACK.

see someone coming recognize a person who can be fooled or deceived. informal see eye to eye: see EYE.

see a man about a dog used euphemistically when leaving to go to the lavatory or if you do not wish to disclose the nature of the errand you are about to undertake. humorous see reason: see REASON.

see someone right make sure that a person is appropriately rewarded or looked after. British informal see something coming foresee or be prepared for an event, typically an unpleasant one.

see your way clear to do (or doing) something find that it is possible or convenient to do something.

seed
go (or run) to seed 1(of a plant) cease flowering as the seeds develop. 0 deteriorate in condition, strength, or efficiency.

sow the seed: see sow.

seeing
be seeing things be hallucinating. 1987 Rohinton Mistry Tales from Firozsha Baag How much fun they made of me. Calling me crazy, saying it is time for old ayah to go back to Goa... she is seeing things.

seen
have seen better days: see DAY.

seize
seize the day make the most of the present moment.

This expression is a translation of Latin carpe diem, originally a quotation from the Roman poet Horace.
sell
sell someone or something short fail to recognize or state the true value of someone or something.
1998 Times Mr Ashdown may secure his seat in the Cabinet, but he will have bought it by selling liberal principles short.
sell someone a bill of goods: see BILL.
sell someone a dummy: see DUMMY. sell someone a pup: see PUP. sell someone down the river: see RIVER.
sell like hot cakes: see CAKE.
sell the pass: see PASS.
sell your soul (to the devil) do or be willing to do anything, no matter how wrong, in order to achieve your objective.

send send someone flying cause someone to be violently flung to the ground.
send someone packing: see PACKING.
send someone to Coventry: see COVENTRY. sense
bring someone to their senses cause someone to think and behave reasonably after a period of folly or irrationality.
come to your senses become reasonable after acting foolishly.
see sense: see see reason at REASON.
take leave of your senses go mad.
separate
go your separate ways leave in a different direction from someone with whom you have just travelled or spent time.
end a romantic, professional, or other relationship.
separate the men from the boys: see MAN.
separate the sheep from the goats: see SHEEP.
separate the wheat from the chaff: see WHEAT.
serve
serve your time hold office for the normal period. spend time in office, an apprenticeship, or prison.
serve two masters take orders from two superiors or follow two conflicting or opposing principles or policies at the same time.

sesame
open sesame: see OPEN.
set
be set in stone: see be carved in stone at STONE.
set eyes on: see clap eyes on at EYE.
make a dead set at: see DEAD.
set your face against: see FACE.
set your hand to: see HAND.
set your heart (or hopes) on have a strong desire for or to do.
set little (or much or a great deal) by consider to be of little (or great) value.
set out your stall display or show off your abilities, attributes, or experience in order to convince someone of your suitability for something.
set the scene: see SCENE.
set store by: see STORE.
set your teeth clench your teeth together.
become resolute.
set the wheels in motion do something to begin a process or put a plan into action.
set the world alight (or on fire) achieve something sensational, informal.

settle settle someone’s hash: see HASH. settle a score: see SCORE.
seven
seven-league boots: see BOOT.
seventh
in seventh heaven: see HEAVEN.

shade
a shade — a little —. informal 1984 Armistead Maupin Babycakes Shall we go a shade lighter... Pink it up a bit?

shades of — used to suggest reminiscence of or comparison with someone or something specified.

shade — 'shadow' or 'ghost'.

1991 Cordelia Mansall Discover Astrology Perhaps it is shades of the way your mother had to reject her own brilliance. You have a very fine brain which you tend to put down.

shadow be frightened of your own shadow be unreasonably timid or nervous.
wear yourself to a shadow completely exhaust yourself through overwork.

shaggy
a shaggy-dog story a long, rambling story or joke, especially one that is amusing only because it is absurdly inconsequential or pointless.

shamrock
drown the shamrock drink, or go drinking on St Patrick’s day.

Shanks’s pony on Shanks’s pony using your own legs as a means of transport.

shape
get into shape (or get someone into shape) become (or make someone) physically fitter by exercise.
lick (or knock or whip) someone or something into shape act forcefully to bring someone or something into a fitter, more efficient, or better-organized state.

the shape of things to come the way the future is likely to develop.
shape up or ship out used as an ultimatum to someone to improve their performance or behaviour or face being made to leave. informal, chiefly North American share

share and share alike have or receive an equal share; share things equally.
sharp
look sharp: see look.
sharp as a needle extremely quick-witted.

the sharp end 1 the most important or influential part of an activity or process.
2 the side of a system or activity which is the most unpleasant or suffers the chief impact.
3 the bow of a ship. British humorous

she who's she — the cat's mother? 1 used as a mild reproof, especially to a child, for impolite use of the pronoun she when a person's name would have been more well mannered.
2 expressing the speaker's belief that a woman or girl has a high opinion of herself or is putting on airs. British informal sheep

the black sheep: see black.
count sheep count imaginary sheep jumping over a fence one by one in an attempt to send yourself to sleep.

1977 Harvey Pitcher When Miss Emmie was in Russia Did you know that if you count sheep, it is watching the sheep jump that sends you off?

make sheep's eyes at someone look at someone in a foolishly amorous way.

separate the sheep from the goats divide people or things into superior and inferior groups.

1 This expression alludes to the parable of the Last Judgement in Matthew 25:32-3: 'And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: and he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left'.

sheet
two (or three) sheets to (or in) the wind drunk. informal

1 The origins of this expression are nautical. Sheets here are the ropes attached to the corners of a ship's sail, used for controlling the extent and direction of the sail; if they are hanging loose in the wind, the vessel is likely to be out of control or taking an erratic course.

shelf
off the shelf not designed or made to order but taken from existing stock or supplies.
on the shelf 1 (of people or things) no longer useful or desirable. 2 (of a woman) past an age when she might expect to have the opportunity to marry.
3 (of a music recording or a film) awaiting release on the market after being recorded.

shell
come out of (or retreat into) your shell become less (or more) shy and retiring.

shield
the other side of the shield: see the other side of the coin at coin.
the reverse of the shield: see the reverse of the medal at medal.
two sides of a shield two ways of looking at something; two sides to a question.

shift
make shift do what you want to do in spite of not having ideal conditions; get along somehow.
shift for yourself manage as best you can without help. shift your ground say or write something that contradicts something you have previously written or said.

shilling
not the full shilling not mentally alert or quick-thinking.
take the King's (or Queen's) shilling enlist as a soldier. British

1 It was once the practice to pay a shilling to a man who enlisted as a soldier.

shine
take the shine off spoil the brilliance or excitement of; overshadow.
take a shine to take a fancy to; develop a liking for. informal shingle hang out your shingle begin to practise a profession. North American

1 The main and oldest sense of shingle is 'a wooden roofing tile', but in the early 19th century the word developed the more general sense of 'a piece of board', while in the USA it also acquired the particular meaning ‘a small signboard’. Literally, hanging out your shingle refers to hanging up a sign that advertises your profession.

ship
rats deserting a sinking ship: see RAT.
run a tight ship: see TIGHT.
ships that pass in the night transitory acquaintances.

when someone’s ship comes in (or home) when someone’s fortune is made.

shipshape
shipshape and Bristol fashion with everything in good order.

shoe
another pair of shoes quite a different matter or state of things.
be in another person’s shoes be in another person’s situation or predicament.
dead men’s shoes property or a position coveted by a prospective successor but available only on a person’s death.
if the shoe fits, wear it: see if the cap fits, wear it at CAP.
wait for the other shoe to drop wait for the next or final thing to happen. North American where the shoe pinches where your difficulty or trouble is.

shoot
shoot the breeze (or the bull) have a casual conversation. North American informal shoot your cuffs pull your shirt cuffs out to project beyond the cuffs of your jacket or coat.
shoot someone or something down in flames forcefully destroy an argument or proposal.

1999 BBC Top Gear Magazine I’ve been shot down in flames by the boys in the Top Gear office for saying this, but I reckon the Porsche Boxster has to be one of the most beautifully sculpted bits of artwork going.

shithouse vulgar slang
be built like a brick shithouse (of a person) have a very solid physique.

shitless vulgar slang be scared (or bored) shitless be extremely frightened (or bored).

shock
future shock: see FUTURE.

short, sharp shock a brief but harsh custodial sentence imposed on offenders in an attempt to discourage them from committing further offences. a severe measure taken in order to effect quick results.

The Home Secretary William Whitelaw advocated the short sharp shock as a form of corrective treatment for young offenders at the 1979 Conservative Party Conference; the deterrent value of such a regime was to be its severity rather than the length of time served.

shoe
another pair of shoes quite a different matter or state of things.
be in another person’s shoes be in another person’s situation or predicament.
dead men’s shoes property or a position coveted by a prospective successor but available only on a person’s death.
if the shoe fits, wear it: see if the cap fits, wear it at CAP.
wait for the other shoe to drop wait for the next or final thing to happen. North American where the shoe pinches where your difficulty or trouble is.

shoot
shoot the breeze (or the bull) have a casual conversation. North American informal shoot your cuffs pull your shirt cuffs out to project beyond the cuffs of your jacket or coat.
shoot someone or something down in flames forcefully destroy an argument or proposal.

1999 BBC Top Gear Magazine I’ve been shot down in flames by the boys in the Top Gear office for saying this, but I reckon the Porsche Boxster has to be one of the most beautifully sculpted bits of artwork going.

shithouse vulgar slang
be built like a brick shithouse (of a person) have a very solid physique.
shooting

shoot it out engage in a decisive confrontation, typically a gun battle. informal shoot a line describe something in an exaggerated, untruthful, or boastful way. British informal shoot your mouth off talk boastfully or indiscreetly. informal shoot yourself in the foot inadvertently make a situation worse for yourself; demonstrate gross incompetence. informal 1997 Spectator The only thing the Royal Opera seems to have done successfully is shoot itself in the foot.

shooting

the whole shooting match everything. informal

1989 Patrick O'Brian The Thirteen Gun Salute I have seen all the great houses brought down, Coutts, Drummonds, Hoares, the whole shooting match.

shop

all over the shop (or show) everywhere; in all directions. informal

1 All over the shop was first recorded as British 'pugilistic slang' in Hotten's Slang Dictionary of 1874: to inflict severe punishment on an opponent was 'to knock him all over the shop'.

live over the shop: see LIVE.

talk shop discuss matters concerning your work, especially in circumstances where this is inappropriate.

1990 G. Gordon Liddy The Monkey Handlers Lawyers talk shop, bounce ideas off one another all the time.

short

be caught (or taken) short be put at a disadvantage. informal a brick short of a load: see BRICK.

bring (or pull) someone up short make someone check or pause abruptly.

get (or have) someone by the short and curliest (or short hairs) have complete control of a person. informal in short order immediately; rapidly. chiefly North American in the short run (or term) over a brief period of time.

make short work of accomplish, consume, or destroy quickly.

a sandwich short of a picnic: see SANDWICH.

short and sweet brief and pleasant.

the short end of the stick the disadvantage in a situation; a bad deal.

1994 Hispanic Latinas are getting the 'short end of the stick' when it comes to equality in the business world and seeking financing for their businesses.

short, sharp shock see SHOCK.

shot

a big shot: see a big cheese at BIG.

by a long shot by far; outstandingly. informal call the shots: see CALL.

get (or be) shot of get (or be) rid of. informal give it your best shot try as hard as you can to do something. informal like a shot without hesitation; willingly. informal not a shot in your locker no money or chances left. British

1 The locker referred to in this expression is a compartment in which ammunition is kept.

not by a long shot by no means.

1991 Zee Edgell In Times Like These Even though we had a very good crowd at the meeting tonight we weren't at full strength, not by a long shot.

a shot in the arm stimulus or encouragement. informal a shot in the dark: see DARK.

shot to pieces (or to hell) ruined. informal shotgun

ride shotgun: see RIDE.

shoulder

be on someone's shoulder keep a close check on someone. informal 1998 Times No England manager can control his players... I can't be on their shoulder week in and week out.

look over your shoulder be anxious or insecure about a possible danger.

1990 Daily Star The chief executive... toasted the lifting of the takeover threat. 'Now they can get on with running the business while not looking over their shoulders,' says one city analyst.
put your shoulder to the wheel set to work vigorously.

rub shoulders with: see RUB.

a shoulder to cry on someone who listens sympathetically to another person’s problems.

shoulder to shoulder 1 side by side. 2 acting together towards a common aim.

straight from the shoulder: see STRAIGHT.

shout
in with a shout having a good chance. informal shout the odds talk loudly and in an opinionated way.

shouting
all over bar the shouting (of a contest) almost finished and therefore virtually decided. informal drive if push comes to shove: see PUSH.

show
all over the show: see all over the shop at SHOP.

get (or keep) the show on the road start (or keep going) an enterprise or organization. informal 1997 Spectator Much rarer... is the journalist who helps to keep the national show on the road.

give the (whole) show away demonstrate the inadequacies or reveal the truth of something.

the only show in town the only or most significant thing.

1998 New Scientist This should scupper the laser idea, and yet, with no other explanations on offer, it’s the only show in town.

show someone a clean pair of heels retreat speedily; run away. informal 1991 Michael Curtin The Plastic Tomato Cutter Mr Yendall, would you credit I had applicants who scorned the wages? I showed them the door.

show of hands the raising of hands among a group of people to indicate a vote for or against something, with numbers typically being estimated rather than counted.

show your teeth reveal your strength; be aggressive. British show someone the door dismiss or eject someone from a place.

shower
send someone to the showers fail early on in a race or contest. British informal shred

a thing of shreds and patches something made up of scraps of fabric patched together. literary 1991 W. S. Gilbert in The Mikado as ‘a thing of shreds and patches’.

shuffle
be (or get) lost in the shuffle be overlooked or missed in a confused or crowded situation. North American informal shuffle the cards change policy or direction.

shuffle off this mortal coil: see COIL.

shut
be (or get) shut of be (or get) rid of. informal shut the door on: see close the door on at DOOR.

shut your mind to: see close your mind at MIND.

shut the stable door after the horse has bolted: see STABLE.

shut up shop 1 cease trading, either temporarily or permanently. 2 stop some activity. informal shutter

put up the shutters (of a business) cease trading either for the day or permanently.
shy
have a shy at try to hit something, especially with a ball or stone.

sick
sick and tired annoyed about or bored with something and unwilling to put up with it any longer. informal sick as a dog extremely ill. informal sick as a parrot extremely disappointed. humorous

1 This expression is a late 20th-century British catchphrase, often associated with disappointed footballers or football managers.

1998 New Scientist Many of my MP colleagues are as sick as the proverbial parrot that Lord Sainsbury has been appointed to succeed John Battle as Britain's science minister.

the sick man of — a country that is politically or economically unsound, especially in comparison with its neighbours in the region specified.

1 In the late 19th century, following a reported comment by Tsar Nicholas I of Russia about the moribund state of the Turkish empire, the Sultan of Turkey was described as the Sick Man of Europe. The term was later extended to Turkey itself and subsequently applied to other countries.

1992 Independent He vilified the West as 'the sick man of the modern world' and attacked its institutions as 'the dictatorship of the majority dressed up as democracy'.

sick to death very annoyed by something and unwilling to put up with it any longer. informal sick to your stomach feeling nauseous. worried sick so anxious as to make yourself ill.

sight
in (or within) your sights within the scope of your ambitions or expectations.

1 The image in this phrase and in raise your sights and set your sights on below is of a target visible through the sights of a gun.

out of sight, out of mind you soon forget people or things that are no longer visible or present. proverb raise (or lower) your sights become more (or less) ambitious; increase (or lower) your expectations.
set your sights on have as an ambition; hope strongly to achieve or reach.

1996 Home Within ten minutes I had made an offer. But another couple has also set their sights on the cottage, so sealed bids were submitted.
a sight for sore eyes a person or thing that is very attractive or that you are extremely pleased or relieved to see. informal

a sight more — (or a sight — than or a sight too —) someone or something has a great deal or too much of a particular specified quality. informal 1994 New Scientist Some did bottle experiments in the lab, under tightly controlled conditions but usually involving just two species; real life is a sight more complicated than that.

sign
sign of the times something typical of the nature or quality of a particular period, typically something undesirable.

sign on the dotted line agree formally.

relationship in addition to your legal or regular partner. served separately from the main dish.

the other side of the coin: see COIN.
sidelines
on (or from) the sidelines in (or from) a position where you are observing a situation but are unable or unwilling to be directly involved in it.

1 In sports such as football and basketball, the sidelines mark the long edges of a playing area, behind which spectators, coaches, and other non-players must remain.
sideways knock someone sideways: see KNOCK.
sight
heave in sight: see HEAVE.
in (or within) your sights within the scope of your ambitions or expectations.

out of sight, out of mind you soon forget people or things that are no longer visible or present. proverb
raise (or lower) your sights become more (or less) ambitious; increase (or lower) your expectations.
set your sights on have as an ambition; hope strongly to achieve or reach.

1996 Home Within ten minutes I had made an offer. But another couple has also set their sights on the cottage, so sealed bids were submitted.
a sight for sore eyes a person or thing that is very attractive or that you are extremely pleased or relieved to see. informal

a sight more — (or a sight — than or a sight too —) someone or something has a great deal or too much of a particular specified quality. informal 1994 New Scientist Some did bottle experiments in the lab, under tightly controlled conditions but usually involving just two species; real life is a sight more complicated than that.

sign
sign of the times something typical of the nature or quality of a particular period, typically something undesirable.

sign on the dotted line agree formally.
1921 P. G. Wodehouse Indiscretions of Archie
I spoke to him as one old friend to another... and he sang a few bars from ‘Rigoletto’, and signed on the dotted line.

signed
signed, sealed, and delivered (or signed and sealed) formally and officially agreed and in effect.

silence
silence is golden it's often wise to say nothing. proverb silent silent as the grave: see GRAVE.

the silent majority the majority of people, regarded as holding moderate opinions but rarely expressing them.

silver
be born with a silver spoon in your mouth be born into a wealthy family of high social standing.
have a silver tongue be eloquent or persuasive.
on a silver platter (or salver) without having been asked or sought for; without requiring any effort or return from the recipient.
a silver lining a positive or more hopeful aspect to a bad situation, even though this may not be immediately apparent.

silk
make a silk purse out of a sow's ear turn something inferior into something of top quality.

silly
— yourself silly be unable to act rationally because of doing something to excess.

sin
— as sin having a particular undesirable quality to a high degree. informal

1991 Robert R. McCammon Boy's Life
Everybody knew Saxon's Lake was as deep as sin.

for your sins used to suggest that a task or duty is so onerous or unpleasant that it must be a punishment. chiefly British

1994 John Birmingham He Died With Falafel In His Hand Then the extended family that is Brisbane sent some people along to keep me company, and for my sins, I took them in.
like sin vehemently or forcefully. informal sing

sing a different tune (or song) change your opinion about or attitude towards someone or something.

sing for your supper: see SUPPER.

sing from the same hymn (or song) sheet present a united front in public by not disagreeing with one another. British informal 2000 South China Morning Post We're all singing from the same hymn sheet and there is a real will to clean up the game, though it may take a life ban to restore cricket's credibility.

singe

singe your wings suffer harm, especially in a risky attempt.

singing

all-singing, all-dancing: see ALL.

sink

everything but the kitchen sink: see KITCHEN.

sink or swim fail or succeed entirely by your own efforts.

sinking

a (or that) sinking feeling an unpleasant feeling caused by the realization that something unpleasant or undesirable has happened or is about to happen.

siren

siren song (or call) the appeal of something that is also considered to be harmful or dangerous.

In classical mythology, the Sirens were sea nymphs whose beautiful singing lured sailors to their doom on submerged rocks.

sit

sit at someone's feet be someone's pupil or follower.

sit loosely on not be very binding.

sit on the fence: see FENCE.

sit on your hands take no action.

1998 Times The England selectors, historically, find reasons to sit on their hands.

sit (heavy) on the stomach (of food) take a long time to be digested.

sit on someone's tail drive extremely close behind another vehicle, typically while waiting for a chance to overtake.

sit tight ① remain firmly in your place. ② refrain from taking action or changing your mind. informal ① 1984 Studs Terkel! The Good War Our colonel told everyone to sit tight, don't leave the camp.

sit up (and take notice) suddenly start paying attention or have your interest aroused. informal six

at sixes and sevens in a state of total confusion or disarray.

sit on someone's tail drive extremely close behind another vehicle, typically while waiting for a chance to overtake.

siren song (or call) the appeal of something that is also considered to be harmful or dangerous.

In classical mythology, the Sirens were sea nymphs whose beautiful singing lured sailors to their doom on submerged rocks.

hit (or knock) someone for six affect someone very severely; utterly overwhelm someone. British informal ① In this expression, six stands for six runs, referring to a hit in cricket which sends the ball clear over the boundary of the ground for a score of six runs.

six feet under dead and buried. informal ① Six feet is the traditional depth of a grave.

six of one and half a dozen of the other used to convey that there is no real difference between two alternatives.

sixpence

on a sixpence (of a stop or turn) within a small area or short distance. British informal ① The old sixpenny coin was one of the smallest in circulation prior to decimalization in 1971.

sixty-four

the sixty-four thousand dollar question something that is not known and on which a great deal depends.

① This expression dates from the 1940s and was originally the sixty-four dollar question, from a question posed for the top prize in a broadcast quiz show.

1996 Independent Will conversion make the society a better business? That is the $64,000 question.

size
that's about the size of it said to confirm a person’s assessment of a situation, especially one regarded as bad. informal skate get your skates on make haste; hurry up. British informal skating (skating) on thin ice: see ICE.

skeleton
a skeleton at the feast: see a ghost at the feast at FEAST.
a skeleton in the cupboard a discreditable or embarrassing fact that someone wishes to keep secret.
1 A US variant of this expression is a skeleton in the closet.

skid
hit the skids begin a rapid decline or deterioration. informal

1 The origin of skid is uncertain, but it may be connected with the Old Norse word from which English ski is derived. It is used here and in the next two entries in the sense of a plank or roller on which a heavy object may be placed in order to move it easily.

on the skids (of a person or their career) in a bad state; failing. informal 1989 Thomas Berger The Changing Past Jackie arrived at middle age with a career on the skids.

put the skids under hasten the decline or failure of. informal skin

be skin and bone be very thin.
by the skin of your teeth by a very narrow margin; only just.

get under someone’s skin 1 annoy or irritate someone intensely. 2 fill someone’s mind in a compelling and continual way. 3 reach a deep understanding of someone. informal

slap
1998 Times A student of the Method school, he has to get under the skin of the character he portrays.

give someone (some) skin shake or slap hands together as a gesture of friendship or solidarity. US black slang have a thick (or thin) skin be insensitive (or oversensitive) to criticism or insults.

it’s no skin off my nose it’s a matter of indifference to me; I am unaffected by something. informal there’s more than one way to skin a cat there’s more than one way of achieving your aim.

1 There are several traditional proverbs along these lines, for example there are more ways of killing a cat than choking it with cream.

under the skin in reality, as opposed to superficial appearances.

skirt
a bit of skirt: see a bit of fluff at BIT.

skull
out of your skull 1 out of your mind; crazy. 2 very drunk. informal sky

the sky is the limit there is practically no limit.

1991 Nation He proudly proclaims that today in Russia the sky is the limit to what a person can earn.

to the skies very highly; enthusiastically.

1989 Gay Daly Pre-Raphaelites in love Gabriel wrote to his little sister praising Lizzie to the skies.

slack
cut someone some slack allow someone some leeway; make allowances for someone’s behaviour. North American informal 1998 Times Most, though, are willing to cut Spielberg some slack for the sake of cinematic interpretation.

take (or pick) up the slack 1 pull on the loose end or part of a rope in order to make it taut. 2 use up a surplus or improve the use of resources to avoid an undesirable lull in business.

slap
a slap in the face (or eye) an unexpected rejection or affront.
slap on the wrist a mild reprimand or punishment.

slap someone on the back congratulate someone heartily.

take (or use) a sledgehammer to crack a nut use disproportionately forceful means to achieve a simple objective.

fighting tooth decay by annihilating mostly harmless bacteria in your mouth is like taking a sledgehammer to crack a nut.

put someone's (or have your) ass in a sling land someone (or be) in trouble. North American vulgar slang sling beer work as a bartender. North American informal sling hash (or plates) serve food in a cafe or diner. North American informal sling your hook: see HOOK.
slings and arrows adverse factors or circumstances.

slow slow but (or and) sure not quick but achieving the required result eventually. proverb smack have a smack at make an attempt at or attack on. informal a smack in the face (or eye) a strong rebuff. informal small the (wee) small hours the early hours of the morning immediately after midnight.
small is beautiful the belief that something small-scale is better than a large-scale equivalent.
small potatoes something insignificant or unimportant.
small is beautiful is the title of a book by E. F. Schumacher, published in 1973. The phrase is best known through its adoption as a slogan by environmentalists.
small potatoes and few in the hill. This phrase originated in mid 19th-century American use, especially in the form small potatoes and few in the hill.

smart look smart be quick. chiefly British smell live (or survive) on the smell of an oil rag live in conditions of extreme want. Australian smell blood discern weakness or vulnerability in an opponent.
smell of the lamp show signs of laborious study and effort.
smell a rat begin to suspect trickery or deception. informal smell the roses enjoy or appreciate what is often ignored. North American informal slip give someone the slip evade or escape from someone. informal let something slip 1 reveal something inadvertently in the course of a conversation. 2 fail to take advantage of an opportunity.

let something slip through your fingers (or grasp) 1 lose hold or possession of something. 2 miss the opportunity of gaining something.

slip on a banana skin make a silly and embarrassing mistake.
there’s many a slip (‘twixt cup and lip) many things can go wrong between the start of something and its completion; nothing is certain until it has happened. proverb slippery slippery slope an idea or course of action which will lead inevitably to something unacceptable, wrong, or disastrous.

smelling

come up (or out) smelling of roses (or violets) make a lucky escape from a difficult situation with your reputation intact. informal

1 The fuller form of this expression, fall in the shit and come up smelling of roses, explains the idea behind it.

smiling

come up smiling recover from adversity and cheerfully face the future. informal 1989 Woman's Realm But despite her ordeal courageous Kelly has come up smiling and is now looking forward to a bright future.

smoke

go up in smoke 1 be destroyed by fire. 2 (of a plan) come to nothing. informal no smoke without fire (or where there's smoke there's fire) there's always some reason for a rumour. proverb

1998 Times This is not saying that there is no smoke without fire—which sentiment underlines why bogus claims can do so much irreparable damage—but that this is always, necessarily, going to be an incendiary issue.

smoke and mirrors the obscuring or embellishing of the truth of a situation with misleading or irrelevant information. chiefly North American 1998 Sunday Telegraph Ministers accused the Conservatives of a 'smoke and mirrors' con trick.

smoke like a chimney smoke tobacco incessantly.

watch someone's smoke observe another person's activity.

1 The implication of this phrase is that the activity in question will be so fast and furious that smoke will be generated.

1947 P. G. Wodehouse Full Moon Look at Henry the Eighth ... And Solomon. Once they started marrying, there was no holding them—you just sat back and watched their smoke.

smoking

a smoking gun (or pistol) a piece of incontrovertible evidence.

1 This phrase draws on the assumption, a staple of detective fiction, that the person found with a recently fired gun must be the guilty party. The use of the phrase in the late 20th century was particularly associated with the Watergate scandal in the early 1970s involving the US President Richard Nixon. When one of the Watergate tapes revealed Nixon's wish to limit the FBI's role in the investigation, Barber B. Conable famously commented: 'I guess we have found the smoking pistol, haven't we?'

1998 New Scientist This genetic smoking gun is evidence of a migration out of Asia that is hard to refute.

smooth

in smooth water in quiet and serene circumstances, especially after difficulties.

smooth someone's ruffled feathers: see RUFFLED.

snake

a snake in the grass a treacherous or deceitful person.

1 Since the late 17th century this expression has entirely superseded the earlier idiom a pad in the straw. Pad is an old dialect term for a toad, an animal that was formerly thought to be poisonous.

snaky

go (or drive someone) snaky lose (or cause someone to lose) their self-control. Canadian snap

bite someone's head off: see HEAD.

in a snap in a moment; almost immediately. informal, chiefly North American snap your fingers at: see FINGER.

snappy

make it snappy be quick about it.

1994 Pete Hamill A Drinking Life Into bed! he said. Make it snappy! I retreated into the darkness of the second floor from the kitchen.

sneezed

not to be sneezed at not to be rejected without careful consideration; worth having or taking into account. informal

snook

cock a snook openly show contempt or a lack of respect for someone or something. informal, chiefly British

1 Literally, if you cock a snook, you place your hand so that your thumb touches your nose and your fingers are spread out, in order to express contempt. Recorded from the late 18th century, the expression's origins are uncertain—as are those of the gesture itself, which occurs under a variety of names and in many countries, the earliest definite mention of it being by Rabelais in 1532.

snow
pure as the driven snow: see pure.

snowball
not a snowball’s chance in hell: see not a hope in hell at hell.

snuff
up to snuff 1 up to the required standard. 2 in good health. informal snug

snug as a bug (in a rug) extremely comfortable. humorous soap

no soap no chance of something happening or occurring. North American informal

1 The origin of this expression, used to refuse a request, may lie in the mid 19th-century US informal use of soap to mean ‘money’.

1929 Edmund Wilson I Thought of Daisy If he tries to cut in on you, don’t letum—I’ll just tellum, no soap.

sober
sober as a judge completely sober.

sock
knock (or blow) someone’s socks off amaze or impress someone. informal 1991 Barbara Anderson Girls High Years ago she saw a Hockney... the few lines which sketched the owlsh face knocked her socks off.

knock the socks off someone beat or surpass someone. informal pull your socks up make an effort to improve your work, performance, or behaviour. informal put a sock in it stop talking. British informal sock it to someone attack someone vigorously or make a forceful impression on them in some other way. informal 1991 Baseball Today Chicago socked it to the other teams in the American league.

— your socks off do something with great energy or enthusiasm. informal 1996 Premiere Ray Liotta strikes perfect notes as Hill while Joe Pesci blows your socks off as sociopathic side-kick Tommy.

soda
from soda to hock from beginning to end. dated

1 In the card game faro, the soda is the exposed top card at the beginning of a deal, while the hock is the last card remaining in the box after all the others have been dealt.

soft
have a soft spot for be fond of or affectionate towards.

soldier
come (or play) the old soldier use your greater age or experience of life to deceive someone or to shirk a duty. informal

1 In US nautical slang a soldier or an old soldier was an incompetent seaman.

soldier of fortune an adventurous person ready to take service under any person or state in return for money; a mercenary.

some
and then some and plenty more than that. informal, chiefly US

1998 New Scientist But by simply sitting still and digesting, a chick could double this rate and then some.

something thirty-something (or forty-something, etc.) an unspecified age between thirty and forty (forty and fifty, etc.). informal son

son of a gun a humorous or affectionate way of addressing or referring to someone. informal

1 The term arose with reference to the guns carried on board ships; it is said to have been originally applied to babies born at sea by women accompanying their husbands.

song
for a song very cheaply. informal

1 The ultimate origin of this phrase is probably the practice, in former times, of selling written copies of ballads very cheaply at fairs. The expression was in common use by the mid 17th century.

1985 Nini Herman My Kleinian Home The place was going for a song, since anyone in his right mind would have steered well clear of it.
on song performing well; in good form. British informal 1996 Times The horse is in pretty good shape. I rode him out at Haydock and he felt on song.

song and dance a fuss or commotion. informal a long explanation that is pointless or deliberately evasive. North American informal sop

a sop to Cerberus something offered to appease someone.

1 In Greek mythology, Cerberus was the three-headed watchdog which guarded the entrance of Hades. In the Aeneid Virgil describes how the Sibyl guiding Aeneas to the underworld threw a drugged cake to Cerberus, thus enabling the hero to pass the monster in safety.

sorcerer

sorcerer’s apprentice a person who having instigated a process is unable to control it.

1 This is a translation of the French l’apprenti sorcier, the title of an 1897 symphonic poem by Paul Dukas based on der Zauberlehrling, a 1797 ballad by Goethe. In this ballad the apprentice’s use of magic spells sets in motion a series of events which he cannot control.

sore

stand (or stick) out like a sore thumb be very obviously different from the surrounding people or things.

sorrow

more in sorrow than in anger with regret or sadness rather than with anger.

1 This is taken from Hamlet. When Hamlet asks Horatio to describe the expression on the face of his father’s ghost, Horatio replies ‘a countenance more in sorrow than in anger’.

sort

it takes all sorts people vary greatly in character, tastes, and abilities. proverb

1 The complete form of this expression is it takes all sorts to make a world, often used as a comment on what the speaker feels to be unconventional behaviour.

1999 David Mitchell Ghostwritten We’re a chat show. It takes all sorts. You complain when they’re too dull. You complain when they’re too colourful.

out of sorts slightly unwell. in low spirits; irritable.

sort the men from the boys see separate the men from the boys at MAN.

soul

the life and soul of the party see LIFE.

a lost soul a soul that is damned. a person who seems unable to cope with everyday life.

sell your soul see SELL.

work the soul case out of put someone under severe stress.

soup

from soup to nuts from beginning to end; completely. North American informal

1 Soup is likely to feature as the first course of a formal meal, while a selection of nuts may be offered as the final one.

in the soup in trouble. informal sour

sour grapes an attitude in which someone disparages or pretends to despise something because they cannot have it themselves.

1 In Aesop’s fable The Fox and the Grapes, the fox, unable to reach the tempting bunch of grapes, comforts himself with the thought that they were probably sour anyway.

1998 New Scientist At 66, I can be acquitted of any sour grapes, but I feel sorry for younger MPs . . . [who] have all been passed over.

south

down south to or in the south of a country. informal 1995 Bill Bryson Notes from a Small Island ‘Ah, you’re the chap from down south,’ he said, remembering, which threw me a little. It isn’t often you hear Yorkshire referred to as down south.

SOW

have the right sow by the ear have the correct understanding of a situation.

make a silk purse out of a sow’s ear see SILK.

sow the seed (or seeds) of do something which will eventually bring about a particular result.

1991 Philip Slater A Dream Deferred Each authoritarian government, groping toward modernization, would thereby sow the seeds of its own destruction.

space

watch this space used to indicate that further developments are expected and more information will be given later.

spade

call a spade a spade speak plainly or bluntly, without avoiding issues which are unpleasant or embarrassing.

in spades to a very high degree; as much as or more than could be desired.

Spanish

old Spanish customs (or practices) long-standing though unauthorized or irregular work practices.

spanner

a spanner in the works an event, person, or thing that prevents the smooth or successful implementation of a plan; a drawback or impediment.

works, a monkey wrench being a spanner or wrench with adjustable jaws: to throw a spanner (or a monkey wrench) into the works is to deliberately wreck someone's plans or activities. In his 1974 novel The Monkey Wrench Gang, Edward Abbey used this as a metaphor for systematic industrial sabotage, and monkey-wrenching is now a colloquial term for such activity.

1997 Spectator Pretty well all the newspapers... are now adversarial in tone, conceiving their basic purpose as throwing spanners in the works almost as a matter of principle.

spare

go spare become extremely angry or distraught.

1991 Roddy Doyle The Van Remind me to replace this one... Veronica'll go spare if she goes to get it on Sunday and it's not there.

to spare left over.

spark

sparks fly a discussion becomes heated or lively.

strike sparks off each other (or one another) (of two or more people) creatively inspire each other while working on something.

speak

it speaks well for something places someone or something in a favourable light.

speak for yourself give your own opinions.

The exclamation speak for yourself! indicates to someone that an opinion they have expressed is not shared by yourself and is resented.

speak in tongues speak in an unknown language during religious worship.

Speaking in (or with) tongues is a phenomenon known more formally as glossolalia, which is regarded by some as a gift of the Holy Spirit. The Bible records that the apostles demonstrated this ability (e.g. Acts 10:46, 19:6), and it is a component of present-day charismatic Christian worship.

speak your mind express your feelings or opinions frankly.

1982 Marion Z. Bradley The Mists of Avalon Someday she would be too weary or too unguarded to care, and she would speak her mind to the priest.
spec

speak of the devil: see DEVIL.

speak volumes (of a gesture, circumstance, or object) convey a great deal. © be good evidence for.

1998 New Scientist It was a minor scandal... but it spoke volumes about the world’s shifting relationship with its favourite illicit drug.

speak as you find base your opinion of someone or something purely on personal experience.

1988 Hilary Mantel Eight Months on Ghazzah Street Look, I don’t have any theories. I just go issue by issue. I just speak as I find.

on spec in the hope of success but without any specific plan or instructions. informal

© The informal abbreviation of speculation to spec was originally American, but it has been used in British English since the early 19th century, and the phrase on spec itself dates from the mid 19th century.

2000 Times As large sculpture is commissioned before being produced, Barbara’s routine became the opposite of Ben’s, whose work was produced on spec.

spectre

a spectre at the feast: see a ghost at the feast

speed

up to speed (of a person or company) performing at an anticipated rate or level. (of a person) fully informed or up to date. informal © 1998 Times Magazine Penati advises on menus and drops in occasionally to check that everything is up to speed. © 1998 New Scientist It’s well known to anyone who is up to speed with e-mail.

spill

spill the beans reveal secret information, especially unintentionally or indiscreetly. informal

spill your guts reveal copious information to someone in an uninhibited way. informal spin

spin your wheels: see WHEEL.

spin a yarn: see YARN.

spirit

enter into the spirit join wholeheartedly in an event.

1994 Jonathan Coe What a Carve Up! His sarcasm was mischievous rather than icy, so I tried to enter into the spirit.

the spirit is willing (but the flesh is weak) someone has good intentions (but yields to temptation and fails to live up to them).

© This expression quotes Jesus’s words in Matthew 26:41, on finding his disciples asleep in the Garden of Gethsemane despite his instructions that they should stay awake.

the spirit moves someone someone feels inclined to do something.

© This was a phrase originally used by Quakers, with reference to the inspiration of the Holy Spirit.

spit

be the spit (or the dead spit) of look exactly like. informal

© The full form of the phrase is be the spit and image of, perhaps coming from the idea of a person apparently being formed from the spit of another, so great is the similarity between them. This fuller form also lies behind the expression spitting image.

spit and polish extreme neatness or smartness.

spit and sawdust (of a pub) old-fashioned, run-down, or dirty. British informal © Until the mid 20th century, the general bar of a pub would often have sawdust sprinkled on the floor, on to which the customers could spit.

spit blood be very angry.

spit (out) the dummy behave in a petulant way. Australian informal spit in the eye (or face) of show contempt or scorn for. spitting

spitting in (or into) the wind a futile or pointless activity.

1996 Daily Telegraph Both the Church report and the atheist professor are spitting in the wind, of course, because the incoming tide of superstition has a long way to rise yet.

splash
make a splash attract a great deal of attention.

1996 Amitav Ghosh The Calcutta Chromosome This was just about the time that new sciences like bacteriology and parasitology were beginning to make a splash in Europe.

split
split hairs: see HAIR.

split your sides be convulsed with laughter. informal split the ticket (or your vote) vote for candidates of more than one party. US split the vote (of a candidate or minority party) attract votes from another candidate or party with the result that both are defeated by a third. British spoil

too many cooks spoil the broth: see COOK.

spoil it be spoil it for choice have so many attractive possibilities to choose from that it is difficult to make a selection. British spoke put a spoke in someone's wheel prevent someone from carrying out a plan. British

1 It is not clear why a spoke, a normal component of many wheels, should have such a negative effect. It has been suggested that spoke here is a mistranslation of the Dutch word spaaq, meaning 'a bar' or 'a stave', which is found in the identical Dutch idiom.

sponge
throw in the sponge: see THROW.

spoon
greasy spoon: see GREASY.

make a spoon or spoil a horn make a determined effort to achieve something, whatever the cost.

1 This phrase alludes to the former practice of making spoons out of the horns of cattle or sheep.

win the wooden spoon be the least successful contestant; win the booby prize.

1 A wooden spoon was originally presented to the candidate coming last in the Cambridge University mathematical tripos (the final honours examination for a BA degree).

sport
the sport of kings horse racing.

sporting
a sporting chance some possibility of success.

spot
a blind spot: see BLIND.

hit the spot be exactly what is required. informal knock spots off: see KNOCK.

put someone on the spot force someone into a situation in which they must make a difficult decision or answer a difficult question. informal spout up the spout ① no longer working or likely to be useful or successful. ② (of a woman) pregnant. British informal sprat

a sprat to catch a mackerel a small expenditure made, or a small risk taken, in the hope of a large or significant gain. British

1 A sprat is a small sea fish, while a mackerel is rather larger. The phrase has been in use since the mid 19th century and is also found with whale in the place of mackerel.

spread
spread like wildfire: see WILDFIRE.

spread yourself too thin be involved in so many different activities or projects that your time and energy are not used to good effect.

spread your wings: see WING.

spur
on the spur of the moment on a momentary impulse; without premeditation.
1988 Rodney Hall Kisses of the Enemy Now that was a witticism, an inspiration on the spur of the moment.

win your spurs: see WIN.

square

back to square one: see BACK.

get square with pay a creditor.

have square eyes habitually watch television to excess.

on the square 1 honest; straightforward. 2 having membership of the Freemasons. 3 1997 Guardian One non-Masonic officer... claims he was moved sideways... and subsequently he discovered that the corrupt officers and the commander were all 'on the square'.

square accounts with see settle accounts with at ACCOUNT.

square the circle do something that is considered to be impossible.

1 In its literal sense, square the circle means 'construct a square equal in area to a given circle'. Since this problem is incapable of a purely geometrical solution, the phrase has developed a more general application and is used to refer to an attempt to do something impossible.

squeeze

put the squeeze on someone coerce or pressurize someone. informal 1993 Jonathon Green It: Sex Since the Sixties One day two characters walked into my studio and tried to put the squeeze on me for protection money.

squeeze someone until the pips squeak see PIP.

squib

a damp squib see DAMP.

stab

a stab in the dark see a shot in the dark at DARK.

a stab in the back a treacherous act or statement; a betrayal.

stable

shut (or lock) the stable door after the horse has bolted try to avoid or prevent something bad or unwelcome when it is already too late to do so. proverb

1 This saying dates back to medieval times. Until the late 19th century it was used in the form shut the stable door after the steed is stolen.

stage

hold the stage dominate a scene of action or forum of debate.

set the stage for prepare the conditions for the occurrence or beginning of something.

1998 High Country News Udall had ruffled uniforms, but he had also set the stage for the glory years of the agency.

stair rod

rain stair rods see rain cats and dogs at RAIN.

stake

go to the stake for do anything to defend a specified belief, opinion, or person.

1 In the past, especially during times of religious persecution, heretics were liable to be tied to a wooden stake and burned alive if they refused to recant their beliefs.

pull up stakes (of a person) move or go to live elsewhere. North American

1 The stakes are the pegs or posts which secure a tent or which are put up as a palisade around a temporary settlement.

2000 Anthony Bourdain Kitchen Confidential Steven... has chosen to leave New York for Florida with his girlfriend, pulling up stakes, giving up his apartment, even bringing along his goldfish.

stake a claim declare your right to something.

1 This expression refers to the practice of putting stakes around the perimeter of a piece of land to which a claim is laid. It is American in origin, dating from the California gold rush of 1849, when the prospectors registered their claims to individual plots of land in this way.

stall

set out your stall see SET.

stand

stand someone in good stead see STAND.

stand on your own (two) feet be or become self-reliant or independent.

stand out like a sore thumb see SORE.

stand out a mile see MILE.

stand pat see PAT.

stand up and be counted state publicly your support for someone or something.
steal

will the real — please stand up used rhetorically to indicate that the specified person should clarify their position or reveal their true character. informal 1996 Maclean’s There have been moments when I wanted to ask, ‘Would the real Mr. Arafat please stand up’, but these have been fleeting.

standing leave someone or something standing (of a person or thing) be much better or faster than someone or something else.

stands it stands to reason: see reason.

star
have stars in your eyes be idealistically hopeful or enthusiastic, especially about a possible future in entertainment or sport.
reach for the stars have high or ambitious aims.
see stars see flashes of light, especially as a result of being hit on the head.
someone’s star is rising someone is becoming ever more successful or popular.

starch
take the starch out of someone shake someone’s confidence, especially by humiliating them. US staring

be staring someone in the face (of a fact or object) be glaringly apparent or obvious.
be staring something in the face (of a person) be on the verge of defeat, death, or ruin.

start
start a hare: see hare.

starter
under starter’s orders (of horses, runners, or other competitors) ready to start a race on receiving the signal from the starter.

state
state of the art the most recent stage in the development of a product, incorporating the newest ideas and the most up-to-date features.
state of grace a condition of being free from sin.

state of play ① the score at a particular time in a cricket or football match. ② the current situation in an ongoing process, especially one involving opposing or competing parties. British stay

stay loose: see hang loose at loose.
stay the course (or distance) ① hold out to the end of a race or contest. ② pursue a difficult task or activity to the end.
stay your hand: see hand.
a stay of execution a delay in carrying out a court order.

stay put (of a person or object) remain somewhere without moving or being moved.
1994 Sunday Times Despite firm intentions to explore, campers tend to stay put, especially if there are lots of activities and a good pool.

stead
stand someone in good stead (of something learned or acquired) be advantageous or useful to someone over time or in the future.

steady
go steady have a regular romantic or sexual relationship with a particular person. informal 1905 Edith Wharton The House of Mirth I thought we were to be married: he’d gone steady with me six months and given me his mother’s wedding ring.

steady as she goes keep on with the same careful progress, informal

steal
steal someone blind rob or cheat someone in a comprehensive or merciless way. informal steal someone’s clothes appropriate someone’s ideas or policies. British informal steal a march on gain an advantage over someone, typically by acting before they do.

steal the show attract the most attention and praise.
steal someone’s thunder win praise for yourself by pre-empting someone else’s attempt to impress.

The critic and playwright John Dennis (1657–1734) invented a new method of simulating the sound of thunder in the theatre, which he employed in his unsuccessful play Appius and Virginia. Shortly after his play had finished its brief run, Dennis attended a performance of Macbeth in which the improved thunder effect was used, and he is reported to have exclaimed in a fury: ‘Damn them! They will not let my play run, but they steal my thunder.’

steam

get up (or pick up) steam ① generate enough pressure to drive a steam engine. ② (of a project, plan, or process in its early stages) gradually gain more impetus and driving force.

have steam coming out of your ears be extremely angry or irritated. informal

let (or blow) off steam get rid of pent-up energy or emotion. informal run out of (or lose) steam lose impetus or enthusiasm. informal

under your own steam without assistance from others.

1996 Colin Bateman Of Wee Sweetie Mice & Men She was starting to move under her own steam, hesitant Bambi steps which weren’t helped by being hurried along, but a good sign nevertheless.

steer

steer a middle course: see MIDDLE.

stem

from stem to stern from the front to the back, especially of a ship.

step

mind (or watch) your step be careful.

step into the breach: see BREACH.

step on it ① make a motor vehicle go faster by pressing down on the accelerator pedal with your foot. ② hurry up. informal step out of line behave inappropriately or disobediently.

step on someone’s toes: see tread on someone’s toes at TREAD.

sterner

be made of sterner stuff (of a person) have a stronger character and be more able to overcome problems than others.

This expression comes from Shakespeare’s Julius Caesar: ‘When that the poor have cried, Caesar hath wept; Ambition should be made of sterner stuff: Yet Brutus says he was ambitious; And Brutus is an honourable man’.

1998 Spectator Unlike the Americans, who are inclined to pull all their personnel out of a country at the first hint of trouble, the British foreign service is made of sterner stuff.

stew

stew in your own juice suffer the unpleasant consequences of your own actions or temperament without the consoling intervention of others. informal stick

in the sticks in a remote rural area. informal stick out like a sore thumb: see stand out like a sore thumb at SORE.

stick out a mile: see stand out a mile at MILE.

stick at nothing allow nothing to deter you from achieving your aim, even if it means acting wrongly or dishonestly.

stick your bib in: see BIB.

stick your chin out show firmness or fortitude.

stick in your craw: see CRAW.

stick in your gizzard: see GIZZARD.

stick in your throat: see THROAT.

stick it on ① make high charges. ② tell an exaggerated story. informal stick it to someone treat someone harshly or severely. informal, chiefly US

1969 Bessie Head When Rain Clouds Gather Things are so bad that if anyone sticks his neck out for a refugee, he’s not likely to get promoted for five years.

stick your oar in: see OAR. stick one (or it) on someone hit someone.
informal

a stick to beat someone or something with a fact or argument held over someone or something as a threat or an advantage.

stick to someone’s fingers (of money) be embezzled by a person. informal stick to your guns: see GUN.

stick to your ribs (of food) be very filling.

up sticks go to live elsewhere. British informal sticky

sticky fingers a propensity to steal. informal a sticky wicket: see WICKET.

stiff

a stiff upper lip a quality of uncomplaining stoicism.

1998 Spectator The Princess . . . as her final gift to the British people, had unstarched their stiff upper lips.

still

still small voice the voice of your conscience.

1998 Spectator The Princess . . . as her final gift to the British people, had unstarched their stiff upper lips.

In 1 Kings 19:12, the voice of God is described as a still small voice.

still waters run deep a quiet or placid manner may conceal a passionate nature. proverb sting

sting in the tail an unpleasant or problematic end to something.

1992 Ronald Wright Stolen Continents At last Hendrick came to the sting in the tail of his speech.

stink

like stink extremely hard or intensely. informal

2000 Steven Heighton The Shadow Boxer Let him tire out a bit and then go to work on him upstairs. Jabs and straight rights now, got it? Go on. Get on him like stink.

stomach

an army marches on its stomach soldiers or workers can only fight or function effectively if they have been well fed.

1981 D. M. Thomas The White Hotel She had them in stitches with her absurd—but true—anecdotes.

stock

on the stocks in construction or preparation.

1998 Spectator The Princess . . . as her final gift to the British people, had unstarched their stiff upper lips.

During construction, a ship is supported on a frame or scaffolding known as the stocks.

put (or take) stock in believe or have faith in.

The earliest example so far recorded of this expression is by Mark Twain in Galaxy (1870): ‘The “chance” theory . . . is . . . calculated to inflict . . . pecuniary loss upon any community that takes stock in it’.

take stock 1 make an inventory of the merchandise in a shop. 2 review or make an assessment of a particular situation, typically as a prelude to making a decision.
on a full (or an empty) stomach having (or without having) eaten beforehand.
a strong stomach an ability to see or do unpleasant things without feeling sick or squeamish.

stompie
pick up stompies break into a conversation of which you have heard only the end. South African in Afrikaans, a stompie is a cigarette butt.

stone
be carved (or set or written) in stone be fixed and unchangeable.
The reference here is to the biblical Ten Commandments, written on tablets of stone by God and handed down to Moses on Mount Sinai (Genesis 31:18).

cast (or throw) the first stone be the first to accuse or criticize.
The phrase comes from an incident recorded in St John’s Gospel. A group of men preparing to stone an adulterous woman to death were addressed by Jesus with the words: ‘He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her’ (John 8:7).

have kissed the blarney stone: see BLARNEY.
leave no stone unturned try every possible course of action in order to achieve something.
mark something with a white stone: see WHITE.

a stone’s throw a short distance.
1989 Joanna Trollope Village Affairs Can’t tell you the difference it will make, having you a stone’s throw away.

stony
fall on stony ground (of words or a suggestion) be ignored or badly received.
The reference here is to the parable of the sower recounted in both St Mark’s and St Matthew’s Gospels, in which some of the seed scattered by the sower fell on stony places where it withered away.

stool
fall between two stools fail to be or to take one of two satisfactory alternatives.
British

stop
pull out all the stops make a very great effort; go to elaborate lengths.
The stops referred to here are those of an organ. Although this is an early 20th-century expression, Matthew Arnold, in the Preface to Essays in Criticism (1865) refers to an attempt on his behalf ‘to pull out a few more stops in that... somewhat narrow-toned organ, the modern Englishman’.

stop at nothing recognize no obstacles or reasons for not doing something; be utterly ruthless or determined.
1991 Time Seen simplistically and from afar, Saddam Hussein comes across as... the villain who will stop at nothing.

stop your ears 1 put your fingers in your ears to avoid hearing. 2 refuse to listen.

stop a gap serve to meet a temporary need.

stop someone’s mouth bribe or otherwise induce a person to keep silent about something.

stop the show (of a performer) provoke prolonged applause or laughter, causing an interruption.

stopper
put a (or the) stopper on cause something to end or become quiet.

store
set (or lay or put) store by (or on) consider something to be of a particular degree of importance or value.

storm
go down a storm be enthusiastically received by an audience.

the lull (or calm) before the storm a period of unusual tranquillity or stability that seems likely to presage difficult times.

a storm in a teacup great excitement or anger about a trivial matter.
A North American variant of this expression is a tempest in a teapot.

1998 Times A storm in a teacup? Who cares about a bunch of seeds? take something by storm 1 capture a place by a sudden and violent attack. 2 have great and rapid success in a particular place or with a particular group of people.

1998 Times Round-up Ready soya has taken America by storm.

— up a storm perform a particular action with great enthusiasm and energy, chiefly North American 1990 Harper's Magazine What I fear is that we talk up a storm and never better the situation for the exploited or the poor.

story

end of story: see END.

it's (or that's) the story of my life used to lament the fact that a particular misfortune has happened too often in your experience. informal to cut (or make) a long story short used to end an account of events quickly.

stout

a stout heart courage or determination. literary stove

slave over a hot stove work very hard preparing a meal. informal straight

keep a straight face manage to not show any facial expression, even though you are amused.

the straight and narrow morally correct behaviour.

I The full form of the expression is the straight and narrow path or way. It developed from a misunderstanding of Matthew 7:14, 'strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life', where strait is in fact being used as another word for narrow.

a straight arrow: see ARROW.

straight as a die: see DIE.

straight fight a contest between just two opponents, especially in an election. British straight from the shoulder 1(of a blow) well delivered. 2(of a verbal attack) frank or direct.

straight off (or out) without hesitation or deliberation. informal straight up truthfully; honestly. informal strain

strain at a gnat make a difficulty about accepting something trivial. literary

I The phrase derives from Matthew 23:24, 'Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel'. The word strain here appears to mean 'make a violent effort', but it may in fact refer to the straining of a liquid to remove unwanted particles: the image is of a person quietly accepting a difficulty or problem of significant proportions while baulking at something comparatively trivial.

strain at the leash be eager to begin or do something.

strain every nerve: see NERVE.

strange

make strange (of a baby or child) fuss or be shy in company. Canadian 1987 Alice Munro The Progress of Love Her timid-looking fat son... usually liked Violet, but today he made strange.

straw

clutch (or grasp or catch) at straws do, say, or believe anything, however unlikely or inadequate, which seems to offer hope in a desperate situation.

I This expression comes from the proverb a drowning man will clutch at a straw, which is recorded in various forms since the mid 16th century.

draw the short straw be the unluckiest of a group of people, especially in being chosen to perform an unpleasant task.

I One method of drawing lots involves holding several straws of varying lengths with one end concealed in your hand and then inviting other members of the group to take one each.

the last (or final) straw a further difficulty or annoyance, typically minor in itself but coming on top of a whole series of difficulties, that makes a situation unbearable.

I The full version of this is the proverb the last straw breaks the camel’s back. The modern form is traceable to Charles Dickens in Dombey and Son (1848), but earlier versions are recorded, including a mid 17th-century reference to the last feather breaking a horse’s back.

a straw in the wind a slight but significant hint of future developments.
straws in your hair a state of insanity.

streak
like a streak (of lightning) very fast. informal stream

against (or with) the stream against (or with) the prevailing view or tendency.
on stream in or into operation or existence; available street not in the same street far inferior in terms of ability. British informal streets ahead greatly superior. British informal up (or right up) your street well suited to your tastes, interests, or abilities. informal strength

go from strength to strength develop or progress with increasing success.
a tower (or pillar) of strength a person who can be relied upon to be a source of strong support and comfort.

strengthen strengthen someone’s hand (or hands) enable or encourage a person to act more vigorously or effectively.

stretch
at full stretch 1 with a part of your body fully extended. 2 using the maximum amount of your resources or energy.
at a stretch 1 in one continuous period. 2 with much effort or difficulty.
by no (or not by any) stretch of the imagination used to emphasize that something is definitely not the case.

stroke while the iron is hot make use of an opportunity immediately.

string
have a second string to your bow have an alternative resource that you can make use of if the first one fails. British stricken stricken in years used euphemistically to describe someone old and feeble.

stride
take something in your stride deal with something difficult or unpleasant in a calm and competent way.

strike
strike at the root of: see ROOT.
strike it rich find a source of abundance or success. informal strike lucky (or strike it lucky) have a lucky success. British strike oil attain prosperity or success.

strike while the iron is hot make use of an opportunity immediately.

strike
within striking distance: see DISTANCE.

string
have a second string to your bow have an alternative resource that you can make use of if the first one fails. British

striven
striven in years used euphemistically to describe someone old and feeble.
suffer

speaker to be more precise about something, informal no strings attached no special conditions or restrictions apply to an opportunity or offer, informal on a string under your control or influence.

\[\text{The idea here is of a puppeteer manipulating a puppet by its strings.}\] pull strings: see PULL. pull the strings: see PULL.

stroke different strokes for different folks: see DIFFERENT.

not (or never) do a stroke of work do no work at all.

put someone off their stroke disconcert someone so that they do not work or perform as well as they might; break the pattern or rhythm of someone’s work.

stroke of genius an outstandingly brilliant and original idea.

stroke of luck (or good luck) a fortunate occurrence that could not have been predicted or expected.

stroke someone (or someone’s hair) the wrong way irritate a person.

strong come it strong indulge in exaggeration. British informal come on strong 1 behave aggressively or assertively. 2 make great efforts or advances, informal going strong continuing to be healthy, vigorous, or successful, informal strong meat ideas or language likely to be found unacceptably forceful or extreme. British strong on 1 good at; expert in. 2 possessing large quantities of; rich in.

strut
strut your stuff dance or behave in a lively, confident way. informal 1998 Country Life London is a place to hide in, to get lost in: New York is a stage on which to strut your stuff.

stubborn
stubborn as a mule extremely stubborn. informal stuck get stuck in (or into) start doing something enthusiastically or with determination. British informal study

in a brown study: see BROWN.

stuffing knock (or take) the stuffing out of someone severely impair someone’s confidence or strength, informal stump beyond the black stump beyond the limits of settled, and therefore civilized, life. Australian

\[\text{This phrase comes from the custom of using a fire-blackened stump of wood as a marker when giving directions to travellers.}\] on the stump going about the country making political speeches or canvassing. chiefly North American \[\text{In rural America in the late 18th century, the stump of a felled tree was often used as an impromptu platform for someone making a speech.}\] up a stump in a situation too difficult for you to manage. US succeeds

nothing succeeds like success success leads to opportunities for further and greater successes, proverb suck

suck someone dry exhaust someone’s physical, material, or emotional resources. suck it and see the only way to know if something will work or be suitable is to try it. British informal sudden

(all) of a sudden suddenly.

\[\text{As a noun sudden is now found only in this phrase, but from the mid 16th century to the early 18th century it was in regular use in the sense ‘an unexpected danger or emergency’.}\]

suffer
not suffer fools gladly be impatient or intolerant towards people you regard as unwise or unintelligent.
This expression refers to 2 Corinthians 11:19: 'For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise'.

2001 Daily Telegraph Such was her expertise as a Victorianist that her advice was widely sought, though she did not suffer fools gladly.

sugar
sugar the pill: see PILL. suit
follow suit: see FOLLOW.
men in suits: see MAN.
suit the action to the word carry out your stated intentions at once.

The expression comes from the scene in Hamlet in which a troupe of actors arrive to present a play to the king and queen. Hamlet instructs them to 'suit the action to the word, the word to the action'.

suit someone down to the ground be extremely convenient or appropriate for a particular person. British summer

Indian summer: see INDIAN.

sun
catch the sun: see CATCH.
make hay while the sun shines: see HAY.
someone's sun is set the time of someone's prosperity is over.
the sun is over the yardarm it is the time of day when it is permissible to drink alcohol. informal

This was originally a nautical expression: a yardarm is the outer extremity of a yard, a cylindrical spar slung across a ship's mast for a sail to hang from. The time of day referred to is noon, rather than 6 o'clock in the evening, as is often supposed.

1992 Angela Lambert A Rather English Marriage Have a snifter? Sun's over the yardarm, as they say in the senior service.

under the sun on earth; in existence.

sunny side sunny side up (of an egg) fried on one side only. North American sunset ride off into the sunset: see RIDE.

sup
sup with the devil: see DEVIL.

supper
sing for your supper earn a benefit or favour by providing a service in return.

This phrase comes from the nursery rhyme Little Tommy Tucker.

sure
sure as eggs is eggs (also sure as fate) without any doubt; absolutely certain.
sure thing 1 a certainty. 2 certainly; of course. informal 2001 Business Week Any potential legal challenge to Microsoft's bundling decisions in XP is no sure thing. 1995 Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni Arranged Marriage 'Would you?' I said gratefully. 'That would make me feel so much better.' . . . 'Sure thing!' said Sharmila hurriedly as she hung up.

surf
surf the net move from site to site on the Internet.

Surf here comes from channel-surfing, the practice of switching frequently between channels on a television set in an attempt to find an interesting programme.

survival
survival of the fittest the continued existence of organisms which are best adapted to their environment, with the extinction of others, as a concept in the Darwinian theory of evolution.

This was coined by the English philosopher and sociologist Herbert Spencer (1820–1903) in Principles of Biology (1865). Besides its formal scientific use, the phrase is often used loosely and humorously in contexts relating to physical fitness (or the lack of it).

suss
on suss on suspicion of having committed a crime. British informal Suss is an abbreviation of suspicion, earlier and more correctly spelled suss. Until its abolition in 1981, a law nicknamed the sus law allowed the police to arrest a person on the suspicion that they were likely to commit a crime.

swallow
one swallow doesn't make a summer a single fortunate event does not mean that what follows will also be good. proverb
One swallow doesn’t make a summer… nor one instance of police dereliction of duty, incompetence, laziness and stupidity a complete breakdown in law and order.

swathe

cut a swathe through pass through something causing great damage, destruction, or change.

1. A swathe was the area cut by a single sweep of a mower’s scythe, and so the width of a strip of grass or corn cut in this way.

swear

swear blind affirm something in an emphatic manner. British informal

1. A North American variant of this expression is swear up and down.

swear like a trooper swear a great deal.

1. A trooper was originally a private soldier in a cavalry unit. Troopers were proverbial for their coarse behaviour and bad language at least as early as the mid 18th century: in Pamela (1739–40), Samuel Richardson writes ‘she curses and storms at me like a Trooper’. Compare with lie like a trooper (at LIE).

sweat

by the sweat of your brow by your own hard work, typically manual labour.

1. This idiom is often used with reference to God’s sentence on Adam after the Fall, condemning him to work for his food: ‘In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread’ (Genesis 3:19).

don’t sweat it don’t worry. US

no sweat without any difficulty or problem. informal

1. 1998 GQ Give me a date and I’ll take it, no sweat. No problem. If I’m available.

sweat blood make an extraordinarily strenuous effort to do something. informal sweat bullets be extremely anxious or nervous. North American informal sweat it out endure an unpleasant experience, typically one involving extreme physical exertion in great heat. informal sweat the small stuff worry about trivial things. US in the swim involved in or aware of current affairs or events.

swing

get (back) into the swing of things get used to (or return to) being easy and relaxed about an activity or routine you are engaged in. informal go with a swing (of a party or other event) be lively and enjoyable. informal in full swing (of an activity) proceeding vigorously.

swing the lead malinger; shirk your duty. British informal put someone to the sword kill someone, especially in war.

sword of Damocles an imminent danger.

Sydney

Sydney or the bush all or nothing. Australian syllable

in words of one syllable using very simple language; expressed plainly.

1994 Canal & Riverboat Bear with me then, if I use words of one syllable now and again, in this series of articles for L drivers.

sync

in (or out of) sync working well (or badly) together; in (or out of) agreement.

1997 Sunday Times The most serious obstacle is the fact that the British economy’s cycle is out of sync with Europe.

system

all systems go everything functioning properly, ready to proceed.

get something out of your system get rid of a preoccupation or anxiety. informal 1988 Erich Segal Doctors First she let her get the crying out of her system.

swell

swollen

have a swollen head be conceited.

sword

beat (or turn) swords into ploughshares devote resources to peaceful rather than aggressive or warlike ends.

1983 Penelope Lively Perfect Happiness I have always reckoned on a fair share of that—swings and roundabouts, rough with smooth.

swings and roundabouts a situation in which different actions or options result in no eventual gain or loss. British

syllable

in words of one syllable using very simple language; expressed plainly.

1994 Canal & Riverboat Bear with me then, if I use words of one syllable now and again, in this series of articles for L drivers.

sync

in (or out of) sync working well (or badly) together; in (or out of) agreement.

1997 Sunday Times The most serious obstacle is the fact that the British economy’s cycle is out of sync with Europe.

system

all systems go everything functioning properly, ready to proceed.

get something out of your system get rid of a preoccupation or anxiety. informal

1988 Erich Segal Doctors First she let her get the crying out of her system.

The phrase was originally used with allusion to an incident in the Garden of Gethsemane. When the men came to arrest Jesus, one of his disciples drew his sword and cut off the ear of ‘the servant of the high priest’, earning this rebuke from Jesus: ‘all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword’ (Matthew 26:52). In contemporary versions sword is sometimes replaced by gun, bomb, etc.

The reference here is to the biblical image of God’s peaceful rule: ‘they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks’ (Isaiah 2:4).

The phrase to the courtier Damocles described Dionysius I, ruler of Syracuse (405–367 BC), as the happiest of men, Dionysius gave him a graphic demonstration of the fragility of his happiness: he invited Damocles to a banquet, in the middle of which he looked up to see a naked sword suspended over his head by a single hair.

This phrase originated in the armed forces and the lead in question is probably a sounding lead, a lump of lead attached to a line and slowly lowered to determine the depth of a stretch of water. The connection between this process and shirking one’s duty is not entirely clear.

This expression comes from the proverbial saying you lose on the swings what you gain on the roundabouts.

In words of one syllable using very simple language; expressed plainly.

Sync (or synch) is an informal abbreviation of synchronization.

The most serious obstacle is the fact that the British economy’s cycle is out of sync with Europe.

Sync (or synch) is an informal abbreviation of synchronization.

The reference here is to the biblical image of God’s peaceful rule: ‘they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks’ (Isaiah 2:4).

Cross swords: see CROSS.

A double-edged sword: see DOUBLE-EDGED.

Get something out of your system get rid of a preoccupation or anxiety. informal

1988 Erich Segal Doctors First she let her get the crying out of her system.
to a T (or tee) exactly; to perfection. informal

This origin of this idiom, which dates back to the late 17th century, is uncertain. Attempts to link T with either a golfer’s tee or a builder’s T-square are unconvincing. It is possible that the underlying idea is that of completing the letter T by putting in the cross stroke, but the early 17th-century expression to a tittle was identical in meaning, and it is possible that T may be an abbreviation of tittle.

2000 Post (Denver) He’s got Ralphp’s same non-charismatic charisma down to a T.

tab

keep tabs (or a tab) on monitor the activities or development of; keep under close observation. informal 1978 Mario Puzo Fools Die Jordan knew that Merlyn the Kid kept tabs on everything he did.

pick up the tab pay for something. informal, chiefly North American

table

lay something on the table make something known so that it can be freely and sensibly discussed. postpone something indefinitely. chiefly US turn the tables reverse your position relative to someone else, especially by turning a position of disadvantage into one of advantage.

Until the mid 18th century, tables was the usual name for the board game backgammon. Early instances of the use of this phrase, dating from the mid 17th century, make it clear that it comes from the practice of turning the board so that a player had to play what had previously been their opponent’s position.

under the table drunk to the point of unconsciousness. informal 1921 W. Somerset Maugham The Trembling of a Leaf Walker had always been a heavy drinker, he was proud of his capacity to see men half his age under the table.

tack

come down to brass tacks: see BRASS.

tackie South African informal a piece of old tackie an easy task.

1979 Cape Times Getting the news of the Zimbabwe Rhodesian ceasefire to the… guerillas might well make Paul Revere’s famous midnight ride look like a piece of old tackie.

tread tackie drive or accelerate.

1989 Daily Dispatch By the time they finally trod tackie on the road out, a full week had gone by.

Taggies are plimsolls. The origin of the word is uncertain, though there may be a connection with the English adjective tacky, meaning ‘slightly sticky’, perhaps referring to the effect of extreme heat on the plimsolls’ rubber soles.

tag

tag, rag, and bobtail: see rag, tag, and bobtail at RAG.

tail

chase your (own) tail keep on doing something futile. informal a piece of tail: see a piece of ass at PIECE.

the tail wags the dog the less important or subsidiary factor or thing dominates a situation; the usual roles are reversed.

1997 Spectator What is wrong is the almost total lack of artistic leadership, the administrative tail wagging the dog.

with your tail between your legs in a state of dejection or humiliation. informal with your tail up in a confident or cheerful mood. informal take

have what it takes have the necessary qualities for success. informal on the take taking bribes. informal 1990 Morley Torgov St. Farb’s Day I seen plenty of cops drive Mercedes. The ones that’re on the take.

take someone or something apart dismantle something. defeat someone or something conclusively. criticize someone or something severely. informal take something as read accept something without reading or discussing it. British take the biscuit (or bun or cake) be the most remarkable. informal 1925 P. G. Wodehouse  Letter Of all the poisonous, foul, ghastly places, Cannes takes the biscuit with absurd ease.

take it into your head: see HEAD.

take it on the chin: see CHIN.

take it or leave it said to convey that the offer you have made is not negotiable and that you are indifferent to another’s reaction to it.

take someone’s name in vain: see VAIN.

take no prisoners: see PRISONER.

take someone’s point: see POINT.

take something lying down: see LYING.

take something to heart: see HEART.

take to your heels: see HEEL.

take someone to the cleaners: see CLEANER.

take up the gauntlet see throw down the gauntlet at GAUNTLET.

taking (of a person or thing) ready or available for someone to take advantage of.

1994 Jane Hamilton  A Map of the World I try to imagine the land for the taking, and what it must have meant to have space for as far as the eye can see.

tale (or therein) lies a tale there is a story connected with this.

1998 Spectator Now it has decided to fight back and clear its name. And herein lies a tale, however ludicrous.

an old wives’ tale: see OLD.

talk (or therein) lies a tale there is a story connected with this.

1998 Pamela Jooste  Dance with a Poor Man’s Daughter He hasn’t even got his foot in the door before she’s talking nineteen to the dozen and hanging round his neck and asking if he’s got sweets in his pocket.

talk the hind leg off a donkey talk incessantly. British informal

1 In 1808 talking a horse’s hind leg off was described as an ‘old vulgar hyperbole’ in Cobbett’s Weekly Political Register, but the version with donkey was current by the mid 19th century. In 1879 Anthony Trollope mentioned talk the hind legs off a dog as an Australian variant.

1970 Nina Bawden  The Birds on the Trees Talk, talk—the hind leg off a donkey, that one.

talk nineteen to the dozen talk incessantly. British

1 No convincing reason has been put forward as to why nineteen should have been preferred in this idiom rather than twenty or any other number larger than twelve.

1998 Pamela Jooste  Dance with a Poor Man’s Daughter He hasn’t even got his foot in the door before she’s talking nineteen to the dozen and hanging round his neck and asking if he’s got sweets in his pocket.

talk shop: see SHOP.

talk the talk speak fluently or convincingly about something or in a way intended to please or impress others. informal 1997 Beautiful British Columbia We may not look like true rock jocks yet, but we talk the talk.

talk through your hat talk foolishly, wildly, or ignorantly. informal

1 Vulgar variants of this expression include talking through your backside, arse, and ass.

talk turkey: see TURKEY.

tall (of a person or thing) something that is difficult to accomplish.

1998 Times But the UK economy had to slow down somewhat, and gliding it down to exactly the right spot was a tall order.

a tall order something that is difficult to accomplish.

1998 Times But the UK economy had to slow down somewhat, and gliding it down to exactly the right spot was a tall order.

a tall poppy a privileged or distinguished person.

1 The Roman tyrant Tarquin was reputed to have struck off the heads of poppies as a gruesomely graphic demonstration of the way in which the important men of a captured city should be treated. In recent years, the term tall poppy syndrome has also developed, referring to a tendency to discredit or disparage people who have become rich, famous, or socially prominent.
1991 Lynn Barber Mostly Men Journalists on the whole tend to be egalitarian-minded and contemptuous of tall poppies, but I prefer the prima donnas.

tandem

in tandem ① one behind another. ② alongside each other; together.

① The Latin word tandem means ‘at length’: it was originally used in English as a term for a carriage drawn by two horses harnessed one in front of the other. Sense 1 preserves this late 18th-century sense, but since the mid 20th century the phrase has been commonly used to mean simply ‘functioning as a team’.

tangled

a tangled web a complex, difficult, and confusing situation or thing.

① This phrase comes from Sir Walter Scott’s epic poem Marmion (1808); ‘O what a tangled web we weave, When first we practise to deceive!’

tango

It takes two to tango both parties involved in a situation or argument are equally responsible for it. informal ① Takes Two to Tango was the title of a 1952 song by Al Hoffman and Dick Manning.

1996 Washington Post It takes two to tango in this... business. Both your computer’s video card and your monitor must be capable of a given rate to achieve it.

tap

on tap ① ready to be poured from a tap. ② freely available whenever needed. informal ③ on schedule to happen or occur. North American informal taped

have (or get) someone or something taped understand someone or something fully. British informal ① Early examples of the phrase, dating from the early 20th century, do not make its development clear: the sense could derive either from the action of measuring someone with a tape measure or from that of tying someone or something up with tape (and thereby getting them under control).

2001 John Diamond C: Because Cowards Get Cancer Too After a few false starts you’ve learned how to do sending the meal back, dropping the girlfriend, getting through the job interview, making the marriage proposal: you think you’ve got it taped.

tapis

on the tapis (of a subject) under consideration or discussion.

① This expression is a partial translation of the French phrase sur le tapis, meaning literally ‘on the carpet’. A carpet in this context is a covering for a table rather than a floor, as indeed it is in the English idiom on the carpet. It refers to the covering of the council table around which a matter would be debated.

tar

beat (or whale) the tar out of beat or thrash severely. North American informal tar and feather smear with tar and then cover with feathers as a punishment.

① This practice was introduced in Britain in 1189, when Richard I decreed that it should be the punishment for members of the navy found guilty of theft. It seems to have been intermittently imposed on other wrongdoers in Britain and has sometimes been inflicted on an unpopular or scandalous individual by a mob.

1981 Anthony Price Soldier No More The Russians... wouldn’t have cared less if we’d tarred and feathered Nasser and run him out of Suez on a rail.

tar people with the same brush consider specified people to have the same faults.

Tartar

*catch a Tartar: see CATCH."

taste

a bad (or bitter or nasty) taste in the (or someone’s) mouth a strong feeling of distress or disgust following an experience. informal *a taste of your own medicine: see a dose of your own medicine at MEDICINE."

tea

not for all the tea in China not at any price; certainly not! informal tea and sympathy hospitality and consolation offered to a distressed person.

team

a whole team and the dog under the wagon a person of superior ability; an outstandingly gifted or able person. US tear
shed crocodile tears: see CROCODILE.
tear your hair out act with or show extreme desperation. informal 1991 Jill Churchill A Farewell to Yarns
Someplace people were having nervous breakdowns and tearing their hair out in a desperate effort to please Phyllis.
tear someone off a strip (or tear a strip off someone) rebuke someone angrily.
informal

This expression was originally RAF slang, first recorded in the 1940s.
tear someone or something to shreds (or pieces) criticize someone or something aggressively, informal without tears (of a subject) presented so as to be learnt or achieved easily.
1991 William Fox Willoughby's Phoney War
[They] are going to be given their first lesson this afternoon. Skiing without tears, I hardly think.
teether
teeter on the brink (or edge) be very close to a difficult or dangerous situation.
1997 James Ryan Dismantling Mr Doyle
Letting her secret teeter on the brink of becoming public was a game Eve played more and more.
teeth
armed to the teeth: see ARMED.
cast something in someone's teeth: see CAST.
rare as hen's teeth: see HEN.
set someone's teeth on edge cause someone to feel intense discomfort or irritation.

This is an expression used in the Bible to describe the unpleasant sensation caused by eating something bitter or sour: 'every man that eateth the sour grape, his teeth shall be set on edge' (Jeremiah 31:30).

1997 Kate O'Riordan The Boy in the Moon Julia's voice sustained a quavery note that set Brian's teeth on edge.
sow dragon's teeth: see DRAGON.
telegraph
bush telegraph a rapid informal spreading of information or rumour; the network through which this takes place.

This expression orginated in the late 19th century, referring to the network of informers who kept bushrangers informed about the movements of the police in the Australian bush or outback. Compare with hear something on the grapevine (at GRAPEVINE).
tell tell it like it is describe the true facts of a situation no matter how unpleasant they may be. informal tell something a mile off: see see something a mile off at MILE.
tell tales (out of school) gossip about or reveal another person's secrets, wrongdoings, or faults.

As telling tales to school authorities is a terrible offence in the eyes of schoolchildren, this expression is often used in the context of declining to supply information or gossip.

1991 Mark Tully No Full Stops in India
Indira trusted me throughout her life, and just because she's dead it's not right that I should break that trust and tell tales about her.
tell that to the marines: see MARINES.
tell someone where to get off (or where they get off) angrily rebuke someone.
informal
tell someone where to put (or what to do with) something angrily or emphatically reject something.
informal telling
that would be telling that would be divulging confidential information.
informal
2000 Imogen Edwards-Jones My Canapè Hell
'Are you propositioning me?' I say, attempting to look provocative in my Devonshire home-knit and Angora Dutch cap. 'Now that would be telling,' he smiles.
there's no telling it's impossible to know what has happened or will happen.
tempest
a tempest in a teapot: see a storm in a teacup at STORM.
tempt
tempt fate (or providence) act rashly.
informal
tenterhook
on tenterhooks in a state of suspense or agitation because of uncertainty about a future event.
A tenter is a framework on which fabric can be held taut for drying or other treatment during the manufacturing process; in the past tenterhooks were hooks or bent nails fixed in the tenter to hold the fabric in position. The metaphorical use of the phrase for an agitated state of mind dates from the mid 18th century.

term

In no uncertain terms: see uncertain.
On terms: in a state of friendship or equality.

territory

Go (or come) with the territory: be an unavoidable result of a particular situation.

tether

At the end of your tether: see end.

thank

Thank your lucky stars: feel grateful for your good fortune.

1998 Times All Alec Stewart can do is thank his lucky stars that his main strike bowler is fit again.

thanks

No thanks to: not because of; despite.

1993 Carl MacDougall. The Lights Below 'How's your mother?' 'Our mother's fine. No thanks to you. She was worried sick.'

tether

At the end of your tether: see end.

thank

Thank your lucky stars: feel grateful for your good fortune.

1998 Times All Alec Stewart can do is thank his lucky stars that his main strike bowler is fit again.

thick

A bit thick: more than you can tolerate; unfair or unreasonable. British informal 1991 Alistair Campbell Sidewinder I thought this was a bit thick, and to begin with I tried to defend myself.

there

Been there, done that: used to express past experience of or familiarity with something. Informal 1996 United Church Observer Having no partner to pick up after me—been there, done that—I tend to, well, let things accumulate.

thereby

Thereby hangs a tale: used to indicate that there is more to say about something.

1948 Christopher Bush The Case of the Second Chance He and Manfrey were Brutus and Cassius respectively in that historic show at the Coliseum and thereby hangs a tale, or rather a piece of scandal.

thick

A bit thick: more than you can tolerate; unfair or unreasonable. British informal 1991 Alistair Campbell Sidewinder I thought this was a bit thick, and to begin with I tried to defend myself.

thanks

No thanks to: not because of; despite.

1993 Carl MacDougall. The Lights Below 'How's your mother?' 'Our mother's fine. No thanks to you. She was worried sick.'

tether

At the end of your tether: see end.

thank

Thank your lucky stars: feel grateful for your good fortune.

1998 Times All Alec Stewart can do is thank his lucky stars that his main strike bowler is fit again.

thick

A bit thick: more than you can tolerate; unfair or unreasonable. British informal 1991 Alistair Campbell Sidewinder I thought this was a bit thick, and to begin with I tried to defend myself.

thereby

Thereby hangs a tale: used to indicate that there is more to say about something.

1948 Christopher Bush The Case of the Second Chance He and Manfrey were Brutus and Cassius respectively in that historic show at the Coliseum and thereby hangs a tale, or rather a piece of scandal.
thin

thin in its basic sense ‘of relatively great depth from side to side’ and its colloquial sense ‘stupid’.

thick on the ground: see GROUND.

through thick and thin under all circumstances, no matter how difficult.

thin

have a thin skin: see have a thin skin at SKIN.

have a thin time have a wretched or uncomfortable time. British informal into (or out of) thin air into (or out of) a state of being invisible or nonexistent.

on thin ice: see ICE.

thin on the ground: see thick on the ground at GROUND.

the thin end of the wedge an action or procedure of little importance in itself, but which is likely to lead to more serious developments. informal thin on top balding.

thing

be all things to all men (or people) 1 please everyone, typically by regularly altering your behaviour or opinions in order to conform to those of others. 2 be able to be interpreted or used differently by different people to their own satisfaction.

be on to a good thing have found a job or other situation that is pleasant, profitable, or easy. informal a close (or near) thing a narrow avoidance of something unpleasant.

do the — thing engage in the particular form of behaviour typically associated with someone or something. informal, chiefly North American 1999 Tim Lott White City Blue I was going to ask Tony there, oil us all with a few bevies, and then do the best-man thing.

do your own thing follow your own interests or inclinations regardless of others. informal have a thing about be obsessed with or prejudiced about. informal make a thing of 1 regard as essential. 2 cause a fuss about. informal teach (or tell) someone a thing or two impart useful information or experience. informal 1998 Spectator A docker of the 1950s... a sailor of any previous age could tell you a thing or two about job insecurity.

a thing of shreds and patches see SHRED.

things that go bump in the night ghosts; supernatural beings. informal

1 This expression comes from The Cornish or West Country Litany: ‘From ghoulies and ghosities and long-leggety beasties And things that go bump in the night, Good Lord deliver us!’ The phrase is used as a humorous way of referring to nocturnal disturbances of all sorts.

think

give someone furiously to think give a person cause to think hard.

1 This is a literal translation of the French phrase donner furieusement à penser.

have (got) another think coming used to express the speaker’s disagreement with or unwillingness to do something suggested by someone else. informal 2000 Sunday Herald (Glasgow) The accelerating pretender has another think coming if it imagines that it has an easy shot at becoming world number one.

think on your feet react to events quickly and effectively.

think twice consider a course of action carefully before embarking on it.

think the world of see WORLD.

thinking

put on your thinking cap meditate on a problem. informal

third

third time lucky after twice failing to accomplish something, the third attempt may be successful.

1 Third time lucky has been proverbial since the mid 19th century; a US variant is third time is the charm.

Thomas

a doubting Thomas: see DOUBTING.

thorn

no rose without a thorn: see ROSE.

a thorn in someone’s side (or flesh) a source of continual annoyance or trouble.
A thorn in the side comes from the biblical book of Numbers (33:55): ‘those which ye let remain of them shall be pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your sides, and shall vex you in the land wherein ye dwell’. A thorn in the flesh quotes 2 Corinthians 12:7: ‘And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure’.

On thorns continuously uneasy, especially in fear of being detected.

Thought
A second thought a moment’s further consideration; any worry or concern.

Thread
Hang by a thread be in a highly precarious state.

Lose the (or your) thread be unable to follow what someone is saying or remember what you are going to say next.

Three
Three musketeers three close associates or inseparable friends.

The Three Musketeers is a translation of Les Trois Mousquetaires, the title of a novel by the 19th-century French writer Alexandre Dumas père.

Threescore
Threescore and ten the age of seventy.

In the Bible, threescore and ten amounts to the allotted span of a person’s life: ‘The days of our age are threescore years and ten’ (Psalm 90:10).

Thrill
Thrills and spills the excitement of dangerous sports or entertainments, especially as experienced by spectators.

Throw
Throw cold water on see pour cold water on at Cold.

Throw the baby out with the bathwater see Baby.

Throw down the gauntlet see Gauntlet.

Throw dust in someone’s eyes mislead someone by misrepresentation or diverting attention from a point.

Throw good money after bad see Money.

Throw your hand in give up; withdraw from a contest.

Throw in your lot with see Lot.

Throw in the towel (or sponge) abandon a struggle; admit defeat.

Throw stones criticize someone or something.

Throw stones see Dog.

Throw someone to the dogs see Dog.

Throw someone to the wolves see Wolf.

Throw your weight behind someone use your influence to help support someone.

Informal
1990 Rian Malan My Traitor’s Heart ‘It’s not only difficult for people outside to understand why blacks are at each others’ throats,’ he says. ‘It’s difficult for ourselves.’

2000 South African Times U.K. Tony Blair and... Bill Clinton have thrown their weight behind a South African-engineered ’Marshall Plan’ to rescue the developing world from deepening poverty.

Thumb
Be all fingers and thumbs see Finger.
thunder

thumb your nose at show disdain or contempt for. Compare with cock a snook (at snook).

thumbs up (or down) an indication of satisfaction or approval (or of rejection or failure), informal

The thumbs were used to signal approval or disapproval by spectators at a Roman amphitheatre, though they used ‘thumbs down’ to signify that a beaten gladiator had performed well and should be spared, and ‘thumbs up’ to call for his death.

twiddle your thumbs: see twiddle.

under someone’s thumb completely under someone’s influence or control.

thunder

steal someone’s thunder: see steal.

tick

on tick on credit, informal

Tick is an abbreviation of ticket, a note recording money or goods received on credit.

tight as a tick: see tight.

what makes someone tick what motivates someone, informal ticket

be tickets be the end. South African informal have tickets on yourself be excessively vain or proud of yourself. Australian informal punch your ticket deliberately undertake particular assignments that are likely to lead to promotion at work. US informal split the ticket: see split.

work your ticket contrive to obtain your discharge from prison or the army.

write your (own) ticket dictate your own terms. North American informal tickey

on a tickey in a very small area. South African

In the period before South African coinage was decimalized, a tickey was a very small silver coin worth three pennies.

tickled

be tickled pink (or to death) be extremely amused or pleased, informal 1992 Guy Vanderhaeghe Things As They Are She made a big show of not being taken in by him, but I could see that all six feet . . . of her was tickled pink by his attentions.

tide

go (or swim) with (or against) the tide act in accordance with (or against) the prevailing opinion or tendency.

tie

tie someone hand and foot: see bind someone hand and foot at hand.

the old school tie: see old.

tie the knot: see knot.

tie one on get drunk. North American informal tie yourself in knots: see knot.

tied

fit to be tied: see fit.

tiger

have a tiger by the tail have embarked on a course of action which proves unexpectedly difficult but which cannot easily or safely be abandoned.

An alternative way of referring to the same predicament is ride a tiger, which alludes to the Chinese saying he who rides a tiger cannot dismount. A similar difficulty confronts those who have a wolf by the ears (see wolf).

a tiger in your tank energy, spirit, or animation.

This expression originated as a 1960s advertising slogan for Esso petrol: ‘Put a tiger in your tank’.

tight

run a tight ship be very strict in managing an organization or operation.

tight as a tick extremely drunk, informal

The simile as full as a tick occurs in a late 17th-century proverb collection, referring to the way in which the blood-sucking insects swell as they gorge themselves. In the modern expression, there is a play on tight as an informal synonym for ‘drunk’ and its literal meaning ‘stretched taut’, like a tick satiated with blood.

a tight corner (or spot or place) a difficult situation.

1994 Interzone The temptation to also invent some kind of magical McGuffin to get his hero out of a tight corner is something he works hard to avoid.

tighten

tighten your belt: see belt.
tightly the screw: see SCREW.

tile
on the tiles away from home having a wild or enjoyable time and not returning until late in the evening or early in the morning.
informal, chiefly British

The image here is of a cat out on the rooftops at night. The expression has been in use since the late 19th century.

tilt
have (or with) your fingers (or hand) in the till stealing from your employer. Compare with with your hand in the cookie jar (at COOKIE).

(At) full tilt with maximum energy or force; at top speed.

1912 Edith Wharton Letter Just after we left Modena a crazy coachman drove full tilt out of a side road.

tilt at windmills attack imaginary enemies or evils.

In Cervantes’ 17th-century mock-chivalric novel Don Quixote, the eponymous hero attacked windmills in the deluded belief that they were giants.

time
ahead of your (or its) time: see AHEAD.

give someone the time of day be pleasantly polite or friendly to someone.

1999 Salman Rushdie The Ground Beneath Her Feet You can greet her courteously but she won’t give you the time of day, you can speak to her nice as pie but she won’t act polite.

in the nick of time: see NICK.

know the time of day be well informed about something.

pass the time of day exchange a greeting or casual remarks.

take time by the forelock: see FORELOCK.

time and tide wait for no man if you don’t make use of a favourable opportunity, you may never get the same chance again.

proverb

Although the tide in this phrase is now usually understood to mean ‘the tide of the sea’, it was originally just another way of saying ‘time’, used for alliterative effect.

time immemorial used to refer to a point of time so long ago that people have no knowledge or memory of it.

In legal terms in Britain, time immemorial refers to the time up to the beginning of the reign of Richard I in 1189. A variant of the phrase is time out of mind.

time is money time is a valuable resource, therefore it’s better to do things as quickly as possible.

Proverb

The present form of the expression seems to originate in a speech made by Benjamin Franklin in 1748, but the sentiment is much older. The saying ‘the most costly outlay is time’ is attributed to the 5th-century BC Athenian orator and politician Antiphon.

time was there was a time.

1998 Times Time was when venture capital was shunned by self-respecting, ambitious corporate financiers... No longer.

(Only) time will tell the truth or correctness of something will only be established at some time in the future.

tin
have a tin ear be tone-deaf.

little tin god: see GOD.

put the tin lid on: see put the lid on at LID.

tinker
not give (or care) a tinker’s curse (or cuss or damn) not care at all.

informal

In former times, tinkers (itinerant menders of pots, pans, and other metal utensils) had a reputation for using bad language. The expression is often shortened to not give a tinker’s.

1984 Patrick O’Brian The Far Side of the World When I was a squeaker nobody gave a tinker’s curse whether my daily workings were right or wrong.

tip
be on the tip of your tongue be almost but not quite able to bring a particular word or name to mind.

be about to utter a comment or question but then think better of it.

1977 Bernard MacLaverty Between Two Shores It was on the tip of his tongue to ask her but he didn’t have the courage.

tip your hand (or mitt) reveal your intentions inadvertently.

US informal

This expression is the opposite of keep your cards close to your chest (see CARD).
tired

1966 Martin Woodhouse Tree Frog We couldn’t very well oppose it without tipping our hand.

tip your hat (or cap) raise or touch your hat or cap as a way of greeting or acknowledging someone.

tip someone off give someone information about something, typically in a discreet or confidential way. informal the tip of an iceberg: see ICEBERG.

tip (or turn) the scales (or balance) (of a circumstance or event) be the deciding factor; make the critical difference.

tip someone the wink give someone private information; secretly warn someone of something. British informal 1921 John Dos Passos Three Soldiers If he just watched out and kept on his toes, he’d be sure to get it.

a toe in the door a (first) chance of ultimately achieving what you want; a position from which further progress is possible.

informal

The image here is of placing your foot in a doorway in such a way as to prevent the door being closed in your face.

toe the line accept the authority, principles, or policies of a particular group, especially under pressure.

Competitors in a race toe the line by placing their toes on the starting line.

1998 Times An insider suggests . . . that the said minister is . . . on the skids. The minister smarts, and toes the line.

turn up your toes die. informal

This originated as a mid 19th-century expression, a more elaborate version being turn your toes up to the daisies.

toffee

not be able to do something for toffee be totally incompetent at doing something. British informal 2000 Times Wordsworth himself couldn’t spell for toffee, and his punctuation was extraordinarily bad.

token

by the same token in the same way; for the same reason.

1975 Frederick Exley Pages from a Cold Island The student could ask anything he chose, and by the same token Wilson could if he elected choose not to answer.

Tom

Tom, Dick, and Harry used to refer to ordinary people in general.

This expression is first recorded in an 18th-century song: ‘Farewell, Tom, Dick, and Harry. Farewell, Moll, Nell, and Sue’. It is generally used in mildly derogatory contexts (he didn’t want every Tom, Dick, and Harry knowing their business) to suggest a large number of ordinary or undistinguished people.

Tom Tiddler’s ground a place where money or profit is readily made.

This Tom Tiddler’s ground was the name of a children’s game in which one of the players, named Tom Tiddler, marked out their territory by drawing a line on the ground. The other players ran over this line calling out ‘We’re on Tom Tiddler’s ground, picking up gold and silver’. They were then chased by Tom Tiddler and the first (or, sometimes, the last) to be caught took his or her place.
touch

tomorrow

as if there was (or as though there were) no tomorrow with no regard for the future consequences.

1980 Guardian Weekly Oil supplies that Americans at home continue to consume as though there were no tomorrow.

tomorrow is another day the future will bring fresh opportunities.

1 This phrase was in use as long ago as the early 16th century, in the form tomorrow is a new day.

tongue

the gift of tongues the power of speaking in unknown languages, regarded as one of the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

1 When the disciples of Jesus were filled with the Holy Spirit after Pentecost (Acts 2:1–4), the gift of tongues was one of the ways in which this phenomenon manifested itself; compare with speak in tongues (at SPEAK).

top

from top to bottom completely; thoroughly.

off the top of your head: see HEAD.

on top of the world happy and elated.

informal

over the top to an excessive or exaggerated degree, in particular so as to go beyond reasonable or acceptable limits.

1 The phrase go over the top originated in the First World War, when it referred to troops in the trenches charging over the parapets to attack the enemy. In modern use over the top is often abbreviated to OTT.

top and tail 1 remove the top and bottom of a fruit or vegetable while preparing it as food. 2 wash the face and bottom of a baby or small child. British top the bill: see BILL.

top dollar a very high price. North American informal 2000 Ralph Klein has invested millions in building a non-conformist image … an image that has enabled the company to charge top dollar.

the top of the tree the highest level of a profession or career.

torch

carry a torch for feel (especially unrequited) love for.

1996 TV Times A dentist carrying a torch for the local ‘strawberry blonde’ wonders if he married the right woman.

hand on (or pass) the torch pass on a tradition, especially one of learning or enlightenment.

1 The image here is that of the runners in a relay passing on the torch to each other, as was the custom in the ancient Greek Olympic Games. The tradition of the torch relay is preserved as a prelude to the modern Olympics, with a team of runners carrying the Olympic torch vast distances across various countries until the site of the Games is reached.

put to the torch (or put a torch to) destroy by burning.

toss

give (or care) a toss care at all. British informal 1998 Country Life I have swum in the Dart only a few yards from a mink, and the mink has not given a toss.

toss your cookies vomit. North American informal touch

lose your touch not show your customary skill.

1991 Times The guv’nor is a former pork butcher who has clearly not lost his touch.
the Midas touch: see MIDAS.

a soft (or easy) touch someone who is easily manipulated; a person or task easily handled. informal

A touch was mid 19th-century criminal slang for the act of getting money from a person, either by pickpocketing or by persuasion. Touch was later extended to refer to the person targeted in this way, and a soft touch was specifically a person from whom money could easily be obtained.

1998 Times Henman can be something of a soft touch. For every leading player who touts his potential, two from the basement would relish his name in the draw.

touch base: see BASE.

touch bottom ① reach the bottom of water with your feet. ② be at the lowest or worst point. British touch of the sun a slight attack of sunstroke.

touch wood: see WOOD.

would not touch someone or something with a bargepole: see BARGEPOLE.

1967 Listener This is no sweet old dolly... She is tough as old boots, working for a living.

tough as old boots very sturdy or resilient.

Leather, of which boots are traditionally made, is notably strong and resistant to wear and tear. As tough as leather was in fact the earliest version of this phrase, although it has now been superseded by the current form.

1977 Listener Eva Duarte Peron... came from the wrong side of the tracks.

touchpaper

light the touchpaper: see light a fuse at LIGHT.

tower of strength: see STRENGTH.

town and gown non-members and members of a university in a particular place.

The gown is the academic dress worn by university members, now required only on ceremonial or formal occasions. The distinction between town and gown was made in these specific terms in early 19th-century Oxford and Cambridge, but the traditional hostility between the native inhabitants of the two cities and the incoming students has been a long-standing phenomenon, as is evidenced by the St Scholastica's Day riot in Oxford in 1354.

1998 Cosmopolitan Hang in there and tough it out. If you don't, you might be left with permanent fears about starting in new jobs, and that will stifle your career.

towel

throw in the towel: see THROW.

tower

tower of strength: see STRENGTH.

town

go to town do something thoroughly or extravagantly, with a great deal of energy and enthusiasm. informal 1984 David Brin Practice Effect We have another big climb ahead of us and another pass to get through. Let's make tracks.

off the beaten track: see BEATEN.

the wrong side of the tracks a poor or less prestigious part of town. informal 1977 Listener Eva Duarte Peron... came from the wrong side of the tracks.

traffic

as much as the traffic will bear as much as the trade or market will tolerate; as much as is economically viable.

tragedy

tragedy of the commons the inevitable damage done to a limited resource when too many people try to avail themselves of it.

This phrase arose from the ancient English custom by which villagers were allowed to graze their animals on common land; thoughtless or greedy people put too many animals on the commons, impoverishing the land and thereby the whole community.

1998 New Scientist All Web users are modern players in an old social dilemma known as the tragedy of the commons. By blindly acting in their own interests they are spoiling a valuable common resource.

trail
blaze a trail: see BLAZE.

trail (or drag) your coat deliberately provoke a quarrel or fight.

If you trail your coat behind you someone is likely to step on it, either intentionally or unintentionally, so enabling you to pick a fight. This behaviour was traditionally associated with Irishmen at Donnybrook Fair, an annual fair once held in what is now a suburb of Dublin. Charlotte M. Yonge, in the novel Womankind (1877), alludes to this association: ‘Party spirit is equally ready to give offence and to watch for it. It will trail its coat like the Irishman in the fair.’

1980 James Ditton Copley’s Hunch I was trailing my coat... Trying to get the Luftwaffe to come up and fight.

transom
over the transom offered or sent without prior agreement; unsolicited. US informal

A transom is a crossbar set above a door or window, and the word can also be used, especially in American English, as a term for a small window set above this crossbar. In former times, before the advent of air conditioning, many offices would leave these windows open for the purposes of ventilation, thereby allowing an aspiring author to take their manuscript to an editor’s office and slip it through the open window to land on the floor inside. So, a manuscript that arrived over the transom was one that was unexpected. The phrase is still often used in publishing contexts, although it is no longer confined to them.

1976 Piers Anthony But What of Earth? Editors claim to be deluged with appallingly bad material 'over the transom' from unagented writers.

1996 Financial Post The NAPM index... has been treading water since the spring, and that is making a lot of people nervous.

tread on air: see walk on air at AIR.

treat
— a treat used to indicate that someone or something does something specified very well or satisfactorily. British informal 1988 Ray Pickernell Yanto’s Summer A flared cream pleated skirt that complemented those long perfect brown legs, and a powder blue tee shirt that matched her eyes a treat.

tree
grow on trees: see GROW.

out of your tree completely stupid; mad.
informal

cap a tree in a difficult situation without escape; cornered. informal, chiefly North American trial

trial and error the process of experimenting with various methods of doing something until you find the most successful.

trial by television (or the media) discussion of a case or controversy on television or in the media involving or implying accusations against a particular person.

trice
in a trice in a moment; very quickly.

In late Middle English, at a trice meant ‘at one pull or tug’, and it soon developed the figurative meaning of ‘in a moment, immediately’. By the late 17th century the original form of the expression had given way to the more familiar in a trice. Trice itself comes from a Middle Dutch verb meaning ‘hoist’.

trick
a bag of tricks: see BAG.
a box of tricks: see BOX.
do the trick achieve the required result.
informal

1990 Niki Hill Death Grows On You I figured a box of candy would do the trick, would bring some colour back.
every trick in the book not miss a trick: see MISS.

the oldest trick in the book a trick worth two of that tricks of the trade

tried and true

tried and true

trim

trim your sails

trip

trip the light fantastic

trivet

right as a trivet

trout

Trojan

work like a Trojan

1974 Winifred Foley A Child in the Forest She put me to clean out all the fowls’ cotes, and I worked at it like a Trojan.

a Trojan horse

trouble

meet trouble halfway

trousers

catch someone with their trousers down

wear the trousers

trout

old trout
1972 Victor Canning. The Rainbird Pattern She wasn’t such a bad old trout. For all her money and position, life hadn’t been all good to her.

trowel
lay something on with a trowel: see lay something on thick at LAY.

truck
have (or want) no truck with avoid dealing or being associated with. 2 be unsympathetic or opposed to.

The earliest sense of truck was ‘trading by the exchange of commodities’ (from French troquer, meaning ‘barter’), from which developed the sense ‘communication or dealings’.

true
out of true (or the true) not in the correct or exact shape.

1984 Jonathan Gash The Gondola Scam They all look scarilly out of true, and I do mean a terrible angle. Pisa’s got one sloper.

true as Bob (or God) absolutely true. South African informal trompet

blow your own trumpet talk openly and boastfully about your achievements.

1998 Spectator I only mention this to blow my own trumpet ... it was a source of great pride to be reinstated at the specific behest of Britain’s most distinguished black radical journalist.

true
true as Bob (or God) absolutely true. South African informal trump

come (or turn) up trumps 1 (of a person or situation) have a better performance or outcome than expected. 2 (of a person) be especially generous or helpful. informal, chiefly British

In bridge, whist, and similar card games, trumps are cards of the suit that has been chosen to rank above the other suits. The word trump is an alteration of triumph, which was once used in card games in the same sense.

trust
not trust someone as far as you can throw them not trust or hardly trust a particular person at all. informal

truth
economical with the truth: see ECONOMICAL.

truth
gospel truth: see GOSPEL.

truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth the full and unvarnished truth.

try
try conclusions with: see CONCLUSION.

try a fall with contend with.

try something for size try out or test something for suitability.

try your hand see how skilful you are, especially at the first attempt.

1994 John Barth Once Upon a Time Since such dreaminess appeared to be my nature ... why didn’t I try my hand at writing fiction?

tube
go down the tube (or tubes) be completely lost or wasted; fail utterly. informal tug tug of love a dispute over the custody of a child. British informal tune

call the tune: see call the shots at CALL.

change your tune: see CHANGE.

there’s many a good tune played on an old fiddle someone’s abilities do not depend on their age. proverb 1997 Times Old Star remained as cool and collected as if he had been training for this day for months. Which only goes to show that there is many a good tune played on an old fiddle.

to the tune of amounting to or involving the considerable sum of. informal 1996 LSE Magazine The average student also leaves in debt to the tune of several thousand pounds to the bank or the Student Loan Company.

tuned
tuned in aware of or able to understand something. informal 1994 Today’s Parent It is more important to be tuned in to your child’s needs than to be the boss.

tunnel
light at the end of the tunnel: see LIGHT. turkey
go cold turkey: see COLD.
like turkeys voting for Christmas used to suggest that a particular action or decision is hopelessly self-defeating.
informal
talk turkey talk frankly and straightforwardly; get down to business. North American informal

This phrase was first recorded in the mid 19th century, when it generally had the rather different sense of 'say pleasant things or talk politely'. Although several theories have been put forward, its origins are not clear.

turn Buggins's turn appointment in rotation rather than by merit.
Buggins is used here to represent a typical or generic surname.

not turn a hair: see HAIR.
one good turn deserves another if someone does you a favour, you should take the chance to repay it.
to a turn to exactly the right degree (used especially in relation to cooking).
1931 Good Housekeeping The meal began with a magnificent bass, broiled to a turn over heartwood coals.
turn cat in pan: see CAT.
turn the corner pass the critical point and start to improve.
turn your hand to: see HAND.
turn someone's head: see HEAD.
turn an honest penny: see HONEST.
turn in your grave: see GRAVE.
turn on your heel: see HEEL.
turn the other cheek: see CHEEK.
turn over a new leaf: see LEAF.
turn the scales: see SCALE.
turn the tables: see TABLE.
turn to ashes: see ASH.
turn a trick: see TRICK.
turn turtle: see TURTLE.
turn up your nose: see NOSE.

turn-up
a turn-up for the book a completely unexpected event or occurrence; a surprise.

In this expression, turn-up refers to the turning up or over of a particular card in a game, while the book in question is one kept by a bookie to record bets made on a race.

turtle
turn turtle turn upside down.

If a turtle is flipped over on to its back, it becomes helpless and unable to move. The phrase has long been used figuratively of inanimate objects, especially boats, that have turned upside down or overturned.

1990 Stephen King The Stand His tractor turned turtle on him and killed him.

twain
never the twain shall meet two people or things are too different to exist alongside or understand each other.

This phrase comes from Rudyard Kipling's poem 'The Ballad of East and West' (1892): 'Oh, East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet'.

twelve
twelve good men and true a jury. dated

A jury in a court of law was traditionally composed of twelve men. Nowadays, of course, women also sit on juries, and so this phrase is falling out of use.

twice
be twice the man or woman that someone is be much better or stronger than someone.
think twice: see THINK.

twiddle
twiddle your thumbs be bored or idle because you have nothing to do.

twinkling
in a twinkling (or the twinkling of an eye) in an instant; very quickly.

A twinkling is the time taken to wink or blink an eye. The phrase can be traced back to 1 Corinthians 15:52: 'In a moment, in a twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed', and it has been in figurative sense since medieval times.

twist
round the twist: see round the bend at BEND.
twist someone's arm persuade someone to do something that they are or are thought to be reluctant to do. informal twist in the wind be left in a state of suspense or uncertainty.

twist someone round your little finger: see FINGER.

twist the lion's tail provoke the resentment of the British. US

two

for two pins: see PIN.

in two shakes: see SHAKE.

it takes two to tango: see TANGO.

put two and two together draw an obvious conclusion from what is known or evident.

\[ 1 \text{ An extension of this phrase is put two and two together and make five, meaning 'draw a plausible but incorrect conclusion from what is known or evident'.} \]

two can play at that game used to assert that one person's bad behaviour can be copied to that person's disadvantage.

two heads are better than one it's helpful to have the advice or opinion of a second person. proverb 1994 James Kelman How Late It Was, How Late Cause it's hard to do it yerself Keith, two heads are better than one.

two a penny: see PENNY.

two-edged

a two-edged sword: see a double-edged sword at DOUBLE-EDGED.

twopenn'orth

add (or put in) your twopenn'orth contribute your opinion. informal

\[ 1 \text{ The literal meaning of twopenn'orth is 'an amount of something that is worth or costs two pence'; by extension it can also be used to mean 'a small or insignificant amount of something'.} \]

two-way

two-way street a situation or relationship between two people or groups in which action is required from both parties; something that works both ways.
ugly
an ugly duckling a young person who turns out to be beautiful or talented against all expectations.

uncertain
in no uncertain terms clearly and forcefully.
1991 Kaye Gibbons A Cure for Dreams My mother got the doctor back out to our house and told him in no uncertain terms to do what he was paid to do.

uncle
cry (or say or yell) uncle surrender or admit defeat. North American informal 1989 Guy Vanderhaeghe Homestick Beat him six ways to Sunday and he still would never cry uncle or allow that there was an outside chance of his ever being wrong.

Uncle Tom Cobley (or Cobleigh) and all used to denote a long list of people. British informal 1 Uncle Tom Cobley is the last of a long list of men enumerated in the ballad 'Widdicombe Fair', which dates from around 1800.
1966 Guardian It seems clear that a compromise, half-way solution had equally been ruled out by Government, Opposition, economists, press, TV, Uncle Tom Cobleigh and all.

unco
the unco guid strictly religious and moralistic people. Scottish, chiefly derogatory 1 Unco, a Scottish alteration of uncouth, means 'remarkably or extremely', while guid is the Scottish form of good. The expression comes from Robert Burns's Address to the Unco Guid, or the Rigidly Righteous (1787), and it generally carries an implicit charge of hypocrisy.

under under age not yet adult according to the law.

university
the university of life the experience of life regarded as a means of instruction.

unpleasantness
the late unpleasantness the war that took place recently.
1 This phrase was originally used of the American Civil War (1861–5).

untracked
get untracked get into your stride or find your winning form, especially in sporting contexts. US unwashed

the (great) unwashed the mass or multitude of ordinary people. derogatory 1997 Spectator Early piers tried to be rather socially exclusive, but the need to maintain revenue soon opened the gates to the great unwashed.

up
it is all up with it is the end or there is no hope for someone or something. informal 2002 Guardian The underlying problem is not the science itself, but the fact that the science is telling politicians something they are desperate not to hear: that it’s all up with our current model of gung-ho globalisation.

be up on be well informed about a matter or subject.
on the up and up steadily improving. informal 1994 Marianne Williamson Illuminata It feels as though something is up, as though something significant and big is about to happen.

something is up something unusual or undesirable is afoot or happening. informal up against it facing some serious but unspecified difficulty. informal up and about (or doing) having risen from bed; active.

up and running taking place; active.

1998 New Scientist The arms race may be up and running again.

up the ante: see ANTE.

up for it ready to take part in a particular activity. informal

2003 Observer If the chance ever arose to do my singing and play football for Southampton, I’d be well up for it.

up hill and down dale all over the place.

2001 Observer Why get ourselves bogged down with trials which may last many months and see our staff cross-examined up hill and down dale as defence counsel play the game of hunt the informant?

up in arms: see ARM.

up the spout: see SPOUT.

up sticks: see STICK.

up to the mark: see MARK.

up to your tricks: see TRICK.

upgrade

on the upgrade improving or progressing.

upper

have (or gain) the upper hand have (or gain) advantage or control over someone or something.

on your uppers extremely short of money. informal

---

1. In this expression, worn-out shoes are taken as an indication of someone’s poverty; the upper is the part of a shoe above the sole, which is all that is left after the sole has been worn away.

the upper crust the aristocracy and upper classes. informal

---

2. In Anne Elizabeth Baker’s Glossary of Northamptonshire Words and Phrases (1854) ‘Mrs Upper Crust’ is explained as the nickname for ‘any female who assumes unauthorized superiority’. The term was also current in informal American speech in the mid 19th century. The French word gratin has a similar pair of literal and metaphorical senses, being literally ‘a crust of crumbs and cheese on top of a cooked dish’ and metaphorically ‘the highest class of society’.

upset

upset the apple cart: see APPLE CART.

uptake

be quick (or slow) on the uptake be quick (or slow) to understand something, informal

upwardly

upwardly mobile: see downwardly mobile at MOBILE.
vain
take someone's name in vain use someone's name in a way that shows a lack of respect.

The third of the biblical Ten Commandments is: 'Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain' (Exodus 20:7).

vengeance
with a vengeance in a higher degree than was expected or desired; in the fullest sense.

vent
vent your spleen give free expression to your anger or displeasure.

2003 Guardian Woodgate's clumsy challenge on the striker was not contested, though the visitors wasted little time in venting spleen at both the culpable Danish midfielder and, erroneously, the young pretender.

vest
keep your cards close to your vest: see keep your cards close to your chest at CARD.

victory
Pyrrhic victory: see PYRRHIC.

view
take a dim (or poor) view of regard someone or something with disapproval.

1996 C. J. Stone Fierce Dancing He says that... the Home Office... take a dim view of lifers talking to the press.

variety
variety is the spice of life new and exciting experiences make life more interesting.

This proverbial expression comes from William Cowper's poem 'The Task' (1785): 'Variety's the very spice of life, That gives it all its flavour'.

village
a Potemkin village: see POTEMKIN.

villain
the villain of the piece the main culprit.

1928 P. G. Wodehouse Money for Nothing I'm sure you're on the right track. This bird Twist is the villain of the piece.

viper
a viper in your bosom a person you have helped but who behaves treacherously towards you.

The phrase comes from one of Aesop's fables, in which a viper reared in a person's bosom eventually bites its nurturer. The idea is also found in Latin (in sinu viperam habere) and the expression appears in various forms in English from the late 16th century.

vanishing
do a vanishing act: see do a disappearing act at DISAPPEARING.

valle
valle of tears the world regarded as a scene of trouble or sorrow. literary

This phrase dates from the mid 16th century; earlier variants included vale of trouble, vale of weeping, and vale of woe.

1997 Shetland Times Then by God's grace we'll meet again. Beyond this vale of tears.

the vale of years the declining years of a person's life; old age.

This expression comes from Shakespeare's Othello: 'for I am declin'd into the vale of yeares'.

veil
beyond the veil in a mysterious or hidden place or state, especially the unknown state of existence after death.

The phrase was originally a figurative reference to the veil which concealed the innermost sanctuary of the Temple in Jerusalem; it was later taken as referring to the mysterious division between the next world and this.

draw a veil over avoid discussing or calling attention to something, especially because it is embarrassing or unpleasant.
Virginia
make a Virginia fence walk crookedly because you are drunk. US

A Virginia fence is a fence made of split rails or poles joined in a zigzag pattern with their ends crossing.

virtue
make a virtue of necessity derive some credit or benefit from an unwelcome obligation.

This is a concept found in Latin in the writings of St Jerome: facis de necessitate virtutem 'you make a virtue of necessity'. It passed into Old French (faire de nécessité vertu) and was apparently first used in English around 1374 by Chaucer in Troilus and Criseyde.

1997 Spectator How important it is for humanity always to make a virtue out of necessity.

visiting visiting fireman a visitor to an organization given especially cordial treatment on account of their importance. US voice

still small voice: see STILL.
a voice in the wilderness an unheeded advocate of reform.

The phrase was originally used with reference to the words of John the Baptist, who proclaimed the coming of the Messiah: 'I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness' (John 1:23).

vote
split the vote: see SPLIT.
vote with your feet indicate an opinion by being present or absent.

1982 Christian Order Uncounted thousands have 'voted with their feet', i.e., have left the Church.
wag
the tail wags the dog: see TAIL.

wagon
fix someone’s wagon: see FIX.
hitch your wagon to a star: see HITCH.
on the wagon teetotal, informal

This expression originated in early 20th-century American use in the form on the water wagon, the implication being that a person on the water wagon would eschew alcohol in favour of water.

1989 Michael Norman These Good Men I’ll just have a club soda with a twist of lime... I’m on the wagon.
a whole team and the dog under the wagon: see TEAM.

wake
wake up and smell the coffee become aware of the realities of a situation, however unpleasant, informal, chiefly North American

wake-up be a wake-up (or awake up) be fully alert or aware. Australian & New Zealand informal walk

run before you can walk: see RUN.
walk all over 1defeat easily. 2take advantage of. informal walk before you can run grasp the basic skills before attempting something more difficult.
walk the chalk have your sobriety tested.

walk someone off their feet (or legs) exhaust a person with walking.
walk of life the position within society that a person holds or the part of society to which they belong as a result of their job or social status.
walk on air: see AIR.

walk on eggs (or eggshells) be extremely cautious about your words or actions.
walk the plank: see PLANK.
walk Spanish be made to walk under compulsion. informal

The origins of this expression are not clear. It may refer to the practice of pirates on the Spanish Main, who forced their captives to walk in a particular direction by gripping their collar and trousers tightly.

walk your (or the) talk suit your actions to your words. informal, chiefly North American walk tall feel justifiable pride. informal 1992 Woman This week stop wishing you were somehow different. Start to walk tall! walk Matilda: see waltz Matilda at MATILDA.

walkabout
go walkabout wander around from place to place in a protracted or leisurely way.

In Australian English, a walkabout is a journey into the bush undertaken by an Aboriginal in order to live in a traditional manner and re-establish contact with spiritual sources.

walkies
go walkies go missing, especially as a result of theft. informal walking

a walking — someone who notably embodies the characteristics of something. informal 1989 Charles Shaar Murray Crosstown Traffic He is... a dubious political philosopher and a walking disaster area as a businessman.

wall between you and me and the wall: see between you and me and the bedpost at BEDPOST.
drive someone up the wall make someone very irritated or angry. informal go to the wall ① (of a business) fail; go out of business. ② support someone or something, no matter what the cost to yourself. informal off the wall ① eccentric or unconventional. ② (of a person) crazy or angry. ③ (of an accusation) without basis or foundation. North American informal up against the wall in an inextricable situation; in great trouble or difficulty. ③ The image here is of someone facing execution by a firing squad.
wall-to-wall ① (of a carpet or other floor covering) fitted to cover an entire floor. ② of great extent or number; allowing no unfilled space or interval. informal ③ 1982 Sara Paretsky Indemnity Only Why would he agree to see me? He’d never heard of me, he has wall-to-wall appointments.
walls have ears used to warn someone to be careful what they say as people may be eavesdropping. proverb wallaby on the wallaby (or wallaby track) (of a person) unemployed and having no fixed address. Australian informal waltz waltz Matilda: see Matilda.
war a war of nerves a struggle in which opponents try to wear each other down by psychological means.
a war of words a prolonged debate which is conducted by means of the spoken or printed word.
have been in the wars have been hurt or injured. informal a war to end all wars a war, especially the First World War, regarded as making subsequent wars unnecessary.
warm keep something warm for someone hold or occupy a place or post until another person is ready to do so.
make it (or things) warm for someone cause trouble or make things unpleasant for someone.
warm as toast pleasantly warm. ③ 1991 W. P. Kinsella Box Socials Scrunched down, warm as toast. between the cookstove and the woodbox. I couldn’t see that getting something for nothing could be all that bad.
warm the cockles of someone’s heart: see cockle.
warn warn someone off tell someone forcefully to keep at a distance. ③ This expression comes from horse racing. Prior to 1969, the British Jockey Club had a rule empowering it to warn someone off the course, i.e. prohibit someone who had broken Jockey Club regulations from riding or running horses at meetings under the club’s jurisdiction.
warpath on the warpath ready and eager for confrontation. ③ The phrase originated with reference to American Indians heading towards a battle with an enemy.
1999 Cricketer This summer, England are on the warpath against New Zealand in a four test series.
wart warts and all including features or qualities that are not appealing or attractive. informal ③ This expression is said to stem from a request made by Oliver Cromwell to the portrait painter Peter Lely: ‘Remar all these roughnesses, pimples, warts, and everything as you see me’.
1998 Times We painted Fayed, warts and all; Fleet Street denounces us for not painting just the warts.
wash come out in the wash be resolved eventually with no lasting harm. informal ③ 1993 Canadian Living We could all benefit from borrowing her philosophy: be cheerful and worry sparingly. In the end, it will all come out in the wash.
wash your dirty linen in public discuss or argue about your personal affairs in public. ③ This expression dates from the early 19th century in English; a similar French expression about linge sale is attributed to Napoleon.
wash your hands of disclaim responsibility for.
waste

This phrase originally alluded to the biblical description of Pontius Pilate, who, when he was forced to condemn Jesus to death, sent for a bowl of water and ritually washed his hands before the crowd as a sign that he was innocent of ‘this just person’ (Matthew 27:24).

won’t wash will not be believed or accepted.
informal
1998 New Scientist In the end, however, this argument won’t wash.

waste

waste not, want not if you use a commodity or resource carefully and without extravagance you will never be in need.
proverb

In this expression, want can be understood to mean either ‘lack’ or ‘desire’ according to the context.

waste of space a person perceived as useless or incompetent.
informal

watch

watch someone’s smoke: see SMOKE.
watch this space: see SPACE.

watch the time ensure that you are aware of the time, typically in order to avoid being late.

watch the world go by spend time observing other people going about their business.
1996 Europe: Rough Guide Outdoor seating allows you to watch the world go by or to play a game of chess with giant chess pieces under the trees.

watch your step: see mind your step at STEP.
watch your (or someone’s) back protect yourself (or someone else) against danger from an unexpected quarter.

The watches of the night the hours of night, especially viewed as a time when you cannot sleep.
literary

A watch was originally each of the three or four periods of time into which the night was divided, during which a guard would be stationed to keep a lookout for danger or trouble.

water

cast your bread upon the waters: see BREAD.
like water in great quantities.
1991 Mark Tully No Full Stops in India Digvijay’s supporters allege that George spent money like water to bribe the local leaders.

like water off a duck’s back: see DUCK.
of the first water extreme or unsurpassed of kind.

The sense of water referred to in this expression is ‘the quality of brilliance and transparency of a diamond or other gem’: if a diamond or pearl is of the first water it possesses the greatest possible degree of brilliance and transparency. In its transferred use, however, the phrase often refers to someone or something regarded as undesirable, e.g. a bore of the first water.

on the wagon: see WAGON.

water under the bridge used to refer to events or situations in the past that are no longer to be regarded as important or a source of concern.

The related expression there’s been a lot of water under the bridge since — is used to indicate that a lot of time has passed and a great many events have occurred since a particular event. A North American variant is water over the dam.

Waterloo

meet your Waterloo experience a final and decisive defeat.

The battle of Waterloo in 1815 marked the final defeat of Napoleon’s army by the British and the Prussians.

wave

make waves 1 create a significant impression. 2 cause trouble.
informal
1997 Spectator Perhaps unsurprisingly, it is the old pros disguised as new boys and girls who are making the biggest waves.

wax

be wax in someone’s hands: see be putty in someone’s hands at PUTTY.

wax and wane undergo alternate increases and decreases.
2002 New York Times The level of security that people are psychologically able to accept changes as crisis situations wax and wane.

wax lyrical about: see LYRICAL.

way

have it both ways: see BOTH.
go out of your way make a special effort to do something.

on the way out 1 going down in status, estimation, or favour; going out of fashion.
2 dying.
informal
put someone in the way of give a person the opportunity of. dated the way of the world the manner in which people typically behave or things typically happen (used to express your resignation to it).

way to go used to express pleasure, approval, or excitement. North American informal 1990 Robert Oliver Making Champions You had Bechard shakin’. He wasn’t gonna mess with you. Way to go!

ways and means the methods and resources at someone’s disposal for achieving something.

1 In the British parliamentary system this phrase is used specifically of the various methods of raising government revenue.

1982 Frank McGuinness The Factory Girls He said too he couldn’t afford opposition and there were ways and means of getting rid of it. Everybody thinks there’s definitely going to be redundancies and pay-offs.

wayside

fall by the wayside ① fail to persist in an endeavour or undertaking. ② be left without attention or help.

1 In sense 1 the phrase alludes to the biblical parable of the sower in Mark 4:3–20, and in particular to verse 4: ‘And it came to pass, as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up’.

wazoo

up (or out) the wazoo in great quantities. informal

Wazoo is an informal American term for the buttocks or anus. Its origins are unknown.

2000 Eric Garcia Anonymous Rex The guy in the movie had business contacts up the wazoo.

weak

weak at the knees: see KNEE.

the weak link the point at which a system, sequence, or organization is most vulnerable; the least dependable element or member.

wear

wear your heart on your sleeve: see HEART.

wear the trousers: see TROUSERS.

wear (or wear your years) well remain young-looking.

weather

fine (or lovely) weather for ducks wet, rainy weather. humorous

keep a weather eye on observe a situation very carefully, especially for changes or developments.

make good (or bad) weather of it (of a ship) cope well (or badly) in a storm.

make heavy weather (or work) of have unnecessary difficulty in dealing with a task or problem. informal

1 In a nautical context, heavy weather means 'violent wind accompanied by heavy rain or rough sea'.

under the weather ① slightly unwell. ② in low spirits. informal weaving

get weavng set briskly to work; begin action. British informal 1992 George MacDonald Fraser Quartered Safe Out Here Come on, come on, come on! . . . Let’s get weaving!

wedge

the thin end of the wedge: see THIN.

weigh

weigh something in the balance: see BALANCE.

weight

be a weight off your mind come as a great relief after you have been worried.

be worth your (or its) weight in gold be extremely useful or helpful.

throw your weight about: see THROW.

welcome

welcome to the club: see join the club at CLUB.

outstay your welcome stay as a visitor longer than you are wanted.

welkin

make the welkin ring make a very loud sound.

Welkin is a poetic term for ‘the sky or heaven’, which is now found only in literary contexts and in this expression.

welly

give it some welly exert more effort or strength. informal Welly or wellie, an informal abbreviation of Wellington boot, acquired an informal sense of 'power or vigour' in the 1970s.

1997 BBC Top Gear Magazine Drop down a gear, give it some welly and that long bonnet rises towards the horizon in the best traditions of... a traditional British Sports Car.

go west be killed or lost; meet with disaster. British informal

The image here is of the sun setting in the west at the end of the day.

all wet mistaken; completely wrong. North American wet the baby's head celebrate a baby's birth with a drink, usually an alcoholic one. British informal wet behind the ears lacking experience; immature. informal

The image is of a baby or young animal which is still damp after it has been born.

a wet blanket someone who has a depressing or discouraging effect on others.

A dampened blanket can be used to smother a fire; the image here is of a person extinguishing a lively or optimistic mood by their gloominess or negativity.

1991 Michael Curtin The Plastic Tomato Cutter

When in the company of those of us who do succumb to the occasional dram Father Willie was never a wet blanket.

wet your whistle have a drink. informal out of whack out of order; not working. North American & Australian 1998 Bookseller There's been a fair amount of jeering... at the Sunday Times for getting its figures so comprehensively out of whack, by a factor of about 100 if memory serves.

top (or full) whack the maximum price or rate.

1989 Holiday Which? Tour prices vary; you pay top whack if you book in large hotels.

wham-bam

wham-bam-thank-you-ma'am used in reference to sexual activity conducted roughly and quickly, without tenderness.

and (or or) what have you and (or or) anything else similar. informal 1997 Jonathan Coe The House of Sleep Most of the time he's out there, risking his life for his country and defeating Communism and what have you.

and what not and other similar things. informal 1992 Nalinaksha Bhattacharya Hem & Football Has anyone ever seen such a selfish daughter? Gorging herself on eggs, milk and what not while others in the house don't even get two square meals?

know what's what: see KNOW.

what with because of (used typically to introduce several causes of something).

1990 Rosamund Clay Only Angels Forget She's had a difficult life, what with my father skiving off when I was three and leaving her without a penny.

separate (or sort) the wheat from the chaff distinguish valuable people or things from worthless ones.

Chaff is the husks of corn or other seed separated out when the grain is winnowed or threshed. The metaphorical contrast between wheat and chaff is drawn in several passages in the Bible, for example in Matthew 3:12: 'he will thoroughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire'.

a big wheel: see a big cheese at BIG.

reinvent the wheel: see REINVENT.

grease the wheels: see GREASE.

silly as a wheel very silly. Australian 1985 John Clanchy The Lie of the Land Father Tierney was mad. Cracked as an egg, some boys said, silly as a wheel.

spin your wheels waste your time or efforts. North American informal 2001 Time As long as our national energy policy is demand-driven... we will continue to spin our wheels.

whale

a whale of a — an extremely good example of a particular thing. informal 1993 Chicago Tribune This stuffed-shirt epitome of the East Coast Establishment of his day had a whale of a time at Chicago's World's Fair.

The verb wheel is here used to mean ‘control events’. The sense is related to the noun a big wheel, meaning ‘an important person who makes things happen’.

The wheel of Fortune the wheel which the goddess Fortune is said to turn as a symbol of random luck or change.

Wheels within wheels used to indicate that a situation is complicated and affected by secret or indirect influences.

Whip
A fair crack of the whip: see CRACK.

Whip the cat 1 complain or moan. 2 be sorry; show remorse. Australian & New Zealand informal Whips of large quantities of. Australian & New Zealand

Whirl
Give it a whirl give it a try. informal

Whirlwind
Reap the whirlwind suffer serious consequences as a result of your actions.

Whisker
Have (or have grown) whiskers (especially of a story) be very old. informal

Within a whisker of extremely close or near to doing, achieving, or suffering something. informal

Whistle
Blow the whistle on bring an illicit activity to and end by informing on the person responsible. informal

White
Big white chief: see CHIEF.

Bleed someone white: see bleed someone dry at BLEED.

Mark something with a white stone regard something as especially fortunate or happy.

Show the white feather appear cowardly. British, dated

A white elephant a possession that is useless or troublesome, especially one that is expensive to maintain or difficult to dispose of.

A white knight a company that makes a welcome bid for a company facing an unwelcome takeover bid.
whited

a whited sepulchre a hypocrite; someone who is ostensibly virtuous but inwardly corrupt. literary

This expression comes from Matthew 23:27: ‘Woe unto you . . . for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men’s bones, and of all uncleanness’. A sepulchre is a room or monument, cut in rock or built of stone, in which a dead body is laid or buried.

whiter

whiter than white 1 extremely white. 2 morally beyond reproach.

who

who goes there?: see GOES.

whole

go the whole hog: see HOG.

out of (the) whole cloth wholly fabricated: with no basis in fact or reality. North American informal

1991 Ron Rosenbaum Travels with Dr. Death
The fact that her murder is officially ‘unsolved’ is irritating, yes, but not justification for creating conspiracy theories out of the whole cloth.

a whole new ball game: see BALL.

the whole nine yards everything possible or available. North American informal

1999 Salman Rushdie The Ground Beneath Her Feet
Then the lovers throw a party, and what a party! Dancing, wine, the whole nine yards.

whoop

whoop it up 1 enjoy yourself or celebrate in a noisy way, usually in a group. 2 create or show excitement or enthusiasm. US informal whoopee

make whooppee 1 celebrate wildly. 2 make love. informal why

the whys and wherefores the reasons for or details of something.

1991 Gramophone At this time I was desperate to know all the whys and wherefores of a really advanced technique.

wick

dip your wick (of a man) have sexual intercourse. vulgar slang get on someone’s wick annoy someone. British informal wicked

no peace (or rest) for the wicked someone’s heavy workload or lack of tranquillity is punishment for a sinful life. humorous

This expression come from Isaiah 48:22: ‘There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked’.

wicket

a sticky wicket 1 a pitch that has been drying out after rain and is therefore difficult to bat on. Cricket 2 a tricky or awkward situation. informal wide give a wide berth to: see BERTH.

widow

a widow’s cruse an apparently small supply that proves inexhaustible.

In the Bible, 1 Kings 17 tells the story of the widow to whom Elijah was sent for sustenance. When he asked her for bread, she replied that all she had for herself and her son was ‘an handful of meal in a barrel and a little oil in a cruse’ (a cruse was a small earthenware pot or jar). Elijah told her to make him a cake from these ingredients and then to make food for herself and her son as God had decreed that the containers should be continually replenished.

a widow’s mite a small monetary contribution from someone who is poor.

This phrase comes from a story recounted in Mark 12:41–4. A poor widow donated two mites (coins of very low value) to the treasury of the Temple in Jerusalem, a sum which constituted all the money she possessed. Witnessing this act, Jesus told his disciples that she had given more than the richest contributor because she had given all that she had.

wig

flip your wig: see flip your lid at FLIP.

wigs on the green violent or unpleasant developments; ructions.
1996 Frank McCourt  Angela’s Ashes  Mam threatens us from the bed that we’re to help our small brother. She says, "If ye don’t fix yeer brother’s shoes an’ I have to get out of this bed there will be wigs on the green."

wiggle

get a wiggle on  get moving; hurry. informal wild

sow your wild oats: see oat.

wild and woolly  uncouth in appearance or behaviour.

1. This phrase was originally applied to the American West. The adjective woolly probably refers to sheepskin clothing worn with the wool still attached to it, seen as characteristic clothing of the pioneers and cowboys who opened up the western US.

wilderness

a voice in the wilderness: see voice.

wildfire

spread like wildfire  spread with great speed.

wild goose

a wild goose chase  a foolish and hopeless search for or pursuit of something unattainable.

1. This expression is first recorded in the late 16th century. It was then the term for a kind of equestrian sport in which all the competitors had to follow accurately the course of the leader at definite intervals, like a flight of wild geese. Later, the term was applied to an erratic course taken by one person or thing and followed by another.

1998 Spectator  The ‘struggle to align the clock and the heavens’, then, is ultimately the story of mortal vanity, or at least a wild goose chase.

will

where there’s a will there’s a way  determination will overcome any obstacle. proverb

1. This form of the saying was quoted by William Hazlitt in 1822, but George Herbert recorded a variant as one of his Outlandish Proverbs in 1640:  ‘To him that will, wais are not wanting.’

will o’ the wisp  1. a phosphorescent light seen hovering or floating over marshy ground, perhaps due to the combustion of methane. 2. an elusive or deceptive person, idea, or goal.

1967 Michael Gilbert  The Dust and the Heat  Mallinson must have guessed what was coming. Nevertheless, it hit him between wind and water.

get wind of  begin to suspect that something is happening; hear a rumour of. informal gone with the wind  gone completely; having disappeared without trace.

1 This expression comes from Ernest Dowson’s poem ‘Cynara’ (1896): ‘I have forgot much, Cynara, gone with the wind’, but it is best known as the title of Margaret Mitchell’s 1936 novel about the American Civil War.

it’s an ill wind  few things are so bad that no one profits from them. proverb

1 The full form of this nautical saying is it’s an ill wind that blows nobody any good or that profits nobody. Recorded since the mid 16th century, it is used especially as a comment on a situation in which one person’s bad luck is the cause of another’s good fortune.

put (or have) the wind up  alarm or frighten (or be alarmed or frightened). British informal

1 One of the earliest recorded uses of this expression was in a letter from the poet Wilfred Owen in 1918: ‘Shells so close that they thoroughly put the wind up a Life Guardsman in the trench with me’.

raise the wind: see RAISE.

sail close to (or near) the wind  verge on indecency, dishonesty, or disaster. informal

1 This originated as a nautical expression, meaning ‘sail as nearly against the wind as is possible’. It has been in figurative use since the mid 19th century.

1996 Martin Dove How To Win Any Consumer Competition I like the extra thrill of writing to a tight deadline but sometimes I do sail a bit close to the wind with closing dates.

take the wind out of someone’s sails  frustrate a person by unexpectedly anticipating an action or remark.

1977 Eva Figes Nelly’s Version She could so easily have taken the wind out of my sails and put me in my place for good.

to the wind(s) (or the four winds)  in all directions. so as to be abandoned or neglected.

1 1995 Kate Atkinson Behind the Scenes at the Museum My little flock scatters to the four winds and are hugged and congratulated by their respective parents for being so pretty, charming, cute, delightful, and so on.

wind someone round your little finger: see twist someone round your little finger at FINGER.

windmill

fling (or throw) your cap over the windmill(s) act recklessly or unconventionally.

dated

1933 John Galsworthy One More River I suggest that both of you felt it would be mad to fling your caps over the windmill like that?

tilt at windmills: see TILT.

window

go out (of) the window  (of a plan or pattern of behaviour) no longer exist; disappear. informal 1998 Economist In the ensuing struggle between the two groups [of councillors], the public interest goes out of the window.

window of opportunity a favourable opportunity for doing something that must be seized immediately if it is not to be missed.

window of vulnerability an opportunity to attack something that is at risk.

1 This expression is especially associated with a cold-war claim that America’s land-based missiles were easy targets for a Soviet first strike.

windward
to windward of  in an advantageous position in relation to. dated wine

new wine in old bottles  something new or innovatory added to an existing or established system or organization.

1 The proverb you can’t put new wine into old bottles is a reference to Matthew 9:17: ‘Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish’.

wine and dine someone  entertain someone by offering them drinks or a meal.

wine, women, and song the hedonistic life of drinking, sexual pleasure, and carefree entertainment proverbially required by men.

wing

in the wings ready to do something or to be used at the appropriate time.

1 This idiom comes from the theatre, in which the wings here are the areas screened from public view where actors wait for their cue to come on stage.

on a wing and a prayer  with only the slightest chance of success.
This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.

This expression comes from the title of a 1943 song by the American songwriter Harold Adamson, 'Comin' in on a Wing and a Prayer'. He himself took it from a contemporary comment made by a wartime pilot speaking to ground control before making an emergency landing.

spread (or stretch or try) your wings extend your activities and interests or start new ones.

under your wing in or into your protective care.
This expression is used by Shakespeare in Henry IV: ‘Thy wish was father, Harry, to that thought’. However, observations on this kind of self-delusion are found in much earlier writings, including those of Julius Caesar and Demosthenes.

1980 Alice Thomas Ellis The Birds of the Air Somewhere in that area of the human mind where the wish is father to the thought activity was taking place. Hunter, Barbara decided, had wangled this invitation in order to be with her.

wit

be at your wits' end be overwhelmed with difficulties and at a loss as to what to do next.

be frightened (or scared) out of your wits be extremely frightened.

gather (or collect) your wits bring yourself back to a state of equanimity.

1984 Geraldine McCaughrean The Canterbury Tales Poor old man, he was too astonished to speak. And before he could collect his wits, he was sitting at table... with his lord on one side and his daughter on the other.

have (or keep) your wits about you be constantly alert and vigilant.

live by your wits earn money by clever and sometimes dishonest means, having no regular occupation.

pit your wits against compete with someone or something.

1996 Earl Lovelace Salt Michael... would be the one to make money... there was no greater cause or adversary to pit his wits and slickness and spite against.

witching

the witching hour midnight.

1 In Shakespeare’s Hamlet, Hamlet declares: ‘Tis now the very witching time of night, When churchyards yawn and hell itself breathes out contagion to this world’. He is referring to the popular superstition that witches and other supernatural powers are active at midnight.

wither

wither on the vine fail to be implemented or dealt with because of neglect or inaction.

1 The image of grapes failing to grow is probably a reference to various passages in the Bible in which a withered vine is used as a metaphor for a state of physical or spiritual impoverishment.

wolf

cry wolf call for help when it is not needed; raise a false alarm.

1 An old fable tells the tale of a shepherd boy who constantly raised false alarms with cries of ‘Wolf!’, until people no longer took any notice of him. When a wolf did actually appear and attack him, his genuine cries for help were ignored and no one came to his aid.

have (or hold) a wolf by the ears be in a precarious position.

1 The saying became current in English in the mid 16th century, but the Roman comic dramatist Terence (195–159 BC) mentions its Latin equivalent, lupum auribus tenere, as already being an old saying in his time. Compare with have a tiger by the tail (at TIGER).

1990 George Will Suddenly A Communist Party administering an economy is holding a wolf by the ears.

keep the wolf from the door have enough money to avert hunger or starvation.

1 The phrase has been used in this sense since the mid 16th century, but the image of the wolf as a symbol of a devouring and destructive force is found much earlier than this. In Matthew 10:16, for example, Jesus tells his disciples: ‘Behold I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as doves’.

throw someone to the wolves leave someone to be roughly treated or criticized without trying to help or defend them.

1 This phrase probably arose in reference to tales about packs of wolves pursuing travellers in horse-drawn sleighs, in which one person was pushed off the sleigh to allow it to go faster, so enabling the others to make their escape.

1958 Listener This able and agreeable doctor was thrown to the wolves by a Prime Minister who had good reason to know that his own position was desperate.

a wolf in sheep's clothing a person or thing that appears friendly or harmless but is really hostile and dangerous.

1 This expression comes from Jesus’s words in Matthew 7:15: ‘Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves’.
woman
a woman of letters: see a man of letters at LETTER.
a woman of the world: see a man of the world at WORLD.

wonder
a nine days’ wonder: something that attracts enthusiastic interest for a short while but is then ignored or forgotten.

work (or do) wonders have a very beneficial effect on someone or something.
1997 Paul Wilson Calm at Work While it is true that holidays work wonders for the relief of stress, the relief is only temporary.

wood cannot see the wood for the trees fail to grasp the main issue because of over-attention to details.

out of the wood (or woods) out of danger or difficulty.

touch wood said in order to prevent a confident statement from bringing bad luck.

wooden
accept a wooden nickel: see NICKEL.
win the wooden spoon: see SPOON. wooden nutmeg: see NUTMEG.

woodshed something nasty in the woodshed: a shocking or distasteful thing kept secret. British informal

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

touch wood: said in order to prevent a confident statement from bringing bad luck.

woolshed
something nasty in the woodshed: a shocking or distasteful thing kept secret. British informal

word
eat your words: see EAT.

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.

word
take someone to the woodshed: reprove or punish someone, especially discreetly. US informal, dated

woodwork
vanish into (or come or crawl out of) the woodwork: (of an unpleasant person or thing) disappear into (or emerge from) obscurity. informal

wool
all wool and a yard wide: of excellent quality; thoroughly sound.
someone’s word is their bond someone keeps their promises.

A variant of this expression, now rather dated, is an Englishman’s word is his bond.

take someone at their word interpret a person’s words literally or exactly, especially by believing them or doing as they suggest.

take someone’s word (for it) believe what someone says or writes without checking for yourself.

too — for words extremely —. informal 1990 Rosamund Pilcher September I’m not saying ‘Isn’t it beautiful’ all the time, because if I do, it’ll just sound too banal for words.

winged words: see winged.

word of mouth spoken language; informal or unofficial discourse.

1987 Bruce Duffy The World As I Found It His ideas were repeated by word of mouth or passed around as transcripts of the shorthand notes that his students doggedly took down during his lectures.

the word on the street a rumour or piece of information currently being circulated.

informal

1992 Victor Headley Yardie The word on the street was that Roy was hooked and had smoked a fair amount of the crack himself.

a word to the wise a hint or brief explanation given, that being all that is required.

The equivalent Latin phrase is verbum sapienti sat est (a word to the wise is enough); the abbreviation of this, verb. sap., is sometimes used in English.

1983 Penelope Lively Perfect Happiness A word to the wise. If you don’t know the place I’m told the thing to do is steer clear of the guided tours.

work

give someone the works 1 give someone everything. 2 treat someone harshly.

informal

have your work cut out be faced with a hard task.

in the works being planned, worked on, or produced. chiefly North American 2003 N. Y. Magazine Movie-star-of-the-moment Jennifer Lopez . . . is in talks to star in Monster in Law, a new comedy in the works at New Line Cinema.

work your ass (or butt) off work extremely hard. North American vulgar slang work your fingers to the bone: see bone.

work like a beaver: see beaver.

work to rule (especially as a form of industrial action) follow official working regulations exactly in order to reduce output and efficiency. chiefly British work your ticket: see ticket.

workman

a bad workman blames his tools someone who has done something badly will seek to lay the blame on the equipment rather than admit to their own lack of skill. proverb

A similar 13th-century French proverb observed mauvees ovriers ne troveraja bon hostill, ‘bad workmen will never find a good tool’, and variants of this early saying can be found in English until the mid 19th century until the emergence of the modern version.

world

the best of both (or all possible) worlds the benefits of widely differing situations, enjoyed at the same time.

The variant all possible worlds alludes to the catchphrase of the eternally optimistic philosopher Dr Pangloss in Voltaire’s Candide (1759): Dans ce meilleur des mondes possibles . . . tout est au mieux, usually quoted in English as ‘Everything is for the best in the best of all possible worlds’.

carry the world before you have rapid and complete success.

come up in the world rise in status, especially by becoming richer.

go down in the world drop in status, especially by becoming poorer.

look for all the world like look precisely like.

1993 New Scientist Fossil imprints that look for all the world like motorcycle tracks have been explained.

a man (or woman) of the world a person who is experienced and practical in human affairs.

not be long for this world: see long.

out of this world extremely enjoyable or impressive. informal 1995 Daily Express I thought the rest of the team, and especially the defence, were out of this world.

set the world alight: see alight.
think the world of have a very high regard for.

the world and his wife everyone; a large number of people. British

1 This expression is first recorded in Jonathan Swift's Polite Conversation (1738).

the world, the flesh, and the devil all forms of temptation to sin.

the world is your oyster you are in a position to take the opportunities that life has to offer.

1 This expression may come from Shakespeare's The Merry Wives of Windsor: ‘Why, then the world’s mine oyster, Which I with sword will open’.

1998 Times I was never brought up thinking, ‘You are an Asian woman so you can’t do things.’ I was always given the impression that the world was my oyster.

a (or the) world of a very great deal of.

worm

a worm’s-eye view the view looking up at something from ground level.

1 This expression was formed on the pattern of bird’s-eye view (see BIRD). It usually refers to the viewpoint of a humble or insignificant person who is witnessing important events or people.

(even) a worm will turn even a meek person will resist or retaliate if pushed too far. proverb food for worms a dead person.

wormwood

wormwood and gall a source of bitter mortification and grief. literary

1 Gall is bile, a substance secreted by the liver and proverbial for its bitterness, while wormwood is an aromatic plant with a bitter taste. The expression originated in reference to various passages in the Bible, for example Lamentations 3:19: ‘Remembering mine affliction and my misery, the wormwood and the gall’.

Worse

none the worse for 1 not adversely affected by. 2 not to be considered inferior on account of.

1 1991 Alistair Campbell Sidewinder Two days have passed, and I am up and about, feeling none the worse for my attack of sunstroke.

so much the worse for used to suggest that a problem, failure, or other unfortunate event or situation is the fault of a person specified and that the speaker does not feel any great concern about it.

the worse for wear 1 damaged by use or weather over time; battered and shabby. 2 (of a person) feeling rather unwell, especially as a result of drinking too much alcohol. informal be your own worst enemy: see ENEMY.

Worst

do your worst do as much damage as you can (often used to express defiance in the face of threats).

get (or have) the worst of it be in the least advantageous or successful position; suffer the most.

if the worst comes to the worst if the most serious or difficult circumstances arise.

worth

be worth your weight in gold: see WEIGHT.

for all someone is worth 1 as energetically or enthusiastically as someone can. 2 so as to obtain everything you can from someone. informal not worth a plugged nickel: see NICKEL.

1 1995 Kate Atkinson Behind the Scenes at the Museum In the kitchen, Brian, Adrian’s lover, is wearing Bunty’s pink rubber gloves and washing up for all he’s worth.

worth your salt: see SALT.

wrap

keep something under wraps conceal or be secretive about something. informal 1998 New Scientist The key to the fuel is a catalyst that the Navy is keeping under wraps.

wrap someone round your little finger: see twist someone round your little finger at FINGER.

wrap it up be quiet. British informal wring

wring someone’s withers stir someone’s emotions or conscience.

1 This phrase is taken from Hamlet. In the play-within-the-play scene, Hamlet remarks ironically that there is no need for King Claudius, his usurping uncle, to feel troubled by the plot, remarking: ‘let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung’. The withers are the bony ridge between the shoulders of a horse which is liable to be chafed by an ill-fitting saddle.

wringer your hands show great distress.

wringer

put someone through the wringer (or the mangle) subject someone to a very stressful experience, especially a severe interrogation. informal 1984 Louise Erdrich Love Medicine I saw that he had gone through the wringer. He was red-eyed, gaunt, and he was drunk.

wrinkle

iron out the wrinkles: see IRON.

writ

writ large clear and obvious.

1 The literal sense of written in large characters has long fallen out of use. As the past participle of write, writ has been superseded by written except in this phrase and analogous phrases such as writ small.

1994 Time Voters fear the future, which looks to them like the present writ large: more concern about crime, more economic pressure on their families, more of that unnerving sound of something eating away at the edges of their lives.

your writ runs you have authority of a specified extent or kind.

write

nothing to write home about of little interest or value. informal

1970 Nina Bawden The Birds on the Trees
I daresay what I did was nothing to write home about, but it put food in her belly and shoes on her feet!

write your ticket: see TICKET.

writing

the writing is on the wall there are clear signs that something unpleasant or unwelcome is going to happen.

*This phrase comes from the biblical story of Belshazzar’s feast, at which a disembodied hand appeared and wrote a message on the wall foretelling the fall of the Babylonian kingdom to the Medes and Persians (Daniel 5:5, 25–8). A North American variant is the handwriting is on the wall."

1998 Spectator We ought to have spotted the writing on the wall when the dear old Ministry of Works became ‘English Heritage’, packaging the past as a set of limited-edition, special-offer collectables.

written

be (or have something) written all over your face used to convey that the presence of a particular quality or feeling is clearly revealed by a person’s expression. informal wrong

born on the wrong side of the blanket: see BLANKET.

get in wrong with (or on the wrong side of) someone incur the dislike or disapproval of someone. informal get out of bed on the wrong side: see BED.

get someone wrong misunderstand someone, especially by falsely imputing malice to them.

get (hold of) the wrong end of the stick misunderstand someone or something completely.

go down the wrong way (of food) enter the windpipe instead of the gullet.

in the wrong box: see BOX.

the wrong side of the tracks: see TRACK.

wrote

(and) that’s all she wrote used to convey that there is or was nothing more to be said about a matter. North American informal 2001 Chicago Tribune The snap was a little high, and... I tilted up for a second and that’s all she wrote... I took my eye off the ball.

yard
by the yard in large numbers or quantities.

yard by the yard in large numbers or quantities.

2002 Guardian Culture became a commodity: painters sold landscapes cut up by the foot for home decoration; booksellers offered books by the yard; publishers traded copyrights.

yarn
spin a yarn tell a story, especially a long and complicated one.

yarn spin a yarn tell a story, especially a long and complicated one.

• A yarn is one of the long fibres from which a rope is made. The expression is nautical in origin and has been used in this figurative sense since the early 19th century.

year
for donkey's years: see DONKEY.

year for donkey's years: see DONKEY.

put years on (or take years off) someone make someone feel or look older (or younger).

the vale of years: see VALE.

the vale of years: see VALE.

the year dot: see DOT.

the year dot: see DOT.

yes
yes and no partly and partly not.

yes yes and no partly and partly not.

1981 Brian Murphy The Enigma Variations 'Do you believe that if you continue seeing me you'll be damned?' 'Yes and no.'

yesterday
yesterday's man a man, especially a politician, whose career is finished or past its peak.

yesterday's man a man, especially a politician, whose career is finished or past its peak.

yesterday's news a person or thing that is no longer of interest.

yesterday's news a person or thing that is no longer of interest.

yonder
the wide blue yonder: see BLUE.

yonder the wide blue yonder: see BLUE.

you
you and yours you together with your family and close friends.

you you and yours you together with your family and close friends.

1937 American Home So it’s natural…to take good care of the home that gives you and yours this steadfast protection.

1937 American Home So it’s natural…to take good care of the home that gives you and yours this steadfast protection.
Index

This section contains groups of idioms which are linked by a common theme or subject. The themes are listed in alphabetical order and the word in bold print indicates where individual idioms may be found in the dictionary itself. For example, the idiom ‘take the plunge’ is listed in the dictionary at the main entry plunge.

Action

- start the ball rolling
- get the bit between your teeth
- at the coalface
- get cracking
- go for the doctor
- get (or pull) your finger out
- keep your nose to the grindstone
- hammer and tongs
- hit the ground running
- hot to trot
- have many irons in the fire
- rest on your laurels
- lead from the front
- put your money where your mouth is
- rest on your oars
- put your hand to the plough
- take the plunge
- press the button
- roll up your sleeves
- set the wheels in motion
- shake a leg
- put your shoulder to the wheel
- get the show on the road
- watch someone’s smoke
- stir your stumps
- strike while the iron is hot
- get weaving
- no peace for the wicked

have one foot in the grave
- full of years
- ancient (or old) as the hills
- over the hill
- have had a good innings
- on your last legs
- long in the tooth
- pass your sell-by date
- past it
- second childhood
- stricken in years
- threescore years and ten
- there’s no fool like an old fool
- have one foot in the grave
- full of years
- ancient (or old) as the hills
- over the hill
- have had a good innings
- on your last legs
- long in the tooth
- pass your sell-by date
- past it
- second childhood
- stricken in years
- threescore years and ten
- there’s no fool like an old fool

Ambition

- think big
- bite off more than you can chew
- fire in the belly
- fly high
- punch above your weight
- room at the top
- try to run before you can walk
- set your heart on
- raise your sights
- set your sights on
- reach for the stars
- punch your ticket

Age

- out of the ark
- have seen better days
- the bloom is off the rose
- you can’t teach an old dog new tricks
- there’s no fool like an old fool

Anger and annoyance

- bent out of shape
- get off your bike
- make your blood boil
- blow your top
have a cob on count to ten
have a cow
go crook
get your dander up give someone the hairy eyeball breathe fire
fit to be tied flip your lid
fly off the handle
froth (or foam) at the mouth blow a gasket
make someone’s hackles rise hot under the collar have your monkey up do your nana
go non-linear put someone’s nose out of joint do your nut
get on someone’s quince give someone the pip lose your rag
rattle someone’s cage
a red rag to a bull see red
go through the roof rub someone up the wrong way keep your shirt on go spare
spit blood
vent your spleen
have steam coming out of your ears get on someone’s wick

On thorns
meet trouble halfway
twist in the wind be a weight off your mind

Appearance
the acceptable face of someone’s bark is worse than their bite bells and whistles borrowed plumes
look as if butter wouldn’t melt in your mouth all cats are grey in the dark like something the cat brought in the cut of someone’s jib dressed like a dog’s dinner a false dawn
fool’s gold
be all fur coat and no knickers take the gilt off the gingerbread all that glitters is not gold handsome is as handsome does mutton dressed as lamb
a paper tiger
pass in a crowd
like peas in a pod
a Potemkin village
under the skin
be the spit of still waters run deep

Argument and conflict agree to differ
apple of discord
battle of the giants
a bone of contention have a bone to pick with someone fight like cat and dog chop logic
at cross purposes
cross swords
take up the cudgels cut and thrust
at daggers drawn
play devil’s advocate divide and rule
add fuel to the fire
lock horns
at loggerheads
go to the mat
passage of arms
pour oil on troubled waters part brass rags with hold the ring
a running battle
shoot it out
sparks fly
be at each others’ throats fight tooth and nail trail your coat
try a fall with a war of nerves
on the warpath
wigs on the green

bleed someone dry
take someone to the cleaners cook the books
with your hand in the cookie jar dirty work at the crossroads grease someone’s palm feather your own nest
on the fiddle
line your pockets
every man has his price put in the nips
rob someone blind
salt the books
stick to someone’s fingers sticky fingers
keep someone sweet
on the take have your fingers in the till

Caution
belt and braces
better safe than sorry
a bird in the hand
see which way the cat jumps throw caution to the winds dip your toe in something discretion is the better part of valour don’t put all your eggs in one basket lower your guard
look before you leap steer a middle course play it safe
to be on the safe side
let sleeping dogs lie
a stitch in time
one swallow doesn’t make a summer think twice
walk on eggs (or eggshells)

Certainty
an article of faith
you can bet your boots
a safe bet
a bird in the hand
in your bones
I should cocoa
count your chickens
be dollars to doughnuts that I’m a Dutchman gospel truth
all Lombard Street to a China orange put your money on no two ways about it lay odds
open-and-shut put your shirt on
as sure as eggs is eggs

Change
the boot is on the other foot a breath of fresh air
a new broom ring the changes
chop and change
cross the floor
future shock
don’t change horses in midstream Jekyll and Hyde
turn over a new leaf
a leopard can’t change his spots the law of the Medes and the Persians break the mould
poacher turned gamekeeper rise from the ashes rite of passage
turn the scales
shuffle the cards
sing a different tune (or song) be carved (or set) in stone turn the tables
trim your sails
variety is the spice of life new wine in old bottles

Chaos and disorder
alarms and excursions upset the apple cart raise Cain
put the cat among the pigeons raise the devil
the dust settles
every which way flutter the dovecotes play havoc with make hay of all hell broke loose play merry hell with play hob
make a Horlicks of a hornet’s nest

out of joint out of kilter
all over the lot
raise a dust
rock the boat
come apart at the seams shipshape and Bristol fashion all over the shop
be lost in the shuffle
at sixes and sevens

Class
tug your forelock
keep up with the Joneses downwardly (or upwardly) mobile as common as muck
one nation
noblesse oblige
born to the purple
sit below the salt
be born with a silver spoon in your mouth a tall poppy
the wrong side of the tracks the great unwashed
the upper crust

Clothes
your best bib and tucker dressed to kill dressed up like a dog’s dinner fine feathers
in your glad rags
fit like a glove
in full fig
mutton dressed as lamb off the peg
in full rig shoot your cuffs

Cooperation
be art and part of play ball
if you can’t beat them, join them in cahoots make common cause with cheek by jowl
circle the wagons play footsie with someone give and take a halfway house
hand in glove
put your heads together hitch horses together meet someone halfway
a meeting of minds
oil and water
the old school tie
the old boy network
on the same page
close ranks
you scratch my back, and I’ll scratch yours shoulder to shoulder sing from the same hymn sheet it takes two to tango go with the tide
two-way street

courage
beard the lion in his den bell the cat bite the bullet
have a lot of bottle
take the bull by the horns bury your head in the sand pull someone’s chestnuts out of the fire
cold feet
face the music
as game as Ned Kelly
gird your loins
grasp the nettle
heart of oak stick your neck out
have nerves of steel
a stout heart
whistle in the dark
show the white feather

crime and punishment
the long arm of the law six of the best do bird
bring someone to book throw the book at the boys in blue
feel someone’s collar crack a crip
a hanging offence
take the law into your own hands at Her Majesty’s pleasure public enemy number one beat the rap

up the river
a rod in pickle rough justice
short sharp shock
a slap on the wrist tar and feather
twelve good men and true

Crisis
when the balloon goes up when the band begins to play burn your boats (or bridges) when the chips are down at the crossroads
when it comes to the crunch at the eleventh hour
the fat is in the fire
on a knife-edge
make or break moment of truth
neck or nothing
the parting of the ways head someone or something off at the pass point of no return
when push comes to shove cross the Rubicon
the last (or final) straw turn the corner

critics and criticism
an armchair critic
a back-seat driver
if the cap fits, wear it be on someone’s case bust someone’s chops
a sacred cow
damned if you do and damned if you don’t dip your pen in gall under fire
have a go at do a hatchet job on pick holes
jump down someone’s throat not mince words
Monday morning quarterback give someone a mouthful get it in the neck
pick nits
have a pop at the pot calling the kettle black rap someone over the knuckles cast the first stone straight from the shoulder tear someone off a strip

Danger
put your head on the block a warning shot across the bows chance your arm
close shave dice with death
go through fire
too hot to hold you (skating) on thin ice
a lion in the way
the lion's den
the lion's mouth
live to tell the tale
a loose cannon
play with fire
ride for a fall sail close to the wind saved by the bell Scylla and Charybdis
siren song
the sword of Damocles hang by a thread
have a tiger by the tail have a wolf by the ears a wolf in sheep's clothing out of the woods

Debt
on the cuff
flexible friend
in hock
in the hole
your pound of flesh
in Queer Street
in the red rob Peter to pay Paul on the slate get square with on tick

Deception and lying sell someone a bill of goods be caught with chaff sail under false colours sell someone a dummy with forked tongue
lead someone up the garden path beware the Greeks bearing gifts hook, line, and sinker hand someone a lemon
all done with mirrors nail a lie
accept a wooden nickel do a number on a wooden nutmeg
sell someone a pup work the rabbit's foot on come the raw prawn
take someone for a ride the scales fall from someone's eyes take someone for a sleigh ride sleight of hand smell a rat
smoke and mirrors
swing the lead
pull the wool over someone’s eyes

Doubt and uncertainty all bets are off
don’t bet on it a doubting Thomas it’ll be a frosty Friday in July a likely story
tell that to the marines in a pig’s eye pigs might fly pull the other one take something with a pinch of salt strain at a gnat

Drinking
bend your elbow
hit the bottle
in your cups
drink like a fish drown your sorrows
drunk as a lord (or skunk) Dutch courage
one over the eight full as a goog
out of your gourd
hair of the dog
put hairs on your chest
under the influence lift your elbow
sign the pledge
prop up the bar
one for the road
drown the shamrock
two (or three) sheets to the wind sober as a judge spit and sawdust
the sun is over the yardarm tie one on tight as a tick
tired and emotional make a Virginia fence walk the chalk
wet the baby’s head
wet your whistle

go cold turkey
kick the gong around slip someone a Mickey Finn have a monkey on your back

Duty and responsibility pass the baton
the buck stops here
pass the buck carry the can footloose and fancy-free let George do it be on someone’s (own) head hold the fort
be left holding the baby on the hook for be someone’s pigeon
on your plate
hold the sack
wash your hands of Embarrassment, shame, and humiliation spare someone’s blushes cut someone down to size eat crow

eat dirt
with egg on your face lose face
fall flat on your face
go hot and cold eat humble pie
laugh on the other side of your face lick your wounds take someone down a peg or two red as a beetroot sackcloth and ashes shoot someone down in flames
a skeleton in the cupboard take the starch out of someone with your tail between your legs

Equality
a cat may look at a king
all cats are grey in the dark diamond cuts diamond first among equals
even Stephens (or Stevens) a fair field and no favour meet your match
one nation
ask no odds
the pot calls the kettle black redress the balance
be no respecter of persons share and share alike six of one and half a dozen of the other on terms

Excess and extravagance break a butterfly on a wheel burn the candle at both ends coals to Newcastle too many cooks spoil the broth have something coming out of your ears enough is as good as a feast feast or famine
gild the lily
the golden mean jump the shark
lay something on with a trowel the Matthew principle sow one's wild oats
go overboard
over-egg the pudding pile Pelion on Ossa
prodigal son
take a sledgehammer to crack a nut in spades over the top waste not, want not

Expense
cost an arm and a leg bang for your buck
break the bank
not worth the candle cheap at the price
what's the damage?
go Dutch
cost the earth
on the house
a king's ransom
pay through the nose
over the odds
pay the piper
a pretty penny
for a song
time is money
top (or full) whack
a white elephant

Experience
babes in the wood
know something like the back of your hand cut your teeth
be thrown in at the deep end see the elephant find your feet
get your feet wet (at foot) teach your grandmother to suck eggs grist to the mill
live and learn
once bitten, twice shy
the school of hard knocks spread your wings
been there, done that the university of life
wet behind the ears
a man (or woman) of the world

Family
the angel in the house tied to someone's apron strings born on the wrong side of the blanket blood is thicker than water blood will tell charity begins at home
a chip off the old block a cuckoo in the nest empty nester
like father, like son
your own flesh and blood hatches, matches, and despatches hearth and home
her indoors
kith and kin
your nearest and dearest tug of love
you and yours

Fate and chance accidents will happen
the long arm of coincidence that's the way the cookie crumbles in the lap of the gods lightning never strikes twice have someone's (name and) number on it someone’s number is up the wheel of Fortune

Food
break bread with man cannot live by bread alone eat someone out of house and home have eyes bigger than your stomach kill the fatted calf eat like a horse
ladies who lunch (at lady) Lenten fare
melt in the mouth
off your oats get outside of
make a pig of yourself stick to your ribs
an army marches on its stomach wine and dine

Fools and foolishness there’s one born every minute a brick short of a load bright spark dead from the neck up not playing with a full deck empty vessels make most noise fools rush in where angels fear to tread play the giddy goat need your head examined act the maggot
wear motley
no more than ninepence in the shilling not the full quid
a right one a sandwich short of a picnic not the full shilling thick as two (short) planks silly as a wheel
a wise man of Gotham

Forgiveness and reconciliation bury the hatchet
let bygones be bygones
turn the other cheek
to err is human, to forgive divine kiss and make up mend your fences
hold out an olive branch prodigal son
water under the bridge wipe the slate clean

Friends and acquaintances Damon and Pythias hail-fellow-well-met man’s best friend
part brass with rub shoulders with scrape acquaintance with ships that pass in the night give someone skin thick as thieves
three musketeers

Futility
a blind alley
like getting blood out of a stone waste your breath make bricks without straw Buckley’s chance
not a cat in hell’s chance go round in circles whistle Dixie fight a losing battle
flog a dead horse bang your head against a brick wall cry over spilt milk milk the bull
bark at the moon
a needle in a haystack painting the Forth Bridge cast pearls before swine plough the sand
a Pyrrhic victory
get a quart into a pint pot chase rainbows reinvent the wheel
a rope of sand
spitting in the wind

Foresight and the future cross someone’s palm with silver lay something up in lavender a pricking in your thumbs the shape of things to come a straw in the wind time will tell
the writing is on the wall shut the stable door after the horse has bolted chase your tail
tilt at windmills spin your wheels
whistle in the wind a wild goose chase

Gossip and rumour
- dish the dirt
- someone’s ears are burning
- hear something on the grapevine
- no smoke without fire
- tell tales out of school
- bush telegraph
- get wind of
- the word on the street

Happiness, pleasure, and enjoyment
- walk on air
- have a ball
- beer and skittles
- push the boat out
- be a box of birds
- bread and circuses
- cakes and ale
- a bowl of cherries
- the cherry on the cake
- on cloud nine
- warm the cockles of someone’s heart
- like a dog with two tails
- forbidden fruit
- the gaiety of nations
- everything in the garden is lovely
- merry as a grig
- in seventh heaven
- kick up your heels
- full of the joys of spring
- over the moon
- music to your ears
- paint the town red
- the party’s over
- the primrose path
- ray of sunshine
- a red letter day
- roses, roses, all the way with your tail up
- be tickled pink
- on the tiles
on top of the world
walk on air
whoop it up
wine, women, and song

Haste and speed
- like a bat out of hell
- in the blink of an eye
- like the clappers
- rattle your dags
- like a dose of salts
- at the double
- at the drop of a hat
- put foot
- hell for leather
- hold your horses
- hustle your butt
- before you can say Jack Robinson
- put a jerk in it
- in jig time
- on the jump
- before you can say knife
- at a rate of knots
- get the lead out
- at a lick
- like greased lightning
- at full pelt
- quick and dirty
- burn rubber
- rush your fences
- like a scalded cat
- in two shakes (of a lamb’s tail)
- in short order
- get your skates on
- in a trice
- in a twinkling
- get a wiggle on
- in the wink of an eye

Health and illness
- the big C
- catch your death
- like death warmed up
- in fine fettle
- fit as a fiddle
- fit as a flea
- green about the gills
- give someone gyp
- in the pink
- right as rain
sick as a dog
up to snuff sick to your stomach
right as a trivet
under the weather

Honesty
a straight arrow
above board
put your cards on the table make a clean breast of something Mr Clean
cross my heart
straight as a die
fair and square
on the level
play fair
the salt of the earth Scout's honour
on the square
on the up and up

Hope and optimism
brave new world
look on the bright side
count your chickens
cross your fingers
hope springs eternal light at the end of the tunnel a silver lining
come up smiling
have stars in your eyes clutch at straws
third time lucky
it's an ill wind
the wish is father to the thought the best of both (or all possible) worlds

Hypocrisy
shed crocodile tears
holier than thou Lady Bountiful
pay lip service to something make nice
physician, heal thyself
the unco guid
a whited sepulchre

Indecision and prevarication beat about the bush

blow hot and cold
see which way the cat jumps sit on the fence
put something on the long finger fish or cut bait
run with the hare and hunt with the hounds hedge your bets hum and haw
the jury is still out
be in two minds play both ends against the middle all at sea

Intelligence and knowledge know how many beans make five blind someone with science the chattering classes too clever by half culture vulture
feast of reason
there are no flies on (at fly)
a man (or woman) of letters know your onions
not just a pretty face
be quick on the uptake not rocket science have your head screwed on sharp as a needle not suffer fools gladly hand on the torch

Jealousy and envy
eat your heart out
the grass is always greener the green-eyed monster
keep up with the Joneses
nice work if you can get it how the other half lives sour grapes

Justice
day of reckoning
get your just deserts
give the devil his due what goes around comes around murder will out
you reap what you sow
a Roland for an Oliver what’s sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander get a fair shake
one good turn deserves another

Language, speech, and conversation have kissed the blarney stone talk a blue streak
chew the fat
have swallowed a dictionary the gift of the gab start a hare
say a mouthful
in a nutshell
the pen is mightier than the sword have a plum in your mouth prunes and prisms
a purple patch
run off at the mouth shoot the breeze
have a silver tongue
call a spade a spade speak in tongues
pick up stompies
in words of one syllable talk the hind leg off a donkey talk nineteen to the dozen the gift of tongues

Laziness
a bone in your leg
eat the bread of idleness couch potato
cut corners
dodge the column
rest on your oars
come the old soldier
swing the lead
twiddle your thumbs

Love
bill and coo
set your cap at eternal triangle
an old flame
wear your heart on your sleeve hell hath no fury like a woman scorned the light of your life love’s young dream
the boy (or girl) next door sweet nothings
not the only pebble on the beach make sheep’s eyes at someone carry a torch for wear the green willow

Madness
have bats in the belfry round the bend (or twist) off your chump
away with the fairies have kangaroos in the top paddock mad as a hatter lose your marbles
men in white suits (see man) out of your mind nutty as a fruit cake
out to lunch
off your nana go postal off your rocker
have a screw loose
take leave of your senses straws in your hair out of your tree
off your trolley

Marriage
your better half bottom drawer
her indoors
make an honest woman of hope chest
tie the knot plight your troth
pop the question
on the shelf

Misfortune and adversity with your back against the wall a bad quarter of an hour bed of nails catch a Tartar
a chapter of accidents
be caught in a cleft stick be up the creek without a paddle have your cross to bear between the devil and the deep blue sea the dirty end of the stick sow dragon’s teeth
behind the eight ball out of the frying pan into the fire up a gum tree
under the harrow
come hell or high water in hot water
the iron entered someone’s soul a pretty (or fine) kettle of fish go through the mill
a millstone round your neck a nail in the coffin go pear-shaped
the rough end of the pineapple any port in a storm
buy the rabbit
on the rack
it never rains but it pours be on the receiving end between a rock and a hard place roll with the punches
a hard row to hoe
the short end of the stick slings and arrows
a slippery slope
a spanner in the works draw the short straw up a stump
a thorn in someone’s side

Mistakes

throw the baby out with the bathwater back the wrong horse bark up the wrong tree
off base
off beam
up the booay
put the cart before the horse chickens come home to roost get your wires crossed drop a clanger
to err is human, to forgive divine put your foot in it score an own goal
kill the goose that lays the golden egg shoot yourself in the foot slip of the pen (or tongue) slip on a banana skin get hold of the wrong end of the stick

Money, wealth, and prosperity

an Aladdin’s cave
a bed of roses

Nakedness

in the altogether
in your birthday suit
in the buff
go commando
in a state of nature
in the nip
in your pelt
in the raw

Opportunity

an arrow in the quiver
the ball is in someone’s court play your cards right a bite at the cherry
a fair crack of the whip every dog has his day as one door closes, another opens take time by the forelock not let the grass grow under your feet half a chance
make hay while the sun shines a kick at the can (or cat) kil two birds with one stone a new lease of life
miss the boat
not miss a trick
in pole position
room at the top
seize the day
not a shot in your locker there’s more than one way to skin a cat let something slip through your fingers steal a march on strike while the iron is hot have a second string to your bow time and tide wait for no man a toe in the door
window of vulnerability the world is your oyster

Poverty
on your beam ends
not have a bean
keep body and soul together from clogs to clogs in three generations down and out from hand to mouth not have a penny to bless yourself with not have two pennies to rub together poor as a church mouse
in Queer Street
from rags to riches in reduced circumstances live on the smell of an oil rag on your uppers
keep the wolf from the door

Power
top banana
get someone over a barrel
at someone’s beck and call beggar on horseback a big cheese know where the bodies are buried in the box seat
call the shots (or tune) hold all the cards play cat and mouse with in the catbird seat big white chief
cock of the walk
dance to someone’s tune in the driver’s seat have someone eating out of your hand in the hollow of your hand men in grey suits (at man) a mover and shaker have someone in the palm of your hand in someone’s pocket pull the strings hold the purse strings rule the roost

in the saddle
under someone’s thumb have someone on toast
wear the trousers
twist someone round your little finger

Pregnancy
have a bun in the oven in the (pudding) club up the duff
in the family way
a gleam (or twinkle) in someone’s eye the patter of tiny feet up the spout

Preparation and readiness armed at all points asleep at the wheel keep your eye on the ball batten down the hatches loaded for bear
off the cuff
dot the i’s and cross the t’s get all your ducks in a row at your fingertips firing on all (four) cylinders gird your loins
grease the wheels
at half cock
on the hoof
jump the gun
catch someone with their pants down keep your powder dry prime the pump shoot from the hip
on spec
on the spur of the moment set the stage for on the stocks
all systems go
on your toes
keep a weather eye on in the wings

Reputation and fame
a black sheep
not as black as you are painted blot your copybook
a blot on the escutcheon Caesar's wife claim to fame
under a cloud
give a dog a bad name
look to your laurels
a legend in their own lifetime the mark of Cain someone's name is mud
have your name in lights
no smoke without fire
a nine days' wonder

Revenge and retribution settle accounts with someone bay for blood
the biter bit
pay someone back in their own coin have it coming to you
day of reckoning
get your just deserts
get even with an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth don't get mad, get even a dose (or taste) of your own medicine get your own back poetic justice
revenge is a dish best served cold settle a score
tit for tat

Secrecy
an ace up your sleeve between you and me and the bedpost keep your cards close to your chest sweep something under the carpet let the cat out of the bag behind closed doors
a closed book
cover your tracks
a dark horse
a fly on the wall
blow the gaff
give the game away

keep something under your hat under the hatches
a hidden agenda
keep the lid on someone's lips are sealed mum's the word
on the q.t.
shout something from the rooftops in a smoke-filled room under the rose
behind the scenes show your hand
a skeleton in the cupboard spill the beans
tip your hand blow the whistle on something nasty in the woodshed

Self-Interest
have an axe to grind bite the hand that feeds you bow down in the house of Rimmon know which side your bread is buttered fight your corner
curry favour dog in the manger
be your own worst enemy every man for himself have an eye for the main chance feather your nest take the fifth foul your own nest
I'm all right, Jack
the law of the jungle
contemplate your navel
put your head in a noose cut off your nose to spite your face not in my back yard take care of number one paint yourself into a corner hoist with your own petard make a rod for your own back sell your soul to the devil cut your own throat

Sex
the birds and the bees
a bit on the side
pop someone's cherry of easy virtue
Index

give someone the (glad) eye the facts of life
a fate worse than death how’s your father play the field
have the hots for know someone in the biblical sense lead in your pencil do a line with someone put the make on nudge nudge (wink wink) get your oats
get physical
on a promise
put it about breed like rabbits
red-light district a roll in the hay
a bit of rough turn a trick
wham-bam thank you ma’am make whoopee

Strength
show the flag
flex your muscles true grit
put hairs on your chest
hitch your wagon to a star an iron hand (in a velvet glove) a labour of Hercules
the law of the jungle
by main force with might and main hold your own
pack a punch
pump iron show your teeth
be made of sterner stuff a tower of strength
a tiger in your tank
tough it out

Success
bring home the bacon go with a bang
go down a bomb
the brass ring
work like a charm
close but no cigar
cook on the front burner on the crest of a wave curl the mo
cut the mustard
carry the day
your finest hour
a flash in the pan
be in like Flynn
get a guernsey
happy hunting ground hit the mark
hit the jackpot
bring your pigs to market place in the sun
go places sitting pretty ride high on a roll
come up roses
go down a storm
the top of the tree come (or turn) up trumps win your spurs
carry the world before you

Surprise
bolt from the blue
take someone’s breath away out of a clear blue sky out of countenance that beats the Dutch you could have knocked me down with a feather catch someone flat-footed set someone back on their heels throw someone a loop have eyes like saucers knock someone’s socks off sting in the tail
a turn-up for the book

Thoroughness
from A to Z
boots and all
go for broke
from go to whoa
go the whole hog
a lick and a promise go the extra mile
in for a penny, in for a pound root and branch
from soda to hock
from soup to nuts
stay the course
leave no stone unturned pull out all the stops

Time
arrow of time
once in a blue moon
turn back the clock
till the cows come home in a dog’s age
donkey’s years
the year dot
a movable feast
a fly in amber
till hell freezes over till kingdom come
many moons ago
a month of Sundays
a New York minute
before the Rinderpest round the clock
time immemorial
the watches of the night
the witching hour

Traitors and treachery point the bone at turn cat in pan
do the dirty on someone fifth column
a fair-weather friend
beware the Greeks bearing gifts
a Judas kiss
night of the long knives sell the pass
a poisoned chalice play someone false put someone’s pot on sell someone down the river a snake in the grass
a stab in the back
a Trojan horse
a viper in your bosom

Travel and transport
a bird of passage
ride bodkin
seven-league boots
a magic carpet
as the crow flies
on the gad
hit the road
go round the houses get itchy feet
knight of the road
live out of a suitcase waltz Matilda
Mexican overdrive ride the rails ride shotgun round Robin Hood’s barn a rolling stone put down roots
a sabbath day’s journey on Shanks’s pony pull up stakes
up sticks
on the stump
go walkabout

Unhappiness and disappointment your heart sinks into your boots beat your breast
a dog’s life
down in the mouth
down in the dumps
dust and ashes
eat your heart out
end in tears
a ghost at the feast
a kick in the teeth
a lump in your throat sick as a parrot
a slap in the face
vale of tears
wear the green willow
wormwood and gall
wring your hands

Violence
blood and guts
blood and thunder
have blood on your hands give someone Bondi
bunch of fives
tap someone’s claret beat the living daylights out of duke it out
the gloves are off
go the knuckle
punch someone’s lights out tear someone limb from limb get physical
take a pop at a Procrustean bed
he who lives by the sword dies by the sword beat the tar out of
have been in the wars

Warfare
a call to arms
blood and iron
the dogs of war
the pen is mightier than the sword
a pitched battle rattle sabres
a roll of honour
throw away the scabbard take the King’s (or Queen’s) shilling beat swords into ploughshares the late unpleasantness the war to end all wars

Weakness
an Achilles heel
besetting sin
big girl’s blouse
built on sand
a chink in someone’s armour a faint heart
have feet of clay (see foot)
hit where you live
a house of cards
a house divided
man of straw
milk and water
a paper tiger
a broken reed
fall apart at the seams knock the stuffing out of

Weather
blow great guns
brass monkey

chuck it down
the eye of the storm
the heavens opened Indian summer
a London particular rain cats and dogs
lovely weather for ducks

Work and employment get the boot
hang up your boots
someone’s bread and butter on the broo burn the midnight oil
a busman’s holiday
get your cards
get the gate
a golden handshake
put someone out to grass hit the bricks jobs for the boys
live over the shop
put someone out to pasture walk the plank
the oldest profession
punch the time clock give someone the push hang out your shingle talk shop
put up the shutters
the smell of the lamp old Spanish customs
by the sweat of your brow Buggins’ turn walk of life
on the wallaby track

Youth
angry young man
the awkward age
babes in the wood
bright young thing
a broth of a boy
at your mother’s (or father’s) knee knee-high to a grasshopper poor little rich girl (or boy) your salad days
ugly ducking
take years off someone